CHANGES IN THE CHOIRS

New Soloists Heard Yesterday in Many of the Local Churches.

SOME EXCEPTIONAL TALENT.

A. H. Betteridge Succeeds Mr. Pettigrue as Organist at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Interest was largely centered in the church music yesterday, changes in the personnel of several of the choirs having been made to take effect on May 1. At the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church the changes included a new organist, baritone and soprano. Alexander Russell replaced R. A. Laslett Smith at the organ and A. H. Betteridge took B. B. Pettigrue's place. Miss Watt, of New York, is the new soprano and as a whole the quartet is well balanced. The music of yesterday in this church left nothing to be desired.

At the First Presbyterian an entirely new quartet sang yesterday. They were, Miss Elizabeth De Cant, soprano; Miss Winifred Carroll, formerly of Trinity Reformed, contralto; Aleck McGowan, tenor; Charles P. Titsworth, baritone. This choir seems to be splendidly balanced and if Organist Braider's plans for musical services during the month of June are carried out, the public will have opportunities of hearing some splendid singing.

At Trinity Reformed the only change was the replacing of Miss Winifred Carroll by engaging Mrs. Bayard Hawthorne, of Dunellen, as contralto soloist. Mrs. Hawthorne has a remarkable smooth voice of considerable power and was heard with pleasure.

Miss Ruth Harris, soprano, and Miss Hazel Hattfield, contralto, were heard for the first time at the First Baptist church yesterday morning and evening by large congregations. Both have sweet voices of good range, and doubtless will prove a valuable acquisition to the chir. In the morning Miss Harris sang the offertory solo, "These are They," in a pleasing manner, showing perfect control and displaying a voice of exceptional quality. Miss Hattfield has a true contralto voice. She had a solo part in an anthem in the morning and in the evening sang a duet in an anthem. Her voice has unusual volume and is very sweet.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF CAPT. HEWITT'S MOTHER.

Captain Samuel A. Hewitt, in charge of the local branch of the Salvation Army, on Saturday attended the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Mark Hewitt, who died on Thursday at her home on Riverside Drive, New York, following a lingering illness. She was fifty-eight years of age. Rev. I. C. Sturges, rector of St. Cornelius P. E. church, New York, of which Mrs. Hewitt was a communicant, conducted the services from the late home. The burial was in Woodlawn cemetery.

Besides a husband, Mrs. Hewitt is survived by two daughters, the Misses Margaret J. and Isabel Hewitt and two sons, John E. Hewitt, of New York, and Captain Samuel A. Hewitt, of this city.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF LEBBEUS L. MANNING

The funeral services of Lebbeus L. Manning were held from the late home, 807 West Seventh street, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and was largely attended by relatives and friends, including all of the employes of Mr. Manning. There was a large and beautiful display of floral tributes, including a number of set pieces, cut flowers, etc., which completely hid the sacket from view.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, assisted by Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, officiated, offering prayer and speaking words of eulogy concerning the exemplary life of the departed.

The burial was in Hillside Cemetery and the pall-bearers were James Manning, William R. Codington, Frank Weeks, George H. Batchelor, A. C. Stebbins and William Johnson.

LARGE CONGREGATIONS HEAR REV. DR. MAGUIRE

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, preached to large congregations yesterday morning and evening, which taxed the capacity of the edifice. In the morning his theme was "Last preached on the subject of "The Writing on the Wall," depicting the scenes at the feast of Belshazzar.

During the course of the morning service, Mr. Maguire to test his congregation, asked those present whether the book of "Hezekiah" was in the Old or New Testament, requesting them to raise their hands. A large number of hands went up when he asked whether it was in the Old Testament and almost as many hands were displayed when Mr. Maguire asked if it was in the New Testament. He then told them that it was in neither, that there was no book of that name in the Bible.

Mr. Maguire declared during his discourse in the morning, that "If a church gets the preacher by the coat-tails, God help him; he has a call to some other place." Both sermons were forceful, full of pointed truths and genuine Irish wit. In the evening Miss Arline Brown sang a solo.

VICTIM OF ACCIDENT DIES

Mrs. Sidna R. Vail, of Norwood Avenue, Passes Away Aged 88.

FRACTURED HIP AND SHOCK.

Survived by Five Sons, Sixteen Grandchildren, Two Great Grandchildren and Many Friends.

Mrs. Sidna R. Vail died yesterday at the home of her son, Charles E. Vail, 26 Norwood avenue, as the result of an accident a week ago, when she fell and fractured her hip. Owing to her advanced age, there was practically no chance for recovery. Mrs. Vail was one of the oldest members of thet Religious Society of Friends and a regular attendant at the Plainfield meeting.

Mrs. Vail was the daughter of the late Jonah and Rachel (Pound) Vail and was born nearly eighty-nine years ago on the old homestead farm on the Greenbrook road, nearly back of Dunellen, the place where Washington stopped to ask for a guide to conduct him to a sightly point on the nearby mountains from which he might get a view of the country. This had been the home of her ancestors for several generations.

In 1841 she married Edward R. Vail, whose home was on the adjoining farm and on a section of her father's farm. Between these two homes a house was built, where the younger couple passed more than fifty years of wedded life. It was here that their five sons and one daughter were born and where the daughter died in early childhood.

The five sons who survive her are Alfred R. Vail, of Duer street, North Plainfield; William H. Vail, of North Branch; George S. Vail, of Dunellen, and Charles E. and Randolph W. Vail, of this city. Beside these there are sixteen grandchildren, twenty-two great grandchildren and four great-great grandchildren. Adelbert Vail, of East Fifth street, is a brother and Bella R. Vail, of Church street, is a sister.

The funeral will take place at the Friends meeting-house on Watchung avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the burial will be in the cemetery back of the meeting-house.

SPEAKERS FROM PROFESSIONS.

Give Their Opinions From Actual Experience at Congregational Men's Club Meeting.

An unique and largely attended service under the auspices of the Men's club was held in the Congregational church last night, at which three professional men addressed the audience upon the "Opportunities for Christian Service in the Professions." H. C. White, represented the legal; Dr. Ellis W. Hedges, the medical, and Professor H. C. Krebs, superintendent of the Somerset county schools, the educational profession. Music was furnished by a male quartet composed of W. G. Smith, Charles E. Lewis, M. C. VanArsdale and Elmer Cutting. Mr. Cutting also sang a solo.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich introduced the speakers, Mr. White being the first to tell of the opportunities a lawyer has to influence people for good. Mr. White gave several illustrations from his practice in the financial district in New York in which he showed conclusively that the lawyer is a much maglined being; while as a matter of fact, if he is a good lawyer, which means a good man, he exercises an influence for good, when by letting an easy moral sense have the sway untold injury to the public could inevitably be done.

In the making of a reputation which shall last and which shall tell for the good of the profession and his fellow man, it is the duty of every lawyer to use his intelligence in the way that will best bring the good results to his client, to himself, to the profession and to the public. Of course, there are men in the profession whose attributes were not conducive to confidence, but his experience has been that the profession at large do have and do take advantage of innumerable opportunities to do good in preventing crime where the client fails to see that he intends

CARPENTERS TO GET $4

THE MASONS DEMAND $5.20.

Tinners and Metal Workers Receive $3.85—Machinists Ask $3.50 and $4 per Diem—Changes Effective Today.

As the result of a conference of the boss carpenters at Trade Council Hall, Saturday night, the journeymen carpenters beginning today will receive an advance of thirty cents a day. An agreement has also been made to increase the pay twenty cents a day on November 1 next. The journeymen have been receiving $3.50 a day. At first the men wanted a raise to $4 a day, but it was finally decided to make the advance a gradual one.

The tinners and metal workers have received an increase in wages from $3.52 to $3.85. They asked $3.87, an increase of ten per cent., but finally accepted the offer of $3.85, which went into effect today.

The journeymen masons who have been receiving $4.80 a day want $5.20, but that matter has not yet been settled. It is understood that the men went to work today at the old wage, but that a meeting will be held tonight to discuss the situation.

The request of the local machinists in the printing press industry for an increase of wages has not been definitely settled as yet, it is said. There was a meeting of the men on Saturday night with Hugh V. Reilly, the business agent, but no definite action was taken regarding the reply of the manufacturers to the effect that they are not now in a position to grant an increase. Mr. Reilly was to meet John O'Connell, national president of the machinists' association today, when probably some conclusion will be reached. The demand is $3 for inside men and $4 for outside men.

The proposition was favorably received and Mr. Brown was given assurance that he would have the support of the officers. One officer of the school has offered to lend financial aid in order to start the corps and within a short time a meeting will be called for the purpose.

INDICTED AS MURDERER

TRIAL IS SET FOR JUNE 6.

Mayor N. B. Smalley and Chief Weiss Among the Witnesses on Hand From North Plainfield—Instructions of Judge.

The Somerset County Grand Jury reconvened at the Somerset County

John V. Buckley.

Courthouse at Somerville this morning for the purpose of hearing the testimony in the case of John V. Buckley, alias John Grant, who is in the county jail charged with the murder of Mrs. Frederick Covely at the latter's home in North Plainfield on Thursday, April 20. This afternoon it brought in a true bill indicting him for murder in the first degree.

Justice Charles W. Parker, in charging the jury declared that it was the first time in the history of Somerset county, that a grand jury had been reconvened on a homicide case. Judge Parker declared that he thought it was necessary to pursue such a course as he believed that it should be speedily acted on.

One of the reasons, the justice declared, was that it is easier to procure evidence now than later on, should the case be permitted to lag. Another reason, he said, is to avoid a long term of imprisonment to the prisoner.

The judge added that it is always advisable to bring cases of its kind to speedy justice. "Whatever may have been the motive for the deed is not to be seriously considered."

Judge Parker cautioned the jury to go according to the testimony. He said it was not a question of manslaughter. Accounts in the newspapers, explained the court, are that Buckley shot Mrs. Covely in the head from behind, and afterward sent another bullet through her head after she had fallen down in order to make sure that he killed the woman. If this evidence is clear to the jurymen it is their duty to indict the prisoner of murder.

The attention of the jury was also called to published statements that the defense of the murderer may be insanity. Judge Parker informed the jurors that it was not their duty to consider the sanity of the prisoner.

The jury convened at 10:30 o'clock and adjourned at 12:30 o'clock to Cawley's Hotel for lunch and re-convened again at 1:30 o'clock. The indictment was made early this afternoon.

Judge Parker set the trial for Monday, June 6. Counsel for the prisoner announced that he would be ready at that time.

A score or more of witnesses from North Plainfield went to Somerville this morning. In the party were Chief Weiss, who captured Buckley, and Mayor N. B. Smalley.

SLOCUM FOOLS NEWARK

Youthful Y. M. C. A. Twirler Pitches Locals to Victory Over Marathon A. C.

STRUCK OUT FIFTEEN BATTERS

Evans Starred at the Bat and Linke Shone in Rightfield— The Score Was 8 to 2.

Slocum, the youthful twirling artist of the Y. M. C. A. nine, proved himself a wizard of the mound on Saturday afternoon when he hypnotized the Marathons of Newark to such an extent that the contest was in the shape of a walkover for the locals, Y. M. C. A. defeating the Newarkers by a score of 8 to 2.

Now ye big league scouts who are after young Mathewsons, take a trip to our town and see this young phenom perform. Slocum's work on the slab was the stellar feature of the contest. He fanned fifteen of the Essex county representatives and limited them to three wallops. Quite a big day's work for young Mister Slocum, all will agree.

It was the initial home game of the tribe of Listman of the season and the Association boys performed in a capital fashion. They banged the horsehide hard and often for a total of twelve swats, three of the bingles being two-sack smashes. Although three errors were charged against the locals Manager Listman's aggregation played a sharp field game, and taking everything into consideration, the nine performed in classy style.

Evans starred in the hitting and run getting stunts. This athlete hit safely four times, two of his whacks being two baggers, while he crossed the pan twice with tallies. Linke had an extremely busy day in right field and pulled down seven flies during the battle.

The visitors chalked up a tally in the initial round but the locals retaliated by marking up three times that number. Murphy started the Plainfield artillery by nailing one of Wilson's offerings for a single and he advanced to second base when the Newark twirler ribbed Linke with an inshoot. Fritts was an easy out, and then Hand came to the front with a timely biff which scored Murphy and Linke. Smith fumbled Dumont's grounder and the latter afterward purloined second and scampered home on Evans' wallop.

In the fourth session the association athletes piled up four more tallies to their credit. Singles by Dumont and Evans gave the locals a flying start and Coyle's two-sacker dispatched the pair home in a jiffy. Alliston's error allowed Coyle to score and placed Stover on the bags. Another error by Alliston, after Slocum and Murphy were retired, permitted Stover to score.

Plainfield added another tally in the sixth when Evans led off with a two-bagger, the local swatsmith crossing the plate on Coyle's sacrifice. The Marathon also got another run in the seventh. The score:

Pitcher Slocum entered the "peachy class" by his brilliant work for the Y. M. C. A. against the Marathon A. C. Some class to this youngster.

"Old Hoss" Evans, who guarded the middle station, is a prince at the bat. Wilson's delivery was all to his liking and his record of four wallops demonstrates.

Saturday was a red letter occasion for Dunellen fans. The twelve-inning victory over the Dorflingerites tasted sweeter than lollypops to the bugs of that burg.

WHAT DO YOU CONSIDER THE POPULATION IS NOW?

What's the population of Plainfield? What's the population of North Plainfield? The Daily Press will give $5.00 in gold to the man, woman or child living in Plainfield giving the nearest correct guess as to the city's population as announced in the forthcoming official census. To the resident of North Plainfield who comes nearest to guessing its population five dollars will be given. It is not necessary to be a subscriber to this paper to qualify; in fact there are no conditions other than that you be a resident of the municipality of which you make a guess as to the population. All guesses must be made over the signature of the contestant; no attention will be paid to anonymous communications, following the regular policy of this paper.

The census enumerators are at work. Before the result of their labor is officially announced this contest will be closed and therefore, those who wish to make a guess should do so without delay. Many guesses have been received. Send in yours now! Boys and girls here is a chance for you.

ALL HAVE OPPORTUNITIES

to commit it. The dissemination through discussion of public questions of knowledge which is valuable to the thinker and voter, Mr. White said, was one of the surest and best ways of influencing men to do the right thing at the proper time. He must aid his intelligence by absorbing the best knowledge which as a matter of learning comes in many cases from the clients themselves.

Dr. Hedges, who followed, said that he believed the best way a doctor could render Christian service was by getting very close to his patients. As many of the professions had laid claim to being nearest to the people, including in the list clergymen, lawyers, doctors, shop girls and trained nurses he was not sure but that the doctor really does get a greater insight to human nature than any profession or calling. the doctor's life is made up of hope, patience, forbearance and sympathy, and they have opportunities which cannot come to other men. Some times it becomes necessary to scare men into being good and this method while it may seem harsh is the very best way at times.

The doctor was humorous at times and in some of the stories used to illustrate his points provoked mirth among his hearers. He brought out, however, the pathetic side of the life in a way to make one feel that after all the medical profession has a wide sphere of influence for good and the majority of the members today exercise the privilege they have for passing on the best that is in them for the good of others.

Mr. Krebs told the audience that he believed that the teachers in the public schools, or in fact teachers everywhere have the largest sphere of influence because their work is with the immature mind and must be more lasting than on the minds of people who have gone out into the world to make their way. The child comes to school with respect for his teacher and in an expectant attitude and into these young minds the teacher is to instill the things which are to make for the good of that child's life, or the reverse. There in the schoolroom the opportunity becomes great for awaking the divine spark which must be fanned into a flame for good and the direct influence which comes from the practical lessons taught form the foundation for the upbuilding of the young life.

The speaker gave various examples of how an indirect influence is exerted and why the strict observance of personal cleanliness is a factor in character building. Not necessarily the cleanliness of body alone, but every attribute which goes to make up the good man and woman. This he said was tremendously important. The pupils are stimulated by good example and the good seed thus sown is bound to bring forth good fruit. The opportunities are boundless and the hourly contact with the children day by day finally shows in the after life of those who have been under the proper influence.

The speeches made a great impression on the audience which gave the closest attention. The members of the Men's Club felt that their special effort of last night had well repaid them.

HERE AND THERE.

With the rapid elimination of the telegraph as applied to the handling of trains and the substitution of the telephone, in this connection attention is directed to the railroad official who was among the pioneers to attest as to the practicability of the telephone for train dispatching, in the person of Superintendent of Telegraph Frederick G. Sherman, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, who resides in Woodland avenue, Plainfield. Mr. Sherman has had a long and interesting railroad career and is the acknowledged authority on many matters pertaining to train dispatching, telegraph and telephone installation, maintenance and operation. Born on a farm near Beloit, Wis., in 1885, the future railroad expert removed with his parents to Oswego County, N. Y., in 1864, where he resided until he reached the age of sixten, when he left the Empire State with his parents and settled in Illinois.

On March 28,1873, young Sherman entered railroad life as night operator at a station known as Indian creek (now Wedron), on the Burlington, having mastered the intricacies of key "between times" while engaged in farm work. This was his first experience in railroading, except a short time in which he was employed by a contractor named Belden, grading for the Syracuse Northern Railroad, now part of the New York Central system. This was in 1869 or 1870. He continued with the Burlington as operator and station agent at various points until 1882, when he entered the service of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and was sent to Astor, Iowa, as operator and agent, and as such sent the first message from that town, which was the ratification of the completion of the Council Bluffs division of that road. This telegraph message was sent from an office located in an old shed without floor, which was used as a stable for horses, there being no other building near, on the wild prairie, except a few scattering farm houses.

In 1884 Mr. Sherman again engaged with the Burlington as dispatcher at Aurora, Ill., remaining with the company in that capacity until September, 1899, when he entered the service of the Reading railway as train dispatcher. May 1, 1902, Mr. Sherman quit the Reading to accept the position of assistant trainmaster on the Central Railroad of New Jersey and on October 8 was promoted to superintendent of telegraph. During his railroad experience Mr. Sherman has witnessed the evolution of the system of train dispatching from the old single order in various forms to the duplex order system; then the first edition of the standard code, followed by the present standard code, which is generally in use, and he has assisted several railroads in the adoption and interpretation of the same.

Mr. Sherman is held in high regard by his subordinates, and that he possesses their respect and confidence is amply attested by the high standing of his department.—The Railroad Employee.

ANTIQUE NECKLACES.

One sees on every hand wonderful necklaces antique and imitation. These are worn by women who could put on a row of pearls or diamonds without depleting the jewelry casket. Some are worn by women who have no other kind of jewelry to display.

Of course the jewelers are remounting stones into this fashion, and offering new ones to catch the artistic buyer.

Small pearls are very much in favor, strung in festoons, caught with medallions of quaint workmanship. Many of these have been planned by the wearers and carried out by amateur metal workers, who are now widely in demand. Even diamonds or emeralds are set in odd mountings, with the gem partly covered, so that all attention can be given to the metal workmanship.

It may be that the remarkable specimens of colonial work at the Metropolitan Museum during the Hudson-Fulton celebration gave rise to this new fashion, for when women who have always been the chief adorers of Paul Revere because of his heroic ride, saw the marvelous things he had fashioned as a silversmith, they at once went out and ordered jewelry mounted in similar style.

"Your son looks so very much like your daughter, Mrs. Raymond," said the friend. "Are they alike in temperament?"

"Not a bit. She's easy to handle, but that boy, I can't do anything with. Why, I can't keep him at home at all, he's continually running away for days at a time!"

"I'll tell you what to do. Put him in girl's clothes and I'll gamble he won't move out of your back yard!"

"You don't know my boy. I tried that scheme!"

"Surely he didn't appear on the streets in his sister's clothes!"

Didn't he? He hadn't been in them ten minutes, when his sister's fellow came along and seeing him sitting in the hammock with a book, invited him out to the theatre and supper; and he went!"—From Norman E. Mack's National Monthly.

Pleated Neckwear.

There is just at present a rivalry between the pleated collarette that turns back from the round neck and gives the delightful appearance and the dignified jabot of the Directory, that so well fills in the space between the long years.

The pleated round shape is, of course, an outgrowth of the Dutch collar of a few seasons ago. It is decidedly feminine, and is at its best when fashioned of the sheerest line or net. Frequently it is edged with a narrow line of black, and some of the innovations are huge squares or disks of color, embroidered with linen threads.

It is the day of the collarless blouse, and the neckwear very naturally has taken to itself an importance which may rely upon the makers to duly emphasize.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability nad equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

Phone us and our wagon will call.

CLERGYMAN'S TRAMP LASTED WHOLE WEEK

Emulating the late Bishop Leighton Coleman, of Delaware, whose practice it was to take long walks for the benefit of his health, Rev. George A. Warner accompanied by two of the choir boys of his church and Will O'Brien, the organist, completed a tramp on Saturday morning aggregating about 118 miles in all.

On Monday the quartet walked from High Bridge, going from Plainfield by train, to Hackettstown, a distance of 18 miles thence to Newton, another stretch of 18 miles. On Tuesday they traveled from Newton to Dingman's Ferry and on Wednesday the trip took them from the Ferry through Bushkill to Delaware Water Gap, a distance of 26 miles. From the water gap to the next stopping place, Bucksville, they walked to Clinton passing through Manunkchunk. This took up all of Thursday and on Friday the tramp lay along the beautiful country roads to Clinton where Jud Stewart took them in his automobile and brought them home.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Friday's attraction at the Plainfield theatre will be the "Smart Set" Company in a new three-act musical comedy headed by S. H. Dudley, the popular and versatile negro comedian.

One of the potent appeals of "The Servant in the House," which will be seen at the Plainfield theatre May 7, matinee and night, is its remarkable realism.

Male Choir Anniversary.

Yesterday marked the first anniversary of the male choir in Grace Episcopal church and the advent of S. On Thursday night the Ascension Day service, a full choral service will be given at which the choir will render Barnby's "King All Glorious." A sermon will be preached by the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson.

Why He Was Lonesome.

Tommy, whose varying points of view are illustrated by the Farm Journal, had not yet learned the Golden Rule. Neither have a good many of his elders.

"I should think, Tommy," said his father, "that you might find some boy to play with you. Now what's the matter with Johnny Jenkins and the little Dobbs boy?"

"Pooh! Why, they're a whole year younger than I am," said Tommy, contemptuously. "I couldn't play with them!"

"Well, there's Jack Spear and Willie Harlow. Won't they do?"

"Yes, but they're a year older than I am," said Tommy, wistfully; "so the mean things won't play with me."

NEW JERSEY GERMANS PLAN FOR CELEBRATION

An elaborate program has been prepared by the committee in charge of the 200th anniversary of the first German settlement in this State, to be held in conection with the German day celebration at Electric Park, Newark, May 13-16, under the auspices of the German-American Alliance. Five bands have been engaged to furnish music on the two days and addresses will be delivered by German and English speakers who have not yet been selected.

An historical parade of floats will be a feature of the celebration, and prizes amounting to $100 will be awarded to the organizations having the best decorated headquarters in the park. The program for the celebration follows:

Friday, May 13—Addresses to the children of the German-English schools. Theme, "The Immigration of the Germans Two Hundred Years Ago to This State."

Saturday, May 14—Inspection of the festival grounds and meeting of the festival committee.

Sunday, May 15—Festival worship in all German churches. Theme, "The Benefits Derived from the German Immigration to This Country." Tolling of church bells in all German churches at noon.

Sunday Afternoon—Opening of the festival in Electric Park. Reception of all the invited guests. Vocal and instrumental concert. Singing by the United Singers of Newark and other singing societies. Grand chorus by the pupils of German schools. Speeches in German and English.

Monday, May 16—Concert and dance music, afternoon and evening. Prize gymnastics by members of New Jersey turning societies and others. Historical parade through the park to the quarters of the fest committee and review. Addresses.

Evening—Brilliant illumination of the park by colored electric lights. Parade and review of the Veteran and Schuetzen Society. Retreat.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Wholesome, native American humor never scored a more sweeping victory than in "The Fortune Hunter," Winchell Smith's comedy of town and country, which is now in its thirty-fifth crowded week at the Gaiety theatre, at 46th street and Broadway. This pleasant piece so perfectly played by John Barrymore and his supporting company has won the cordial commendation of ministers, priests and rabbis in New York and Chicago. Vice-President Sherman declared on his last visit to New York that he "came from Washington to see it." The story is engrossing in its cumulative interest, the stage pictures are so typical and the humor so racy of the soil that the American play-goer feels that here at last is a comedy that is nobly of the United States. The end of the run is still far, far away and seats are selling four weeks in advance. All visitors to New York owe it to themselves to witness "The Fortune Hunter." It represents theb est in our national life and throughout it is delightfully entertaining. Up-to-date advice has been given from a score of New York pulpits to see this comedy and to learn of what high things the modern stage is capable. John Barrymore heads the cast which includes Mary Ryan, Eda Bruna, Forrest Robinson, Hale Hamilton, Ethel Dovey and many other sterling artists. Especial attention is paid to orders from out of town and reservations are first made for those coming from a distance.

PROFESSOR SUCCEEDS IN GROWING A BLUE ROSE.

Morristown, May 1.—Professor Elwyn Waller, of Franklin place, is exhibiting to his friends a novelty in the shape of a blue rose, the dream of florists and horticulturists for years.

The rose is called the "Veilchenblau," from its violet blue color, and is a seedling of the crimson rambler, propagated by a German rose grower. The flowers are massed in large bunches as in the well-known rambler, and on first opening are of a purplish pink shade, later turning to amethyst, and just before the flower fades becoming a brilliant steel blue. The plant has but few thorns, and as it is a hardy rambler, it will probably prove as popular as the crimson rambler, with the added novelty of its unusual color. It is said that from this rose will be developed a blue rose of the cornflower shade.

A Mild Old Drama.

"That's what. And when it happens I'm going to revive the 'Black Crook' and take it over the lyceum circuit."

In the Dark.

"What made you ill.

"Some dish with a French name."

"And what are you taking?"

"Some compound that the doctor ordered in Latin."

What Is Education?

"Education," says Prof. Huxley, "is the instruction of the intellect in the laws of nature, under which name I include not merely things and their forces, but men and their ways; and the fashioning of the affections and of the will into an earnest and loving desire to move in harmony with those laws. For me, education means neither more or less than this. Anything which professes to call itself education must be tried by this standard; and if it fails to stand the test, I will not call it education, whatever may be the force of authority, or of numbers, upon the other side."

New Music Hall "Turn."

An exciting music hall "turn," which will be known as the "human cup and ball," was rehearsed in a shed at the outskirts of Paris. A woman is shut inside a huge wicker ball, which is then rolled down a steep inclined plane, terminating in an upward bend. The ball shoots with lightning speed down the slide and is hurled up into space and caught by an elevated bowl-shaped receptacle 25 feet away.

Pretty Good Answer.

At a London board school the teacher had explained to the children the meaning of the word "ability." "Now, children," she went on, "what word would express the opposite to ability?" A sharp-faced little boy at the end of the end form bobbed up his head and exclaimed: "Please, teacher, nobility!" —Work and Play.

Skillful Bribery.

At one old-time British election a candidate won by means of an umbrella. Sheer absence of mind caused him to leave the gamp behind at every house at which he called to canvass, and, of course, when it was returned by the voter, a sovereign was only a suitable reward for honesty.

Her Marvelous Escape.

A lady had a wonderful escape from death in Queensland lately. When out gathering flowers she fell over a precipice at Mervyn creek, near Cairns. Her dress caught on something 80 feet down the precipice, and this saved her from a further fall of 500 feet. She escaped with a few bruises and cuts.

True Generosity.

Walking into a London church the other day, and saying, "I've no time to stop; I know all about your work; don't want any acknowledgment," a gentleman left in the superintendent's hands bank notes for $250.

New Scientific Discovery.

A French chemist has advanced the theory that the odors from vegetation disseminated through the air diminish the actinic powers of the solar radiations sufficiently to affect photography.

High Buildings in Old Rome.

It is a curious fact that the Romans in the time of the Caesars experienced much trouble with high buildings. A law was passed restricting the height to 60 feet.

The Seal in Captivity.

The fur seal will not breed in captivity. This does not apply to the hair seals, which are those so readily trained for exhibition purposes.

The Man in Lower Ten

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

I braced myself against the table and struck the match sharply against the sole of my shoe. It flickered faintly and went out. And then, without the slightest warning, another dish went off the table. It fell with a thousand splinterings; the very air seemed broken into crashing waves of sound. I stood still, braced against the table, holding the red end of the dying match, and listened. I had not long to wait; the groan came again, and I recognized it, the cry of a dog in straits. I breathed again.

"Come, old fellow," I said. "Come on, old man. Let's have a look at you."

I could hear the thud of his tail on the floor, but he did not move. He only whimpered. There is something companionable in the presence of a dog, and I fancied this dog in trouble. Slowly I began to work my way around the table toward him.

"Good boy," I said, as he whimpered. "We'll find the light, which ought to be somewhere or other around here, and then—"

I stumbled over something, and I drew back my foot almost instantly. "Did I step on you, old man?" I exclaimed, and bent to pat him. I remember straightening suddenly and hearing the dog pad softly toward me around the table. I recall even that I had put the matches down and could not find them. Then, with a bursting horror of the room and its contents, of the gibbering dark around me, I turned and made for the door by which I had entered.

I could not find it. I felt along the endless wainscoting, past miles of wall. The dog was beside me, I think, but he was part and parcel now, to my excited mind, with the Thing under the table. And when, after aeons of search, I found a knob and stumbled into the reception hall, I was as nearly in a panic as any man could be.

I was myself again in a second, and by the light from the hall I led the way back to the tragedy I had stumbled on. Bronson still sat at the table, his elbows propped on it, his cigarette still lighted, burning a hole in the cloth. Partly under the table lay Mrs. Conway, face down. The dog stood over her and wagged his tail.

McKnight pointed silently to a large copper ash tray, filled with ashes and charred bits of paper.

"The notes, probably," he said ruefully. "He got them after all, and burned them before her. It was more than she could stand. Stabbed him first and then herself."

Hotchkiss got up and took off his hat. "They are dead," he announced solemnly, and took his note-book out of his hatband.

McKnight and I did the only thing we could think of—drove Hotchkiss and the dog out of the room, and closed and locked the door. "It's a matter for the police," McKnight asserted. "I suppose you've got an officer tied to you somewhere, Lawrence? You usually have."

We left Hotchkiss in charge and went downstairs. It was McKnight who first saw Johnson, leaning against a park railing across the street, and called him over. We told him in a few words what we had found, and he grinned at me cheerfully.

"After awhile, in a few weeks or months, Mr. Blakeley," he said, "when you get tired of monkeying around with the blood-stain and finger-print specialist upstairs, you come to me. I've had that fellow you want under surveillance for ten days!"

CHAPTER XXX.

Finer Details.

At ten minutes before two the following day, Monday, I arrived at my office. I had spent the morning putting my affairs in shape, and in a trip to the stable. The afternoon would see me either a free man or a prisoner for an indefinite length of time, and, in spite of Johnson's promise to produce Sullivan, I was more prepared for the latter than the former.

Blobs was watching for me outside the door, and it was clear that he was in a state of excitement bordering on delirium. He did nothing, however, save to tip me a wink that meant "As man to man, I'm for you." I was too much engrossed either to reprove him or to return the courtesy, but I heard him follow me down the hall to the small room where we kept outgrown law books, typewriter supplies and, incidentally, our wraps. I was wondering vaguely if I would ever hang my hat on its nail again, when the door closed behind me. It shut firmly, without any particular amount of sound, and I was left in the dark. I groped my way to it, irritably, to find it locked on the outside. I shook it frantically, and was rewarded by a sibilant whisper through the keyhole.

"Keep quiet," Blobs was saying huskily. "You're in deadly peril. The police are waiting in your office, three of 'em. I'm goin' to lock the whole bunch in and throw the key out of the window."

"Come back here, you imp of Satan!" I called furiously, but I could hear him speeding down the corridor, and the slam of the outer office door by which he always announced his presence. And so I stood there in the ridiculous cupboard, hot with the heat of a steaming September day, musty with the smell of old leather bindings, littered with broken overshoes and handleless umbrellas. I was apoplectic with rage one minute, and choked with laughter the next. It seemed an hour before Blobs came back.

He came without haste, strutting with new dignity, and passed outside my prison door.

"Well, I guess that will hold them for a while," he remarked comfortably, and proceeded to turn the key. "I've got 'em fastened up like sardines in a can!" he explained, working with the lock. "Gee whiz! you'd ought to hear 'em!" When he got his breath after the shaking I gave him, he began to sputter. "How'd I know?" he demanded sulkily. "You nearly broke your neck gettin' away the other time. And I haven't got the old key. It's lost."

"Where's it lost?" I demanded, with another gesture toward his coat collar.

"Down the elevator shaft." There was a gleam of indignant satisfaction through his tears of rage and humiliation.

And so, while he hunted the key in the debris at the bottom of the shaft, I quieted his prisoners with the assurance that the lock had slipped, and that they would be free as lords as soon as we could find the janitor with a pass-key. Stuart went down finally and discovered Blobs, with the key in his pocket, telling the engineer how he had tried to save me from arrest and failed. When Stuart came up he was almost cheerful, but Blobs did not appear again that day.

Simultaneous with the finding of the key came Hotchkiss, and we went in together. I shook hands with two men who, with Hotchkiss, made a not very animated group. The taller one, an oldish man, lean and hard, announced his errand at once.

"A Pittsburg warrant?" I inquired, unlocking my cigar drawer.

"Yes. Allegheny county has assumed jurisdiction, the exact locality where the crime was committed being in doubt." He seemed to be the spokesman. The other, shorter and rotund, kept an amiable silence. "We hope you will see the wisdom of waiving extradition," he went on. "It will save time."

"I'll come, of course," I agreed. "The sooner the better. But I want you to give me an hour here, gentlemen. I think we can interest you. Have a cigar?"

The lean man took a cigar; the rotund man took three, putting two in his pocket.

"How about the catch of that door?" he inquired jovially. "Any danger of it going off again?" Really, considering the circumstances, they were remarkably cheerful. Hotchkiss, however, was not. He paced the floor uneasily, his hands under his coat-tails. The arrival of McKnight created a diversion; he carried a long package and a corkscrew, and shook hands with the police and opened the bottle with a single gesture.

"I always want something to cheer on these occasions," he said. "Where's the water, Blakeley? Everybody ready?" Then in French he toasted the two detectives.

"To your eternal discomfiture," he said, bowing ceremoniously. "May you go home and never come back! If you take Monsieur Blakeley with you, I hope you choke."

The lean man nodded gravely. "Prosit," he said. But the fat one leaned back and laughed consumedly.

Hotchkiss finished a mental synopsis of his position, and put down his glass. "Gentlemen," he said pompously, "within five minutes the man you want will be here, a murderer caught in a net of evidence so fine that a mosquito could not get through."

The detectives glanced at each other solemnly. Had they not in their possession a sealskin bag containing a wallet and a bit of gold chain, which by putting the crime on me, would leave a gap big enough for Sullivan himself to crawl through?

"Why don't you say your little speech before Johnson brings the other man, Lawrence?" McKnight inquired. "They won't believe you, but it will help them to understand what is coming."

"You understand, of course," the lean man put in gravely, "that what you say may be used against you."

"I'll take the risk," I answered impatiently.

It took some time to tell the story of my worse than useless trip to Pittsburg, and its sequel. They listened gravely, without interruption.

"Mr. Hotchkiss here," I finished, "believes that the man Sullivan, whom we are momentarily expecting, committed the crime. Mr. McKnight is inclined to implicate Mrs. Conway, who stabbed Bronson and then herself last night. As for myself, I am open to conviction."

"I hope not," said the stout detective quizzically. And then Alison was announced. My impulse to go out and meet her was forestalled by the detectives, who rose when I did. McKnight, therefore, brought her in, and I met her at the door.

"I have put you to a great deal of trouble," I said contritely, when I saw her glance around the room. "I wish I had not—"

"It is only right that I should come," she replied, looking up at me. "I am the unconscious cause of most of it, I am afraid. Mrs. Dallas is going to wait in the outer office."

I presented Hotchkiss and the two detectives, who eyed her with interest. In her poise, her beauty, even in her gown, I fancy she represented a new type to them. They remained standing until she sat down.

"I have brought the necklace," she began, holding out a white-wrapped box, "as you asked me to."

I passed it, unopened, to the detectives. "The necklace from which was broken the fragment you found in the sealskin bag," I explained. "Miss West found it on the floor of the car, near lower ten."

"When did you find it?" asked the lean detective, bending forward.

"In the morning, not long before the wreck."

"Did you ever see it before?"

"I am not certain," she replied. "I have seen one very much like it." Her tone was troubled. She glanced at me as if for help, but I was powerless.

"Where?" The detective was watching her closely.

At that moment there came an interruption. The door opened without ceremony, and Johnson ushered in a tall, blonde man, a stranger to all of us. I glanced at Alison; she was pale but composed and scornful. She met the newcomer's eyes full, and, caught unawares, he took a hasty backward step.

"Sit down, Mr. Sullivan," McKnight beamed cordially. "Have a cigar? I beg your pardon, Alison, do you mind this smoke?"

"Not at all," she said composedly. Sullivan had had a second to sound his bearings.

"No—no, thanks," he mumbled. "If you will be good enough to explain—"

"But that's what you're to do," McKnight said cheerfully, pulling up a chair. "You've got the most attentive audience you could ask. These two gentlemen are detectives from Pittsburg, and we are all curious to know the finer details of what happened on the car Ontario two weeks ago, the night your father-in-law was murdered." Sullivan gripped the arms of his chair. "We are not prejudiced, either. The gentlemen from Pittsburg are betting on Mr. Blakeley, over there. Mr. Hotchkiss, the gentleman by the radiator, is ready to place ten to one odds on you. And some of us have still other theories."

"Gentlemen," Sullivan said slowly, "I give you my word of honor that I did not kill Simon Harrington, and that I do not know who did."

"Fiddledee!" cried Hotchkiss, bustling forward. "Why, I can tell you—" But McKnight pushed him firmly into a chair and held him there.

"I am ready to plead guilty to the larceny," Sullivan went on. "I took Mr. Blakeley's clothes, I admit. If I can reimburse him in any way for the inconvenience—"

The stout detective was listening with his mouth open. "Do you mean to say," he demanded, "that you got into Mr. Blakeley's berth, as he contends, took his clothes and forged notes, and left the train before the wreck?"

"Yes."

"The notes, then?"

"I gave them to Bronson yesterday. Much good they did him!" bitterly. We were all silent for a moment. The two detectives were adjusting themselves with difficulty to a new point of view. Sullivan was looking dejectedly at the floor, his hands hanging loose between his knees. I was watching Alison, from where I stood, behind her, I could almost touch the soft hair behind her ear.

"I have no intention of pressing any charge against you," I said with forced civility, for my hands were itching to get at him, "if you will give us a clear account of what happened on the Ontario that night."

Sullivan raised his handsome, haggard head and looked around at me. "I've seen you before, haven't I?" he asked. "Weren't you an uninvited guest at the Laurels a few days—or nights—ago? The cat, you remember, and the rug that slipped?"

"I remember," I said shortly. He glanced from me to Alison and quickly away.

POTTER'S SINLGE MEN DEFEAT THE BENEDICTS.

There was big doings on the Clinton Avenue diamond on Saturday morning when the Single and Married Men's ball nines of the Potter Printing Press Works clashed for honors. In a nip and tuck battle the bachelors downed the benedicts by the score of 15 to 14. The game was featured by heavy batting by both teams. Captain Duffy of the Single's Men's aggregation walloped the ball for two home runs and two corking singles. Porter caught a fine game for the victors and Mague starred for the benedicts. The score:

The victory of the suburbanites goes to show that Dunellen has a speedy aggregation, and that Jimmy Montross is half of the show. The triumph in a large measure was due to Montross' headwork at critical stages.

And didn't the representatives of the Montross fireside enjoy the victory. Sam, Sr., and Sam, Jr., were there and so was Harry, and the trio rooted loyally for brother Jimmy to win.

That boy with blond locks and rosy cheeks, young Mister Nonemaker who covered left field for Dunellen, starred with his sensational work in that territory. Nonemaker killed off several bangs which bore the basehit label for Plainfield.

Manager Dorflinger has booked a game with New Brunswick to be played in that city on Saturday afternoon, May 28.

DUNELLEN'S SPEEDY NINE

BIG SURPRISE FOR THE LOCALS.

Battle Ended With Score 1 to 0—Brilliant Pitching Duel Between Warry McLaughlin and Jimmy Montross.

Dunellen's band of ball tossers opened the season auspiciously at that place on Saturday afternoon by dipping Manager Dorflinger and his Plainfield "bunch" into the kalsomine bucket. The battle waged twelve innings, score, Dunellen, 1; Plainfield, 0. Great was the rejoicing among the fans of the old Middlesex burg when the eagle flopped its wings and screeched forth victory.

It was the most notable victory in the ball history of the town according to the demonstration that prevailed after the contest. The demon D. A. C. athletes were accorded all the honors of heroes. There were showers of bouquets of violets hurled at them as they picked up their bats and bags to leave the field, and many of the more frenzied of the fans displayed their exuberance by carrying the victors off the diamond on their shoulders, and then to top it off, Thirty-third Degree Fan William Piddington, Sr., father of Dunellen's noble first sacker, speeded to Peter Ratti's soda water and cigar emporium and left an order to treat the athletes with highly flavored ice cream soda and cigars.

The contest waged itself into a brilliant pitching duel between Warry McLaughlin, of the locals, and Smiling Jimmy Montross, also a local favorite. Honors were about even. Both boys performed in magnificent style, each having ten strikeouts to their records, while each flinger distributed five bingles.

Victory perched itself on the Dunellen banner in the twelfth round, two errors and two well placed bunts figuring in the episode. After Boyd's error gave Craig a life on first base, the sacks were quickly filled when Miller and Montross bunted safely. Then followed Plainfield's fatality. Nonemaker, the blonde-haired left fielder, cracked out a Texas leaguer to right. Lidgate, who had been performing in brilliant style all through the fray, ran in for the fly. The globule struck square in the High School's catchers mit and bounded away. It was all over then and Craig scooted home with the winning tally.

Plainfield had numerous chances to score but Jimmy Montross' splendid headwork checked the locals in this direction. In the fifth round O'Loughlin started operations by peeling off a single to center field and Lidgate reached first on Giles' jumbling play. This was followed by a lightning double play in which O'Loughlin and Martin perished. Martin lined out a long fly to Miller in center, and O'Loughlin in trying to make third, was nailed on Miller's splendid throw to Craig.

In the following round Montross was invincible and the local hitters powerless before his delivery. Barnes, Nelson and McLaughlin excursioned on the Whiffville Route in jig time and all Dunellenites smiled, including "Smiling Jimmy."

Nonamaker starred for Dunellen. His half dozen chances were all thrilling nabs which stired the spectators to their heartstrings. The score:

Plainfield.

While Lidgate's muff was responsible for Plainfield's defeat, the High School boy played a pretty game in right. He divided honors in the fielding line with Nonemaker.

Benny Dodwell, behind the bat for Dunellen, performed like a veteran. He fielded fast and his throwing to bases was flawless. Montross declared after the game that Benny is one of the classiest backstops that ever supported him behind the pan—and Jimmy should know what he is talking about.

Warry McLaughlin was robbed out of a hit by Miller's splendid running nab in center field in the fourth inning, and Giddes treated Lidgate in the same manner when he made a somersault catch of the Plainfielder's Texas Leaguer over shortstop.

The crack Garwood A. C. will be the opponents of the Plainfields on Crescent Oval next Saturday afternoon; the Y. M. C. A.s will go to Newark to engage in battle with the association nine of that city.

Linke performed at a brilliant clip in the outfield for the Y. M. C. A.'s against the Marathons.

GOLF SEASON OPENS AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

The formal opening of the active season at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday was an auspicious one, and in fact it was a gala day at the popular club. More than fifty entries were posted in competition for the Spring Handicap cups. Classes A and B, which is to be continued weekly until the latter part of June. Judging by the number of entries this contest will be more popular than ever and there is sure to be considerably rivalry.

For this time of the year the course is in exceptionally good condition, making competition a pleasure for all. There were no social features Saturday night, the opening being reserved until next Saturday, when all of the clubs of the city and borough have been invited to join in the festivities and accept the hospitality of the home club.

On Saturday, E. T. Wilson won first honors for the Class A cup, Leighton Calkins, finished second, while R. S. Rowland, Clifton Wharton, Jr., and E. P. Goodwin divided the remaining points. For the Class B cup, H. S. Brown won first honors and H. F. Fox and L. R. Hopton divided the remaining points. The leading scores:

Class A—E. T. Wilson, 86, 12-74; Leighton Calkins, 85, 8-77; R. S. Rowland, 85, 7-78; Clifton Wharton, Jr., 92, 14-78; E. P. Goodwin, 93, 15-78; W. T. Glenney, 86, 7-79; Arthur Murphy, 87, 8-79; Stuart H. Patterson, 94, 15-79; J. A. Lane, 94, 15-79; C. B. Morgan, 87, 7-80; R. G. Morse, 93, 13-80; J. Whitney Baker, 88, 7-81; T. R. One of the best known firms in New York is disolving partnership, and in order to settle their affairs satisfactorily they were obliged to dispose of every Suit they owned before the first of May.

They looked over the field. We had been one of their best patrons, and the Suits came to us.

They are stunning—beautiful cloths, such as shadow-striped mohair, French serge, wide-wale cheviots, tweed suitings, diagonals in six or eight of the best spring styles; all sizes; in navy blue, cornflower blue, tan, light and dark gray, white, green, violet, raisin and black.

There is not one suit that could be sold in the usual way under $20: and the bulk of them are $25 and $30 suits.

As these are sold so extremely low, we shall have to decline Mail, Telephone or C. O. D. orders; and to make alterations to them.

FOR WATER PROBE $5,000

First Appropriation for Municipal Ownership Investigation.

TO ENGAGE AN ENGINEER.

Public Affairs Committee to Go Ahead With the Idea for Public Ownership of Water Plant.

That it is the intention of the Common Council to follow out the purpose of its original plans regarding the water question was shown at the May meeting last night, when in accordance with a resolution offered by Councilman F. E. Mygatt, chairman of the special water commission, $5,000 was appropriated, the major portion of which will be paid a competent engineer, who will advise the city as to water supply, ways and means of establishing either an independent plant or adopting condemnation proceedings in a plan to acquire the present plant of the local water company.

The resolution carried with it the statement that the question submitted to the voters of the city had been assented to and in view of this $5,000 was appropriated for accomplishing the purposes as set forth in the question voted upon, under the provisions of the Legislative act giving the city the authority to provide itself with a pure and wholesome water supply.

The resolution also named F. E. Mygatt, George S. Clay, Frank L. Holt, William L. Gloak and F. H. Montgomery, the committee on public affairs, to take up the matter with the engineer to be engaged for the purposes named.

APPROPRIATION MADE FOR POLICE CHIEF'S TRIP

A resolution offered by Councilman C. C. Randolph at the May meeting of the Common Council, last night, granting Chief of Police P. S. Kiely a ten days' leave of absence to attend the convention of police chiefs at Birmingham, Ala., and appropriating $100 for that purpose, raised strong protest on the part of Councilmen Mygatt and Holt, representing the majority of the police committee.

"The majority of the police committee is against this resolution," declared Mr. Holt, 'granting the chief ten days leave with an expenditure of $100. It is not necessary to send the chief away every year, especially in view of the economy that is now being practiced in the police and other departments. With out limited force I am opposed to the resolution."

Mr. Mygatt also protested. When Mr. Holt had expressed himself, Mr. Mygatt said: "We cannot afford what we want in the police department and yet we plan to send the chief away for ten days. The services of the chief at home are of more importance than at Birmingham. I believe that this action is absolutely unwarranted at this time. We are not obliged year after year to send the chief away on such a trip and I protest strongly against the action."

A vote on the resolution was then taken with this result: Ayes—Councilmen Buxton, C. C. Randolph, Frank Randolph, Taylor, Tolles, Gloak, Wilson and Montgomery. Nayes—Councilmen Mygatt and Holt.

FOR 'SAFE AND SANE' 4TH

Public Hearing on Fireworks Ordinance Set for Monday, May 16.

BUXTON MAKES OBJECTION.

Plainfield May Follow Example of Other Cities to Protect Life, Limb and Property.

Anticipating that the Common Council intended to take some action relative to a "safe and sane" Fourth of July, Dr. A. F. VanHorn, one of the school physicians, in a communication to that body last night urged it to act favorably on the proposed ordinance, and thereby prevent many accidents likely to occur on that day. The matter was referred to the laws and ordinance committee.

Councilman Holt, of the laws and ordinance committee, presented the measure, which was prepared by Corporation Counsel Marsh, and there was a storm of protest on the part of Councilmen Buxton and Clay. It was finally decided that the reading of the ordinance should be for information only and that a public hearing be granted on Monday night, May 16, to which date an adjournment was taken.

The ordinance is similar to the one that has been adopted in hundreds of cities throughout the country including many in this State. It prohibits the discharge of dangerous fireworks, cannon crackers, etc., within the city limits. It does permit the use of fire-crackers less than 2½ inches in length, and the display of fireworks by permission through the proper authorities.

Mr. Buxton thought the ordinance should be referred to the fire and buildings committee, but Mr. Holt explained that that committee had considered it. Mr. Clay, as well as President Tolles, considered the ordinance too drastic, but Mr. Holt said that he anticipated that there would be objections to the measure and for that reason was in favor of a public hearing. Personally, he believed the ordinance a good one, and other members agreed with him. Those who opposed the measure did not seem to have a knowledge as to what is being done in all parts of the country toward making a 'safe and sane" Fourth. This was shown in Mr. Clay's remarks, when he asked, "What is the occasion for the passage of such an ordinance?"

The ordinance provides a fine of $200 for any person or corporation violating the provisions of it as to the sale of fireworks and a fine of not more than $20 for those who violate the ordinance in discharging fire-works or firearms as prohibited. The chief of the fire department is given authority to remove all fire-works from any place where sold in violation of the ordinance.

TOWN FACES A LEGAL WAR

Dunellen Council Ignores Petition of Citizens in Equator Co. Controversey.

THREATEN LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

Council Refuses to Consider Proposition to Extend Dunellen Avenue Through Land Company's Plot.

A big fight, which gives promise of being taken to the courts for final decision, is on at Dunellen. On one side is the Dunellen Board of Trade and about seventy-five property owners, representing more than one half of the real estate valuation on the north side of the Jersey Central tracks, and the Borough Council and the Equator Realty Company are on the other side.

The scrap was inaugurated by the Board of Trade at its meeting last week when an unanimous opposition was expressed to the plans of the Equator Realty Company, in the manner in which the land company intended to lay out streets, in the Sanford tract of about sixty acres in the western end of the town, which was recently purchased by that company. The board of trade claims that if the land company lays out the streets, according to plans, that a greater part of the beauty of the western section of the borough will be spoiled.

At the meeting of the Board of Trade petitions were directed to the Common Council asking that the land company be stopped in their building of streets as planned; a petition was also adopted that the Council extend Dunellen avenue through the Sanford plot to Gallagher's corner, on a straight line, by condemnation proceedings if necessary.

This action was backed up by a petition signed by seventy-five property holders being presented to the Council last night; also an ordinance, prepared in legal form, providing for the extension of Dunellen avenue was presented. Both were ignored by the Council, and now the property holders interested and the Board of Trade are talking fight.

The petition and ordinance were presented to the Council by Councilman Firman H. Gise. Mr. Gise made a motion that the petition be granted and that the ordinance to extend Dunellen avenue to Gallagher's corner be adopted on its first reading, but none of the other councilmen seconded the motion and the matter died.

F. D. Barman spoke in favor of the passage of the ordinance. He declared it was the duty of the Council to act in compliance of the wishes of so large a number of property holders and residents of the only person to talk on the subject.

After the Council ignored the matter, one of the prominent property-holders declared that the matter would be taken to the courts, and fought to the bitter end. He declared that mandamus proceedings would be instituted in view of forcing the Council to bow to the will of the majority of tax payers.

Should Dunellen avenue be extended through the Sanford plot as demanded by the property-owners and board of trade there would be a continuous road, 80 feet wide, from Myrtle avenue, North Plainfield, to Bound Brook, while the other streets are only 66 feet wide.

The fire ordinance was also passed on its second and third reading. Considerable routine business was also transacted.

Elm Leaf Beetle Coming.

Henry C. White, president of the North Plainfield Shade Tree Commission, has issued a circular letter in which some timely advice is given to owners of shade trees as to their preservation. Mr. White says that the State Entomologist predicts for this year an unusual invasion of the elm leaf beetle resulting in serious injury if not death of the trees if proper precautions are not taken. He suggests spraying the trees, which in past seasons has done much to preserve the foilage and the life of the trees which line our beautiful streets.

Thirty Days for Each.

Edward Kiely, of the borough, and Kate Cahill, of New Market, were arrested on the charge of disorderly conduct by Marshall Frank Culver last night. Recorder Dolliver this morning sentenced both to the county jail at Somerville for thirty days.

Raise Ticket Agents' Wages.

The New Jersey Central announces an increase of from $5 to $10 a month for all ticket agents on the system. Those who have been receiving $70 will be advanced to $75 and those getting less than $70 will get an additional $10.

MURDERER PRESENTED A NATTY APPEARANCE

When John V. Buckley, alias John Grant, slayer of Mrs. Frederick Coveley, appeared before Judge Parker in the Supreme Court at Somerville yesterday, and heard his counsel, Robert Newton Crane, enter a plea of not guilty to the indictment of murder against him, the youth was hardly recognized by persons who saw him after he had been arrested.

Buckley presented a natty appearance. He was attired in a new gray suit and wore a white shirt, a new collar and a tie. Buckley was also carefully groomed, having his hair trimmed and neatly parted on the left side. As he faced the judge he gave every appearance of a happy schoolboy of sixteen, instead of an unkempt and happy-go-lucky individual as he appeared when placed under arrest.

The youth was as "cool as a cucumber" when the court crier shouted, "Prisoner to the bar." This command was heard without a tremor, and he stepped with alacrity to the bar with his counsel, Mr. Crane. After Lawyer Crane entered a plea of not guilty, and Judge Parker announced Wednesday, June 1, as the date for the trial, Buckley nodded and smiled at his counsel.

One of the peculiar features of the case is that neither the prisoner's counsel or the prosecution has heard anything from the boy's relatives, who are supposed to be living at Charlestown, Mass., and now it is a question as to whether they are living or dead, or moved to other parts.

Since the arrest of the prisoner, Buckley has exhibited a fondness for making confessions. The prosecution, it is said, has in hand five confessions made by Buckley from as many different sources. When Counselor Crane was questioned on this point he said:

"Yes, that's so, but that won't make any difference to the line of defense."

Since his residence in this city and vicinity Buckley it is asserted cultivated a friendship with only five persons, two of whom are sticking to him in his trouble.

MONDAY AFTERNOON CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL ELECTION

The annual meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club was held yesterday in the Hartridge School Auditorium, when the reports of the recording secretary, Miss Ethel Colton, and of the treasurer, Miss Ethel L. Titsworth, were read.

The election of three vice presidents and a treasurer followed, making the corps of officers for the enguing year as follows: President, Mrs. Eugene H. Hatch; vice presidents, Miss Isabel Arnold, Mrs. Charles L. Goodrich, Mrs. Herbert E. Baright; recording secretary, Miss Ethel Colton; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William E. Hoyt; treasurer, Mrs. Maybury B. Mellon.

The subjects for next year's study were announced. From October to January the club will study "The Relation of Women to Economics" and the remainder of the year will be devoted to "Ibsen and His Country."

DUNELLEN'S MAYOR SQUELCHES A KICKER

Hardly a meeting of the Dunellen Council passes unless Michael Gallagher, one of the strenuous opponents of the policies of the government of that borough, appears to voice his grievances against the officials.

Mr. Gallagher's point of argument, or fault finding, last night was presented in the shape of a petition which charged Mayor Sanford with permitting a "speak easy" to do business in the borough. Mayor Sanford ruled that the petition was not in order. This prompted Councilman Gise to suggest that Mr. Gallagher be permitted to speak on the matter. To this Mayor Sanford replied:

"If Mr. Gallagher has anything to say on the speak-easy question, it is his place to tell all he knows to the Middlesex county prosecutor."

At the April meeting of the Council Mayor Sanford also squelched Gallagher when the latter made an attempt to deliver a speech before the Council.

CHARGE TO GRAND JURY

Justice Bergen Tells Grand Inquest to Consider Excise Cases.

BUXTON AND KIRK ON IT.

Grand Jurors Must Not Decide Whether Law Is a Good One or a Bad One.

The May term of the Union county courts opened at Elizabeth today, with Justice James J. Bergen on the bench. There was the usual large attendance of lawyers from all parts of the county, as well as other interested spectators. Judging from the list of causes, the present term is likely to be a short one. There are no cases of any great importance to engage the attention of the courts.

Councilman Herbert Buxton and former Sheriff William T. Kirk are the Plainfield members of the grand jury. In charging that body, Justice Bergen referred especially to excise violations in the county. He said that it was the duty of the grand jury to investigate all such cases and if the evidence would warrant to find an indictment.

"If the law is a bad one and contrary to public sentiment," continued Justice Bergen, "let the people change it, but it is not up to the grand jury to do so. It is their duty to enforce the law without fear or favor and to display no personal feeling in doing so.

Those in court were much impressed with the words of Justice Bergen believing that he would hold the grand jury to a strict account in all matters coming before them during the term.

THREAT TO SHOOT WOMAN LANDS ITALIAN IN JAIL

For threatening to shoot Mary Colucci, of Richmond street, Diano Brazio, an Italian, of Brooklyn, was held for the action of the grand jury this morning by City Judge William N. Runyon and manacled to Frank Ballinger, another Italian, who was sentenced yesterday to sixty days in the county jail for carrying concealed weapons, was taken to Elizabeth this morning by Detective Sergeant John Flynn.

The apprehension of Brazio and the discovery of the revolver with which it is alleged that he intended to shoot his victim, was a neat piece of work for which the local policemen deserve credit. Shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon a telephone message called Detective Flynn and Patrolman Saunders to Richmond street in a hurry. There they found an excited crowd of Italians and others surrounding the Colucci home, many of the women in hysterics and children screaming murder at the tops of their voices.

Sergeant Flynn, after some search, discovered Brazio crouching behind a pile of old boxes in the rear of the house and hustled him out to the wagon. On the way out they searched the man who protested loudly that he had no gun, but just as they were putting him into the wagon Brazio's hat fell off disclosing the weapon which the officers had frisked for in vain.

It is alleged that Brazio had been attempting to keep two households going and that he spent part of his time here with his family, making occasional visits to Mary Colucci. It is also said that the Colucci woman had followed him from place to place being ignorant of the fact that Brazio was married. However that may be jealousy is at the bottom of the trouble and may account for the two wounds which it is said decorate the person of the Colucci woman. It is alleged that Brazio cut Miss Colucci twice with a knife four years ago in Italy and that the trouble between them has existed since that time.

The accused man is the father of four children who were in court this morning and when the prisoner was led away his wife and children were overcome with emotion and had to be cared for by some of the spectators in the court room.

Counselor J. Henry Crane apeared for Brazio and asked that the bail be fixed at a low figure, but on the representations of Francis J. Blatz, who represented the Colucci woman, and Detective Sergeant Flynn, Judge Runyon fixed the amount of bonds at $1,000.

OPPOSE VOTING MACHINE

Democratic Club Petitions Ctiy Fathers to Restore Paper Ballot.

MAYOR MAKES APPOINTMENTS.

Monthly Reports Read and Other Rutine Business at the City Fathers' Meeting.

A petition was received from the Plainfield Democratic Club protesting against the continued use of the voting machines in this city and urging the Council to abolish them in the future. Accompanying the communication was a copy of a resolution adopted by the Elizabeth Council abolishing the machines in that city and asking that similar action be taken here. The matter was referred to the laws and ordinance committee.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk made the following appointments and they were confirmed by the Common Council:

Poundmaster and keeper for horses and cattle, Fred Breem; poundmaster for dogs, W. H. Kitchen, both to serve to January 1, 1911; special policeman, Joseph Dunlap, Class B, to serve to Jan. 1, 1911; callmen in the fire department, John O'Brien, Jr., John Cashin, Patrick McDonough and Fred J. Frey.

Street Commissioner Gavett reported that he had granted thirty-five permits for sewer connections during the month and Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of 23 building permits during the same period.

Overseer of the Poor A. D. Ayers reported expenses for the past month of $391.89, and Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District court, reported receipts of $144.44; disbursements, $39.14, and a balance of $105.30.

The sum of $350 was appropriated for the use of the fire and building committee, through a resolution by Mr. Taylor, for the purchase of a new horse for the East End firehouse, and another resolution by Mr. Taylor, which was adopted, appropriated $125 for the installation of a new fire-box at East Fourth and Sycamore street.

The tax ordinance was adopted on third reading on motion of Mr. Buxton, and a resolution by the same member which was adopted appropriated $500 for the annual audit of the city books by Patterson, Teele & Dennis, of New York city..

The sum of $1,000 was ordered transferred from the general fund to the fire fund in a resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and another resolution by the same member called for an appropriation of $250 to enlarge and improve the office of Tax Collector William R. Townsend.

Public hearings were granted on ordinances to establish the grade on certain streets, to open up and lay out Martine avenue, between Park and Hillside avenues and they were adopted on third reading, no one objecting to their passage.

The Common Council accepted an invitation to attend the Parent-Teachers' Association meeting at the Franklin School tonight.

Immediately afterward a nine-minute recess, which lasted forty-five minutes, was taken to discuss matters which afterward came up in the regular meeting.

Parent-Teacher Meeting.

A regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of the Franklin School will be held in the assembly room at 8 o'clock tonight. Through the kindness of Andrew B. McMeille, of the firm of Jardine, Kent & Jardine, architects, the association has secured Wilbert H. Smith, a heating and ventilating engineer, to address the meeting. A report will be read from the committee on sanitation will will be of interest to all parents connected with the Franklin, Stillman and Whittier schools.

Knights to Attend Service.

Perseverance and Unity Lodges, Knights of Pythias, have been invited to attend public worship together at Hope chapel on Sunday night. The pastor, Rev. L. R. Howard, is a member of Perseverance Lodge, and the invitation is given at the suggestion of that lodge.

No opposition to Fowler.

Frank H. Smith, chairman of the Union County Republican Committee, declares that if there is any opposition to the renomination of Representative Charles N. Fowler by the Republicans of the Fifth New Jersey District for a ninth term in Congress, he is not aware of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vincent and daughter, Miss Ethel Vincent, of West Third street, have returned home after spending several days with relatives in Brooklyn.

DEAN RODMAN MEMORIAL

Costly High Altar and Reredos in Memory of Beloved Clergyman.

AT GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The Altar to Be of White Marble and Reredos of French Stone —The Estimated Cost Is $6,000.

The parishioners of Grace church are planning to erect a handsome and costly memorial to Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, who, for so many years was the honored rector of the parish and who was beloved not only by his own people, but the community at large. Announcement of the proposed plans were made on Sunday by the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, and aroused considerable interest among the congregation.

The memorial is to be in the form of a beautiful altar and reredos, the approximate cost of which will be about $6,000. About fifty per cent. of the desired amount is now in hand. The altar is to be of almost pure white marble and the reredos of French stone. The installation of the altar and reredos will undoubtedly lead to some other changes, including the enlargement of the chancel to make room for the improvements.

The vestry of the church has charge of the plans for the memorial and it has been suggested that inasmuch as Dean Rodman was so much beloved by all the people of Plainfield, many no doubt would be glad of the opportunity to show their appreciation in a substantial way.

A prominent member of the church in speaking of the memorial today, said that the approximate cost would be $6,000, but it will be installed if it cost twice that amount for the church had decided to pay due honor to one who had accomplished so much for Plainfield.

CITY COUNSEL REPORTS ON OUR LEGAL AFFAIRS

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh presented a report to the Common Council at its May meeting, last night, relative to several legal matters pertaining to the city. He stated that the case of the Seigel, Cooper Company against the city, is now held up pending an appeal, and in the case of the city against Steinman, ejectment proceedings, execution papers were issued, the building in question was removed and the entire cost put on the defendant. Mr. Marsh said that the case of the American Sewage Disposal Company against the city remains in status quo. He also reported that he had paid H. P. Reynolds $150 on account of damages in connection with the widening of Sycamore street, and obtained his release therefore.

Mr. Marsh also reported the settlement of the tax assessment matter with the Public Service Corporation, as reported in The Daily Press a few days ago. The assessments referred to apply to the company's holdings in this city, including the large gas holder between Watchung avenue and Church street. The report of Mr. Marsh was filed.

SPORTS
News and Notes

By George E. Firstbrook

THURSDAY IS THE DAY FOR BIG SCHOOL GAME

Thursday afternoon on Crescent Oval is the time and place for the first ball game of the season between the city and borough high school nines. Contests between representatives of the diamond sport from these two institutions have always been exciting and hair-raising affairs, and the battle for Thursday should prove no exception to the rule.

Captains of both nines are each claiming victory. Both teams have been performing remarkably well and all signs point to a grand struggle between the schoolboys.

If Jimmy Montross continues his fine work for Dunellen there'll be a Montross avenue in that town before fall.

"Ory" Dodge, a local boy, played half the game for Plainfield against Dunellen on Saturday. Soon as Dodge gets his eye on the ball he should prove extremely handy in the batting department.

The "Cubs" is the name of Westfield's swell little team which will open at Recreation Park next Saturday in a game with the Corn Exchange National Bank's nine, of New York.

Joe Alberts, the Scotch Plains favorite, is making a big hit with Bound Brook fans by his fast performances in the infield. Joe has also been welting the ball hard.

CLIMAX NINE OPENS SEASON WITH A WIN.

The Climax A. C. opened the 1910 season on Saturday by a victory over the Netherwood A. C. by the score of 4 to 3. The contest was hard fought all the way, the winning tally of the Climax nine being made in the ninth. The twirlers were in fine fettle, E. Terry, pitching for Climax, striking out fourteen men and allowing five hits, while Frederickson fanned ten and gave eight hits.

Batteries—E. Terry and Compton, and Frederickson and M. Terry.

Jack Martin is getting in action at Worcester gradually. In the four games he played at shortstop and third base for Burkett's team he has made a fine showing.

According to Reading dispatches Jimmy Emery is fighting it out for shortstop with a fellow named Fuller. In all the games to date Emery has been doing first class work.

Joe McGinnity's Newark Indians are going some. Yesterday they scored their tenth victory out of eleven games played. They are certainly starting off like champs.

South Orange High has canceled the game scheduled with N. P. H. S. for Saturday. Unless the borough secures a date they will probably play a practice game with the Mono A. C.

Plainfield, N. J., May 3, 1910.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"'The Servant in the House,' in its printed form, has been much read and much discussed," wrote the critic for the Chicago Record-Herald on the morning after the Chicago opening. "There was a feeling that an examination so particular and attentive might discount the histrionic representation of it. It was not so. If every a play responded to the touch of the player this one does, and those who laid down the book impressed will leave the theatre overwhelmed. It was more than acting that Mr. Kennedy's drama received; it was interpretation—reverent, exalted, searching. The players acted not like players but like devotees, and carried their calling back to the spirit of the days when it was priestly. With wet eyes and quivering lips and pain-laden voices they acted, not like people playing for hire, but like mentors voicing the lesson of brotherhood. Before the majesty and the feeling of such a drama as this the shop phrases of a revelwer's such aprobation seem very meaningless. It is a work for the world to see and ponder upon and take itself in silence and humility, and then be thankful that it puts blood and will into a man's heart." "The Servant in the House" with the New York cast headed by Tyrone Power, will be seen at the Plainfield theatre Saturday, matinee and night, May 7.

Something entirely out of the ordinary in the musical comedy line is promised at the Plainfield theatre Friday, May 6, when S. H. Dudley, supported by the "Smart Set" company will be the attraction in "His Honor the Barber." When it is considered that there is not an interpolayed song in the entire production and that the whole performance is by negroes who have been culled from the ranks of the best musical comedy and vaudeville fields in the country, an idea of the performance may be had. The leading comedian, Mr. Dudley, who is well known to local theatre goers, has a part this season which should enhance his reputation as a fun maker of the first water. Dudley appears as Raspberry Snow. Raspberry is one of those illiterate negroes who sees only the humorous side of things. He wants to shave the President of the United States. He gets to the White House all right, but only as far as the steps when in company with his faithful donkey he falls asleep and dreams—dreams that he is acting as first tonsorial artist to William Taft. The comedy is in three acts and seven scenes with the locality in the South; jingling melodies, plenty of unctious fun, lots of enjoyable features and any amount of surprises are contained in the production. The cast is composed of sixty people and a few who help to contribute toward the merry-making are: James Burris, Irving Allen, Chris. Smith, Andrew Tripler, Matt Johnson, Jennie Pearl, Alene Cassel, etc. The costumes which are the most unique seen on any stage were selected from plates furnished by William H. Barnes.

Proctor's New Show.

The headliner at Proctor's theatre today will be a one act farce comedy entitled "Mrs. Scarritts' Burglar," presented by Clinton Amoss & Co., with a cast of several people.

No Argument Before Board.

The Corporation Counsel requests The Daily Press to state that on the appeal of the P. S. C. for reduction on the gas holder and buildings on its Watchung avenue property there was no argument before the Board of Equalization of Taxation. The only argument was among the representatives of the company and the city and the decree of the board was entered by agreement of counsel.

Local Marksmen Shine.

Sergeants George Apgar and Arthur Phillips, who represented Company K in the Battalion team shoot at Trenton on Saturday night distinguished themselves with fine shooting. The Second Battalion team, which included the local militiamen, won the shoot. Sergeant Apgar was high man on the winning team with a score of 92 and he also ranked high in the entire shoot.

DOG CATCHER STARTED ON HIS ROUNDS TODAY

Constant volleys of yelps and barks, the presence of a fellow running through the streets, chasing dogs with a giant net in on hand, in one hand in the downtown section this morning, made it known that the dog catcher has started on his duties. The catcher was up with the birds this morning and began operations on Park avenue at eight o'clock.

Stationing his wagon in front of the Plainfield theatre he made his rounds in the vicinity and captured a dozen dogs in less than one hour. From Park avenue and Second street he went to Front and Somerset street and gathered in another "bunch" of canines that were running around loose.

All of the captures were marked by more or less noise on the part of the unfortunate canines that barked and barked as they were imprisoned in the net and carried off to the pound wagon by the catcher.

Scores of persons who came down town without chains or leashes attached to their dogs got wise and carried their canines through the streets until they got out of reach of the dog catcher and his wagon. One fellow carried his dog on his bicycle as he passed the catcher.

While the dog catcher was busily engaged in his duty he was subjected to joshes all along the line, but what did he care? Every capture was worth 50 cents to him.

LADIES' CHRISTIAN WORK SOCIETY'S YEARLY SESSION.

Officers were elected and interesting reports presented at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society, of Trinity Reformed church yesterday afternoon. The review of the past year's work was encouraging to the women in undertaking plans for the coming year.

The women decided to hold a strawberry festival early in June. Mrs. Edward T. VanWinkle is chairman of the committee in charge and the date will be announced later.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Jennie Chickering, was most encouraging. The disbursements were $528.-04. There is in the sinking fund, for the furnishing of the church, $380.48 and the general balance is $15.74.

Eleven new members were elected during the year, making the total membership about sixty-five. During the year the society sent a box of clothing valued at $100 to a mission station at Summit, Ill.; also boxes and barrels of clothing to the Scofield School at Aiken, S. C., and a mission station at McKee, Ky., valued at several hundred dollars.

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability nad equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end, as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY PRESS

TO EXTEND THE SEWERS

Public Hearing on Night When Bids for Work Will Be Accepted.

FOR THE FINAL PASSAGE.

Gloak Also Has Passed to Third Besides an Ordinance for $30,000 Bonds for Street Improvements.

Among several proposed ordinances introduced at the May meeting of the Common Council last night was one presented by Chairman Gloak of the street committee, providing for an extension of the sanitary sewer system, and the installation of pumping stations and all other necessary equipment. The ordinance carried with it a provision for accepting bids for the necessary work on Monday night, June 6, and maps, plans, specifications, etc., were filed last night. The ordinance was adopted on two readings and ordered advertised and a public hearing will be granted on June 6.

The streets included in the extension of the sewage system are Monroe avenue to Sherman avenue, Hobart avenue, West Fourth and Fifth street, West Sixth street to Monroe avenue, West Seventh and Eighth streets, Sherman avenue, Plainfield avenue, Randolph road, Radcliffe street and East Front street.

Another ordinance offered by Mr. Gloak and adopted on two readings and ordered advertised, provided for the issuance of $30,000 worth of street improvement bonds, to date 1910, run for three years and bear interest at the rate of 4½ per cent. The streets to be improved on petition, shall be macadamized with a bituminous binder and be equal to the work on Union street, between Arlington and Stelle avenue. The work is to be given out by contract to the lowest bidder. The ordinance further provides for the appointment of commissioners by the court for the assessment of benefits and damages. A public hearing will be granted on the ordinance June 6.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

Every student is awaiting the result of Thursday's contest with Plainfield High. The team has displayed fast form in all of the games played so far and a victory over the city athletes is anticipated.

Dunning is hitting the ball hard. On Saturday he got a double and a single off Greene, the Westfield twirler.

Stine's catching is one of the strongest parts of the N. P. H. S. team. Stine's throwing to bases has been exceptionally fine.

Conroy got back in the game after a little lay off because of a slight injury. He registered a pair of safeties and scored a run.

C. Smith has been pitching such a splendid grade of ball that it is probable that he will be assigned to do the mound duties in Thursday's contest.

P. H. S. NOTES.

Edson Woodhull pitched a fast game for P. H. S. on Saturday. He struck out ten men. The opposing pitcher struck out three men.

Nash played his usual fast game on the initial sack. He put out eight men. His batting was excellent.

Zeraga made a fine showing on short. The ball had to be a pretty hot one to make him get out of the way.

Overton, who is not a regular player, substituted in the field and played a crack game. He got three hits and one run.

Captain VanZandt played in the field and pitched the last two innings.

Stephen R. Struthers will speak on "The Value of Memorial Day" at the High School tomorrow morning at 8:30.

The P. H. S. baseball team went to Newark this afternoon to play the Newark High School.

The prize compositions of the public schools of the city were due yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

That was a hot game with the El Cids last Sunday, but wait until the Puritans get here next Sunday. Sofield will probably be in the box for the locals.

The regular meeting of Court South Plainfield, I. O. F., was held last night in Washington Hall.

WHAT TO OBSERVE IN HEAVENS IN MAY

The United States Weather Bureau has sent out the following memorandum relative to observations to be made on May 17 and 18 especially, and 19. John Neagle requests those interested to assist him in making observations and report the same to him.

First. Auroral displays. Auroras serve as indicators of the electrical state of the outer atmosphere, and as this state possibly may be affected by the tail of the comet as we pass through it, auroras should be watched for at that time. The location, color, shape, extent, and other features as well as the times of appearance, changes and disappearance should all be carefully noted.

Second. Meteoric trails. The number, times of appearance, lengths of duration, and direction and lengths of visible paths of meteors should be noted on all three nights, but especially on the night of the eighteenth.

Third. Bishop's ring. This curious "dust" halo was seen around the sun after the eruptions both of Kragatoa and Mount Pele, and conceivably might also follow the passage of the earth through the tail of a comet. It therefore should be carefully looked for on the days specified, and, occasionally, for some days thereafter. As the light of this ring is rather faint, observations of it are best made when the sun is hidden behind some steeple or other opaque object.

Fourth. Color of the sun and sky. Both the general color of the sky and the color of the sun depend on the dust and other contents of the atmosphere, and should be carefully noted on the given dates.

Fifth. Twilight phenomena. Twilight colors, their distribution, and order of changes depend largely on the dust in the atmosphere, and, consequently, these are phenomena that need to be observed on the days indicated.

Sixth. Luminous clouds. Neither the material of these clouds nor the cause of their light is definitely known. They seem to belong to the very high atmosphere, and therefore should be looked for at night in connection with out transit across the comet's tail. These clouds are circus-like in appearance, but may be distinguished from thet rue cirrus by the fact that they are brighter than the background of the clear nocturnal sky. During the forepart of the night they are seen above the northwestern horizon.

Seventh. Zodiacal light. From work recently done at the Lick and at the Mount Wilson observatories it seems probable that the zodiacal light is caused by the reflection of solar light from dust in and near the plane of the ecliptic. If so, then a change might be expected in it at the time of the comet's near approach to the earth, and therefore the extent, brilliancy, and other features of the zodiacal light as they appear at that time should be carefully noted.

Eighth, Gegenschein (counter glow). But little is known of the cause of this faint glow seen in the ecliptic at a point directly opposite to the sun, or along the shadow of the earth. Presumably it has the same origin as the zodiacal light, and consequently may be modified during the transit of the earth across the tail of a comet. At any rate it should be observed on the nights mentioned, and its brilliancy at these times compared with that on nights when there certainly is no cometary disturbance. To locate the gegenschein at any hour of the night, look in the direction where the sun was twelve hours previously.

Ninth. General phenomena. Solar and lunar halos and coronas, and all other appearances that may seem unusual and worth noting.

*Owing to the position of the moon on the given dates it is probable that the most satisfactory night observations will be obtained during the last two or three hours before daylight.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leveridge and daughter, Miss Dorothy Leveridge, of Brooklyn, are making an extended visit with Mr. Leveridge's parents, Mr and Mrss. C. W. Leveridge, of Sherman avenue.

Mrs. Albert H. Jacoby, of the Hotel Knickerbocker, New York, is making an extended visit with Mrs. John J. Shafer, of East Front street. Mrs. Jacoby will eave next month for the south, where she will join her husband, who is located in that part of the country.

Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Kellogg, of Lake Delavan Wis., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Newell, of Sherman avenue. Dr. Kellogg has retired from the practice of medicine and with Mrs. Kellogg spends the winter months in Cuba and the summers in Northern Wisconsin.

CONTRACTS AWARDED BY EDUCATION BOARD

At the meeting of the Board of Education last night several contracts were awarded for the supplies for the new Jefferson school, among which were the following: Mitchell, Vance Co., electrical and gas fixtures, $363.77; J. L. Hammett Co., school supplies and stationery, $1,663.56; general furniture, including teachers' desks, etc., John Wanamaker, of New York. The amount involved in this item is $432.92.

Tax Collector William R. Townsend reported the receipts of $536.31 on account of school taxes and no report was received from the custodian of school moneys.

Nothing outside of routine business occupied the attention of the board excepting the consideration of an application of the school medical examiners, who believe that they are entitled to at least as much as the dental examiners. On the suggestion of President Lovell this matter was laid over.

—Tickets for the coming jubilee of Knights Templar for the special excursion train are now on sale at J. Hervey Doane's, Liefke and Laing's and Schriener's drug store. These tickets are not merely limited to members of Trinity Commandery but to all the friends of the Commandery of the city of Plainfield who may desire to witness the splendid pageant which the Knights Templar of New Jersey will present on May 10. The cost of these tickets will be but $1.20 for the round trip, made possible through the courtesy of the Commandery which has not secured a special train for purpose of profit but to afford its friends the same privileges of railroad accommodations which the Commandery possesses. Don't fail to secure your ticket early to insure your securing one.

The Man in Lower Ten

By Mary Roberts Rinehart
Author of The Circular Staircase

Illustrations by M. J. KETTNER

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

"The truth can't hurt me," he said, "but it's devilish unpleasant. Alison, you know all this. You would better go out."

His use of her name crazed me. I stepped in front of her and stood over him. "You will not bring Miss West into the conversation," I threatened, "and she will stay if she wishes."

"Oh, very well," he said with assumed indifference.

Hotchkiss just then escaped from Richey's grasp and crossed the room.

"Did you ever wear glasses?" he asked eagerly.

"Never." Sullivan glanced with some contempt at mine.

"I'd better begin by going back a little," he went on sullenly. "I suppose you know I was married to Ida Harrington about five years ago. She was a good girl, and I thought a lot of her. But her father opposed the marriage—he'd never liked me, and he refused to make any sort of settlement.

Johnson Ushered in a Tall Blonde Man, a Stranger to All Of Us.

"I had thought, of course, that there would be money, and it was a bad day when I found out I'd made a mistake. My sister was wild with disappointment. We were pretty hard up, my sister and I."

I was watching Alison. Her hands were tightly clasped in her lap, and she was staring out of the window at the cheerless roof below. She had set her lips a little, but that was all.

"You understand, of course, that I'm not defending myself," went on the sullen voice. "The day came when old Harrington put us both out of the house at the point of a revolver, and I threatened—I suppose you know that, too—I threatened to kill him.

"My sister and I had hard times after that. We lived on the continent for a while. I was at Monte Carlo and she was in Italy. She met a young lady there, the granddaughter of a steel manufacturer and an heiress, and she sent for me. When I got to Rome the girl was gone. Last winter I was all in—social secretary to an Englishman, a wholesale grocer with a new title, but we had a row, and I came home. I went out to the Heaton boys' ranch in Wyoming, and met Bronson there. He lent me money, and I've been doing his dirty work ever since."

Sullivan got up then and walked slowly forward and back as he talked, his eyes on the faded pattern of the office rug.

"If you want to live in hell," he said savagely, "put yourself in another man's power. Bronson got into trouble, forging John Gilmore's name to those notes, and in some way he learned that a man was bringing the papers back to Washington on the Flier. He even learned the number of his berth, and the night before the wreck, just as I was boarding the train, I got a telegram."

Hotchkiss stepped forward once more importantly.

"Which read, I think: 'Man with papers in lower ten, car seven. Get them.'"

Sullivan looked at the little man with sulky blue eyes.

"It was something like that, anyhow. But it was a nasty business, and it made matters worse that he didn't care that a telegram which must pass through a half dozen hands was more or less incriminating to me.

"Then, to add to the unpleasantness of my position, just after we boarded the train— I was accompanying my sister and this young lady, Miss West—a woman touched me on the sleeve, and I turned to face—my wife!

"That took away my last bit of nerve. I told my sister, and you can understand she was in a bad way, too. We knew what it meant. Ida had heard that I was going—"

He stopped and glanced uneasily at Alison.

"Go on," she said coldly. "It is too late to shield me. The time to have done that was when I was your guest."

"Well," he went on, his eyes turned carefully away from my face, which must have presented certainly anything but a pleasant sight. "Miss West was going to do me the honor to marry me, and—"

"You scoundrel!" I burst forth, thrusting past Alison West's chair. "You—you infernal cur!"

One of the detectives got up and stood between us.

"You must remember, Mr. Blakeley, that you are forcing this story from this man. These details are unpleasant, but important. You were going to marry this young lady," he said, turning to Sullivan, "although you already had a wife living?"

"It was my sister's plan, and I was in a bad way for money. If I could marry, secretly, a wealthy girl and go to Europe, it was unlikely that Ida—that is, Mrs. Sullivan—would hear of it.

NEWS AND NOTES
BY GEORGE E. FIRSTBROOK

SOUTH PLAINFIELDS ARE VICTORIOUS AT RAHWAY.

That the South Plainfields are playing fast ball was demonstrated on Sunday when Manager McDonough's combination journeyed to Rahway and defeated the strong El Cid A. C. of that place by the score of 2 to 1. The Mullin brothers put up a gilt edged article of ball and the snappy playing of the entire infield was a feature of the game. Ramsberger made his initial appearance on third sack and made a favorable impression. The lineups:

GESANG'S BALL TOSSERS WIN A HARD CONTEST.

The Gesang and Turn Verein's fast ball team added another victory to its string on Saturday by defeating the classy West End Field Club aggregation by the score of 7 to 6. Van Droof's sensational work in the box for the Turners was a distinct feature of the game, the youthful slab artist fanning out twelve batters. Fulton, the West End's twirler, also performed well and had eleven strikeouts. The West End boys rallied in the ninth but were unable to get more than one tally across the plate. The lineups:

Gesang and Turn Verein—E. Luthman, 1b; Klinsman, ss; Becker, 3b; Van Droof, p; Hansen, 2b; Moran, c; Hann, lf; Allen, cf; Post, rf; Luthman, cf.

TWO-MAN TEAMS RESUME PLAY TONIGHT.

Only one series was rolled in the two-man tourney at Campbell's alleys last week and as none of the leading teams were engaged, the leadership was not affected by the result.

Miller and G. Ortleb continue in the lead but have a hard series ahead of them tomorrow night when they meet Nash and Causbrook and Koons and Willett.

The schedule for the week is:

Tuesday, Kiely and Stout, Herbert and Campbell and Terry and Conklin. Wednesday, Koons and Willett, Nash and Causbrook and Miller and G. Ortleb. Friday, Radin and Britton, Laing and Blatz, Taylor and O'Keefe.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS ANOTHER COMMISSION

Governor Fort today appointed the following as members of the commission to investigate the subject of employers' liability as authorized by the Legislature: William D. Dickinson, Montclair; J. William Clark, Newark; Samuel Botterill, East Orange; Harry Leavitt, of Mercer, and Assemblyman Walter Edge, of Atlantic, are also members. Mr. Dickinson is first vice-president of the United Steel Corporation.

The fact that the steel corporation has inaugurated the system of providing for its employes was one of the motives which induced the Governor to appoint Mr. Dickinson. Mr. Clark is of the Clark Thread Company, Newark, which is one of the largest employers of labor in the State. Mr. Botterill is president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and Mr. Cosgrove is president of the State Building Trades League.

MASONS AND BRICKLAYERS MAY NOT GET HIGHER WAGES

No settlement has been arrived at between the Masons and Bricklayers' Union and the bosses of the demand made by the journeymen for an increased wage rate. The journeymen held a protracted meeting last night and all returned to work this morning. It was reported this morning that the business agent of the International Union will visit town tonight in an effort to adjust the matter.

According to the bosses side of the controversey the chances are that they will be no increase in the rate of wages this year. The master masons declare they will stick to the old scale.

Francis Rogers Coming.

A May morning of song under the direction of Joseph McIntyre will be given by Francis Rogers, baritone, of New York, at the residence of Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., Belvidere avenue, on May 25. The affair is bound to be a delightful event both artistically and socially. Mr. Rogers has just returned from a trans-continental tour with Madame Sembrich where he shared the triumphs of the famous prima donna and great interest is felt in his appearance here.

Proctor's Good Show.

The Three Sylvesters, appearing at Proctor's theatre, are a riot of fun. There is plenty of good comedy and when Larry, Jr., appears in his clever singing and dancing act, he makes a hit. Clinton Amoss & Co., in "Mrs. Scareitts' Burglar," is a fine act. The Three Judges are exceptionally clever as acrobats, with a number of new tricks. Wallace Mackey, a good ventriloquist, and the pictures complete a fine bill.

CITY FATHERS RECEIVE REPORTS AND PETITIONS

Residents of the West End renewed their request to the Common Council, last night, in reference to extending Dunellen avenue and joining it with Myrtle avenue in the borough, calling attention to the many benefits that would be derived from the improvement, providing a thoroughfare free from car tracks and other objectionable features. The matter was referred to the committee on streets.

The Public Service Corporation notified the Council that it had erected seven electric lights as ordered and that thew are now in service. The usual request was received from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., for an appropriation for the observance of Memorial Day. The matter was referred.

Residents of Radcliffe place asked for sanitary sewers and this was referred to the sewer committee. The agreement between the city and the Spicer Universal Joint Company, for the blowing of the fire alarm was received and ordered filed.

The result of the recent water election was officially reported by the Boards of Election and Registry and ordered entered on the minutes at large.

MAJOR W. B. MARTIN ATTENDS CO. K DRILL

Major W. B. Martin was among the distinguished visitors at the drill of Co. K last night when Captain Kitchell put the men through their maneuvres and was also present at the business meeting which followed. At the latter session it was announced that the outdoor drills would be resumed next Monday.

Sergeant A. R. Tranchand was present and bade good bye to the boys as he stars today for New Orleans. Sergeant Tranchand received the good wishes of the whole company in his future work and they all expressed sorrow at losing him from the company. Next Monday night an election will be held to select a successor to Corporal Samuel Rothberg, who has completed five years of active service and who leaves with regret. Corporal "Sam" has always been looked upon as one of the standbys of the company and only resigns because duties in another direction demands his time.

When asked this morning what he would do in case for the services of the company became necessary in an emergency, Sam said "I'd stand with the company first, last and all the time and with the country forever."

Closed Out Barber Business.

Theodore H. Kurzhalls, Jr., one of the oldest established barbers in this city, closed his shop on East Second street on Saturday night. Mr. Kurzhals found it necessary to sacrifice his business owing to ill health.

CITY FATHERS ENDORSE PHTHISIS HOME PLAN

During a suspension of business at the May meeting of the Common Council, last night, the privileges of the floor were extended to William Dutcher, president of the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, to explain the advantages of the proposed plan to establish a hospital in the county for the care and treatment of tuberculosis patients. Dr. F. E. DuBois, also an officer of the league, was present but did not speak.

Mr. Dutcher made a brief address after a communication from the Board of Freeholders was read. In this letter it was stated that a resolution had been adopted by the board favoring the plant and requested the Council for its endorsement. A communication was also received from the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield urging favorable action.

Bill No. 362, passed at the recent session of the Legislature of Freeholders power to establish such hospitals, was explained by Mr. Dutcher. He explained what had been done and what is being done in Plainfield through the league to stay the progress of the disease. Later in the evening the city fathers on motion of Mr. Mygatt endorsed the "county plan," the matter having been referred to the committee on public affairs. The Board of Freeholders will be informed of this action.

SEWER COMMISSION RELIEVED BY COUNCIL

The special sewer commission, of which Councilman F. E. Mygatt is the chairman, reported at the May meeting of the Common Council last night, the result of its conference with the North Plainfield commission, as published exclusively in The Daily Press last week, and upon his motion the commission was discharged. It was explained by Mr. Mygatt that the commission took the position that all further communication or business should be considered directly by the governing bodies of the two municipalities.

Mr. Mygatt stated that the commission made a proposition that Plainfield bear seventy per cent. of the cost of construction, and North Plainfield thirty per cent., but that the borough representatives wanted Plainfield to pay seventy-five per cent. and North Plainfield twenty-five per cent. He said that the commissions were "dead-locked" on the proposition and the Plainfield representatives hearing nothing further from the borough commission recommended that the Plainfield commission be discharged. He said that the city representatives would not agree to the borough's proposition, not being willing to recommend its proposition to the Common Council. The matter will rest where it is for the present unless the borough makes another move.

AT THE TRACK.

The Cedarhurst Cup, at about four miles, was the big event at the steeplechase meet at Cedarhurst, L. I., Saturday; resulting in an exciting finish between Malcolm Stevenson's Diana, ridden by her owner, and Peter Hauck, Jr.'s Essex B, with Hugh Gormley up. J. E. Davis' Relentless, her owner riding, started right out to set the pace, but tired after going three miles and gave way to Diana, closely followed by Essex B. The two horses kept together and when they straightened out for home were inches apart. Neck and neck they came down the stretch, both riders whipping furiously, and after they went under the winner was in doubt until the judges announced that Diana had come in first by a scant head.

Plainfield Clericus Meets.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Clericus held yesterday at the home of Rev. Sydney Cross, on Lenox avenue, Westfield. Rev. Harris C. Rush, president of the Clericus, read a paper on "The Clergyman's Reading." The officers elected for the ensuing year were: President, Rev. Sydney Cross; secretary-treasurer, Rev. Clarence S. Wood, of Roselle. The executive committee consists of Rev. Harris C. Rush, Rev. Charles L. Cooder and Rev. Dr. William H. Neilson.

Will Give "Twelfth Night."

SCHOOL TEAMS ON EDGE

Big Interest Centered in P. H. S.-N.P.H.S. Baseball Game Tomorrow Afternoon.

BOTH SIDES ARE CONFIDENT.

Managers of Both Sides Name Their Strongest Batting Orders—Records of Rival Teams.

When the ball tossers of the Plainfield High and North Plainfield High clash on Crescent Oval in the first battle for local scholastic diamond honors tomorrow afternoon, it will be a case of Greek meeting Greek. Athletic contests between city and borough institutions are always marked with keen rivalry and tomorrow's game is sure to be one of the biggest events in school sports of the season.

They're all talking about it. Not only the students and members of the faculties of the two schools are interested in the impending fray, but the alumnis of both schools will be largely represented at the game. The victorious team is hard to select as the season is early and neither nine has displayed signs of steadiness.

Both sides are naturally confident of a triumph. Manager Howard Runyon, of the P. H. S. combination, declared this morning, "I don't see how we can lose, I anticipate an easy victory."

Russell Conroy, the captain of the borough nine, is equally as confident. He said: "I expect that we will win the game by our batting. Everybody is hitting the ball hard and we are sure to give a lot of troubles to the P. H. S.'s twirlers."

The P. H. S. nine has been traveling along a rocky road since the opening of the season, but yesterday's victory over Newark High caused a lot of jubilation and boosted the hopes among the corhorts of the city line. Plainfield up to date has figured in ten contests, five of which were victories and five losses, but in the aggregate number of games played, Plainfield has tallied 67 runs to 43 runs scored by opposing teams.

Manager Howard Runyon announced this morning that the P. H. S. batting order will be as follows: Captain Van Zandt will start the game in the box and it is possible that Terry will wind up the game. The line-up follows:

North Plainfield High has participated in seven contests, six of which were victories. The borough athletes made a better showing against New Brunswick and Roselle than the city team, and if comparisons count for anything, the borough team should reign as a favorite.

The borough team smothered New Brunswick by a score of 25 to 2, while it took P. H. S. extra innings to win a 11 to 10 verdict last Saturday; N. P. H. S. annexed Roselle's scalp by a score of 7 to 1, while the city team worked hard to beat the latter team by a 2 to 0 score.

Captain Conroy announced the probable line-up of N. P. H. S. as follows: Taylor, second base; J. Bailey, first base; P. Bailey, shortstop; C. Smith, pitcher; H. Smith, left field; Adams or Townley, centre field; Conroy, third base; Dunning, right field; Stine, catcher; Walker, substitute.

Here are the records of the rival teams to date:

Plainfield High—P. H. S., 1; Somerville, 2. P. H. S., 2; Camp Bowser, 7. P. H. S., 5; Boys' High, Brooklyn, 7. P. H. S., 18; Hasbrouck, 2. P. H. S., 2; Morris High, 3. P. H. S., 2; Roselle High, 0. P. H. S., 6; Poly Prep, 5. P. H. S., 3; Montclair, 4. P. H. S., 11; New Brunswick, 10. P. H. S., 17; Newark High, 3.

North Plainfield High—N. P. H. S., 5; Alumni, 6. N. P. H. S., 12; Alumni, 2. N. P. H. S., 9; Bound Brook, 3. N. P. H. S., 27; Rahway, 3. N. P. H. S., 25; New Brunswick, 2. N. P. H. S., 7; Roselle High, 1. N. P. H. S., 10; Westfield High, 1.

GEORGE ALBERT PASSED AWAY THIS MORNING

George Albert, one of the best known residents of Scotch Plains, passed away at 7:30 o'clock this morning after an illness of three months duration. Mr. Albert was a native of Germany and had been a resident of Scotch Plains for twenty-five years, during which time he was employed as night watchman at Seeley's Paper Mills.

The funeral service will be conducted at his late home on Montague avenue at that place on Friday morning at 8 o'clock, and at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church, where a solemn requiem mass will be celebrated. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Albert are a wife and six children. Five sons, Anthony, Nicholas, John Henry and Joseph, reside at Scotch Plains and a daughter, Mrs. William Stewart, who lives in this city.

DEACON SHEDS TEARS, MUST KILL HIS HORSE

Spencer Conway, the owner of a horse which will be remembered as an exhibit among the animals submitted for inspection of the Mayor and the S. P. C. A. last Saturday, will remain but a memory, as under the decision of Judge Runyon rendered this morning, the horse will have to be shot.

Deacon Conway tried hard to convince Judge Runyon this morning that he was not directly responsible for the lamentable condition of the animal which excited pity and anger in the judges of the exhibition on Saturday afternoon. The deacon protested loudly that his "hired help" had harnessed the horse and that they should have reported the condition of the poor animal to him. "Why," he said, "that mare got a feed of four and five quarts of oats three times a day and she had no business to be thin. I can prove by the man who sells me the feed that I bought enough to keep her in fine shape, but somehow or other she didn't flesh up like she ought to have done."

Judge Runyon listened patiently to the aged negro's rambling talk about why his animal was not in the best of condition, but after hearing the testimony of Veterinary Dr. F. C. Herbert decided that the deacon's horse had no excuse for living and suffering any longer and ordered Mr. Conway to have the animal in his barn tomorrow morning so that she may be destroyed in a humane way. It is said that the mare was sent to New Market by Conway to get her out of the way.

The case was prosecuted with much vigor by Mrs. Stephen G. VanHoesen, the S. P. C. A. special agent.

OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED BY BUZZARDS' CLUB.

An interesting meeting was held by the Buzzards' Club, in Buzzards' Roost, Babcock building, last night. The newly elected officers were installed as follows: Secretary, Edward Koechlein; sergeant-at-arms, Harry Doty; house committee, William Hoffman, chairman; Roy Lee, George Cole.

The chief subject discussed was the proposed May walk which will take place May 15. Chairman Niles reported for the committee and his remarks were met with favor. The committee has arranged to have steamed clams, lobster, cigars and refreshments on the grounds at the termination of the walk. A subcommittee composed of Raymond Harvey, Frank Denton and Wallace Hill was appointed to prepare a program of sports. Final arrangements will be made at a special meeting of the club next Tuesday night.

The reports of Treasurer Harry Hoffman and the retiring secretary, Edward R. Honeyman, were read and showed the club to be in a good financial standing. Several applications for membership were received and laid over to the special meeting next week.

NO MANUAL TRAINING FOR DUNELLEN SCHOOL

The proposition to add manual training to the curriculum of the Dunellen public schools, for which an appropriation of $500 was asked, was voted down at the annual school meeting at that place last night. John Y. Wilson was the only one to oppose manual training in a speech, but the opponents of the proposition had sufficient votes to defeat it by a vote of 33 to 11.

The remainder of the budget, which included $4,900 for current expenses, an increase of $200 over last year, and $300 for school repairs, was unanimously endorsed.

Forty-seven voters attended the meeting which was held in the borough hall. Rev. Ernest O. Brown acted as chairman of the meeting and Professor Guy H. Reutschler acted as clerk.

'PLAINS FIRE CHIEF SLAYS A MAD DOG

Residents of Scotch Plains had the thrills of a mad dog scare this morning which terminated in the killing of the mad canine by Fire Chief Charles Meyer. The dog was a brindle bull belonging to Lynus Walpole, of that place.

Just as the children of the village were going to school shortly before 9 o'clock the brindle bull rushed down the middle of Park avenue, barking savagely and snapping at dogs on the way. Strange to say the canine made no attempt to attack the passing children but lent its efforts toward chasing other dogs, several of which were bitten.

News that a mad dog was creating havoc brought scores of villagers from their homes to the street. One was Fire Chief Meyer. Sizing up the situation he secured his revolver and followed the dog to Mountain avenue where he killed the animal.

RESIDENTS OF W. FRONT ST. WANT ADDITIONAL LIGHTS

Residents of West Front street, between Giraud and Grant avenues, are greatly interested in a plan to secure additional lights for that thoroughfare which is now so poorly lighted. On the west side of that street, between the points named, there is just one light, and now that the foliage is coming out, it is entirely inadequate. The street is narrow at that point. There are double car tracks and several accidents have occurred there. According to the records of the police department women have been stopped between Plainfield and Grant avenues.

It is the intention of the residents to present a petition to the Common Council soon asking for additional electric lights. The Councilmen of the Fourth ward have promised to give their support to this matter and there is no doubt but that the improvement will be granted.

GAVE DELIGHTFUL RECITAL OF "THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE."

Edward A. Mead, of New York, gave a recital of "The Servant in the House," before a small but appreciative audience in Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church last night. Mr. Mead stated at the outset that the absence of so many people was no doubt due to the fact that the play of that name is to appear in this city soon.

However, Mr. Mead's interpretation of the story was delightful and true to every line. The various characters were presented in a finished and pleasing manner and Mr. Mead held the close attention of everyone for more than an hour as he told the strong and impressive story of "The Servant in the House."

Nelson A. Miller, as president of the Brotherhood, under whose auspices the affair was given, presided and introduced Mr. Mead.

FETE FOR PLAYGROUNDS

City Commission Plans for Spectacular Entertainment at the City Park.

MAY 26, 27 AND 28 THE DATES.

More Than 300 Young People Will Participate in the Spectacle Which Will Be Directed by Miss Florence.

Plans were set in action last night, at a meeting of the City Playgrounds Commission, at Y. M. C. A. hall last night, for a unique out-door fete, which will be participated in by more than 300 young people, at the city park, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the interests of city play grounds for children.

The entertainment is carded for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 26, 27 and 28, and will be conducted under the supervision of Miss Florence, of Elizabeth. The event will be similar in character to the Kirmess which was given for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital in 1908. There will be costume dances and other features and arrangements will be made to illuminate the park brilliantly for the spectacle.

The object of the entertainment is to provide a fund for the maintenance of two city playgrounds that are about to be equipped, the maintenance of the athletic field and play-ground soon to be turned over to the city by A. McLean Parker and the establishment of other playgrounds in congested districts of the city, particularly in the west end.

As a result of the purchase of equipment for playgrounds at the Bryant and Stillman schools the city appropriation of $1,000 for that purpose, is about exhausted. It is expected to have the apparatus established at these grounds within three weeks, and funds are needed to provide for the expense of supervision.

It is hoped that sufficient funds will be realized from the proposed outdoor fete to meet all needs of the Commission for this year. In connection with the promotion of the entertainment, it is the plans of the Commission to carry on a city-wide campaign of education as to the needs and value of play grounds for children in this city.

The Commission elected H. E. Parker, temporary secretary, and also appointed the folowing committees for the fete.

Frederick Smith, the organist and choirmaster. Besides the orchestral music under the direction of Martin A. Korff, the choir will sing a quartet of selections which will be worth hearing.

The program includes Gounod's "Praise Ye the Father," Gloria, from Mozart's Twelfth Mass; Barnby's "King All Glorious," and the two wedding marches, Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's from "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Chester Chamberlain, the boy soprano soloist, will sing two numbers and a male quartet will also take part. The concert promises to be one of the best of the season.

Sent Back to Summit.

John Nelson, fifty-five years old, was taken into custody by Patrolman McCarthy yesterday afternoon when the officer discovered him loitering in the neighborhood of Belvidere avenue and acting suspiciously about a vacant house. Judge Runyon told Nelson this morning to go back to Summit, where he claimed to have been employed.

MR. EDWARD'S WORK ATTRACTS COMMENT

There is a wealth of variety in the forty-third annual exhibition of the American Water Color Society at the American Fine Arts galleries, New York. This comment of a celebrated art critic will be of especial interest here:

"One feels the breath of the sea and the rise and fall of the staunch boat in the picture of "The Fishermen," by George Wharton Edwards, who may be styled the master of the water colorists as exemplified in the present show. Two sturdy fishermen in heavy coats, with hats pulled well down over their heads, are seen pulling at their oars, and the feeling of action expressed by the artist is gripping. It is one of the best examples of art in the lighter medium and an interesting study of life on the ocean wave."

SERVANT IN THE HOUSE COMES HERE SATURDAY

Few well-known actresses in America are able even if they are willing, to share their husband's work and prove a genuinely helpful ally in practical plans for artistic movement. One of the rare exceptions is Edith Crane, who is the wife of Tyrone Power, creator of the famous Drain-man role in "The Servant in The House," which will be seen at the Plainfield theatre Saturday, matinee and night, May 7. Miss Crane is leading woman of the Henry Miller Associated Players, the New York company headed by Mr. Power. The acting of these two distinguished players looms large in the great success of the play. That is as much as the public knows. But away from the theatre, husband and wife are strenuously at work on the preliminary details of a production that will be made next year, and a play in which, as it chances, there is no big femine role for Miss Crane. It is an elaborate revival of Shakespeare's "King Lear" in which Henry Miller has promised to star Tyrone Power.

NO MORE SUNDAY GAMES AT 'PLAINS.

Manager Joseph Albert, of the Scotch Plains baseball club, announced today that he had received notice from John Coles, the lessee of the grounds which the club used for a baseball park, that no games may be played on the tract. Mr. Albert stated that he will abide by the decision of Mr. Coles in the matter and will not attempt to play any Sunday or Saturday games on the land.

Mr. Albert also declared that Sunday games would be discontinued for the present at least. He intimated that other grounds would be secured.

Caught Twenty-nine Dogs.

A dog belonging to J. M. Hawkins, of 437 East Seventh street, which has been under observation for the past few days, broke away slipping his collar over his head yesterday and is now at large. Dr. Butler, the veterinary, believes the animal has rabies, symptoms of which were shown when it was placed under observation. Dogcatcher Keiderling corraled twenty-nine dogs yesterday, but Mr. Hawkins' animal was not among the number.

An Appeal for Memorial Day.

Stephen R. Struthers, of West Front street, a veteran of the Civil War, addressed the pupils of the Plainfield High School this morning on the subject of 'Memorial Day." He made an appeal for the co-operation of all pupils this year in making Memorial Day all that it should be.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. SIDNA R. VAIL HELD

The funeral of Mrs. Sidna R. Vail, mother of Charles E. Vail, who died on Sunday at the home of the latter, was held from the meeting-house of the Religious Society of Friends on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Vail was a life-long member of this society and always a regular attendant of the services, until she met with an accident which caused her death.

The services were impressive, being in conformity to the custom of the Friends. William D. Williams, also a member of the society, offered prayer and spoke of the exemplary Christian life of the departed; also of her devotion to her family and home. Following the remarks the rest of the service was given up to meditation on the part of the mourners.

The burial was in the cemetery in the rear of the meeting-house, and the pall-bearers, all grandsons of Mrs. Vail, were Ephraim Vail, Horace Vail, Eden Vail, Benjamin Vail, Alebtr Vail and Walter Vail.

BOROUGH DISAPPOINTED OVER THE CITY'S ACTION

No small amount of adverse criticism is being voiced by boroughites of the action of the Plainfield Common Council in discharging its representatives on the city-borough commission for a joint sewage disposal system. As told yesterday, the city fathers at their regular monthly meeting on Monday night relieved the committee from further work at the suggestion of the chairman, Frederick E. Mygatt, who advised that all further business in that connection should be considered directly by the respective governing bodies. Explaination was made by him that the joint commission was unable to arrive at an agreement. The city's representatives, he stated, proposed that Plainfield bear seventy per cent of the expense while the borough representatives took the position that the city assume seventy-five per cent of the financial burden.

When a member of the borough sewer commission was seen today concerning the action of the city's governing body, he expressed himself as displeased at the unexpected attitude of the city. "There is no reason why we could not get together and arrive at some satisfactory agreement," said this man. "But the action of the city, it seems from what I can learn has now placed us in the position that we must go ahead independently. This will mean a greater expense to both places for each has to have a new plant. It would have been cheaper to build one big plant for the use of both.

"If I remember right, the original proposition was that the city should bear seventy-five percent of the cost but for some reason I don't know they wanted to insist that the city only stand for seventy per cent."

There will be some definite action taken at the meeting of the Council on Friday night. At that session a report is expected from North Plainfield's commission which it is understood will be asked to continue its valuable services.

P. C. C. PLAN HOUSE OPENING AND FIELD DAY.

The Plainfield Country Club has issued invitations for the annual house opening and field day to be held Saturday. Club members and all members of the Park Club, Park olf Club and Watchung Hunt Club are cordially invited. The privileges of the golf course and tennis courts will be extended to all guests throughout the day and there will be a house committee reception from 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon, with music and dancing in the evening from 8 to 11 o'clock.

Stages will connect with all cars, afternoon and evening. Guests as well as members may obtain luncheon or dinner, or both, at the usual rates, by telephoning their orders to John Hilton, superintendent, not later than Friday, May 6. Tables will be reserved for parties, to the full capacity of the club, in the order of application.

May Party for Miss Overton.

Eighteen young folk of the Washington Park section were the guests at a May party given on Monday afternoon in honor of little Miss Penelope Overton, daughter of Mr. and and Mrs. T. C. Overton, at the latter's home, 31 Rockview avenue. There was dancing around a May pole and other amusements for the guests and the affair was very enjoyable.

CONDITIONS IN SCHOOLS

Parent-Teacher Association Sends an Interesting Report to Education Board.

CONTENTS NOT GIVEN OUT.

Mr. Moy Makes Unsuccessful Effort for Publicity—Mr. Maxson's Statement as to His Position.

Wilbert H. Smith, an engineer of New York city, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association in the Franklin School assembly room last night. Mr. Smith was secured through the good offices of A. B. McNeeley and interested the audience with his descriptions of the present ventilating system in the public schools of this city.

A report was read by Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, chairman of the committee on sanitation which created a stir, which will be remembered for a long time by all the members of the association, and resulted in the appointment of a committee, of which Howard Williams is chairman, to take up the matters suggested by Mrs. Simons' report and refer them to the Board of Education.

It transpired that in one of the schools thirty-nine children in the kindergarten are compeled to drink from one cup and an absence of a toilet in the Franklin School compels a pupil to walk nearly a block. Some discussion arose as to the desirability of making these matters public, but in the opinion of George W. V. Moy, who spoke in favor of the open discussion of public matters, the greater the better and the more speedy the publicity the better results for all.

It is remembered that this same question came up about a year ago and nothing was done to relieve the situation, nor, in fact, as far as is known no attention was paid to the then existing conditions. The discussion of Mrs. Simons' report led to a most exciting debate in which several of the women members of the association took an active part.

"The concealment of facts vitally interesting to the public at large, especially where they refer to the children of taxpayers who are entitled to all the consideration which an up-to-date public school system should provide, does not seem to be the proper thing in this city, where the lives of our children are concerned from the standpoint of hygiene or any other thing."

This statement from George W. V. Moy, this morning, merely emphasizes the condition which confronted those present at the meeting last night and the end it not yet.

"We do not want this resolution published," said several of the women and their reason was that they did not want the board of education criticized, so they said. "But the facts remain," said Mr. Moy today, "publicity under present conditions is worth lots of recrimination later. Publicity will make the necessary reforms quicker and better." Superintendent H. M. Maxson, who with President Leander Lovell, of the Board of Education, opposed publication of the proceedings, said this morning:

"I arose not to oppose publicity, but to favor it; only it seemed to me that if the reports were printed in the form in which they were read, they would be taken by the casual reader in a different spirit from that which the writers intended. I knew that they were written in a kindly, helpful spirit, but there were quite a number of minor things included, which were mere matters of housekeeping and when understood were not objectionable, but were, in fact, to be commended, yet the public, reading them in the way in which they were presented, would take them as criticsm. If the reports were to be printed, these matters would better be left out, and attention concentrated on the main points, like better ventilation, the need of a toilet for the Franklin building, additional school accommodations, etc. These are matters of vital importance. Publicity will help attain them. I am sure the Board of Education would be glad to have all possible help in procuring the money to get them."

"I also suggested that the reports be presented to the Board of Education in condensed form, with specific requests, so that the Board would have definite issues to consider."

Haberle Must Support Family.

John Haberle, of North Plainfield township, who was arrested for non-support of his family, and had a hearing before Justice Hughes last night, furnished $200 bonds that he would pay eight dollars a week to his wife and children.

On Service and How We Interpret It.

To serve some people or some person is the primary aim of every man and every institution. Whether the service be well or poorly rendered makes the measure of the success of the individual or the enterprise.

Our endeavor is to serve you, and to this task we bring all the best that our head and hands have to offer.

Watchful eyes are arways scanning the business horizon, following the trend of merchandise events, ever ready to take advantage of the changing market, so that you may benefit.

Busy brains are continually planning new methods of serving your interests and convenience, keeping in constant touch with the best manufacturers here and abroad, seeing to it that what they send us represents their best outputs, goods worthy to serve your needs.

Willing hands are ever ready to wait upon you, rendering careful and intelligent service, striving to supply all of your wants, big and little, with efficiency and dispatch.

That you have signified your approval of our methods is shown by the large measure of our success. We shall certainly strive to more and more merit your approval by our ever growing proficiency in serving your needs.

The Telephone—
A Friend in Need

WITH a telephone at home, the business man does not feel the urgent necessity of being at the office.

Without a telephone, frequently he goes to business when he should stay indoors, sometimes thus developing a serious sickness from a slight indisposition. A telephone would keep him in touch with his place of business, and his place of business in touch with him, so that all ordinary affairs of the day would go on as though he were at his post.

It does not matter how far a man lives from his office, for Bell Telephone Service is both Local and Long Distance.

ELKS' NINE RAPIDLY GETTING IN SHAPE

Under the direction of Hoyt and Woolston the Plainfield Elk's diamond stars are getting in fighting trim for their season which will open the latter part of the month. Negotiations are now underway for games with Newark, Elizabeth and New Brunswick teams.

George Johnston is now in line for the appointment of manager. Sir George, because of his past experiences in the managerial line, is sure to make a capital pilot for the nine. If the honor goes his way, George declares that he will emulate the example of Johnny McGraw, of playing the game on the coaching lines in a uniform.

Walter McNaughton is nearly sure of the job as catcher and the chances are that Marcus Hoyt will be the regular twirler. Marcus declares he is 137 per cent. faster than when he starred on the Peapack Blue Stockings a dozen years ago.

Besides being a Kroh, the Chicago pitcher is a night owl, which accounts for the fine that was recently slapped on him.

One thing the census man overlooked in his cross examination blank was the eternal question, "Who is the greatest player, Cobb or Wagner?"

Notwithstanding the Aldrich controversy, the Halley comet and the big dust kicked up by Roosevelt in Europe, the Chicago White Sox are still the hitless wonders.

MAJOR GORDON'S INDIANS TO GIVE AN EXHIBITION.

Major Gordon's conclave of Indian chiefs and historical extravaganza to appear here at the carnival to be held under the auspices of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, in June, will be one of the big outdoor events of the summer. The affair will be held on West Front street, near Grant avenue, and promises to exceed any heretofore planned by the Knights of Columbus. The show is so different from anything of the kind ever given here that it is sure to prove a pleasing surprise. The shows are all clean and high-class and the committee in charge has satisfied itself beyond question as to the moral character of each exhibition.

The educational features displayed in the big Indian village, where one will see the Indians living as they did hundreds of years ago, the blanket weavers and other Indian industries all in operation, together with the famous chiefs, hard-working squaws, cute little babies and many other interesting features, will prove of interest to old and young alike.

The trading post will be another point of much local interest as this will be operated by members of the Knights of Columbus, who will appear in full Indian regalia and who are now busy learning the Indian language, including that of the Sioux, Iroquois and Winnebago. The big historical extravaganza, of course, will be the real feature and the committee is now ready to receive applications from all young people who desire to participate. Applications should be made to J. J. Varley, secretary of the committee. Major Gordon's big aggregation has been highly recommended by the Boards of Education, the press and clergy. There will be two performances daily, afternoon and night.

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability nad equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

JUNIORS CONQUER THE CRACK FAIRVIEW NINE

Y. M. C. A. Juniors wielded the whitewash brush effectively yesterday afternoon and shut out the crack Fairview Cycle Club aggregation by the score of 3 to 0. Dunning, the Y. M. C. A. slab artist, twirled a magnificent game and held his opponents to a solitary bingle, M. McDonough being the lucky Fairview player to execute this stunt.

Both nines were blanked up to the fourth inning, but the Y. M. C. A.s broke the ice in the next round by getting a tally across the plate. The Juniors clinched the game in the seventh inning by negotiating a pair of tallies.

C. Harper and Dunning, the opposing twirlers were in fine fettle. Both pitched fine ball and each fanned ten batters. The score:

MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF BAPTISTS MEET.

At the meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room, Mrs. George H. Robins, secretary of the Woman's Home Mission Society, and Mrs. B. J. Shreve, secretary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, read their reports which had been postponed from the annual meeting in March. Both societies showed interest and progress.

Miss Mary White presented current events, two of the items being charming letters from Mah Myah and Mah Mee, two Kaun girls, who were supported by the Young Women's Missionary Society in the days of its early history. Both women are married and wield great influence in their Christian homes.

Mrs. Reuben Knox gave a brief account of her travels in Mexico and of a week spent at Caernavaca in company with Miss Linda Butler, formerly of this city.

The devotional service was led by Mrs. J. A. Chambliss.

LINEN SHOWER FOR MISS HANNAH HANSEN.

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of the Misses Lillian and Sophie Bowe, of South avenue, last night when a linen shower was given to Miss Hannah Hansen in anticipation of her coming wedding to Andrew Bozak. Miss Hansen is a daughter of James C. Hansen, of West Front street. About forty guests were present all of whom presented the bride-elect with handsome and useful gifts of linen with which to begin housekeeping.

Vocal and instrumental music, dancing and refreshments were enjoyed by the company. Miss Irene Vollmer and Charles Ellers contributed piano solos and the Bachelors' Club of Scotch Plains rendered some fine songs.

Miss Hansen's marriage will take place in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Matt, of Thornton avenue, left today for Portaupeck, Long Branch, where they will remain for the summer.

Elston Hoagland, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hoagland, of West Front street, was operated upon for appendicitis at the hospital yesterday. His condition today is reported as being good.

P. H. S.'S SPEEDY NINE SWAMPS NEWARK HIGH

Plainfield High's ball tossers made a big sputter over Newark yesterday by trouncing the Newark High team to the tune of 17 to 3. It was a big surprise for the Essex county athletes as their combination is rated as one of the classiest scholastic aggregations outside of Greater New York, but they have another guess coming.

The locals secured a fine start by scoring five runs in the first two innings. In the fourth round three tallies were marked up and six in the following round. This cyclonic brand of baseball took the heart out of the Newarkers and they played in listless fashion thereafter, lengthening the contest out to three hours and five minutes.

The Plainfield athletes did some terrible clubbing getting a total of eighteen hits off Franklin, Husen and Campbell, the trio of Newark twirlers who faced the music. Newark piled up eight errors to Plainfield's three.

Lidgate and Nash starred at the bat for Plainfield each hitting the ball safely four times. The score:

GENERAL GRUBB URGES A CLEANER ELECTION

Edgewater Park, May 4.—Declaring that, before any political party can hope to make good its campaign pledges to the people, it will be necessary for the Federal Government and the individual States to enact more powerful laws to prevent unscrupulous men from buying their way into office, General E. Burd Grubb has issued an open letter on the subject. He urges Democratic candidates for the Legislature and for Congress in the coming campaign to make his suggestions a part of their platforms.

The general's proposition is an amendment to the election laws making a well-sustained charge of bribery in the interest of a candidate a powerful lever by which he can be pried from the seat thus purchased and prevented from again seeking public office. In his letter, General Grubb cites the conditions in New Jersey in the last election and compares them with similar scenes in England before that nation adopted anti-bribery laws.

General Grubb would have the following amendments placed on the statute books looking toward the abolishment of bribery:

"Upon the trial of an election petition, reporting that any corrupt practise has been proved to have been committed in reference to such election, by or with the knowledge and consent of any candidate at such election or that the offense of treating or undue influence has been proved to have been committed in reference to such election, by any candidate of such election, that candidate shall not be capable of ever being elected to or sitting in the Legislature of this State, and if he shall have been elected his election shall be void and he shall have to be subject to the same incapacity as if at the date of said report he had been convicted on an indictment of a corrupt practise.

"If, upon the trial, the electors shall report in writing to the speaker that a candidate has been guilty either by himself or his agents of any corrupt practise in reference to such election, that candidate shall not be capable of being elected and sitting for seven years after the date of the report, and his election shall be void. Any person who is convicted on an indictment of any corrupt practise (in addition to any punishment as above provided) shall not be capable during the seven years after the date of his conviction of holding any public or judicial office within the meaning of this act, and if he shall hold any such office the said office shall be vacated."

THE FORUM.

The Singing Contest.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The musical contest at the High School last Friday evening was most interesting, admirable and of high grade almost throughout. There seemed to be, however, a striking injustice in the awarding of the orchestra prize. It must be hard to form a fair judgment in a contest of this kind where so many are doing good work but in the orchestra section it would seem to have been self-evident to a trained or even an untrained person. Perhaps the bad air in the gallery and the sometimes violent "showers" were too much for the judges. The contestants in this case were Bound Brook, Elizabeth and Westfield, but as in the final awarding only the first two were named that is all that affects us.

The points on which the judges were to mark are as follows:

(a) accuracy, 10 points; (b) balance, tone, intonation, 20 points; (c) attack, ensemble, 10 points; (d) expression, pace, rhythm, interpretation, 20 points; general effect, 20 points; total, 80 points.

Bound Brook, with an orchestra of seven, including the piano, gave a most artistic, careful and finished performance of the Schauspiel Overture by Chr. Bach. It was played throughout as written. It was accurate as to time, notes, expression marks, attack, etc. The balance was perfect throughout, no one part being too prominent. The tone shading was beautiful and the intonation with hardly a flaw was pure to the end. In fact everything was up to the mark except that possibly one would have been glad of a little more snap. But it was a performance of which any school or city might justly have been proud.

On the other hand Elizabeth, with an orchestra twice the size, failed in almost all the points, their redeeming features being dash and good attack. The violins were not in tune to start with, they did not play the music as it is written, at least once transposing a high passage an octave lower and taking the difficult parts solo where they were written for all. There was practically no balance, for the piano was always in the lead and all was played fortissimo throughout. The tempo too was much too fast for clear work and the whole lacked conception.

With the most charitable marking it does not seem as if they could have come above fifty or with the most severe could Bound Brook have been brought down below seventy-six. As they stood it was seventy-one for Elizabeth and sixty-nine for Bound Brook.

But after all it is not the marks which count, but the recognition of merit and the standard we set for ourselves. Is it to be the showy, noisy, careless kind or that which is artistic, scholarly and controlled?

The "Square-Pot" of the BOYNTON FURNACE

Solves the House Heating Problem

We are saying a great deal about the square fire pot in our furnaces, hot water heaters and boilers — and with reason, for it is the actual solution of the house heating problem.

Our "square pot" (shown here) has the largest grate surface—consequently admits most air to the fire.

Its perpendicular corners and corrugated sides offer least resistance to clearing—hence an accumulation of dead ashes and clinkers is an unknown thing in a BOYNTON. That's why a BOYNTON fire is a live fire, and full of intense heat.

This "square pot" is our exclusive patent and is found in no other line of heaters. Other BOYNTON "features" are also vast improvements over the kinds most commonly in use.

Ask the BOYNTON man in your town.

FOWLER STILL WARS ON SPEAKER CANNON

Announcement was made yesterday that Representative Fowler of New Jersey will make no effort to force the consideration of his resolution providing for the creation of a committee on committees. This resolution was brought up in the House some weeks ago and caused a stir for about a minute. It was thrown into the House without notice and for a time it was thought Mr. Fowler was going to insist upon a vote. It developed, however, that the resolution specifically set forth that it should not be taken up for debate until May 2. The insurgents say they have no desire to place any obstacles in the way of the Administration's legislative program and they have persuaded Mr. Fowler to hold off for a time.

In an interview yesterday Congressman Fowler said:

"My resolution, which, by its terms was to be called up not earlier than Monday, May 2, was introduced by me for the purpose of calling the attention of the House and the country to that reform that goes to the very core of Cannonism—viz., the power to make and unmake men by appointing the 400 members of the House upon the various committees.

"When this reform is effected, it will strip the office of Speaker of its chief, if indeed, not its only power for political graft or political corruption, and relieve every member from all obligations to the official speaker, whoever he may be, and make him a free representative of his constituents.

"The resolution will be called up at the proper time after those who have this important reform at heart have fully considered the matter and agreed upon the exact terms of the resolution to be adopted.

"To me, great advantages seem to be in favor of the terms of my resolution because through it the population, geography, the business interests and the dominant political representation in any one of the seven district upon either the majority or minority committee are represented.

"Unless the Republican party now demonstrates its power to regenerate and reform itself, the people will perform that service for it as they did at Rochester, N. Y., last week. And unless the Democratic members of the House now join with the progressive Republicans in achieving this all-important reform, the people will repudiate those Democrats at the polls who have proved recreant to their plighted faith. Indeed, everyone will be put on trial for his political life when this resolution is called up, and if he fails to respond to the voice of the people who are more interested in the moral awakening of the hour than the success of either party, he will go home only to receive his just sentence. For the people have decreed that political and commercial graft in every form shall be stamped out so far as human ingenuity can accomplish it.

"Every sign of these present times marks the pending conflict as one of good faith and morals—political and commercial. The people are behind a revival of old-fashioned common honesty in every phase of human life; and, if the leaders of either party fail to see it, the people will take pains to demonstrate that fact. Indeed, it is the desire and determination of the American people that the parties shall stand for the best thought and highest ideals of this nation. And that party which fails to appreciate this fact will cease to be the party of the people."

DECISION FAVORS CHILDREN.

Jersey City, May 4.—A decision involving the Joseph Warren estate, worth $200,000 has just been handed down by Vice Chancellor Garrison. The decision is in favor of the testator's children.

It was provided in the will that the estate was to be conveyed to the children when they became of age, provided all mortgages had been paid off, or if the mortgages had not been paid off when the children had attained majority the trust was to continue until the mortgages had been liquidated.

When the youngest child became of age, in March, 1909, the mortgages still remained unpaid. The children, claiming they alone had any interest in the property, offered to pay off the mortgages and demanded that the trustees convey the property to them. Mrs. Warren would not agree to this, and a suit in chancery was instituted.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church will hold its monthly business meeting Friday night in Vincent chapel. This will be the last meeting before the election of officers for the new year and a large attendance is desired.

The Man in Lower Ten

By Mary Roberts Rinehart
Author of The Circular Staircase

Illustrations by M. J. KETTNER

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

"So it was more than a shock to see my wife on the train, and to realize from her face that she knew what was going on. I don't know yet, unless some of the servants—well, never mind that.

"It meant that the whole thing had gone up. Old Harrington had carried a gun for me for years, and the same train wouldn't hold both of us. Of course, I thought that he was in the coach just behind ours."

Hotchkiss was leaning forward now, his eyes narrowed, his thin lips drawn to a line.

Sullivan stopped in surprise.

"No," he said gruffly. "Can't do anything with my left hand." Hotchkiss subsided, crestfallen but alert. "I tore up that cursed telegram, but I was afraid to throw the scraps away. Then I looked around for lower ten. It was almost exactly across—my berth was lower seven, and it was, of course, a bit of exceptional luck for me that the car was number seven."

"Did you tell your sister of the telegram from Bronson?" I asked.

"No. It would do no good, and she was in a bad way without that to make her worse."

"Your sister was killed, I think?" The shorter detective took a small package from his pocket and held it in his hand, snapping the rubber band which held it.

"Yes, she was killed," Sullivan said soberly. "What I say now can do her no harm."

He stopped to push back the heavy hair which dropped over his forehead, and went on more connectedly.

"It was late, after midnight, and we went at once to our berths. I undressed, and then I lay there for an hour, wondering how I was going to get the notes. Some one in lower nine was restless and wide awake, but finally became quiet.

"The man in ten was sleeping heavily. I could hear his breathing, and it seemed to be only a question of getting across and behind the curtains of his berth without being seen. After that, it was a mere matter of quiet searching.

"The car became very still. I was about to try for the other berth, when some one brushed softly past, and I lay back again.

"Finally, however, when things had been quiet for a time, I got up, and after looking along the aisle, I slipped behind the curtains of lower ten. You understand, Mr. Blakeley, that I thought you were in lower ten, with the notes."

I nodded curtly.

"I'm not trying to defend myself," he went on. "I was ready to steal the notes—I had to. But murder!"

He wiped his forehead with his handkerchief.

"Well, I slipped across and behind the curtains. It was very still. The man in ten didn't move, although my heart was thumping until I thought he would hear it.

"I felt around cautiously. It was perfectly dark, and I came across a bit of chain, about as long as my finger. It seemed a queer thing to find there, and it was sticky, too."

He shuddered, and I could see Allison's hands clenching and unclenching with the strain.

"All at once it struck me that the man was strangely silent, and I think I lost my nerve. Anyhow, I drew the curtains open a little, and let the light fall on my hands. They were red, blood-red."

He leaned one hand on the back of the chair, and was silent for a moment, as though he lived over again the awful events of that more than awful night.

The stout detective had let his cigar go out; he was still drawing at it nervously. Richey had picked up a paper-weight and was tossing it from hand to hand; when it slipped and fell to the floor, a startled shudder passed through the room.

"There was something glittering in there," Sullivan resumed, "and on impulse I picked it up. Then I dropped the curtains and stumbled back to my own berth."

"Where you wiped your hands on the bed clothing and stuck the dirk into the pillow." Hotchkiss was seeing his carefully built structure crumbling to pieces, and he looked chagrined.

"I suppose I did—I'm not very clear about what happened then. But when I rallied a little I saw a Russia leather wallet lying in the aisle almost at my feet, and, like a fool, I stuck it, with the bit of chain, into my bag.

"I sat there, shivering, for what seemed hours. It was still perfectly quiet, except for some one snoring. I thought that would drive me crazy.

"The more I thought of it the worse things looked. The telegram was the first thing against me—it would put the police on my track at once when it was discovered that the man in lower ten had been killed.

"Then I remembered the notes, and I took out the wallet and opened it."

He stopped for a minute, as if the recalling of the next occurrence was almost beyond him.

"I took out the wallet," he said simply, "and, opening it, held it to the light. In gilt letters was the name, Simon Harrington."

The detectives were leaning forward now, their eyes on his face.

"Things seemed to whirl around for a while. I sat there almost paralyzed, wondering what this new development meant for me.

"My wife, I knew, would swear I had killed her father; nobody would be likely to believe the truth.

"Do you believe me now?" He looked around at us defiantly. "I am telling the absolute truth, and not one of you believes me!

"After a bit the man in lower nine got up and walked along the aisle toward the smoking compartment. I heard him go, and, leaning from my berth, watched him out of sight.

"It was then I got the idea of changing berths with him, getting his clothes, and leaving the train. I give you my word I had no idea of throwing suspicion on him."

Alison looked scornfully incredulous, but I felt that the man was telling the truth.

"I changed the numbers of the berths, and it worked well. I got into the other man's berth, and he came back to mine. The rest was easy. I dressed in his clothes—luckily, they fitted—and jumped the train not far from Baltimore, just before the wreck."

"There is something else you must clear up," I said. "Why did you try to telephone me from M——, and why did you change your mind about the message?"

He looked astounded.

"You knew I was at M——?" he stammered.

"Yes, we traced you. What about the message?"

A Sale of Summer Waists
That Will Add Glory to the Big Store

Upward of 10,000 Beautiful Fine Fresh Summer Waists are to be sold at half price in this sale which we plan to run three days, ending Saturday night.

A maker of high repute whose excellent taste has stood him apart from the commonplace permitted us to pick from his immense collection thirty-six of the styles we liked best for this event.

The waists are made of sheerest lawns and mercerized batiste; the styles are entirely new and reveal the smart Dutch neck and short sleeve effects; also high neck and short or long sleeve models; some with yokes, others embellished with the most exquisite medallions of laces or embroideries; some have all-over straight up and down effects, and the laces and embroideries employed are in exclusive patterns; the waists are perfect in fit, faultless in finish, and you can get any size you wish.

There are three big groups to choose from—

2$ Waists $1 $3 Waists $1.50 $4 Waists $2

Thousands of other handsome waists being featured at $2.98, $3.98 and $5.00. Second Floor.

Stelton Wins From Piscataway.

The Piscataway baseball team met defeat at the hands of the Stelton nine, on the latter's grounds on Saturday by a score of 15 to 13. The game was characterized by good baseball on both sides, as the teams were very evenly matched. The Stelton battery did very effective work, Adams passing only one man, and Richardson, the catcher, gathered a number of high foul flies. Kelly, the Piscataway pitcher, went to pieces in the seventh inning, and was replaced by Fisher. Stelton led in the batting, making seven clean hits to Piscataway's four. Sullivan, Stelton's first sacker, did good work, lining out a home run and a two-bagger.

TAG DAY ON SATURDAY

WANT TO RAISE AT LEAST $2,000

Mrs. Edwin F. Feickert Chairman of Committee—The Headquarters to Be on East Front Street.

Tag day for the benefit of the various charities being conducted by the King's Daughters' Circles of Plainfield, the Day Nursery, the camp for sick babies and children on the mountain and the city nurse will be observed Saturday. The work will be under the direction of the following committees: Mrs. E. F. Feickert, chairman; Mrs. F. W. Jones, Brightside Circle; Mrs. A. M. Most, Golden Rule Circle; Mrs. A. N. Laggren, Whatsoever Circle; Mrs. J. A. Peterkin, Loyal Daughters Circle; Mrs. Edward Baker, Emmanuel Circle; Mrs. F. W. Butler, In His Name Circle; Miss Bertha Whitney, Charity Circle; Mrs. Clifford McGee, Silver Cross Circle; Miss Anna Garrigues, Cup Bearers Circle.

Dr. Albert Pittis has kindly offered the women the use of his store at 135 East Front street as headquarters on Tag Day. The necessary tables and chairs will be lent by Messrs. Powlison and Jones. Mrs. Most, Mrs. Feickert and Mrs. Butler will be at headquarters all day, to give out boxes and tags and to open the boxes and count their contents after the workers have finished with them. Through the kindness of Frederick Yates the committee will have the use of a coin counting and wrapping machine, which will make their work very much easier.

Each worker will wear a badge reading "Tag Day Worker," and no money should be given to anyone without a badge. The workers will have bunches of tags for sale, and will carry money boxes into which people may drop whatever amount they wish to give for the tags.

A number of the stores are going to sell tags, and the rule regarding badges will not hold good here as it would be next to impossible to provide all the clerks with badges.

It is hoped that at least two thousand dollars may be realized this year. Last year over thirteen hundred dollars was cleared. Of this a thousand dollars was applied to paying off the mortgage on the Day Nursery building and between two and three hundred dollars in building a kitchen at the Baby Camp and painting the camp buildings.

It is very necessary that there should be more room at the Day Nursery and there are many improvements needed at the camp, including an additional sleeping room, and the King's Daughters are depending upon the money to be raised on Tag Day for this work.

In addition to small tags for personal wear, the workers will have large tags for sale, which are intended to be placed on houses, automobiles, horses, etc.

It is earnestly hoped that everybody in Plainfield will do his share toward making Tag Day a success by buying at least one tag.

ENDEAVORERS, MASS MEETING ON MAY 19

The mass meeting and annual business session of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union wil be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, New Market, Thursday night, May 19, at 8 o'clock. This will be the first time that the union has held a mass meeting out of the city and it is expected that all societies will be largely represented. Many of the city Endeavorers will take the 7:15 o'clock trolley from the Watchung avenue stand, while some will go in a stage.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be the speaker of the evening, and his subject will be "Africa." Mr. Maguire spent six years on the Congo and his address should be of unusual interest.

Reports for the year and officers will be elected at this meeting. The attendance of the societies at this meeting will have considerable bearing on the question of awarding the banner. The music will be led by a chorus comprised of Endeavorers from the New Market and Dunellen societies.

Will Attend Big Convention.

The World's Sunday School Convention will be held at Washington on May 19 and among those who will attend are George E. Hall, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and the pastor, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, the pastor, who goes as his guest.

HAVE YOU A TYPEWRITER TO GIVE TO A CHARITY?

A typewriting machine is needed by the Charity Organization Society and it is needed at once. According to the report of the secretary for the month of April the society is being called upon for much more of its time and energy than ever before. The need of a typewriter makes itself felt every time anything in the way of correspondence needs to be done.

It is claimed that the society is greatly hampered in its work because there is no writing machine in its office and while a stenographer is not essential the possession of a typewriter would aid materially to the efficiency of the work.

During April 123 cases were looked up and attended to, ten more than in the month of March and the agents of the society made 447 calls and these things involved the writing of 91 letters. This correspondence is what makes the typewriter necessary. During the month fourteen cases of tuberculosis were discovered among the applicants for relief. It is hoped that someone will furnish the typewriter before another month rolls around and even though no stenographer is employed the machine will be mastered by the present managers of the association and its letters will take on the appearance of business which is a necessary adjunct to every well organized concern.

PARK CLUB ELECTS THREE GOVERNORS

The Park Club, at its annual meeting on Tuesday night, elected three governors to serve a term of three years each. Those elected were Donald A. Mc Gee, W. E. Benjamin and William Barlow, Jr. Following the business session, the Board of Governors, which consists of nine members, met and organized as follows:

President, J. B. Betts; vice president, August W. Kleincke; secretary, H. C. Krebs; treasurer, Donald Mc Gee. The annual reports showed that the club is in a flourishing condition.

The five-back bowling tournament of the club will come to a close tonight. The competition this year is unusually close and three members have chances to win first prize, J. L. Watson, W. E. Benjamin and J. C. Peck.

ARRAY OF SPEAKERS FOR THE DOLLAR DINNER

The committee of arrangements of the dollar dinner to be given at Hotel Kensington under the auspices of the West End Democratic Club, on Wednesday night, May 18, has secured an array of brilliant speakers for the occasion.

Assemblyman Mark Sullivan's topic will be "Doings in the Assembly;" Mayor H. O. Wittpen, of Jersey City, will speak on "Municipal Government;" Honest Elections" will be discussed by Senator George A. Silzer, of Middlesex; Job Lippincott, president of the State Democratic Club, will talk on "Organization." James R. Nugent, will also be a speaker.

Tickets, which are limited to one hundred, are being disposed of rapidly. They can be secured by members of the committee which include Frank J. Shattle, Patrick J. Reville, Edward Fluck, Thomas Monsell and John Connelly.

For Benefit of Bible School.

Under the direction and personal supervision of Mrs. William Newcorn a successful fair and card party was held last night in Carleton Hall, New York, for the benefit of the Bible School connected with the Jewish Synagogue, in this city. A number of Plainfielders attended the affair. There were about thirty prizes. The net proceeds will be announced soon. It is proposed to employ a regular teacher for the Bible school.

Liquor Dealers Meet.

The Somerset County Liquor Dealers' Association met at Joseph Blatz's Chatham Hotel on Somerset street, on Tuesday afternoon. Following the transaction of routine business Mr. Blatz entertained the delegates at dinner.

Chief Goes to Convention.

Chief Kiely left this morning for Birmingham, Ala., where he will attend the annual convention of Police Chiefs for the next ten days. During the Chief's absence Captain Frederickson will be in charge.

WORK OF HEALTH BOARD

Inspections Made and Permits Granted During Month of April.

WERE THIRTY-NINE BIRTHS.

Only Twenty-eight Cases of Contagious Disease—Milk Ordinance Effective on June 1.

Fewer cases of scarlet fever and diphtheria were reported during April than in any previous month, according to the reports presented at the monthly meeting of the Board of Health, last night, and the general sanitary condition of the city was shown to be good. The following cases of disease were reported for April:

Measles, 6; chicken-pox, 8; tuberculosis, 6; diphtheria, 2; scarlet fever, 6; total, 28.

The following inspections were reported: In connection with plumbing and sewer work, 125; milk supply, 117; general work, 672; total, 1,004. The last named included house-to-house inspections, those of rear yards for general nusances for vaults and cesspools, of toilets in public and office buildings, barber shops, bakeries, restaurants, ash dumps, etc. There were 37 sewer vault and cesspool notices served during the month and nineteen houses and sixty-three rooms were disinfected.

The usual sample of city water was taken for analysis and found to be of excellent quality. A sample was also taken from the Watchung springs and one from the Washington Rock spring. Both of these proved to be uncontaminated and of high quality. Six samples of cream and thirty-three samples of milk were analyzed. The milk was of better quality than for March, but the bacteria was somewhat higher probably to the many changes of temperature. The new milk ordinance was adopted by the board on its third and final reading, and after the necessary advertising, will go into effect about June 1. All the garbage and offal permits, many of the milk permits and plumbers' bonds were due for renewal at this time, and in connection with these, permits were granted as follows:

To retail milk by means of wagon—Plainfield Milk and Cream Company, John I. Brokaw, John Hummel, Frank M. Smalley, B. R. Waldron, R. H. Krog, J. H. Knights, R. Muller, W. H. Moffett, A. P. Voorhees, A. R. Phillips, C. W. Squires, Clarkhurst Farms, E. C. Swenson, West End Dairy, George Wooden, E. Schanz, Claus Peterson, Willswood Farm Dairy, J. A. Herbermann, Hiram Templin.

BUCKLEY GIVES ADVICE

Alleged Murderer Tells Boys to Obey Their Mothers.

WAS DISOBEDIENT YOUNGSTER.

The Youthful Prisoner Attributes His Present Predicament to Disregard to His Mother.

"Boys stick to your mothers," is the advice that comes to youths from John V. Buckley, the nineteen-year-old murderer of Mrs. Frederick Covely, who is awaiting to be called to trial, in the Somerset county court on Wednesday, June 1. A Daily Press reporter visited Buckley in his cell yesterday, and found the young man a much changed fellow since his arrest on April 21, the day after the crime was committted.

Fifteen days have elapsed since Buckley dispatched his boarding house mistress to death by twice shooting her through the head with a 38-calibre revolver. When placed under arrest the alleged murderer declared he was anxious to suffer the consequences, but now the youth has experienced a change of heart, and as he has visions of an electric chair he says he wants to live. "I don't want to die, but I want to live," is what he told the Daily Press reporter yesterday.

Two weeks of reflection on his crime behind the steel bars, in the presence of vigilant keepers, has sent the boy's thoughts shooting back to his childhood days when he was under a fond mother's care at a humble home at Charlestown, Mass.

"All my trouble," said Buckley, as he watched the sunbeams through the grated windows of the new Somerset County jail, "is because I was a bad boy and did not mind my mother. If I had taken her advice I would not be here today. But I've done it, and I suppose I must suffer for it."

"If you had another chance, what would you do?" queried the reporter.

"I would take my mother's advice in everything; I would stick to her. That is what all boys should do to avoid getting in trouble. I know now that all boys, poor or rich, should obey their mothers.

"Since I was twelve years old I never had a real home, except at the Mernagh farm. Those people treated me kindly, gave me new clothes and other things, but I was not satisfied," added Buckley.

Buckley's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Patrick Buckley. Failure to hear from them or his two brothers in his trouble causes the prisoner grief, but he is still confident that they will come to his succor.

John, when a small lad, according to his own story, was a "bad boy." He refused to attend Sunday morning mass; he played "hookey" from school, and when his parents chastised him for his waywardness he ran away from Charlestown to Taunton, Mass. His deportment did not improve in that city and when he got into a scrape, which involved the theft of $23, he "skipped," came to New York, and finally landed in this city nearly six years ago.

While the boy's career was checkered with petty shortcomings, previous to the big crime for which he is now behind prison bars, there are two habits that failed to claim Buckley, and they were drinking and smoking. According to Buckley, he never tasted intoxicating liquor, nor smoked nor chewed tobacco.

Buckley, while a closely watched prisoner, now realizes his position, but he has no complaints to register to his keepers who appear to like the lad. Buckley's pal in the county jail is G. Giovano, an Italian, who is awaiting trial on a grand larceny charge.

The pair have become fast chums and Buckley takes little notice or associates with the other prisoners with whom he comes in contact.

Buckley and Giovano while away their time in playing dominos. Buckley is an expert at the game and he invariably comes out with flying colors in the battles with the Italian. The alleged murderer, although his education has been neglected, has exhibited a fondness for reading books and magazines.

The prisoner is also a baseball fan and the jail officials keep him supplied with the sporting pages of the newspapers every day. Buckley's first questions to his keepers every morning is for information as to the results of the ball games of the preceding day.

"Did the Giants win?" That is always Buckley's first query. He was a bit crestfallen yesterday morning when he was informed that the Pittsburg team had taken the lead away from the Giants. The prisoner admits that he never saw a big

CONWAY HAD A VISION

Declares the Lord Advised Him to Keep His Antiquated Mare.

FUTILE APPEAL TO JUDGE.

Colored Man Says the Spirit of His Horse Will Block the Entrance to Paradise.

"W'en dat mare gits into de animal Kingdom, she will see to it dat de folks who made me shoot her don't get in." This dictum pronounced by Spencer Conway this morning in the city court must convince everyone connected with the case that the animal in question possessed a soul before the executioner got to work on the mare.

The order of the court yesterday was that the Glaser Company, animal specialists, was to visit the barn of Deacon Conway this morning and shoot the deacon's horse, but according to brother Conway the Lord ordained otherwise. It goes without saying that the venerable negro hates to part with the animal which has seen too many years of service and because it will cost him something to have the poor beast put out of its misery he has invoked what he terms Divine intervention. But the fiat of the court stands and ere now the mare has been sent on her long journey.

Telling his story to Chief Kiely this morning, Deacon Conway said that last night he was so upset at the approaching catastrophe in his barn that he called upon the Lord to help him out in the time of his trouble. Just before 3 o'clock this morning, he said, the Lord appeared to him in a vision and told him not to let anybody destroy the animal because she was lively and had good teeth and her tail could still swish, and in fact, there was no reason in the world why Susie, the mare, should be killed.

The vision so impressed Mr. Conway that he arose from his bed and went to the barn to console with the mare and she "suttinly understood" him when she heard him say he would do all in his power to stay the gun of the executioner. After talking the matter over with his horse Conway returned to the house and waited until daylight so as to call in another veterinary to give his opinion of the animal's condition. Having obtained an opinion that the mare was still good enough for ordinary service Conway appeared in court this morning to try to persuade Judge Runyon that it was against the wishes of the Almighty and the veterinary that his mare should be slain, but the judge was adamant and insisted that the verdict of the court be carried out. Mrs. VanHoesen was present and declined to allow any outside opinion to influence her attitude in the matter, and by now Conway's mare is in "de animal Kingdom."

When leaving headquarters this morning Conway threw this parting shot into the listeners: "W'en dat animal gits to de Kingdom she's gwine to stop de entrance up so dat nobody w'at had anything to do wid her killin' kin git in."

According to Mrs. VanHoesen, the animal is about thirty-five years old, and is absolutely unable to chew its food. Besides this the mare is covered with sores and it will be a mercy to put her out of the way.

CAR GOES 200 MILES ON SIX AND HALF GALS.

Driven by R. E. Gillam the Hupmobile made a perfect score in the Delaware Valley 200 miles endurance contest at Trenton on Tuesday. The natty little machine covered the two centuries over rough and hilly country on exactly six and a half gallons of gasolene, although it is capable of holding eleven gallons. This means that only one gallon was used to cover thirty-one miles, something unheard of in auto racing history.

TICKETS SELLING RAPIDLY FOR THE ELKS' SHOW

The opening sale of tickets for the Elks' Minstrel show started this morning and before noon nearly all the orchestra chairs had been bought. The line extended 'way past Trinity Reformed church and the choice seats were gobbled up as fast as the wouldbe purchasers could reach the window.

It is believed that the coming show will eclipse any previous endeavor of the Elks, including as it does such men as George Orlando Stevens, interlocutor; John Cose, Charles Davis, John Todd, Charles Ward, Harry Blimm and Edwin Bennett, end men, and a bunch of soloists which Thatcher, Primrose & West would have been glad to have numbered among their companies in their palmy days.

The solo singers will include Townsend Fellows, Johnny Campbell, Elmer Cutting, William Talamy, William G. Smith and Ed. Groff, who will be assisted by a chorus of thirty-five selected voices. Tommy Muir will be there with an original monologue and Messrs. Todd and Blimm will present the brand new sketch, "Held Up."

As an afterpiece there will be a plantation scene in which Cose, Bennett, Martin and Randall will sing negro songs to delight any house. The show will be under the direction of Harry Whetton, of Roselle, which insures a magnificent performance. Mr. Whetton is a member of the Elizabeth Lodge of Elks.

SEEKS INFORMATION ON 4TH'S ACCIDENTS

Mayor Fisk in an endeavor to get the best possible information on which to base an opinion as to the desirability of permitting the use of fireworks, giant crackers and other noise producing devices on Independence Day, has addressed letters to the mayors of all the principle cities in the State and principals of all the schools in the large cities of the State and the Parent-Teachers' Association asking for opinions and records of the past years' experiences.

Besides the above the police records will be overhauled to provide information of the kind necessary to determine the work made necessary by accidents consequent upon indiscriminate use of firearms and other explosives. The records of Muhlenberg Hospital will also be forthcoming to help the mayor out in his investigation. Pending the gathering of this information, the mayor will withhold a message on the subject of a sane and safe Fourth of July. He hopes to have the necessary data within one week.

MR. FOWLER A CANDIDATE

Fifth District Representative so Announces to Mayor Charles J. Fisk.

HE STATES HIS POSITION.

"Insurgent" Republican Leader Wishes to See Some Reforms Made by Congress—Will Accept Nomination.

In the following letter received this afternoon by Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Representative Charles N. Fowler, of the Fifth district, announces his candidacy for an eighth term in Congress:

"My Dear Mr. Fisk:

"I am just in receipt of your letter of May 2; and in reply want to thank you for your interest in the matter, and to advise you of my attitude with regard to a renomination.

"About three years ago, I took the position that the Rules of the House of Representatives should be changed, and about two years ago I announced myself as a candidate for the Speakership upon a platform that limited the power of the Speaker to the single duty of presiding over the deliberations of the House. I did this for the sole purpose of bringing the matter to issue.

"We now seem to be upon the very threshold of achieving this great reform, although it may project itself into the next session.

"In May, 1907, I did my utmost to have a provision for a broad tariff commission incorporated in the Dingley Tariff law; but the matter then seemed to meet with disfavor. Nevertheless, I have persisted in my advocacy of this important economic reform. It is perfectly clear, in the light of what has happened, that if the recent revision of the tariff had been based upon facts ascertained by such a commission the present dissatisfaction and unrest would have been obviated, and the business of the country would have moved along for years to come without interruption or disturbance.

"It is possible that at this session we may obtain with the appropriation asked for by the President, such concessions on this score as to accomplish this most desired end; although this is almost more than we can hope for now.

"Ever since I entered public life, I have been making a fight, as you are personally aware, for financial and banking reform. This matter now seems to be so much in the public mind as to encourage the hope that before another commercial crisis we may secure some broad and constructive legislation bearing upon this question. Of course, this cannot come about during the present Congress.

"Since I am greatly interested in all of these reform measures in particular, I should consider a renomination as an approval of my course here, and also as a further opportunity to carry forward these reforms; and, therefore, event a greater honor than any nomination heretofore tendered me.

"To have a part in the great reform of one's time, and to receive the approval of one's constituency in these slow, at times doubtful and always aduous undertakings is a source of profound satisfaction and inspiration to one in his efforts to advance the general welfare.

Again thanking you, I am,

"Very sincerely yours,

"CHAS. N. FOWLER."

Mr. Fowler's statement was prompted by a letter written him by Mayor Fisk a few days ago. The letter follows:

"My Dear Mr. Fowler:

"Since many are inquiring whether you would accept another nomination to Congress, I think it would be both fair to your many friends and just to yourself to advise the public upon this question.

"I am writing this note of inquiry to you because now, as on former occasions, there are those who, for some reason or other, are intimating that you will not be a candidate for renomination.

Sincerely hoping that your reply will put all such rumors at rest, and that you will permit its publication, I am,

"Very sincerely yours,

CHARLES J. FISK.

Walter McClough has purchased a property at Millington from John and A. W. Cross, and expects to move to that place.

Miss Lena Mason returned to Passaic on Monday after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Mason.

The price of milk has been dropped from eight cents to six cents a quart in this place, beginning May 1.

WESTFIELD.

John J. Schmitt took charge of the hotel on Broad street as manager Tuesday. It is rumored that some of the citizens, objecting to a member of the Council being a hotelkeeper, have signified to Mr. Smith that his resignation would be acceptable if he intends to keep in the business.

The Weldon Contracting Company commenced sprinkling tar on the streets yesterday. Housekeepers made a strong protest last year against the tar sprinkling, as the tar is tracked into the house and carpets ruined.

Wages of the signal tower men along the Central Railroad have been increased $5 per month, and this without any solicitation on the part of the employes.

RARITAN.

William Grogan, Sr., an employe of the State House, Trenton, has been visiting his brother, James Grogan, of Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Sisser have returned to New York city, after spending some time here with relatives.

Infant's Body Floating in Lake.

Westfield, May 5.—The body of a newborn child was found in Westfield Park Lake by Charles Wittkee and Walter Bauman, boys, Tuesday afternoon. The body was wrapped in paper and a heavy weight was attached to one end. The bundle evidently had been in the water several days. The police sent the body to an undertaker's establishment.

Why Not.

"Where are you going with that terra cotta dog?"

"After clay pigeons."

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS.

Messrs. Barton and Wiswell, the well known theatrical firm of New York, have provided an excellent vehicle for S. H. Dudley, the famous negro comedian, to display his well known talents this season. Mr. Dudley heads the popular "Smart Set" Company and this year he will appear in an entirely new three-act musical comedy, with book by Edwin Hanford and lyrics and music by Messrs. Brim, Smith and Burris, entitled "His Honor the Barber." Fifteen original song hits are distributed throughout the action of the comedy and a few which are likely to be whistled before the engagement is over are: "I'm Capt. Dandelion," "Before and After," "When Two Hearts Beat as One," "The Dazzling Dashing Widow," "Let Him Dream," "Little Black Cupid," "Strawberries and Cream," etc. The Smart Set is here tomorrow night.

"The Servant in the House," which comes to the Plainfield theatre for an engagement of one night and matinee on Saturday, May 7, like any other fearless satire, has been subjected to the charge of sensationalism. Those who have attacked the play have supported their claims by pointing to the fact that the character of the "servant," an Indian bishop, is unmistakably intended to represent Christ on the stage. As a matter of fact the author, Charles Rann Kennedy, has made this character an entirely symbolic personage, and his assault on religion and social hypocrisy has been pronounced entirely warranted by the brainiest critics and clergymen in the United States. Although following the Greek form of construction, offering no change of scene and no break in the narrative, "The Servant in the House" is thoroughly modern and tells a story of today. Even in the scenes that are devoid of action, except that which is created by the cumulative value of the lines, the author plays on the emotions of his audience as effectively as a master violinist draws melody from a Stradavarius. The play sparkles with brilliant comedy that forms a most acceptable antithesis to scenes of stirring pathos.

JUDGE ABSENT, TWENTY TAVERNS HAD TO CLOSE.

Elizabeth, May 5.—Because of their failure Tuesday to obtain renewals of their annual licenses in the Union County Court of Common Pleas, owing to the absence from the city of Judge Edward S. Atwater, twenty inn and tavern proprietors in the various townships and boroughs had to close their places at midnight and must remain closed until the court meets tomorrow.

Much consternation was manifested by the applicants when the situation became known.

The Phrase That Allures.

"How did you manage to sell Mr. Cumrox all of those dull books on philosophy?" asked one agent.

"Easily," replied the other. "I looked mysterious and told him it was an unexpurgated edition."—Washington Evening Star.

On Profitable Enterprises—Where We Stand.

Few people who know this firm would hesitate to call us a profitable business institution.

Success bears an imprint which even the most casual observer cannot overlook, and success in a business undertaking means profit.

Yet we are constantly being approached by people—those familiar with the wholesale cost of such merchandise as we carry—who comment upon the extremely low prices at which we mark our goods. "I don't see how you can do it," they say, "and make a fair profit."

Fair profits are our secret. Every piece of merchandise which comes into our establishment is marked at a price showing a reasonable margin above our investment, and yet always with the idea in view of making it a profitable investment for you. The price we place upon it is a fair one, fair to you, and fair to ourselves—we do not calculate upon large profits upon one sale, but rather upon small profits on many.

By safe-guarding your interests we safe-guard our own. Satisfied customers, mean satisfactory business.

NEWS AND NOTES

BRAINS A BIG ASSET IN PLAYING BASEBALL

More and more baseball as exploited by major league teams is becoming a battle of wits. There is significance now in every play, in every ball pitched.

Strategists sitting on the bench vie with each other, the one trying to execute an unexpected play, the other striving just as earnestly to fathom, the intentions of the opponents.

With the man in the box pitching out, the hitter working in harmony with the baserunner, and the alert and quick-brained defenders to outguess the others, baseball today is a contest of brains.

Probably the game has never had such notable tacticians as it has today. Look over the list, Mack, Dooin, McGraw, Griffith, Jennings, McAleer and the others. All straining their intellects to devise new plays to confuse the enemy, and at the same time eager to divine what the opponents in turn will try on them.

Two brilliant coups stood out in the series between the Phillies and Giants last week. One was made by the home team and the other by the visitors.

In the third inning of the game Thursday, the Phillies faced a crisis. Runners were on third and first and only one out, with Larry Doyle, the Giants' best hitter, at bat.

Moore was pitching for the home team and Dooin catcher. Dooin at once knew that Devore, the man on first, would try to steal.

If the man did steal it would mean that two runs could score on a single. If the throw to second was wild, the man on third could score and the other proceed to third. It was a ticklish situation, although it is common in baseball. There are man plans to beat it, but they are not always successful. It is a tough problem any time, even if it comes up in every game.

New York's runners, of course, realized that Dooin knew that Devore would try to steal second and that he would make every attempt to defeat it, but they never divined the particular play Dooin was going to use.

All this reasoning and counter-reasoning took only a few seconds' time. Doyle set himself at the plate with his bat and Devore slowly scrapped his feet away from first, ready for a sprint.

Dooin, with his plan in mind, signed Moore for a wide ball, and the instant Moore drew back his arm Devore bolted for second. Dooin caught the ball and whipped it to Doolan, who looked for a second toward the keystone bag and then suddenly turned about an shot the ball to Grant, who unnoticed had crept toward his base.

The result was that the man on third was caught by a foot. Devore was safe at second, but Doyle was retired for the third out, and the Phillies passed a dangerous crisis through sheer headwork.

It was great sagacity on the part of Dooin, Doolan and Grant. Dooin conceived the play and signed for it and Doolan did his part by making his bluff to tag Devore and put Raymond, on third, off his guard. It is such quick-witted plays as these that make championship teams.

The Phillies were the victims of the other, and it took place on Wednesday. The score was 3 to 2 in favor of the Giants, with the incomparable Mathewson pitching. It was the eighth inning and still anybody's game. The first two men in the inning were retired and then Doolan reached first on an error.

Here was a chance for the Phillies. Mathewson started to throw to Merkle to keep Doolan glued to first. While this was going on he got two strikes on Dooin. Suddenly he whipped the ball to Merkle, who made no effort to get Doolan, but shot it back to Matty as hard as it was sent. Matty, all set to pitch, caught the ball and instantly hurled it over the groove.

Dooin made a belated swing, and an easy roller to Doyle was the result. Mathewson possibly averted a tie game or defeat by the maneuver. The ball had been pitched so unexpectedly that Dooin had no time to get a proper range on it.

These are two early season samples of tactics that are employed by the master minds who run baseball clubs, and we will see more before the race is finished.

EPWORTH LEAGUE OPENS CONVENTION.

New Jersey Conference Discusses Plans for Going Forward at Annual Session.

Trenton, May 5.—The Epworth Leagues of the Methodist churches of the New Jersey Conference opened their sixteenth annual convention in Trinity Methodist Episcopal church here yesterday. Delegates were present from practically all of the churches of the conference.

The convention was opened by the Rev. Henry J. Zelley, of this city, and following him were greetings from Rev. Charles H. Elder, pastor of the convention church. Rev. J. B. Kulp, of Bradley Beach, president of the Conference League, responded for the convention.

The feature of the morning session was a symposium on "How to Make the Epworth League an Aggressive Force in Winning Young People." It was given by four speakers. H. S. Springer, of Camden, spoke of "The Pastor's Part;" Rev. Alfred Wagg, superintendent of the Trenton district, spoke of "The Official Board's Part;" Harry D. Conover, of this city, told of "The Cabinet's Part," and Rev. A. C. Dennett, of Belmar, presented "The Members' Part."

Yesterday afternoon Edward W. Dunham, of this city, treasurer of the State Sunday School Association, spoke on "The Need of Aggressive Methods in Young People's Work." WHAT DO YOU CONSIDER THE POPULATION IS NOW?

What's the population of Plainfield? What's the population of North Plainfield? The Daily Press will give $5.00 in gold to the man, woman or child living in Plainfield giving the nearest correct guess as to the city's population as announced in the forthcoming official census. To the resident of North Plainfield who comes nearest to guessing its population five dollars will be given. It is not necessary to be a subscriber to this paper to qualify; in fact there are no conditions other than that you be a resident of the municipality of which you make a guess as to the population. All guesses must be made over the signature of the contestant; no attention will be paid to anonymous communications, following the regular policy of this paper.

The census enumerators are at work. Before the result of their labor is officially announced this contest will be closed and therefore, those who wish to make a guess should do so without delay. Many guesses have been received. Send in yours now! Boys and girls here is a chance for you.

league contest, since he ran away from his home at Charlestown. Before then, he said, he used to go over to Boston and peep through the knotholes of the South End ball park, and watch the diamond gladiators perform.

When the reporter asked the name of his favorite club to win the National League pennant, Buckley's eyes sparkled as he exclaimed:

"Why, the Giants to be sure. Matty is the greatest pitcher in the world and no one can beat McGraw as a manager."

When the reporter handed him a copy of a magazine which contains Sam Crane's article comparing the playing in the National and American leagues, Buckley exclaimed:

"Gee, this is the kind of stuff I like to read. Bring some more down the next time you come, will you?"

Buckley is provided with one of the most comfortable cells in the jail. In the cell is a snow white iron cot with neat and clean blankets and quilts, a white chair, a bookstand and other necessities.

Considerable sympathy is expressed for the lad because of his youth and his boyish ways. On the outside it is said that it is hard to see, in face of the evidence, and the five confessions he has made, how he can escape being convicted, but the opinion seems to be that he will never expiate the crime in the electric chair.

Robert Newton Crane, the prisoner's lawyer, visits the murderer three times a week, but the former is maintaining silence as to the line of defense he will introduce in the effort to save Buckley from the electric chair.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Mrs. Ballington Booth will speak at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday night. Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor, will preside. George E. Hall will present Mrs. Booth and City Judge William N. Runyon will sing.

Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, has had a large bulletin board placed on the outside of the entrance to his church, which is attracting considerable attention. The board is large enough to permit announcing the subjects of the sermons each week and already many people have noticed the innovation.

HIPPOPOTAMUS HUNTED AT GREAT RISK TO LIFE.

Men and Boat Frequently Go Down in Struggle.

The chief breaks the spell—he stands up and gives his orders. All rise, and at a signal the men go down upon the green carpet of floating field. Complete silence again—we hold our breath in anxious expectation. The hippo is invisible; if he is there he is hidden under the protecting grasses. Our wait is short; the hippo is indeed there; a man has felt him under his feet. But the beast travels under the moving vault.

The blacks never lose track of him for a moment; the circle closes in; for an instant they fear that he will escape them by going out toward the river, and they hurry after him with lances poised; but he goes back to the middle of the lake by an underground passage. A man is knocked over; jostled by the invisible animal, he loses his footing and falls. The hippo is here—quite close to us—we see the grasses move. With great skill a man throws a harpoon with a strong cord attached to it. They pull at the animal, which struggles and resists, and, pushing up his head, bellows furiously. He plunges down again, pulling after him the canoes and paddlers. There is an anxious moment, but the weight of numbers tells, and he is brought back to the surface.

Finding he cannot escape, he becomes infuriated; he fights and struggles and throws himself against the canoes, biting at them with his huge jaws; he turns and attempts to charge, then tries again to wreck the canoes. It is too dangerous a game to be allowed to continue, and the men close in and spear him to death with their long lances. His death is almost pathetic; with an effort he lifts his forequarters out of the water, and rests his head sadly against the side of a canoe! Then his head falls, his eyes close, and he dies.—Harper's Weekly.

Silk Scarfs.

To one item of fashion we are to remain faithful. It is the broad scarf made of satin, cashmere de soie or even fine cloth, edged and striped with marabou. It is a very reliable friend in the cool evenings of spring and summer, when the need of something for the shoulders is felt. The scarfs are three or four yards long, and the most attractive are of dull colorings that hint of lovely autumn schemes and suggest the delightful possibility of harmonizing with any other color.

JAPS NEVER DISCOURAGED, BUT LAUGH THROUGH LIFE.

The Japs are the most optimistic people on the face of the earth. Kick a coolie and he will get up smiling; tax him and he will wonder why he wasn't levied on long before; give him a disaster and he will say it might have been worse. He knows no discouragement. Few races in history have been so heavily taxed as have the Japanese to overcome the cost of the late war. They look upon their huge debt lightly, and when the government told them they would have to pay it they laughed cheerfully—and went at it. Commercial activities were doubtful, even trebled.

A smart legislative body put exceedingly heavy taxes on cigars and tobaccos, luxuries all Japanese forego, says the Bookkeeper. In doing this the white foreigner was made to help out the struggling masses. Horses are as rare in Japan as buffalo are in this country today. One may walk a dozen blocks down the principal street of any Japanese metropolis without seeing a single horse. The owners of what few there are pay dearly for the privilege of keeping them. The friend of man in most other countries, here the horse is judged the man's worst enemy. If the country were overrun with horses thousands of rickshaw coolies would be out of a job.

Now, a condition in which people are out of jobs is not good for any country, and particularly is it bad for war debts, as it lets them run on indefinately drawing princely interest.

Circumstance.

Two children in two neighboring villages
Playing mad pranks along the healthy leas;
Two strangers meeting at a festival;
Two lovers whispering by an orchid wall;
Two lives bound fast in one with golden ease;
Two graves grass-green beside a gray church tower,
Wash'd with still rains and daisy-blossomed;
Two children in one hamlet born and bred,
So runs the round of life from hour to hour. —Tennyson.

Apple Pudding.

Line a porcelain baking dish with squares of day-old bread dipped in melted butter, making a firm wall and bottom. Then fill the dish with chopped apples, mixed with finely minced nut meats and raisins, seasoned with powdered cinnamon, powdered sugar and bits of lemon peel and lemon juice. Cover the top of the dish with squares of buttered bread and bake covered for thirty minutes, then remove the covering and bake until the top is golden brown. Turn out on a dish and serve in loaf shape, piping hot, with hard sauce.

A Happy Accident.

"How do you like Cissy Brown's new hat?"

"I don't like Cissy Brown and I never look at her hats."

"This hat was made by the senior class of the new college of millinery."

"Oh, was it? I thought the shape looked queer."

"I guess the shape is all right. They look upon it in the college as an inspiration. It seems that after the class finished it the teacher accidentally sat on it, and everybody says its too chic for anything."

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability nad equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

DUNELLEN GETTING RIPE FOR CRUSADE

Spurred on by the disclosures of Michael Gallagher, who claims that there is a speak easy in Dunellen, Mayor W. A. Sanford intimated to a Daily Press reporter this morning that he is willing to aid in any effort to close up the alleged "joint." The mayor also stated that he takes the same position regarding alleged gambling "joints."

When questioned on the matter this morning, Mayor Sanford said: "I am morally certain that liquor is being sold at the place in question, but I am not legally certain. It is necessary to have the real evidence to wipe out any resorts of the character that are said to exist."

Mayor Sanford intimated that he is willing to do all in his power to bring violators of the law to justice and that if he can obtain the necessary evidence he will take this course.

It is no secret in Dunellen that several poker "societies" are known to be flourishing and that Saturday night sessions extend far into the Sabbath mornings. According to conversation among the church folk sentiment is believed to be crystallizing itself for a crusade against alleged speak-easies and gambling places.

The church element realizes that it has a powerful ally in Judge Lyon, of the Middlesex County Court. Since the enactment of the Bishop's Law, the judge has been extremely active in revoking licenses and refusing renewals to those who have violated the law. At the recent meeting of the Elizabeth Presbyery in this city Judge Lyon was appointed to membership on the temperance committee.

PLAINFIELDERS ATTEND LOCAL LEGION BANQUET

The quarterly meeting and banquet, as well as the annual election of the New York Commandery, Military Order Loyal Legion, was held at Delmonico's, New York, last night. Major J. Langdon Ward, U. S. V., was elected commander succeeding Gen. Anson G. McCook, and Brevet-Major William S. Hubbell, of this city, was re-elected chaplain. The opposition ticket headed by Colonel Horatio C. King for commander and Captain James F. Parker, formerly of this city, for senior vice-commander, polled a large vote.

Following the banquet a paper on "The Indian Campaign in Minnesota in 1862," prepared by Major William F. Morse, was read by Col. Dudley. The speaker of the evening was Chaplain Gleason, of the U. S. Navy, who made the trip with the fleet around the world. His remarks were confined chiefly to amusing incidents of that trip.

Among those present at last night's affair were Major W. D. W. Miller, Captain S. C. Peck, Dr. F. S. Wells, William S. Hubbell, William S. Tyler, W. F. Merrill and Walter C. Dobbins, of this city.

PLAINFIELD BOWLERS RECEIVE PRIZE MONEY.

Plainfield bowlers cleaned up about $100 in the recent N. B. A. tourney at Baltimore. Checks are coming along almost every day and the local pinners are accordingly in high spirits over their fine showing in the tourney. In the two-man competition Chauncey Stout and Francis J. Blatz divided the eighty-seventh prize; Johnny Campbell got sixtieth money, and V. W. Nash, Jr., secured 133rd money in the individual, while Captain Nash's five-man team corralled thirtieth prize in the five-man team.

The final regular meeting of the Young Friends' Association will be held tomorrow evening at the home of Clarence Vail, of Norwood avenue. The subject will be "Single Tax."

RECEPTION GIVEN FOR MRS. GIFFORD COOLEY

Among the charming social events of the early spring was the reception given yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, of Rockview avenue, for her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Gifford Webster Cooley, who was married at Brownsville, Tenn., on April 6. The affair afforded an opportunity for Mrs. Cooley to meet the society folk of Plainfield and North Plainfield. During the appointed hours, 4 to 7 o'clock, the house was thronged with guests.

Mrs. Martin I. Cooley and Mrs. Gifford Webster Cooley were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Mason M. Patrick, daughter of the former; Mrs. J. T. Honeycutt, of West Point; Mrs. James L. Lusk, of Washington; Mrs. William L. Cortelyou, of East Orange, and Mrs. John A. Chambliss, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. Samuel St. John McCutchen, Mrs. J. K. Meyers, Mrs. Maybury B. Mellor, Mrs. Harry V. Borden and Mrs. H. C. White. Those who assisted in the dining room were the Misses Helen Phillips, Ruth VanVliet and Gladys Peck, of the borough, and Mis Dora Waring, of Perth Amboy.

The parlors, reception room and dining room were elaborately decorated for the ocasion with pink and white roses and a profusion of lilacs, presenting an attractive picture. The bride was given a cordial reception by the society folk and altogether the affair was a delightful one.

Mrs. Cooley is the granddaughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue, and Dr. Chambliss officiated at the wedding in Brownsville last month.

DECISION IS RESERVED IN DISTRICT COURT CASE

Judge William Newcorn reserved decision in the suit brought by George Wiegand against Thomas Bodine in the District court this morning. The trial of this case took up nearly the entire morning and much conflicting testimony was heard. Mr. Wiegand claimed that certain utensils and parcels of lumber had been taken from a Lenox avenue house which he was building and that the stuff had been taken by Mr. Bodine. These charges were denied by Bodine, who declared that he had never had the stuff. The case was of so complex a nature that Judge Newcorn could not render a decision without going further into the details. Charles M. Dolliver was the counsel of record in the case which was argued for the defendant by Robert Newton Crane, while Francis J. Blatz represented the complainant.

Max Karff obtained a judgment against Max Mintz & Co. for the sum of $61.43. Mr. Karff was represented by Robert Newton Crane, while Mintz & Co.'s interests were looked after by Harry C. Runyon. Several other cases were on the docket to be tried today, but the session was too long drawn out for representations of counsel being made today. Judge Newcorn had an important case before a jury at New Market this afternoon.

Wonderful Birds at Proctors.

Trained cockatoos will appear at Proctor's theatre, today in a clever spectacular act that has attracted much attention. The birds present a sketch entitled "Shipwrecked," and they tell the whole story commencing with "all aboard" to the trip at sea, the storm, signals of distress, cargo thrown overboard, passengers and officers rescued. James A. Welch & Co., will present a political satire, "McSweeny the Boss," and One String Schultz will do what a violinist cannot do with a cigar box. Clermonto & Miner, "Dem Black Dragoons," character plantation songs and dancing in a "coon-o-log-i-cal" comedy sketch with the pictures complete the bill.

IN MEMORIAM.

The following poem written by the Rev. A. E. Finn, who was Miss Dorothea VanD. Opdyke's pastor while in Plainfield outlines some of the beautiful traits in her character and will doubtless be read with interest by her many friends in Plainfield. Miss Opdyke died at Colorado Springs on April 20.

Seven Beautiful Things in the Life of Dorothea.

Attracted my vision one morn.
Radiant against the darkness,
It shone with the brightness of dawn.

It brought a message of love that day,
To hearts with sorrow bowed down.
It spoke of some rare and beautiful things,
In the life of Dorothea that shone.

These beautiful things in this beautiful life,
Were all the more bright that day;
They were backed by a very mysterious cloud,
That on our stricken hearts lay.

Her love for Jesus was strong and true,
So strong that nought could sever,
Her affections fixed on Christ her Lord,
Forever and forever.

Confess Him? yes, she often spoke
Of Christ her loving Lord,
And with the witnesses for Christ
She was in full accord.

The little children loved her so,
They sought her, not a few,
In this she honored Christ her Lord
Who loved the children, too.

She loved the Holy Word of God,
Its truths she did absorb,
And gave them out to those about,
And led them to the Lord.

Her loyalty to Christ's own church,
Was cheering to us all.
In sunshine, rain; in heat or cold,
She answered the church's call.

Her effort to win souls for Christ,
Was crowned with great success.
She lived and worked and prayed for those,
Whom Jesus died to bless.

A life true, loving, kind and sweet,
Has gone from us today.
She travels on the shining path,
Where Jesus led the way.

But we who linger here below,
In a world of sin and dross.
Are grieved and stricken, sore and sad
By this our awful loss.

But thou, O Lord, hast been so good,
Our broken hearts to bind.
That ever, ever while we live,
In thee our help we'll find.

It is thy will our Father God,
Thy will be done our King;
This is the prayer we offer now,
The song we'll always sing.

—A. E. FINN.

STAMP SELLING MACHINE A MARVEL OF INGENUITY

Of all the coin detectors made in the world by government experts, inventors and others there is none which quite compares with that used in the postage stamp machine invented by R. H. Pollock, of Baltimore, who is exhibiting his machine at the Kensington Hotel. This device is apparently infallible and in a demonstration given to the members of the press yesterday morning it showed possibilities of detective ability that have bank cashiers beaten to a frazzle.

Mr. Pollock was careful to show how it is impossible for any kind of a spurious coin to pass through the specially designed slots and bring out a stamp. Among the coins tried were Russian, German and French, which while in size they closely resemble the nickles of Uncle Sam and in weight they scarcely differ, the machine rejects them without making an error. This was shown so positively that the onlookers marveled.

Lead and other composite imitations were tried without a single one of them effecting a successful burglary on the stamps within the machine, which has received the approval of the government and which will soon be manufactured in this city.

HERE AND THERE.

Some things come from faraway points which at first glance one would think must have been copied from a nearby authority, but it proves that the influences of the Bible are not confined to any one section of the world, as witness this clipping from the Honolulu Times:

If you have the blues read the Twenty-seventh Psalm.

If your pocketbook is empty read the Thirty-seventh Psalm.

If people seem unkind, I. John iv.

If you are discouraged about your work, 126th Psalm.

If you are all out of sorts, twelfth chapter Hebrews.

If you are losing confidence in men, thirteenth chapter I. Corinthians.

If you cannot have your own way about everything, James iii.

If you are anxious, Mathew vi.

It is suggested that men cut it out and paste it in their hats and that women display it in a conspicuous spot in their boudoirs. The advice is sound and the reading good.

Another expression of the will of the people was the voting down of the bill the city for Water Works, and as a consequence the bill authorizing the introduction of hydrant water was lost by a overwhelming majority as follows: For Water, 106; Against Water, 780. We trust now that the "Plainfield Water Supply Company," a private corporation, will take immediate steps toward the construction of water works. The people want water, but not bonds. Let us have water.—From the Weekly Constitutionalist Dec. 3, 1874.

Mrs. Ballington Booth to Speak.

One of the most eloquent speakers on the public platform today is Mrs. Ballington Booth. All who have heard her will consider it a privilege to hear her again; while those who have never listened to this talented speaker, will have a treat Sunday night at the Park Avenue Baptist church, when she will tell the story of her prison work to which she is devoting her life. Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, pastor, will preside at the service and City Judge William N. Runyon will sing.

Will Celebrate Anniversary.

The twenty-first anniversary of the Epworth League will be observed in the First M. E. church Sunday night, May 15. To celebrate the occasion and the fact that the chapter of the church is closing its twenty-first year, appropriate services will be held. Rev. Dr. Hayes, of the M E. church, Westfield, will be the speaker. At the same time Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson will speak in the Westfield church.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church will hold a "May Flower Social" in Vincent chapel, Thursday night, May 12, which will also be a reception to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Anderson.

The Sunday-school of the First Baptist church will hold a social and entertainment in the church Friday night. A fine program has been prepared and a cordial invitation has been extended to all members and friends of the school.

A Minor Poem.

Compared with that of Poe, this stuff
Is merely bosh.
But maybe it will bring enough
To get my wash.

Slightly Used Pianos

At a Fraction of Their Worth

In the selling of our new pianos we accept others in exchange as part payment for the new instruments. These we put in the best possible condition and sell at prices that bear no semblance to their original cost.

These are excellent pianos for beginners or for use in club rooms and public places; many families would be perfectly satisfied with some of these instruments for they are often exchanged for others because of the mere whim of the owners or the desire to replace the piano, which perhaps has been lying unused, for a self-playing instrument such as an autotone—the piano all can play.

Included in this sale will be—

2 Lauter Pianos, 2 Peck & Sons Pianos, 2 Hardman Pianos, 2 Hensel Pianos, 1 J. C. Fischer Piano, 1 Wissner Piano, 1 Bradbury Piano, 1 Schuman, 2 Autotones and others.

Any of these instruments will be exchanged within one year and all money paid allowed on the purchase of a new instrument if you desire.

We will sell them on easy payments.

PRESBYTERIANS TO MEET

General Assembly to Be Held at Atlantic City This Month.

RECEPTION FOR THE PRESIDENT

Sessions to Begin on Thursday, May 19, and to Continue Ten Days —Important Matters for Discussion.

"One of the largest religious gatherings that have been held in New Jersey in years," says the Newark News, "will be that of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church. The sessions, which will open in Atlantic City May 19, will continue for at least ten days, the convention hall being the auditorium of the Steel Pier at the foot of Virginia street. Added interest is given to the gathering by reason of the fact that President Taft will attend Saturday, May 21, and the day following.

"Only once before has a general assembly of the Presbyterian church been held in this State," continues the newspaper mentioned. "That was in 1864, when the old school branch met in the Third Presbyterian church, Newark. The same year the new school met at Dayton, O. The separation of the schools had taken place in 1838, and not until 1869 was the reunion of the two effected. The united body will thus meet next month for the first time in Jersey. Combined with the two branches thus united in the past is now the Cumberland branch, which was amalgamated in 1907, and first met with the general assembly in 1908 at Kansas City. Altogether, there will be upward of 800 delegates present at the assembly.

"The Steel Pier is well adapted for large conventions. The auditorium for the regular sessions will be the one farthest out by the sea, called Music Hall. The central auditorium, half way out on the pier, will be used for the exhibits of the boards of the church, and Casino Hall, near the Boardwalk, will be used for various incidental meetings, except when band concerts are in progress.

Concerning Moderatorship.

"One of the first questions asked about a general assembly is that concerning the moderator. Who shall he be? The office is considered a high honor, and naturally is conferred upon men of established reputation in the denomination.

"There has been a growing tendency to recognize in turn the several so-called sections of the country in the yearly distribution of the honors of moderatorship. Last year the middle west was recognized by the election of Dr. James M. Barkley, of Detroit, who was nominated by the Rev. John McDowell, of Newark. The previous year Dr. Baxter P. Fullerton, of the Cumberland branch and section, was honored.

"No doubt a strong effort on behalf of the Far West will be made again this year, as not since the assembly at Los Angeles in 1903, when Dr. Robert F. Coyle, of Denver, was elected, has that section been recognized. But the East has this year a candidate to present at Atlantic City, and perhaps two of them.

"From a reliable source some possibilities for moderator have been learned. The Rev. Dr. George Alexander, of New York city, for many years pastor of the University Place church, has been mentioned by his friends. Dr. Alexander is much esteemed generally, and the proposal of his name will create at once a following in the assembly. The Board of Foreign Missions is understood to be favorable to Dr. Alexander.

"Another candidate to be considered may be Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, the evangelist, lately returned from a world-wide tour that resulted in monster meetings in Australia and other countries of the East. Enthusiastic friends of the evangelist desire that his work as leader of the assembly's evangelistic enterprises shall be recognized signally by electing him moderator.

"Pittsburg and the great Presbyterian centre of that section have a candidate in Dr. William L. McEwen, whose name was unsuccessfully proposed last year at Denver, and no doubt he will draw many votes. Then there is Dr. Edgar P. Hill, of Chicago, also nominated last year, who has a great many friends ready to stand by his nomination.

"Black Heresy Case."

"A matter of great ecclesiastical interest, and by many considered a very vital religious question, will be brought up in the so-called 'Black heresy case.' A complaint against an action of the Synod of New York, which sustained the Presbytery of New York, in ordaining Alexander Black, a Union Theological student, will be considered by the assembly.

"This case has already had wide prominence. When Mr. Black and other student candidates applied for licensure in April, 1909, before the Presbytery of New York, their examinations were not sustained. A committee of the presbytery was appointed to confer with them, and upon the committee's favorable report, the following June, the presbytery, by a majority vote, sustained the examinations of the candidates, thus virtually reversing the former action. The candidates were then licensed, a minority protesting and filing their objection in proper form.

"One of the candidates, Mr. Black, received a call to the Bedford Park church of New York city, and applied to the presbytery in October, for ordination, and installation into the pastorate of the church to which he had been called. The presbytery by a majority vote decided favorably, accepting his previous examinations.

"The minority, through the Rev. Drs. John Fox, Walter D. Buchanan and F. E. Shearer, presented a complaint to the Synod of New York, in session October 19, and the synod sustained the presbytery. The chairman of the synod's judicial commission was the Rev. Dr. David Bonner, of Binghamton, and associated with him were some of the most prominent ministers of the State of New York. The majority of the New York Presbytery was represented by the late Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, and the Rev. Drs. John R. Mackay and Charles A. Stoddard.

"The minority has now registered with the clerk of the assembly a complaint against the synod's action, and it will rest with the Judicial Commission to decide upon its merits. Whether, as one authority has said, 'it will not cause a ripple,' or whether it will arouse a keen controversy, remains yet to be seen.

Overture Affecting Stated Clerk.

"Another matter which by some is looked at seriously is an overture of the Blairsville (Pa.) Presbytery, involving the old agitation over the power and influence of the stated clerk of the assembly, Dr. William R. Roberts, of Philadelphia. The office of stated clerk has been developed through the unquestionable superior abilities of Dr. Roberts into one of length and dignity. The present incumbent is by many considered the most influential figure in the whole denomination. Heretofore there have been heard rumblings of the storm, but always the clouds have passed away without result. The mumblings were louder when the church was separated somewhat in sentiment over the Briggs and kindred higher criticism problems, Dr. Roberts having been considered a rather decided conservative, and naturally the friends of Dr. Briggs were more easily led to interest themselves in projects to limit the stated clerk's power. The question, however, was never a theological one, and Dr. Roberts has never engaged in such matters, it is maintained, in a way to provoke criticism.

"At the present time the lines are not connected at all with doctrine, nor is there the least doubt cast upon the ability or entire worthiness of the stated clerk, but there are some who think he has too much to do, and that the office has become too powerful in itself.

"The Blairsville overture will ask for the separation of the offices of stated clerk and treasurer of the assembly, and will endeavor to show that Dr. Roberts has too many offices, an astonishing catalogue having been enumerated.

"The great central hall of the Steel Pier will be devoted to large exhibits by the Board of Foreign Missions, the Board of Home Missions and the Board of Publication and Sabbath School. The exhibit will comprise a large collection of articles from the fields represented, exhibiting the manners and customs of peoples and books and literature.

Reception for Taft.

"President Taft on the first day of his visit, May 21, will be tendered a reception. On the next day, Sunday, the President will speak at the great mass meeting for men, in charge of the Rev. Charles Steizle, superintendent of the department of church and labor. If the Sunday-school missionary rally is held on Sunday afternoon, President Taft will also address that gathering on the subject of missions. The Rev. George H. Trull, the Sunday-school secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, will have the Sunday-school meeting in charge. At the last assembly, in Denver, Mr. Trull arranged for a parade of Sunday-school children. These marched to the church amid banners and bands. At Atlantic City St. Paul's M. E. church has been placed at the disposal of the young people.

"Admission to the pier will be by the assembly button for commissioners, and all others desiring to enjoy the assembly can obtain cards of admission by registering at any one of a number of convenient stations, one being directly opposite the entrance to the pier. The work of the evangelistic committeee will be especially emphasized by the presence of Dr. Chapman and M. Alexander. They will have charge of one of the meetings on Assembly Sunday.

"The chairman of the local committee is the Rev. Dr. Newton W. Cadwell, pastor of the Olivet church, which extended the formal invitation to the assembly.

"Among the veteran ministers of New Jersey who will attend as a visitor of the assembly will be the Rev. Dr. Wilson Phraner, of East Orange. Dr. Phraner says that this will be his thirty-third attendance in one capacity or another upon the General Assembly. Dr. Phraner is in his eighty-eighth year, and was formerly for many years pastor at Ossining, N. Y. He has been for some twenty years retired, but active in the work of the Home Mission Board, and as assistant pastor of the Munn Avenue Presbyterian church of East Orange."

HAMMERSTEIN KEEPS HIS BOOKS UNDER HIS HAT.

Oscar Hammerstein declares that he stands alone. He has a long oak "director's table" in his suite of rooms at the top of the Manhattan Opera House. But he facetiously relates that when he holds a full director's meeting he sits in one chair after another until he has sat the round of the table. He calls a full meeting on himself, and votes himself an increase of salary without a single dissenting voice.

What his gains, his losses are, no one knows but Oscar Hammerstein. For he keeps no books nor causes any to be kept. He explained once that he had the simplest method of bookkeeping on record—his own invention. His plan is to keep accounts in his check-book. A glance will always tell him what his balance is; and so long as he knows what he puts in and how much he draws out, there is no need of any more complicated system.

On the other hand, the Manhattan management employs a huge clerical force, and knows to a dollar how much money it has lost during a season.

These, then, are the two camps from which, in competition, New York is bombarded with three hundred opera performances during the season. Nor are the impressarios content to wage war in New York alone. Both opera institutions are victims—and the word is used advisedly—of the "expansion policy." Oscar Hammerstein has built his own opera house in Philadelphia. It is an immense auditorium, and in it he gives four weekly performances. He visits Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Boston and Washington, on tour with his company, while a branch of his forces give opera comique performances in Canada. In addition, he contemplates the building of opera houses in Chicago and Washington.

Miss Dorthea Van D. Opdyke.

Miss Dorothea Van Deusen Opdyke, formerly of this city, died at Colorado Springs on Wednesday, April 20, of pneumonia. She was a member of the Park Avenue Baptist church. About a year ago Mr. and Mrs. George F. Opdyke removed to Jamestown, N. Y. They had not resided there very long before they found it necessary to send their daughter, Dorthea, to Colorado Springs for the benefit of her health. Mrs. Opdyke was with her daughter when she died. The remains were taken to Jamestown and buried in that city. The funeral which was very largely attended by young people, was in charge of Rev. Dr. Ford, of the First Baptist church of Jamestown, N. Y., assisted by the Rev. A. E. Finn, of the First Baptist church, of Rochester, Pa. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

Funeral of Frances H. Hoagland.

The funeral services of Frances H. Hoagland aged two years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hoagland, who died yesterday, were held yesterday afternoon at the home of the parents, 106 Somerset street, the borough. Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church, officiated, and the burial was in the M. E. cemetery.

Harry Finch, who recently purchased a fine jumper, has entered the horse in the meet to be held at Newark next week.

The Man in Lower Ten

By Mary Roberts Rinehart
Author of
The Circular Staircase

Illustrations by M. J. KETTNER

(Copyright, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

"Well, it was this way; of course, I did not know your name, Mr. Blakeley. The telegram said: 'Man with papers in lower ten, car seven,' and after I had made what I considered my escape, I began to think I had left the man in my berth in a bad way.

"He would probably be accused of the crime. So, although when the wreck occurred I supposed everyone connected with the affair had been killed, there was a chance that you had survived. I've not been of much account, but I didn't want a man to swing because I left him in my place. Besides, I began to have a theory of my own.

"As we entered the car a tall, dark woman passed us, with a glass of water in her hand, and I vaguely remembered her. She was amazingly like Blanche Conway.

"If she, too, thought the man with the notes was in lower ten, it explained a lot, including that piece of a woman's necklace. She was a fury, Blanche Conway, capable of anything."

"Then why did you countermand that message?" I asked curiously.

"When I got to the Carter house, and got to bed—I had sprained my ankle in the jump—I went through the alligator bag I had taken from lower nine. When I found your name, I sent the first message. Then, soon after, I came across the notes. It seemed too good to be true, and I was crazy for fear the message had gone.

"At first I was going to send them to Bronson; then I began to see what the possession of the notes meant to me. It meant power over Bronson, money, influence, everything. He was a devil, that man."

"Well, he's at home now," said McKnight, and we were glad to laugh and relieve the tension.

Alison put her hand over her eyes, as if to shut out the sight of the man she had so nearly married, and I furtively touched one of the soft little curls that nestled at the back of her neck.

"When I was able to walk," went on the sullen voice, "I came at once to Washington. I tried to sell the notes to Bronson, but he was almost at the end of his rope. Not even my threat to send them back to you, Mr. Blakeley, could make him meet my figure. He didn't have the money."

McKnight was triumphant.

"I think you gentlemen will see reason in my theory now," he said. "Mrs. Conway wanted the notes to force a legal marriage, I suppose?"

"Yes."

The detective with the small package carefully rolled off the rubber band, and unwrapped it. I held my breath as he took out, first, the Russia leather wallet.

"These things, Mr. Blakeley, we found in the sealskin bag Mr. Sullivan says he left you. This wallet, Mr. Sullivan—is this the one you found on the floor of the car?"

Sullivan opened it, and, glancing at the name inside, "Simon Harrington," nodded affirmatively.

"And this," went on the detective—"this is a piece of gold chain?"

"It seems to be," said Sullivan, recoiling at the blood-stained end.

"This, I believe, is the dagger." He held it up, and Alison gave a faint cry of astonishment and dismay. Sullivan's face grew ghastly, and he sat down weakly on the nearest chair.

The detective looked at him shrewdly, then at Alison's agitated face.

"Where have you seen this dagger before, young lady?" he asked, kindly enough.

"Oh, don't ask me!" she gasped, breathlessly, her eyes turned on Sullivan. "It's—it's too terrible!"

"Tell him," I advised, leaning over to her. "It will be found out later, anyhow."

"Ask him," she said, nodding toward Sullivan.

The detective unwrapped the small box Alison had brought, disclosing the trampled necklace and broken chain. With clumsy fingers he spread it on the table and fitted into place the bit of chain. There could be no doubt that it belonged there.

"Where did you find that chain?" Sullivan asked, hoarsely, looking for the first time at Alison.

"On the floor, near the murdered man's berth."

"Now, Mr. Sullivan," said the detective, civilly, "I believe you can tell us, in the light of these two exhibits, who really did murder Simon Harrington."

Sullivan looked again at the dagger, a sharp little bit of steel with a Florentine handle. Then he picked up the locket and pressed a hidden spring under one of the cameos. Inside, very neatly engraved, was the name and a date.

"Gentlemen," he said, his face ghastly, "it is of no use for me to attempt a denial. The dagger and necklace belonged to my sister, Alice Curtis!"

And Only One Arm.

Hotchkiss was the first to break the tension.

"Mr. Sullivan," he asked suddenly, "was your sister left-handed?"

"Yes."

Hotchkiss put away his notebook and looked around with an air of triumphant vindication. It gave us a chance to smile and look relieved. After all, Mrs. Curtis was dead. It was the happiest solution of the unhappy affair. McKnight brought Sullivan some whisky and he braced up a little.

"I learned through the papers that my wife was in a Baltimore hospital and yesterday I ventured there to see her. I felt if she would help me to keep straight, that now, with her father and my sister both dead, we might be happy together.

"I Understand Now What Puzzled Me Then."

"I understand now what puzzled me then. It seemed that my sister went into the next car and tried to make my wife promise not to interfere. But Ida—Mrs. Sullivan—was firm, of course. She said her father had papers, certificates and so on, that would stop the marriage at once.

"She said, also, that her father was in our car, and that there would be the mischief to pay in the morning. It was probably when my sister tried to get the papers that he awakened and she had to do what she did."

It was over. Save for a technicality or two, I was a free man. Alison rose quietly and prepared to go; the men stood to let her pass, save Sullivan, who sat crouched in his chair, his face buried in his hands.

McKnight saw her, with Mrs. Dallas, to their carriage and came back again. The gathering in the office was breaking up: Johnson had slipped away as unostentatiously as he came. Sullivan, looking worn and old, was standing by the window, staring at the broken necklace in his hand. When he saw me watching him, he put it back on the desk and picked up his hat.

"If I cannot do anything more—" he hesitated.

"I think you have done about enough," I replied, grimly, and he went out.

I believe that Richey and Hotchkiss led me somewhere to dinner and that, for fear I would be lonely without him, they sent for Johnson. And I recall a spirited discussion in which Hotchkiss told the detective that he could manage certain cases, but that he lacked induction. Richey and I were mainly silent. My thoughts would slip ahead to that hour, later in the evening, when I should see Alison again.

I dressed in savage haste finally and was so particular about my tie that Mrs. Klopton gave up in despair.

"I wish, until your arm is better, that you would buy the kind that hooks on," she protested, almost tearfully. "I'm sure they look very nice, Mr. Lawrence. My late husband always—"

"That's a lover's knot you've tied this time.' I snarled, and, jerking open the bow knot she had so painfully executed, looked out of the window for Johnson—until I recalled that he no longer belonged in my perspective. I ended by driving frantically to the club and getting George to do it.

I was late, of course. The drawing room and library at the Dallas country home was very empty. I could hear billiard balls rolling somewhere and I turned the other way. I found Alison at last on the balcony, sitting much as she had that night on the beach—her chin in her hands, her eyes fixed unseeingly on the trees and lights of the square across. She was even whistling a little, softly. But this time the plaintiveness was gone. It was a tender little tune. She did not move, as I stood beside her, looking down. And now, when the moment had come, all the thousand and one things I had been waiting to say forsook me, precipitately beat a retreat and left me unsupported. The arc-moon sent little fugitive lights over her hair, her eyes, her gown.

"Don't—do that," I said unsteadily. "You—you know what I want to do when you whistle!"

She glanced up at me and she did not stop. She did not stop! She went on whistling softly, a bit tremulously. And straightway I forgot the street, the chance of passers-by, the voices in the house behind us. "The world doesn't hold anyone but you," I said, reverently. "It is our world, sweetheart. I love you."

And I kissed her.

A boy was whistling on the pavement below. I let her go reluctantly and sat back where I could see her.

"I haven't done this the way I intended to at all," I confessed. "In books they get things all settled and then kiss the lady."

"Settled?" she inquired.

"Oh, about getting married and that sort of thing," I explained with elaborate carelessness. "We—could go down to Bermuda—or—or Jamaica, say in December."

She drew her hand away and faced me squarely.

"I believe you are afraid!" she declared. "I refuse to marry you unless you propose properly. Everybody does it. And it is a woman's privilege: she wants to have that to look back to."

"Very well," I consented with an exaggerated sigh. "If you will promise not to think I look like an idiot, I shall do it, knee and all."

I had to pass her to close the door behind us, but when I kissed her again she protested that we were not really engaged.

I turned to look down at her. "It is a terrible thing," I said, exultantly, "to love a girl the way I love you and to have only one arm!" Then I closed the door.

From across the street there came a sharp crescendo whistle and a vaguely familiar figure separated itself from the park railing.

"Say," he called, in a hoarse whisper, "shall I throw the key down the elevator shaft?"

THE END.

ELECTRICITY IN BIBLE TIMES

Some Have Offered an Explanation for Miracles by Supposing Its Use.

An electrical engineer of Munich named Stadenmann makes an ingenious argument to prove that the Jews in the time of Moses had an advanced knowledge of electricity, using passages from the Bible to enforce his claim.

His theory of the famed serpent of bronze is that if was a lightning conductor; and he also says that the temple at Jerusalem was protected by metal points connected with the ground.

The most ingenious speculation is in regard to the work of the covenant, which was made of walls of wood covered on both sides with metal. If this were connected with metal teeth on the temple roof, it would form a sort of leyden jar charged by the electricity of the atmosphere, and would give a shock to anyone touching it.

Mr. Stadenmann presumes that Moses gained his knowledge of electricity from the Egyptians. This ancient race certainly had a knowledge of many branches of science that it took the rest of the world thousands of years to learn. But the only proof that they were electrical engineers is one recently advanced by an archeologist—that they must have had electric lights because their underground temples show no traces of smoke.

Jewish Longing for Palestine.

As long ago as 1666 Sabati Zevi set the Jews of Europe preparing for a return to Palestine. Not only the poorer brethren, but even the rich merchants of Venice and Leghorn were seized by the excitement and for a whole century the great bulk of the people refused to be disillusioned. It was not until the appearance of George Eliot's "Daniel Deronda" that the Jewish nationalist movement received another stimulus so strong as this; but in the meantime many schemes were propounded, including an attempt in 1854 to float a company "to enable the descendants of Israel to obtain and cultivate the land of promise." Various famous people have been interested in the idea of establishing an independent Jewish kingdom, not necessarily in Palestine. The Dutch West India Company tried the experiment in Curacoa, and Oliver Cromwell did the same in Surinam.

Making a Language.

An alleged improvement upon the "International" language, "Esperanto," is the result of the labors of a subcommittee appointed by the international committee on artificial languages which met in Paris, under the presidency of the famous chemist, Prof. Ostwald, in 1907. This new "inter-language' is called "Ido." It has its dictionaries, grammars and readers, prepared for the use of readers of eight or nine existing languages. It has been described as a "quintessence of European languages," and its advocates claim that it is simpler and easier to learn than "Esperanto," and that many are adopting it. Prof. Otto Jespersen says it is a "purified Esperanto, freed from the arbitrary word-coinages and word-clipping of that language, its illogical and insufficient rules of word-formation and its clumsy alphabet."—Youth's Companion.

Woman's Mining Claim.

Lady Sybil Grey recently accompanied her father, Earl Grey, governor general of the Dominion, on his trip to the Canadian arctic gold fields. Near Dawson City, the capital of the Klondike, she pegged out a claim for herself with all the prescribed legal formalities and christened it the Sybil. Her first panning out produced $20 worth of gold, which she considered a very promising start. During the long arctic winter Lady Sybil is working her claim by deputy, but she says she will return next summer to supervise operations and examine results in person.

GOLF.

The twelfth annual championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association, to be held over the Morris county links on May 25, 26, 27 and 28, will present the same attractive features as its predecessors, according to the program sent out by W. D. Vanderport, the secretary.

This tournament will get under way with a testing round of thirty-six holes medal play, and the sixty-four contestants who make the lowest scores will continue on in eighteen-hole match rounds, save in the finals, which will consist of thirty-six holes. Those finishing among the first thirty-two in the testing round will qualify for the title, and the defeated sixteen of the first thirty-two will have a chance to compete for the president's cup. Prizes have also been offered for the third and fourth sixteens.

In addition to the championship proper, a club pairs four-ball competition is on the program for the afternoon of the third day. This will consist of eighteen holes medal play, and teams must consist of two players, both members of the same club. Any club may enter more than one team, and, besides the individual prizes, a banner will be awarded to the club represented by the winning pair.

Then there will be the usual eighteen-hole medal play handicap on Saturday, open to all members of clubs in the association, handicaps to be limited to eighteen strokes. Any player not rated on the association's printed list must present before starting a letter from his club secretary, or handicapper, stating how many strokes he receives from some player at his club who is rated on the printed list.

The championship trophy, presented by Daniel Chauncey, will remain the property of the Metropolitan Golf Association until it shall have been won three times by the same player representing the same club, when the prize shall become the property of such club. Until permanent possession of the trophy passes from the association as indicated, it shall be held each year in the custody of the club whose representative shall have won a leg on the trophy at the last championship tournament. The name of the winning player and the club he represents will be engraved on the trophy each year.

Other prizes will consist of the following: Championship gold medal, for the winner of the championship; gold medal, for the runner-up; a prize for the best score in the qualifying round; the president's cup for the winner of the defeated sixteen of the first thirty-two; a prize for the winner of the third sixteen, a prize for the winner of the fourth sixteen; two prizes for the winning team in the club pairs, four-ball competition; a banner for the club represented by the winning team, a gold medal for the player turning in the best gross score in the handicap, a silver cup for the winner of the handicap and a silver cup for the player having the best net score in the handicap.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

For Friday, May 6, at the Plainfield theatre, the popular Smart Set company, headed by the drollest of all negro comedians, S. H. Dudley, will be the next attraction. This season Mr. Dudley will appear in an entirely new musical comedy in three acts entitled "His Honor the Barber." Mr. Dudley has an exceptionally fine role as "Raspberry Snow," an eccentric but unlucky "coon," whose one ambition is to shave the President of the United States. Raspberry has other aspirations, but his pet hobby is to be able to act as the first tonsorial artist of the land. His efforts to obtain this exalted honor, his quarrels with his sweetheart and his adventures with a favorite donkey form comedy. Fifteen song hits wedded to pretty and retentive music are introduced during the progress of the play. Last but not least there is a singing and dancing chorus of twenty-five talented people who have been especially engaged because of their respective abilities. Despite the cost of the production there will be no advance in prices.

G. O. P. Clubs Meeting.

OBSERVE ASCENSION DAY

Trinity Commandery Attends Service at the First M. E. Church.

FOLLOW THE ANNUAL CUSTOM.

Banquet at Knights Templar Asylum Where Local Ministers Make Informal Addresses.

Ascension Day was observed generally in the churches of this city yesterday and special services in commemoration of the great historical event were conducted at Grace P. E. church and at the First Methodist church last night. At the latter Trinity Commandery, K. T., held special services, at which Rev. Dr. Charles M. Anderson preached the sermon. After the services in the church the members of the Commandery adjourned to the asylum in the Babcock building where a banquet was served and some speeches made by Rev. Dr. Anderson, Rev. Ora M. Shoop, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire and Judge John Ulrich.

The service at the First M. E. church was most impressive. Preceded by the choir of the church the Templars to the number of forty in full regalia accompanied by twenty others not in uniform, marched up the center aisle of the church singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" with a volume of surprising excellence joined by the large congregation gathered to participate in the service.

Dr. Anderson's sermon was the big feature of the evening and thoroughly interested the huge audience. He took for his text the first chapter of The Acts of The Apostles, in which the ascension of the Saviour is described. Dr. Anderson drew a lesson fgrom the last three years of the life of Jesus during which He manifested the truest attributes of humanity in His splendid assumption of the sins and weaknesses of mankind drawing from them lessons particularly applicable to men of the present day.

The opening prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Shoop, following which was an anthem by the choir. Miss Bertha VanNuis Willis sang a solo as the offertory and after the singing of a hymn Dr. Anderson delivered his sermon.

Sixty-five members of the Commandery adjourned to the banquet hall immediately after the concluding hymn and here the knights listened to some witty and stirring speeches not the least of which was that given by Rev. Mr. Maguire. In speaking of the advantages of being a mason, regardless of the part of the world in which one happens to be living or staying, Mr. Maguire told of an actual experience in Cairo, Egypt, the place where mysterious crimes occur and where their perpetrators are never discovered. Mr. Maguire accompanied by his wife and sister had been annoyed by the too persistent attention of an individual who had dogged their footsteps from the hotel to and through the purlieus of the Egyptian city until becoming annoyed Mr. Maguire stepped out from one of the bazaars demanding the reason for the apparent espionage of the stranger.

In an instant the supposed highwayman or worse accepted Mr. Maguire's invitation to tell why he was following the party saying he had noticed the square and compass on the lapel of Mr. Maguire's coat and knowing that he and his wife were in a dangerous part of the city had determined to follow them closely to insure their safety. This story was followed by others equally interesting, Matthew H. Ewart, Eminent Commander, contributing in no small degree to the general amusement and entertainment of the company present.

At Grace Episcopal church splendid musical program was rendered by the choir and Rev. Mr. Stevenson preached a powerful sermon on the topic of Christ's life during the period of three years preceding the crucifixion. A large congregation listened to the magnificent singing, and were deeply impressed by the sermon preached by the rector. The offertory number in which Messrs. William and Bertram Tallamy had solos was rendered in the customary artistic manner and for a postlude Organist S. Frederick Smith played the "Marche Solenelle" with beautiful effect. Services were also held in the Lutheran church.

AS TO SEWAGE PROBLEM

North Plainfield's Council to Consider the Subject Tonight.

DEMAND FOR JOINT ACTION.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, With Others, Considers that Question of Cost Is Secondary.

North Plainfield's Council at its regular monthly meeting tonight will confine itself to a consideration of the subject of sewage disposal. As matters stand, since the city discharged its representatives on the joint commission, the only alternative, according to some borough residents, is to build an independent plant. This meets with strenuous objection on the part of large property holders in that municipality, who take the position that the only satisfactory solution of the problem is joint action.

Among the prominent men who have large interests in the borough and who take a deep interest in its welfare is former Mayor William L. Saunders, who considers that the only proper way to solve the problem is for the city and borough to work together. Mr. Saunders is a practical engineer of international reputation and he views it simply as an economic proposition.

'Personally, I much regret that the city and borough do not seem able to get together on this most important matter," said Mr. Saunders today. "From what I can learn, the difference seems to be a very small one. In fact it is insignificant involving as it does a question of who should pay some five per cent of the total expense. That isn't the thing at all; what is to be considered is whether it would be to the advantage of each municipality to have a plant for the use of both. The question of what each should pay is secondary and I don't see why it should enter into the discussion at this stage.

"When it comes to arriving at the proportion of expense and there is a difference of opinion, I should say that a compromise should be made. The question could be properly left to a board of arbitrators. The really big question that confronts us is how to care for the sewage not only for the present but for the indefinite future. Bear in mind the years to come and shape your plans accordingly. Take a broad view of the whole matter and let there be a mutual understanding.

"I think the borough has gone a great way in the matter and has done much for Plainfield already. North Plainfield has found a place far removed from Plainfield and in its own township for the site. Through its efforts a bill has been passed by the Legislature giving the borough and city a right to jointly build and maintain the plant. So I think that the city should take a broad view and show the spirit of reciprocity. I do not see why there should be any hitch over the five per cent which seems to be the only point of difference.

For myself, I am and have always opposed an independent plant, for after much study of the subject I long since arrived at the conclusion that joint action is the true economic principle to be adhered to in this matter."

Councilman L. B. Woolston takes the same view as Mr. Saunders. He believes that the differences between the city and borough should be submitted to an arbitration committee.

Mr. Feickert Treasurer.

At a meeting of the directors of the Ransome Concrete Machinery Company yesterday, Edward F. Feickert was elected treasurer, and as such, will have charge of the financial affairs of the concern. The company, of which E. L. Ransome is president; A. W. Ransome, vice-president, and F. V. Lawrence, secretary, moved its plants here from Jersey City some three years ago. Its business has shown a steady increase since coming here, and at present the shops are working day and night endeavoring to keep pace with the orders that are being received.

The funeral services were held on Sunday. Mrs. Whindleton left one son, Scipio, of this city, and two daughters.

SECOND JURY CANNOT AGREE IN COW CASE

In the second trial of the case of the Society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals against John Winges, before Justice Rogers, at New Market yesterday, an eight-man jury disagreed after four hours of deliberation on the evidence. When the case was tried last week the jury was deadlocked after a 5½-hour session. It is improbable that the S. P. C. A. will continue the case against Winges.

There was much conflicting testimony offered at the hearing by both sides. The trial was enlivened by several tilts between Mayor William A. Sanford and Judge William Newcorn, atorney for Winges. In one of the ripples Judge Newcorn declared to Mayor Sanford:

"You might run affairs in Dunellen, but you can't run New Market, and the Middlesex courts." Mayor Sanford's counsel was Justice Von Minden and the S. P. C. A. was represented by Colonel Edwards, of Newark.

The case was the outcome of Mayor Sanford charging Winges with shooting a cow which belonged to the former.

SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS TO HOLD SPECIAL SERVICES.

There will be a baptismal service at the Seventh-Day Baptist church this evening in connection with the prayer and covenant meeting of the church. The Lord's Supper will be observed tomorrow at the close of the morning service, the pastor being in charge, assisted by Rev. Dr. T. L. Gardiner.

There will be a mother's day vesper service in the church at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. At this service there will be organ music by Miss Jessie Utter, songs by Mrs. John Cottrell and Roy E. Titsworth and Scripture and other readings by the pastor. The Board of Directors of the American Sabbath Tract Society will hold a meeting at the church tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Entertained at Truell Hall.

George O. Stevens, Interlocuter

Many good seats are to be had although the advance sale for the Elks minstrel show at the Plainfield theatre on Wednesday night has been unusually large.

Harry Whetton, the coach, says that the performance will surpass any previous endeavor of the Elks, including as it does such men as George Orlando Stevens, interlocutor; John Cose, Charles Davis, John Todd, Charles Ward, Harry Bdimm and Edwin Bennett, end men, and a bunch of soloists which Thatcher, Primrose & West would have been glad to have numbered among their companies in their palmy days.

The solo singers will include Townsend Fellows, Johnny Campbell, Elmer Cutting, William Tallamy, William G. Smith and Ed Groff, who will be assisted by a chorus of thirty-five selected voices. Tommy Muir will be there with an original monologue and Messrs. Todd and Blimm will present the brand new sketch, "Held Up."

As an afterpiece there will be a plantation scene in which Cose, Bennett, Martin and Randall will sing negro songs to delight any house.

CYCLISTS ARE READY FOR LONG JOURNEY

George Adams and S. C. Haberle will start on their continental ride from this city to San Francisco on Sunday morning. The starting place will be at Jack Horner's cycle emporium on Somerset street at 7 o'clock. Adams and Haberle will be accorded a royal sendoff by their local friends. They will be accompanied to Cranbery by a squad composed of Percy Haberle, James Neal, Caspar Waglow, Benny Herdar, A. B. Dunham, Raymond Mantz and Jack Horner. At Cranbery they will be met by the Trenton Cycling Club which will escort the Plainfielders to Philadelphia.

Adams and Haberle calculate that eighteen months time will be consumed in the journey. The trip will be made by easy stages and both of the riders will work at their trades in various cities on the way. Adams is a carpenter and Haberle is an electrician.

THE WEATHER.

Maximum, 62; minimum, 31.

In the Police Court.

Two drunks were arraigned before City Judge William N. Runyon this morning and both were lucky, escaping with suspended sentences. John McLean, who gave his address as Paterson, was arrested by Sergeant Overbaugh at Park avenue and Seventh street yesterday afternoon. McLean was helpless from drink. Edward Welch, of Newark, caused a disturbance on West Front street and was arrested by Patrolman Birmingham. Both men were sent out of town.

Dorothy R. LeMatty.

Dorothy, the 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John LeMatty, of 436 West Fifth street, died early this morning. The little girl's death was due to complications following an attack of pneumonia. She was ill about four weeks. Notice of the funeral will be given tomorrow.

MARSHAL'S ALERTNESS PREVENTED A BLAZE

Alertness on the part of Marshal Lemuel Pope, of the borough, prevented what might have proved a disastrous blaze in the heart of North Plainfield this morning. While patrolling his beat on Somerset street at 6:40 o'clock this morning, the borough cop, noticed smoke issuing from the roof of a barn in the rear of L. M. French's carriage manufactory.

Hastening to the scene he discovered flames in the hay mow and spreading through the beams. He notified the borough fire department and then directed his efforts to removing five horses which occupied stalls on the first floor of the barn. The firemen on their arrival extinguished the flames by a chemical stream, and only a trifling damage ensued. The firemen were also aided by George Morton who secured a garden hose and played a stream of water on the flames.

It is the belief that the hay was accidentally set on fire by a person or persons who had slept in the barn last night and had been smoking before they made their exit this morning.

STREET COMMISSIONER IS BUSILY ENGAGED

Street Commissioner Gavett is active in his efforts to kill the dust on local thoroughfares. He recently supervised a coating of Tarvia on Park avenue between Fourth and Ninth streets for the purpose of preventing dust and saving the roadbed. Over the Tarvia is placed a covering of fine clean stone.

Mr. Gavett has been handicapped in his labors owing to his inability to secure material promptly. Not being able to obtain a sufficient quantity of fine stone for the covering it has been necessary to purchase 2 carloads of fine roof slag which is now in transit from Catasauqua, Pa.

Work was started this afternoon in putting Texas oil on a part of West Front street in the district east of Grant avenue. This thoroughfare will be treated in the same manner as Park avenue.

BOYS' GOLF COMPETITION BEGINS AT P. C. C. TOMORROW.

The boys' golf competition will begin at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow morning. A number of boys have already been on the links practicing for this weekly event. As there will be two prizes, one for the best gross and another for the best net score every boy will have a chance. Every boy competing must have a partner in order to have his score attested, but this does not mean that he must play with another boy engaged in the competition. He may play with an older member of the club.

The competition will be continued each Saturday morning on the point system as previously announced and the boys having the greatest number of points on each cup at the end of the play will be awarded the prizes. It is something new to have a competition for boys at this club and it is hoped that every boy who has played golf at all will engage in this contest. In the afternoon the men will continue their play for the Spring Handicap cups, Classes A and B, the former with handicaps of 15 and under and the latter with handicaps of 16 and over.

TRADE BOARD'S DOINGS

Higher Wages and Less Hours Demanded for the Policemen.

SEEK A SPECIAL ELECTION.

Body Would Have Vote Taken on Its Proposition to Give Cops Better Pay—Routine Matters.

Less hours with more pay for the members of the local police department, and the adoption of a resolution requesting the Common Council to submit the question of increased pay to a vote of the people at the next general election in November engaged the attention of the members of the Board of Trade at its May meeting last night.

According to the resolution the board desires the Council to take advantage of the act of 1905, and it provided that the Mayor and Common Council take steps to place this question before the people in November and that the several political parties plan to insert it in their calls for the general election.

The act provides that sergeants and lieutenants shall receive $1,350 per annum; detectives, $1,300; roundsmen, $1,100; policemen $750 the first year, $800 the second, $850 the third, $1,000 the fourth and fifth, and any policeman receiving $1,000 for two years shall receive an increase of 5 per cent. on his annual salary until it amounts to $1,200 and shall remain at that figure. It was ordered that the secretary forward copies of the resolution to the Mayor and Common Council.

It was announced that the summer schedule of hours for the police is now in effect, as told in this paper some days ago, that is nine hours for the night men and twelve hours for the day men, with two hours off for dinner. This schedule was compared with those in other cities like Passaic, Paterson, Newark and Elizabeth, alleging that in all places but Plainfield the police have either eight or nine hours straight.

The interests of the city firemen will be considered at the next regular meeting and a special meeting will be held in June when it is hoped to have James F. Buckle give the members a talk on his trip around the world. Refershments will be served.

A communication was received from W. E. Johnson, chairman of the transportation committee of the Roselle Board of Trade, asking the local board to co-operate in an effort to secure better passenger train service on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Milton Mindel was appointed a committee of one for that purpose.

George M. Christian reported that the New Jersey Central had installed telephones in the local railroad stations, in response to the board's request, and this was considered a victory.

F. B. Lawrence resigned as a member of the board and Richard Parrot, Jr., was elected to membership.

The question of payment of bills for the whisky barrels used as "water barrels" during the Charter Day celebration was discussed, and it was decided to refer it to the man who ordered the barrels, when he can be located, and get him to "O. K." the same. There will be no meetings of the board during July and August.

NEW JERSEY HONORS MRS. ERNEST R. ACKERMAN.

Governor Fort yesterday notified Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, of Plainfield, of her appointment to the commission created for the purpose of establishing a National Park along the Delaware river, three miles above Trenton, where General Washington crossed the ice-filled stream. Among other women whom Governor Fort similarly honored are Mrs. Joseph S. Frelinguhysen, wife of the Senator from Somerset county; Mrs. Everett Colby, of West Orange, wife of the former Essex county Senator, and Mrs. John Dyheley Prince, of Ringwood; Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, of West Orange; Mrs. Frank A. Pattison, of Colonia; Mrs. John Wahl Queen, of Jersey City; Mrs. C. Ledyard Blair, of Peapack; Mrs. William L. Dayton, of Trenton; and Mrs. Thomas I. Mackoy, of 624 West Fourth street, organizer and first president of the Nonpariel Social Club, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his birthday, Wednesday, and that evening the members of the club and other friends gave him a surprise party. The evening was passed in a social way, during which the club presented Mr. Mackoy with a handsome cigar cabinet. Refreshments were served.

THIEVES MAKE BIG HAUL

Residence of Howard Canoune Ransacked in Family's Absence.

SILVER AND JEWELRY GONE.

Police Not to Blame for Loss—Inadequate Protection by Common Council Given to That Section.

A burglary involving the loss of a considerable amount of silverware and jewelry from the home of Howard M. Canoune, of Denmark road, was reported to the police this morning and Detective Sergeant John Flynn is making an investigation. It is said that all the silverware, jewelry and other trinkets belonging to the family were taken and that there is absolutely no clue to the robbers.

According to the report turned in by Mr. Canoune his family has been away for some time and he has visited the house only at intervals which accounts for the tardy discovery of the loss. Entrance was effected through a kitchen window and the house was thoroughly ransacked. Table silverware, rings, watches and other things of value were selected by the thieves, but contrary to custom they did not tarry long enough to seek provender for the inner man.

Several residents of the district were seen this morning by a reporter for this newspaper and they all appear to be of one opinion regarding the lack of police protection in that section. It was said by one man that the solitary patrolman on the beat which includes the Netherwood district, must cover a territory seven miles long and besides this has to meet every train stopping at the station.

The residents claim that this is more than any patrolman can do effectively and they propose to petition the Common Council to give more adequate protection. They are thoroughly aroused now and from what was learned this morning there will be something doing in the way of protection before many days.

The Smart Set Tonight.

Messrs. Barton and Wiswell, the well known theatrical firm of New York, have provided an excellent vehicle for S. H. Dudley, the famous negro comedian, to display his well known talents this season. Mr. Dudley heads the popular "Smart Set" company and this year he appears in an eitirely new three-act musical comedy, with book by Edwin Hanford and lyrics and music by Messrs. Brim, Smith and Burris, entitled "His Honor the Barber." Fifteen original song hits are distributed throughout the action of the comedy and a few which are likely to be whistled before the engagement is over are: "I'm Capt. Dandelion," "Before and After," "When Two Hearts Beat as One," "The Dazzling Dashing Widow," "Let Him Dream," "Little Black Cupid," "Strawberries and Cream,' etc.

"Twelfth Night" on June 7.

The Shakespearian play, "Twelfth Night" will be given at the Plainfield Country Club on Tuesday night, June 7, it being an open-air performance by the Coburn Players. Further announcement will be made regarding this affair. The performance will be given by professionals, not amateur players and in order to cover the expenses a charge for seats will be made by the club. Tomorrow the annual field day and opening will be enjoyed by the members of the home club, as well as those of the Park Golf Club, Park Club and Watchung Hunt Club.

Piping Local Golf Course.

The work of piping the golf course of the Plainfield Country Club has been begun, and it is expected to have it completed in about a month This great improvement is something the trustee have for years been wanting to make, and all golfers will benefit from it. The putting greens will soon be greatly improved. The work is under the direction of R. D. Pryde, of New Haven, Conn., and the pipe and fittings have been purchased from the National Tube Company, through Clifton Wharton, Jr., a member of the club.

Borough Council Tonight.

The borough council will meet tonight. It is expected that the sewer matter will be brought up and that a date fixed for the special election. Prior to the council meeting the banquet committee of the North Plainfield Association will hold a meeting.

Funeral services of the late George Alberts, who died at his home on Montague avenue early Wednesday morning, were held from the late home this morning at 8 o'clock and from St. Mary's church at 9 o'clock. LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

A three act musical comedy that differs from its contemporaries in divers ways will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre tonight. It is from the pen of Edwin Hanford and is entitled "His Honor the Barber." As presented by the famous "Smart Set" company with S. H. Dudley in the stellar role, the offering has become one of the real treats of the season. Although the comedy contains fifteen original song hits, musical numbers and ensembles it could easily hold its own on the strength of its brisk and humorous dialogue, situations, novelties, features, etc., and the interpretation of the company itself which is composed of sixty capable people.

OUR MAY WHITE SALE PROVES THE PRINCIPAL STORE ATTRACTION OF THIS VICINITY

Store crowded, sales soaring, values winning enthusiastic approval—such, in brief, is the story of the opening hours of this real triumph in white goods retailing. It is already an established fact that white goods buying at this season can most profitably be centered here.

Assortments provide the most complete selection of new white yard goods, white outer and underwear, white staples, etc. Weeks of time and effort were devoted to preparing for this sale—to searching the markets, viewing goods, separating the wheat from the chaff and using spot cash as the level to close deals at most advantageously low prices.

Sale continues with all its attractions—tomorrow's hosts of shoppers will find all that met with the instantaneous approval of those who have already bought.

Now is the one best opportunity to supply White Goods needs for weeks to come.

NEWS AND NOTES
BY GEORGE E. FIRSTBROOK

PLAINFIELD TURNS OUT MANY PHENOMS

With the advent of young Slocum, the Y. M. C. A. pitching phenom, in local diamond circles, another youthful "wonder" has been unearthed. For several years back Plainfield has gained quite a reputation for having so many star twirlers graduating out of the scholastic ranks, and taking places on strong teams in different towns after the completion of their schooldays.

Slocum's performance against the Marathon A. C. while in the box for the Y. M. C. A. nine last Saturday, when he fanned fifteen Newarkers and held the Essex County delegation to three meazley hits, stamps the local boy as a comer. Manager Listman hails him as a wonder and declares he will do still greater stunts in the box before the season is over.

Two P. H. S. boys who shone brilliantly in the box, and who are remembered by fans are Phil Smith and Stewart Freeman. Smith, after playing with numerous semi-professional nines, has re-entered the simon-pure class again, and is the first pitcher of the crack Crescent A. C. nine in Brooklyn. Stewart Freeman is winning laurels this year on the Yale nine.

Mintford was one of the best pitchers turned out at Leal's School. He played afterward with East Millstone and later on the local Y. M. C. A. team. George Dupee was also a twirling star who started his career on Leal's nine. He also appeared later in a Y. M. C. A. uniform.

N. P. H. S. also did its share in contributing twirlers who made their mark. Fred Armstrong, when at school, was rated as one of the fastest twirlers who performed on local school diamonds. Jack Peacock was another N. P. H. S. star, and he is now winning fame at Princeton, as twirler on the second team.

When Garwood and Plainfield clash on Crescent Oval tomorrow fans should see a corking good contest. Manager Dorflinger hasn't been seen about town since the disaster at Dunellen last Saturday, but it is understood that he has been engaged in injecting vim into the systems of his athletes in view of evening up matters by handing out a decisive defeat to the Garwood team.

Manager Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., is expecting a hard game at Newark tomorrow afternoon, when the local aggregation will meet the Newark Y. M. C. A. The Newarkers are reported to be stronger than in years and from all accounts it will be up to the locals to hustle all the way to win.

Since Krause joined the Athletics he has pitched seven games against Boston. Six of them were shutouts which he won, and the seventh he lost by a score of 1-0. The left hand sluggers of the Boston team were simply helpless before a southpaw.

Artie Hoffman, centrefielder for the Chicago Nationals, has joined the hospital squad as a result of an accident at the West Side grounds in Chicago on Sunday, when he fell as he was rounding third base in the game with Pittsburg. He returned yesterday from Pittsburg, Manager Chance deeming it advisable to send him home for treatment to the injured knee, which had swelled to twice its normal size. He will be out of the game for a week or ten days.

Though Fred Tenny will probably be unable to play much baseball for the Giants this season he will be retained to coach at third base. He has proven himself an adept in this respect and is worth his salary to the club for that reason.

Three of Jenning's youngsters, Browning, Pernoll and Stroud, have pitched wonderful ball and are being praised all over the American League circuit. Jennings had a staff that needed bolstering and if these youngsters hold out as they begun he has an excellent chance to win another pennant. Mack's Athletics, to be sure, are just beginning to hit their stride, while the Red Sox pitching staff has been slow in rounding into shape, off-setting the heavy hitting qualities of the Boston sluggers. New York has been winning pretty steadily, but Manager Stalling's infield is still an experimental one. Wolter's showing has helped the Yanks a lot in their struggles to date and he will probably prove a valuable man. Stalling's pitching staff is still unsettled as yet, and he hasn't one really reliable twirler in the bunch.

Ed Walsh says that Boston is the best baseball town in the world for visiting teams. "They don't go out to see the home team win by hook or crook out there," says Ed, "but they are generous in their applause for both teams. If I am not mistaken I have won sixteen of the seventeen games I have pitched at Boston and the crowd always seems to be with me so much that it seems as if I were at home."

The real sport in the National League race will begin on next Monday when the Giants open up at Chicago and the rest of the Eastern teams clash with the Western nines. The card for the day is: New York at Chicago, Boston at St. Louis, Brooklyn at Pittsburg, Philadelphia at Cincinnati. The teams will play a four-game series. The Giants will travel from Cubville to the abode of the Cardinals, thence to Redville and Pirateville. The Giants will not return to the Brush stadium until June 1, when the Reds will be their guests. On Decoration Day Me-

HERE AND THERE.

Robert Newton Crane, of this city, is the only lawyer in New Jersey who has a certificate of his appointment as a Master in Chancery which is signed in two places by the Chancellor. The usual form for such a certificate is for the Chancellor to sign as the appointing power, below which the Clerk in Chancery puts his signature testifying to the fact that the lawyer has taken the necessary oath before him. Mr. Crane possesses the distinction of not only being appointed by the Chancellor, but also of taking the oath of office before him. When Mr. Crane was appointed by Chancellor Pitney, Clerk in Chancery Robbins was not in his office and so the Chancellor administered the oath.

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability nad equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

NON-SUIT IS OBTAINED BY FRATERNAL ORDER

Because the Supreme court of the Independent Order of Foresters disputed the claim that a policy holder was dead, it set up technical defenses and non-suited the plaintiff in the first Supreme Court case at Elizabeth before Judge Vail yesterday.

Zephysnius C. Dwyer, a Central Railroad locomotive fireman, disappeared about ten years ago and his family say that they have never heard from him since then. Under the New Jersey law such a man is presumed to be dead. An administrator was appointed and upon his claim for insurance being rejected brought the suit at law.

The Foresters put in many technical defenses besides denying that death had occurred. An interesting contest would have developed if the Foresters were required to offer evidence on the question whether the alleged deceased was in fact alive. No evidence was required on this point from the defense because of a motion to non-suit made by Craig A. Marsh on a point of law which the court held to be well taken.

The point was this: The constitution of the order provided that upon any claim for insurance being rejected the claimant should be required to take an appeal to the executive committee of the order in Canada before bringing suit. This appeal was not taken. Mr. Kalisch, counsel for the plaintiff, contending that the constitution of the order in this respect was unreasonable and not binding on a beneficiary or the member's personal representative, and also contending that neither was bound by amendments to any constitution not made until after the policy had been issued.

Mr. Marsh combatted both positions and was sustained by the court and after elaborate argument by counsel on both sides the plaintiff was non-suited.

Has Emery Been "Canned?"

Jimmy Emery's name has failed to appear in the batting orders of the opening games played by the Reading Club in the Tri-State League. Rumors that Jimmy has been let go are current in local baseball circles. Friends of Jimmy received souvenir postals from the local player a few days ago to the effect that he expected to be "canned." If the report proves true Emery may be seen in the Plainfield lineup against Garwood tomorrow.

Tuttle for Congress.

William E. Tuttle, chairman of the Union county Democratic Committee and a wealthy lumber dealer residing in Westfield, will be the candidate of the Democratic party for Congress according to reliable information. As such he will be the opponent of Charles N. Fowler, whose candidacy for a nomination for an eighth term was exclusively announced in The Daily Press yesterday.

George Albert Buried.

The funeral services of George Albert were conducted this morning from his late home on Montague avenue, Scotch Plains, and at St. Mary's church, where Father Bogan celebrated a requiem mass. Interment was made at St. Mary's cemetery, the bearers being Edward Ruth, Philip Blank, William Lee, George Wahl, Charles Yeiog and Elias Southard.

Opens Law Offices in New York.

Abraham Hugo Rubenstein, of this city, who was admitted to practice as an attorney and counselor at law in the State of New York, in January last, has opened an office for the general practice of law at 141 Maiden Lane, New York city, and has been very successful. Mr. Rubenstein is a graduate of the Plainfield High School, also of the Columbia Law School.

Marguerite, the ten-year-old daughter of James Day, Dunellen, passed away yesterday afternoon, after three months suffering with heart trouble. The funeral service will be conducted at the home of her father Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and will be in charge of the Rev. Ernest O. Brown. Interment will be made at Samptown cemetery.

Committee on Tuberculosis.

Freeholders J. Hervey Doane, Haviland and Henry Krausse were appointed a committee at the May meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders yesterday for the purpose of continuing the investigation regarding the proposed tuberculosis camp to be located in the county.

Called Away by Father's Illness.

Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Allen, of 159 Somerset street, observed their twentieth wedding anniversary at their home last night by entertaining a party of friends and neighbors.

MAGICIAN ENTERTAINS AT HEAVENLY REST.

John Henderson, of New York, entertained a large audience at the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest last night with a clever sleight-of-hand performance and Punch and Judy show. The affair was held under the auspices of the Board of Trustees of the church.

After the entertainment dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. Miss Jane Bennett and Miss Laura Long furnished piano music. The committee in charge of the affair comprised Charles Graves, William Ochiltrie, Juan A. Babcock, Charles Kelloway, John Ludgate, James Maynard, John Hull, Samuel Forster and Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, rector.

Gets Pasteur Treatment.

A young daughter of Mrs. Walter Manning is undergoing treatment daily at the Pasteur institute, New York, consequent upon having been bitten on her limbs by a supposedly mad dog on Monday. It is alleged that the animal threw the little girl to the ground and gnawed her limbs making several lacerations. No report of the occurrence has been reported to the police nor has Health Officer O'Brien been notified of the attack.

Mr. Lindaberry Still Single.

J. F. Lindaberry, of Scotch Plains, learned today that his name was being used in connection with that of Miss M. B. Lightly, of that place, and that it had been announced that he was to marry the young woman. He wishes the Daily Press to announce that he is not a candidate for matrimony and has not recently nor at any other time contemplated such a step.

Halley's Comet Visible.

Early risers during the past week have enjoyed the brilliant spectacle presented in the eastern sky just before sunrise. Halley's comet is plainly visible and Patrolman Meyer is one of the first to report having seen it. Lots of people are getting up early to view the famous celestial phenomenon.

Attending Bankers' Convention.

J. Herbert Case, H. H. Pond and F. H. Smith, of The Plainfield Trust Company; Frederic Coriell, cahier, and J. V. E. Vanderhoef, director of the Borough National Bank, are in attendance at the convention of the New Jersey Bankers' Association now in session at Atlantic City.

His Burns Prove Fatal.

Joseph Chiallo, the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Chiallo, of Plainfield avenue, who was severely burned on March 31 last, while playing with burning grass in the yard of the parents' home, died at Muhlenberg Hospital this morning.

Fire Committee Meeting.

The Councilmanic fire committee met last night and transacted routine business. A new horse for use at the East End fire-house has been purchased and is now being "broken in" by Captain Townley.

Origin of "Bull Con."

"Bull con," a slang phrase which means to flatter, to praise with ulterior motives, had its origin in the West years ago. When the gold brick game was started the bunko men sprung a fine, high-sounding combination of words upon the simple farmers. They called it an investment in "bullion consolidated." Years afterward the words were cut down to "bull con," and came to mean any graft that depended upon the gift of gab. Still later on it was used to describe the method of flattery.—Chicago Journal.

How Inspiration Works.

"This sea poem of yours fairly smacks of the salt gale. It is palpably the result of genuine inspiration. You evidently planned it while upon the bounding deep."

"Well, to tell you the truth," said the poet, "I got the idea one day while sitting in a shop having my shoes cobbled."

A Bad Start.

"A man always looks foolish when he proposes," said the frank young woman.

"Yes," answered Mr. Meekton, "and I have evidently failed to overcome the absurd impression I made on Henrietta on that occasion."

Back and Forth.

"Dad, why can't we quit Chicago and live in New York, like all our friends?"

"I haven't made money enough yet, daughter."

"But with these eighteen-hour trains, couldn't you commute?"

When the Trouble Started.

"John, I have decided to have Mrs. Sewswell cut out my dresses after this."

"I have decided to cut out about half of them myself, dear."—Houston Post.

A Wise Teacher.

"You seem to have gotten your boys interested in mythology very nicely."

"Yes; I explained to them that Hercules held a championship."—Washington Herald.

WALKING COSTUMES.

Any attempt to shorten the walking frock and at the same time to narrow the skirt is doomed too failure, because the figure of its wearer must indeed be beautiful to withstand the grotesque effect produced by the appearance of a princess dress brought to a sudden and inglorious end.

The skirts of walking costumes must be full, then, to be graceful and becoming. They must be of a length that escapes the ground, but you must not err on the side of extreme shortness, as the foot, above the ankle, is not attractive.

Coats of these walking suits should be plain, or simply trimmed with bands of braid or fur. The desire for ornamentation should be submerged in the primary use of the suit.

A lovely example of the white walking suit, which has taken Paris by storm, is of cream homespun, trimmed with wide cord that edges the collar and cuffs and ornaments the front of the double-breasted coat, almost in military lines.

The skirt is made with a pleated under skirt, over which a square tunic drops. This opens at the side and is treated to the froglike ornamentation of the black cord.

An idea for any light-colored walking suit for the cool spring days.

WHEN WASHING GLOVES.

The washed chamois glove in yellow and white is an admirable adjunct to our wardrobe. It solves the problem of how to keep gloves clean without expense. The time involved in washing them is so small that it cannot be counted, and the delight of feeling fresh gloves against the hand each day is understood by every woman.

The cheaper gloves do not last, and therefore they are not a good investment. The chamois is thin in places and with a few washings it wears through in holes that are impossible to mend.

A mistake is often made of blowing into the gloves when they are wet and hanging them to dry in this shape. If a woman has a short, fat hand, she will not object to the result, but if she has a long slender one she will be thoroughly discouraged. She will find that the fingers are only half as long as they should be, that the button is up on the palm and that the thumb is square instead of oblong.

While it is well to blow in the gloves to separate the chamois on the inside of the fingers, the latter should be put into shape before drying. It is a much better fault to have the fingers slightly too long than much too short.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Salt fish can be quickly freshened by soaking it in sour milk.

Japanese lacquer trays can be cleaned by washing with cold water and a soft sponge. While still damp dust with flour, rub dry with a flannel and polish with chamois.

The secret of keeping chamois skin soft and supple is to hang it up to dry when still soapy. Remember this when washing chamois gloves.

Not everyone knows that if the edges of graniteware are brushed inside and out with shellac and melted solder immediately applied it will be mended as easily as tinware.

An excellent cleaner for common woodwork, mirrors, windows, fingermarks and grease spots is made by dissolving four tablespoonfuls of soft soap in a bucket of hot water. Add a tablespoonful of parafine while the mixture is boiling. If added later there will be a disagreeable odor.

Hot salt water poured around the casing of frozen windows will thaw them quickly.

From Lucile's Diary

When father announced that he and his new young business friend, Walter Dare, were going to leave Friday before last for a flying trip to Washington, I immediately proposed myself as a member of the party.

"I don't think that would do at all," protested mother. "Your father and Mr. Dare will have a great many matters to attend to and you would be in the way."

"Daddy, dear," I said, after kissing the tiny bald spot on father's head, "is your little girl ever in your way?"

"No, of course not, child," he replied. "Your mother simply meant that Dare and I are going to Washington on pretty important business, and will be too much occupied to devote much time to your entertainment."

"Oh, there are so many interesting things to see in Washington that I can entertain myself," I said.

"Father," I remarked, gayly, Thursday night. "My trunk is packed for Washington."

"Why, Lucile, you're not really expecting to go, are you?" asked mother.

"Of course I am," I answered, good naturedly.

"But your father did not say you could."

"He did not say I couldn't; did you, daddy?"

"No," answered father, "but I fear, my dear, that you'd better not go."

"I haven't been out of town for a long time, father," I urged, "and I love to travel with you. I shall be dreadfully disappointed if you don't take me." I could not keep back the tears as I spoke.

"Oh, well," said father, "if the child's heart is set on the trip I suppose she'll have to go."

Mr. Dare proved a delightful traveling companion. We had some long talks while father was in the smoking compartment. We disagreed just enough to make our discussions spicy, and by the time we reached Washington we were on the footing of old friends without having worn off the novelty of our short acquaintance. He had told me who were his favorite authors and I had named the actors I admired most and had laughingly confessed that my two passions were the theater and automobiling.

"I'm sorry we can't go to some play to-night, Miss Lucile," he said, as we were breakfasting at our hotel Saturday morning. "Unfortunately, business is the order of this evening, but we won't let anything interfere with a nice little theater party Monday night."

"That will be lovely!" I exclaimed, enthusiastically.

When I went to my room after dinner Saturday evening I found a big bunch of roses, a box of candy, a thick new novel and a tiny note from Mr. Dare expressing the hope that I would not be lonely during the evening. I must say I think Mr. Dare was very nice in some ways. He was especially thoughtful about automobiles. Sunday he took father and me around Washington in a big touring car. Monday he suggested that I go to the concert at the marine barracks.

I was greatly astonished and delighted to meet my old school friend, Laura Burnett, after the concert. I had not seen her for years, for she married a marine officer when she was a mere child.

"Jack is stationed here now," she explained, "and we are having a lovely time. We are going to Fort Myer to a hop to-night, and you must go with us. Jack and I know a lot of bachelor officers who will make it pleasant for you."

Just then a perfectly stunning-looking young man joined us and she introduced him as Capt. Blossom, and he begged to be my escort to the hop.

At first I hesitated, but it seemed to me that it would be foolish to miss a military hop just to go to the theater, so I accepted the invitation. Laura and I went down to the hotel in the taxicab and I got an evening dress out of my trunk and wrote a few lines to father asking him to tell Mr. Dare that I was dreadfully sorry to miss the play and that I hoped he and father would have a good time without me.

Capt. Blossom and I dined with the Burnetts and then we all went over to Fort Myer and had a perfectly delightful evening. I certainly think there are no men so handsome on a dancing floor as officers in uniform.

"Where is Mr. Dare?" I asked father the next day at luncheou, for I did not get up to breakfast.

"He took the midnight train for New York," said father. "I'm very much afraid that your absence from the play last night offended Dare, for he went away very unceremoniously."

"Oh, daddy, he never could have missed poor little me," I said, laughingly, but father still looked grave.

The trip home was awfully dull. Father was engrossed in his business papers and when he did talk he kept saying that he feared Mr. Dare's feelings had been hurt.

"Goodness, father," I said, at last, "don't worry. Surely, Mr. Dare isn't a sensitive plant. When he calls on me, as he said he would do, you'll see that he's just as cordial as ever."

But, strangely enough, although he has been at home several days, Mr. Dare has not yet called. Neither has Capt. Blossom sent me the photograph of himself in full-dress uniform that he promised to forward at once. Sometimes I think men are all faithless creatures.

AN ORDINANCE

To Amend an Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance Establishing a Sanitary Code for the City of Plainfield," Adopted December 18, 1902.

The Board of Health of the City of Plainfield, by virtue of the provisions of the act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to Establish in this State Boards of Health and a Bureau of Vital Statistics, and to define their respective powers and duties," approved March 31, 1887, the several supplements and amendments thereto, and of other acts, doth hereby ordain as follows:

That Article No. 6 of the Ordinance to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 1. No person, corporation or association of persons shall sell or deliver or have in possession for sale or delivery in the City of Plainfield any milk or cream without first obtaining from the Board of Health a permit for such sale or delivery.

Section 2. No permit as required in the last preceding section, shall be issued by the Board of Health until there shall be paid to the said Board of Health for the issuing thereof and for a proper inspection and supervision of the sale of the milk or cream, the sum of two dollars.

Section 3. Each permit to be granted under the provisions of this article shall expire on the first day of May following the granting of the same; provided that if any person so granted a permit as aforesaid or any of the employes, servants or agents shall violate any ordinance or rule of the Board of Health relating to the sale, distribution or inspection of milk or cream, such permit may at the discretion of the Board of Health be revoked.

Section 5. Any person, corporation or association of persons engaged in the sale or delivery of milk or cream within the City of Plainfield shall notify the Board of Health in writing before changing the source of supply of the milk or cream to be sold by him or them within said city, and said notice shall also state the name or names of the persons from whom, and the locality from which, said milk or cream is to be procured.

Section 6. Cows. No milk shall be sold or offered for sale or distributed in the City of Plainfield except from cows in good health, nor unless the cows from which it is obtained have, within one year, been examined by a veterinarian whose competency is vouched for by the Veterinary Association of the State in which the herd is located, and a certificate signed by such veterinarian has been filed with the Board, stating the number of cows in each herd and the number that are free from disease.

Section 7. In case of any sickness or contagious disease breaking out in the herd, the owner shall immediately report the same to the Board of Health, and no milk from any of the cows in such herd shall be sold or delivered until investigation shall have been made by the said Board, and permission given by said Board for such sale or delivery. All cows suffering from tuberculosis shall be immediately disposed of and the stables disinfected.

Section 8. Water Supply. Upon notice from this Board that any well or spring, the water from which is supplied to cows or used for washing utensils used in connection with milk or cream or the sale, delivery, or handling thereof, is contaminated, the water from such well or spring shall not be used for any of the above mentioned purposes.

Section 9. Employes. If at any time any person or persons having any connection with a dairy from which milk or cream is delivered or sold or offered for sale in the City of Plainfield, or any resident member of the family of any person so situated, shall be stricken with cholera, smallpox (including varioloid), diphtheria, membranous croup, yellow, typhus, typhoid, or scarlet fever, measles, or any other communicable disease that may hereafter be declared by this Board to be dangerous to the public health, notice shall be given to said Board immediately by the owner or owners of the dairy, and no milk or cream produced from such dairy shall, after the first discovery of any such communicable disease, be sold or exposed for sale or delivered in the City of Plainfield until special permision therefor has been granted by said Board.

Section 10. Milk. No milk or cream shall be sold or delivered in the City of Plainfield which is obtained from a dealer who handles a supply any part of which supply is not approved by this Board; and no person, corporation or association of persons shall deliver or offer for sale in the City of Plainfield any milk or cream unless the entire supply which he handles complies with the requirements hereinbefore set forth, unless satisfactory evidence is given this Board that any and all parts of his supply which do not comply with the said requirements are kept separate and apart and not made the subject of sale or delivery in said city.

Section 11. No pasteurized milk shall be sold in the City of Plainfield unless it is conspicuously labeled "Pasteurized;" said label shall also state the degree (temperature and length of exposure at that temperature) and the date of pasteurization.

Section 12. Samples of milk shall be furnished this Board by any producer or dealer at any time upon request and proper payment therefor.

Section 13. No ice which is obtained from a source which is contaminated or which is so situated that it may become contaminated, shall be used for cooling milk.

Section 14. No milk of a temperature exceeding fifty degrees Fahrenheit shall be delivered, sold, offered for sale, stored or transported in the City of Plainfield.

Section 15. No tickets shall be used in connection with the sale or delivery of milk. All milk shall be delivered in bottles, and no milk in partly filled bottles shall be sold or offered for sale, and no bottles shall be filled, capped or recapped outside the bottling room used for filling bottles and said room shall at all times be kept in a clean and sanitary condition, and milk bottles shall be used for no other purpose than as receptacles for milk; Provided, that in any case in which one customer shall buy at one time ten quarts or more of milk, the milk so purchased may be delivered in one or more cans which have been sealed at the bottling house or creamery; and provided, further, that in case any house, dwelling, apartment or store shall be quarantined, or there shall be in any house, dwelling, apartment or store any case of typhoid fever, milk or cream may be sold and delivered in such manner only as may be specially designated by this Board.

Section 16. No person, corporation or association of persons shall deliver or leave at any house, dwelling, apartment or store which is quarantined or in which there is a case of typhoid fever, any milk bottle, can or other receptacle used for delivering milk or cream; and no such bottle, can or other receptacle shall be removed from such house, dwelling, apartment or store, until permission so to do is given by this Board.

Section 17. Any person, corporation or association of persons selling or delivering milk or cream in the City of Plainfield by means of a wagon or other vehicle shall have the name of such person or persons and the number of the permit in plain letters and figures on each side of the said wagon or vehicle.

Section 18. Cream. No cream shall be sold, exposed for sale or delivered within the City of Plainfield unless it is produced and handled in accordance with the requirements hereinbefore set forth for the production and handling of milk.

Section 19. Milk or cream kept for sale in any store, shop, restaurant, market, bakery, or other establishment in the City of Plainfield shall be kept in a covered cooler, box, or refrigerator properly drained and cared for, and shall at no time be allowed to become malodorous through the lack of proper cleaning; and at no time shall the temperature of such milk or cream be allowed to exceed fifty degrees Fahrenheit. Said store, shop, restaurant, market, bakery or other establishment shall at all times when business is being carried on, be open to inspection by any member of this Board or its authorized agents.

Section 20. Everything about farms, stables, dairy, milk wagons, milk depots of dealers doing business in the City of Plainfield, must at all times be open to inspection of the Board of Health, its officers and agents.

Section 21. The Board of Health will, from time to time, adopt rules and regulations in regard to the production and transportation of milk, and all dairies, the milk from which is to be sold or delivered in the City of Plainfield, must conform to the requirements of such rules and regulations. Any violation of the requirements as set forth in the said rules and regulations, on the part of the dairyman or dealer, will be sufficient cause for the revocation of the permit under which the milk from such dairy is sold. The intention of the Board is that this section shall be deemed to be separable from the other sections of this ordinance and not essential to the validity of the other sections.

Section 22. That if any section of this ordinance or of the ordinance to which this is an amendment shall for any reason be held to be unconstitutional or invalid, it shall not affect the other provisions of this ordinance or the ordinance to which this is an amendment.

They're mounted on 8-ribbed Paragon frames, giving them a wide spread and making them extra strong.

When you see the handles they will speak for themselves—there are fully a hundred different styles to choose from, and many are worth more than we are asking for the complete umbrella.

The women's include long gold and silver handles, with pearl, gold and silver etched caps, long Directoire styles in mission, both plain and trimmed; imported natural Mocha and many others.

The men's include selected natural woods, boxwood, mission, castania, cape horn, stag horn and others; some gold and silver trimmed.

They are umbrellas that by any reasonable standard would be counted worth $1.50 and $2; some would sell for more than that; yet you can choose from this big lot tomorrow and while they last, for only $1.00

HUSTLING JAPANESE INVADE STEAMERS TO SELL WARES.

The struggle for business carries the salesman of the Japanese business house in launches and rickety sampans clear out to every door of the harbor in an effort to reach the visitor before the foreigner or the lagging countryman in town gets a chance at his pocket. Seemingly the quarantine officials connive to see that the merchants have plenty of opportunity to sell.

All the time the ship lies at anchor these persistent peddlers sent out by the leading houses will be with the traveler; he canot lose them says the Bookkeeper. Steamship masters are so accustomed to the practise that it has become good policy to assign them to the after-deck on which to display their wares. The decks of the ships ofttimes resemble good-sized industrial exhibits. One may buy anything from a basket of choicest fruit to a set of Satsuma ware. Walking about through the crowd are Japanese tailors who will measure you while you buy a trinket and deliver you aboard ship a broadcloth suit the following evening.

BUGLE SONG.

The splendor falls on castle walls
And snowy summits old in story;
The long light shakes across the lakes,
And the wild cataract leaps in glory.
Blow, bugle—blow! set the wild echoes flying!
Blow, bugle! Answer, echoes! dying, dying dying!

O hark! O hear, how thin and clear,
And thinner, clearer, farther going!
O sweet and far from cliff and scar
The horns of Elfland faintly blowing!
Blow! let us hear the purple glen replying.
Blow bugle! Answer, echoes! dying, dying, dying.

O love, they die in yon rich sky!
They faint on hill, or field, or river;
Our echoes roll from soul to soul,
And grow forever and forever.
Blow, bugle—blow! set the wild echoes flying!
And answer, echoes—answer! dying, dying, dying.

—TENNYSON.

FINDING HIS LEVEL.

Once there was a bachelor.
Who moved into a flat;
Everyone had children, and
He wouldn't stand for that;
Found one where they weren't allowed;
Then with rage was torn,
For in the rooms above, one night,
A little babe was born!

Moved into another place;
Then he wouldn't stay,
When he noticed children
In the house across the way!

Finally he died. And,
As is everybody's fate,
Found himself a-knocking at St. Peter's golden gate.

"Can't come in? Why not?" says he,
Says the saint, "Oh dear!
I'm afraid you couldn't stand
The way we run things here!
Children, children, all about—
No, it isn't fair;
You go to the Other Place—
You'll find no children there!"

—Cleveland Leader.

SPRING POEM.

Same old zephyrs, same old rills,
Same old tiresome daffodils.

Same old lambkins, same old bees,
Same old budding willow trees.

Same old robins, same old dew;
Spring has nothing that is new.

Same old greensward, Nature's couch;
Same old poet with a grouch.

Fred Dixon, of West Fifth street, left Wednesday on a business trip to Jackson, Miss., Cincinnati and Chicago.

If the boy with bandaged eyes was your only son, Mr. Councilman, would you be able to form an opinion on the merits of the proposed "safe and sane" Fourth of July ordinance? How would you enjoy bringing to manhood a boy blinded or otherwise maimed for life as a result of our silly method of celebrating a national holiday? Is a few pennies profit of a dealer on a dynamite cracker more than the safety of your child? Give your answers to these questions in your vote, Mr. Councilman.

VAN ZANDT PITCHED FINE BALL

Boroughties Rally in the Ninth Inning but It Was Too Late—Percy Bailey Makes Sensational Catch.

Pickled—N. P. H. S. baseballists by P. H. S. Score 6 to 3. Ceremony performed on Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon in a howling nor'west gale. Undertakers, Captain Van Zandt and Charles Burdette Morse, of the famous class of '95, P. H. S. Chief mourners, Professor Phelps, Superintendent H. C. Krebs, and Chief Rooter George "Turkey" Webster, N. P. H. S.

Its all over, P. H. S. snatched the initial victory for the local scholastic championship in an exciting struggle. Incidentally the adherents of the city team reaped a big harvest in bets that ranged all the way from a dime to a dollar. The financial end of the disaster means that scores of borough students will of necessity cut down their daily rations of gum and candy, because all, or nearly all made their way across the brook "dead broke."

The contest bore all the marks of a collegiate battle. Supporters of both nines were out in force despite the chilling blasts. And the girls, too, bless their dear souls, were present. They rooted and yelled encouragement to their favorite nine, just as hearty as the fellows. Hats, bonnets and sweaters of different hues, worn by the gentle sex, and the waving of flags, the red and blue of the Plainfield High and the maroon and black of North Plainfield, gave a picturesque tinge to the grand stand.

Just before the battle started there was a big hull-a-ba-loo. School yells, class yells and all kinds of yells, blended with the melody of school songs, pierced the artic atmosphere without attracting the attention of the Halley comet. Talk about your commotions at a Yale-Princeton football game, our schoolboys and girls put the kibosh on that event, 16 to 1. Now for the game.

Captain Van Zandt's masterly twirling carried the local team through to the posts of victory. Plainfield also played a steadier game than the boroughites, and on straight dope P. H. S. was entitled to the glory of victory. Townley twirled four innings for N. P. H. S., and in the fifth he was succeeded by Carlton Smith, and Taylor delegated to play second base.

There was one bit of sensationalism enacted during the fray. That incident occurred in the sixth round when Percy Bailey, the valiant shortstop of the N. P. H. S. brigade, made a one handed spear of a blistering liner from Lidgate's bat. It was a "Jim Dandy" catch and the fanciest stunt in the game.

Plainfield made a flying start and gained an early advantage by scoring one run in each of the first and second innings. In the initial round Doane beat out an infield hit, stole second, advanced to third on a passed ball, and scored by beating out Percy Bailey's throw of Clarke's grounder to the plate. The situation looked easy for P. H. S. with the sacks filled in this inning, but a smart double by Adams and C. Smith smothered the chances of Van Zandt's men.

Captain Van Zandt scored in the second. "Lefty" Townley passed the P. H. S. captain. This vexed Townley and he fanned Bristol. Terry pasted a fly to center and Adams mussed matters up by doing the muff act, and then the doctor's worthy son went one worse, by making a punk chuck. On this Van Zandt scooted around to third and tallied on Doane's exhilarating Texas leaguer to right field.

Many groans were lifted heavenward at the completion of the fourth. This was a squally session, indeed. Owing to unfamiliarity with baseball law by the umpires, P. H. S. was donated a pair of tallies. Here is how it happened.

Van Zandt started off with a screaming crack to right field. The P. H. S. captain advanced to third base on Bristol and Terry's safe infield taps. Doane held the trio on the sacks by flying out to Dunning.

It was Zerega's turn at the swiping station, but Lidgate went to the bat, slammed the ball to left, bringing home Van Zandt and Bristol.

N. P. H. S. put up the claim that Lidgate was out for batting out of order. After a consultation with the rule book the umps allowed this point, but decided that the runs scored by Van Zandt and Bristol on Lidgate's hit would count. The runs shouldn't have counted, but the rulings of the umpires went, after a protracted wrangle.

A goose egg diet was served up to the boroughites for five innings, and then they got active and scored a run. Pierson Bailey was the fellow who turned the trick. With two down he romped home on C. Smith's welt to left field.

N. P. H. S. struck the rocks in the eighth when P. H. S. added two more runs to the score. After Van Zandt was retired, Bristol made first on Percy Bailey's error. Terry outsprinted a grounder to the same territory. Doane gounded to Pierson Bailey, who in an effort to cut Bristol off at the plate chucked the ball in the grandstand, permitting Bristol and Terry to score, while Doane got around to third station on the rank play. C. Smith then passed Zerega, but Lidgate ended the inning by poling out to Adams.

A rally in the ninth yielded two runs for North Plainfield. Bristol's fumble gave Conroy a start on the circuit. Adams placed a long single into right field scoring Conroy. Adams in an effort to reach third on the throw in perished by the Lidgate-Clarke route. Dunning reached first base on Van Zandt's fumble, and when Lidgate made a careless toss of the ball to Van Zandt, Dunning journeyed to third base. After Taylor struck out Pierson Bailey whacked the sphere to right field for a single which scored Dunning. Percy Bailey rang down the curtain by striking out. The score:

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 8, 1910.

Topic.—The Christian graces.—I Pet. iv, 7-11; Col. iv, 6. Comment by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The word "grace" is used in several senses in the gospel. First and foremost it is the free and unmerited favor of God, as when Paul says in Eph. ii, 8, "By grace are ye saved, through faith, and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God." In the second place, grace is used to designate an adorning attribute of the Christian life, such as faith, hope and love, with the number of other virtues that should characterize the true Christian character. In this sense the apostle Peter uses it when he says "Grow in grace," or in the Christian graces (II Pet. iii, 18). It is in this sense that we are to study of grace—that is, as it applies to the qualities of Christian character and is designated by our subject, "The Christian Graces."

In the topical references we have injunctions concerning certain Christian graces by the two greatest of apostles, Peter and Paul. Let us therefore consider these exhortations and heed them.

The apostle Peter speaks of certain Christian graces from the angle of the coming of Christ. Like the other apostle, Peter looked for a speedy return of the Master. This was an error so far as Christ's second coming was concerned. "The end of all things is at hand," he declared and emphasized the virtues appropriate to such a condition. But it was not for Peter "to know the times and seasons," nor is it for us, but we do know that our time is short and, above all, uncertain. These graces, therefore, should be a constant possession. They should at all times be a part of our lives. From this standpoint he first emphasized the grace of soberness or self restraint. "Be ye therefore sober." Hold yourselves in self restraint. The Thessalonian Christians had become greatly excited over the thought of Christ's coming, had neglected their work and become idlers, and many others when He did not come disbelieved and gave free reign to their passions and appetites.

The thought of our short and uncertain time in this life should guard us against each one of these extreme errors. It should inspire us to soberness of thought and life at all times. We should quietly live our lives, no matter when the time is at hand, and should avoid sin and its excesses. This soberness should be unto prayer or associated with prayer. "Be sober unto prayers" is the better translation of this part of the apostle's injunction. Soberness, self restraint, receive their strength from God, and he who realizes the seriousness of life from the standpoint of eternity will spend much time in prayer. Peter also enjoins hospitality and charity or intense love, which will cover a multitude of sins—not ours, but the sins of others. He who intensely loves another will shield his weaknesses rather than parade them. Again, the gifts or graces bestowed upon us by the Spirit, who is the divine source of Christian graces, should be imparted to others. Let us remember that the time is short, that the end may be near at hand, and practice the graces and virtues that will best become us when the hour of our departure does arrive.

Paul speaks of Christian grace in only one relation, that of speech, "Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer every man." Grace in speech means graciousness, winsomeness. Salt is pungent, but if words of grace are seasoned with salt the speech is sweetened. It is the only method of speech to impress the non-Christian. "A soft answer turneth away wrath," and kindly spoken, gracious words win men for Christ, and "he that winneth souls is wise."

Japan to India.

The Japanese Endeavorers sent a warm greeting to the Agra convention. The far east unites with the mighty empire of central Asia, the land of mystery, meditation and marvelous history, the great teacher of the past. In their greeting the Japanese hope that when India catches the true spirit of Christian Endeavor, which is a happy combination of devout meditation and practical helpfulness, India will rise to great achievements and become once more a teacher and leader of the nations.—Christian Endeavor World.

The Christian Endeavor Army.

According to the report of General Secretary Shaw, there are 71,493 societies enrolled in the great Christian Endeavor army, with 3,551,100 members. Practically all denominations are represented, the Presbyterians being first with 10,198 societies. There are 48,561 comrades of the Quiet Hour and 25,773 members of the Tenth Legion who give one-tenth of their income to the Lord.

The Model Christian Endeavorer.

The model Endeavorer will not waste time in vain regrets over the past.

With every rising of the sun
Think of your life as just begun.
The past has shriveled and buried deep
All yesterdays; there let them sleep
Nor seek to summon back one ghost
Of that innumerable host.
Concern yourself with but today.
Woo it and teach it to obey
Your will and wish. Since time began
Today has been the friend of man.
But in his blindness and his sorrow
He looks to yesterday and tomorrow.
You and today! A soul sublime,
And the great pregnant hour of time.
With God himself to bind the twain,
Go forth, I say—attain, attain!

A Kitchen Necessity—

BOYNTON'S
Single Oven
Newport Range

Undoubtedly, Mrs. Housewife, you know the *dis*advantages of the ordinary kitchen range, but do you know the *ad*vantages of the famous Boynton Single Oven NEWPORT Range?

We haven't space for the whole story, but will tell you part; and first—as a cooker, the "NEWPORT" is the "best yet." Its design is classical (see cut) with smooth, perfect castings and highly finished nickel parts. This means a clean stove and less kitchen work.

Some cooks like the fire box on the right side of the oven, some on the left—"NEWPORTS" are fitted both ways. "NEWPORT" dampers are convenient—the "NEWPORT" water back is large and effective. Every good feature of other ranges is incorporated in the "NEWPORT" and some that are exclusive. Don't buy a range until you see the Boynton man in your town and learn about "NEWPORT" Ranges.

J., at eight o'clock P. M., on Monday, the sixth day of June, A. D. Nineteen Hundred and Ten, at which time and place prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council, and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council,
JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., May 2, 1910.

AN ORDINANCE

to authorize the issuing of municipal bonds for the purpose of obtaining money from the sale thereof for the permanent improvement of streets and highways of the City of Plainfield, pursuant to Chapter 200 of the Laws of 1898, during the year 1910.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That for the purpose of obtaining money from the sale thereof for the permanent improvement of the streets and highways of said City during the calendar year 1910 with permanent and durable material of a kind to be determined in each instance by the Common Council before the work is commenced, to an amount not exceeding fifteen dollars per capita for each of the Inhabitants of said City according to the last official census, but not for more than the amount limited by law, the Common Council of said City do hereby, pursuant to the Act of the Legislature of said State entitled "An Act to authorize the improvement of streets and highways in cities of this State, and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same, and for the assessment of the benefits of such improvement upon the land and real estate benefited thereby," and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, authorize the issuing of thirty coupon municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield of One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) each, and amounting in all to Thirty Thousand Dollars ($30,000), which bonds shall be dated 1st, 1910, and shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum (4½ per cent.) per annum, payable semi-annually, and be payable three years from the date thereof, with the option to the City to redeem or pay off the said bonds, or any one or more of them, at any time after one year from the date thereof and before three years from the date thereof, on giving personal notice to said holders of said bonds or thirty (30) days notice by advertisement in the official newspapers of the City of the intention to make such redemption or payment, which bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and bear the corporate seal of the City and be attested by the City Clerk, and may severally or collectively when ordered by resolution of the Common Council be sold for an amount not less than par value; and there shall be raised by tax in each year hereafter such sum of money as may be necessary to pay the interest on all outstanding bonds and the principal of such bonds as may mature during that year, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefited shall when collected be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds.

Sec. 2. That before any improvement shall be authorized pursuant to the Act of the Legislature referred to in Section 1, it shall be necessary to enact an ordinance designating the street or streets or parts thereof to be improved, together with the kind of pavement proposed to improve them, and all work shall be given out upon contract to the lowest responsible bidder and only after bids therefor have been solicited and received, the Common Council to have the right to reject any and all of such bids.

Sec. 3. That streets or parts of streets to be improved with durable macadam pavement shall be so improved in accordance with the following specifications, that is to say, durable macadam pavement with bituminous binder, shall be laid to a depth running from six (6) inches in the center to four (4) inches at the side, as shown on plan entitled "Plan showing standard cross-sections of streets of the City of Plainfield, N. J., filed in the office of the City Clerk April 30th, 1910," said macadam pavement to be in every respect equal to the macadam with bituminous binder on Union Street between Arlington Avenue and Stelle Avenue in said City. The ordinance specially designating said streets or parts of streets shall also designate in each instance the width to which said macadam shall be laid.

Sec. 4. That after said improvements shall have been completed, the Common Council shall, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, apply to the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Union for the appointment of Commissioners to estimate and assess benefits upon the owners of the lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, in proportion, as near as may be, to an amount equal to the amount of benefits actually acquired by the lands and real estate bordering on said streets or portions thereof respectively, by reason of such improvements respectively; and in case the costs and expenses aforesaid shall exceed the amount of said benefits, the excess thereof shall be paid by the City at large and raised by general tax; no property or owner thereof to be in any case assessed beyond the amount of benefit actually derived from said improvements.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SETTLEMENT.

Notice is hereby given, that the account of the subscriber, administrator of Robert McIntosh (also known as Robert MacIntosh), deceased, will be audited and stated by the Surrogate, and reported for settlement to the Orphan's Court of the County of Union, on Wednesday, the eighth day of June next.

HER WAY OF ECONOMIZING

It was their first open quarrel. Fate had been leading them gently toward it ever since he gave her his last present of all, a plain gold ring. He was not mean by nature, but he had soon realized that a dollar in the courting is worth two in the home.

"We must economize in small things," he had said when she smilingly showed him the house account for the first month with the balance on the wrong side.

So she cut out ice cream sodas on her daily marketing expeditions and he waited until he got home to see the evening paper.

"We must economize in small things," he had repeated when tearfully she showed him the second month's accounts and some unpaid bills. So she cut out going downtown and ordered everything over the wire. Not having even the manly vice of smoking he could attain no further virtues of economy.

Then there had come a bright spot in their lives followed by a cloud. He noticed that she was making a habit of glancing through the morning paper before he carried it off to read on his way downtown. "She is developing," he had told his mother the next day. He heartily approved of women who took an interest in public affairs. But, alas, every time he made some remark on current topics she said: "Yes, dear," when she ought to have said: "No, dear," and vice versa.

"What on earth is the good of reading the paper if you don't get more out of it than that!" he grumbled. It was the first unkind word and she was too hurt to explain. After that the paper was still untwisted when he carried it off after breakfast. And meantime the accounts were slowly getting better, though there was another deficit at the end of the third month.

"We must economize in small things," he reiterated. "It's the little things that make the big items in life. We must'nt spend one penny unnecessarily."

Then came the cloudburst; one evening when he came home he noticed a copy of the morning's paper lying on the table. He said nothing about it, but when it happened two, three, four days in succession he not too kindly made inquiries.

"Where do you get this extra paper every day?" he asked.

"The man brings two now," she replied.

"Do you mean to say we are paying an extra subscription for a paper that might as well be printed in Chinese for all the good you get out of it? No wonder you can't keep the house expenses down if that's the way you go about it."

"Why shouldn't I have a paper as well as you?" she answered.

His reply was "so unlike him" that she went back to the kitchen with tears in her eyes and promptly spoiled the dinner. This was too much unhappiness for one day. She threw herself into an easy chair and hid her face in her hands.

"It isn't the news," she sobbed when he came to her with quick sympathy for the vanquished. "It isn't the news. It's the advertisements. I was shamed to let you see me reading it when you found I couldn't talk about the things you read about. But I do get some good out of it. I saved a dime on those chops you enjoyed so much last night and a whole dollar on that shirtwaist you said was pretty last week. And—and—don't you see it's the bargain advertisements they put in every day—and you haven't noticed what better food we get now—and the dinner's spoilt and—"

"Well, I'm a—" he murmured. "Wash your face and put on that pretty shirtwaist and we'll have dinner down-town."

They are now economizing in big things.

The Oldest Date.

The age of pristine barbarism, or of primitive man, seems to recede ever further and further back, and what is called the dawn of civilization grows more and more remote. Hitherto it has been supposed that the most ancient civilization on earth of which real records had been found could be traced back to B. C. 3500. This refers to ancient Peru, and the culture of its earliest known inhabitants. But the Homiletic Review points out that the professor of ancient history at the University of Berlin, Dr. Eduard Meyer, has been studying afresh the Egyptian calendars on the monument in the Berlin museum. He has discovered that the date B. C. 4241 is frequently cited as that in which the early Egyptian astronomers first calculated their solar year from the rising of the star Sirius. This is by far the oldest reliable date in the history of the human race.

CITY BROKE AGREEMENT

Borough Sewage Committee Says City Backed Down Out of Arrangment.

ARBITRATION IS SUGGESTED.

Wants Election Held and Shows Why Original Plan for Proportionate Expense Is Equitable.

The following report of its work was presented to the North Plainfield Council last night by the borough members of the bi-municipal sewage disposal commission:

"In our report of October, 26, 1909, we made reference to a tentative agreement that had been reached with the city's committee, under which the cost of a joint outfall sewer and disposal works should be apportioned, seventy-five per cent. against the city and twenty-five per cent. against the borough. We also gave figures showing that by such joint action and under such apportionment the borough would save $25,000, as compared with the cost that would be incurred by the construction of its own independent works.

"After reaching such agreement we were faced with the opinion of the city corporation counsel that there was no legislative authority for the proposed joint undertaking. The matter was thereupon dropped.

"During December of last year, your committee was approached by the Honorable Charles J. Fisk and Mr. Mygatt, chairman of the city committee having charge of the matter in question, and we were asked by these two gentlemen to undertake through Sherrerd Depue, Esq., counsel for the borough, the framing of an act that would overcome the obstacle raised. After considerable work and some expense, this was accomplished, and with the earnest assistance of our Somerset senator and representative at Trenton, and the mayor of Plainfield the passage of the bill through the New Jersey Legislature was secured.

"Last week your committee met in joint conference with the city's committee composed of the selfsame gentlemen with whom our previous negotiations had been conducted, and with whom the agreement above referred to had been reached. Lest there should be any misunderstanding as to this agreement, we quote from a report filed with the city's Common Council, under date of December 6, 1909, by all four members of the city's committee, as follows: 'It was therefore agreed that each committee would recommend to its respective Council that the cost be adjusted on the basis of seventy-five per cent. thereof to be paid by Plainfield, and twenty-five per cent. by North Plainfield.'

"At last week's conference we were met with a refusal on the part of said city's committee to join in any recommendation on the basis previously agreed upon as above stated, and the city placed an arbitrary apportionment of seventy per cent. and thirty per cent. as the only one they would now report for approval to their Council.

"This proposition was declined by your commission for the following reasons:

"The 1905 census figures show that Plainfield had at that time 77.08 per cent. and North Plainfield 22.92 per cent. of the combined population of the two communities. We believe that the census figures of 1910 will show that the borough's population does not exceed 20 percent. of the combined population, and if this assumption proves correct, North Plainfield's just apportionment would be one-fifth of the cost. The apportionment of seventy-five per cent. and twenty-five per cent. was agreed to by your committee as a compromise and not as an estimate of a fair division.

Plainfield's committee maintains that a further concession should be made to the city for the abandonment of its present plant, but in such a proposition your committee can see no justice for the reason that the city has enjoyed the sole use of its present works, and North Plainfield has in no way benefitted therefrom, but rather the reverse.

Presuming that North Plainfield has now one-fifth of the combined population, under the city's proposal the borough would be charged $25,000 over and above its share, which amount is equivalent to a large part of the net investment ($90,000 less value of the real estate) that the city would abandon. In other words the city would have received for many years the entire benefit of its present disposal plant, and it is now suggested that the major share of the loss due to its removal, should be born by our community.

"Your commission has always con-

CHARLEY BUTT RETURNS TO CANADA TOMORROW

Charley Butt, and his stock of jokes, will depart for Toronto tomorrow. The "millionaire," who was formerly a local machinist, has been renewing acquaintances in town for a couple of weeks, and yesterday Charley put the O. K. stamp on this city. "There is no place that I like better than Plainfield," said Charley yesterday as he was packing his trunk.

In local machinists' circles no one is better known than Charley uButt, He is one of the veteran printing press erecters in the U. S. A., and there is hardly a city of any size which Charley has not visited and assisted in the installation of the Potter or Scott presses. But Charley is through with the machine shop and is now a gentleman of leisure.

Charley came to Plainfield thirty-two years ago and was employed at the Potter plant for twenty-eight straight years. It was through the late Walter Scott that Butt came to this city. About thirty-five years ago the latter was installing a printing press for the Mail and Empire, at Toronto. He wanted a good assistant and discovered Butt. Butt pleased him so much that he brought him to this city. That was when Mr. Scott was identified with the Potter Company.

Mr. Butt retired from the machinist business four years ago. At that time his father died and bequeathed him $30,000; last November his mother died and left him $55,000 more. With a total of $85,000, Charley expects to live comfortable for the remainder of his days.

ROUTINE BUSINESS OF BOROUGH COUNCIL

Adolph Bohren, of Greenbrook road, who has plans to erect a combination store and dwelling on Stone street, has encountered opposition from the property owners of that thoroughfare. The opposition is due to Bohren's intentions to erect the proposed structure on the front part of the lot, or on the sidewalk line, or about fifteen feet in front of the other houses on the street. The matter came up informally at the meeting of the Borough Council last night. Several Stone street property owners were on hand to oppose the granting of a permit to Bohren, but the matter was laid over until the next meeting of the Council. The cost of Bohren's proposed building is $5,000.

On the motion of Councilman and Building Inspector J. J. Stahl a batch of other permits were granted. They were as follows:

Fanny G. Bolan, garage on Fairview avenue; C. L. Force, double dwelling on Westervelt avenue; Thomas Rutledge, tool house on Chatham street; Nischwitz and Bellis, concrete garage on Watchung avenue; E. W. Vail barn and tinshop on Duer street; J. J. Stahl, concrete garage on Grandview avenue; Frank Mobus, garage on corner Watchung and Coddington avenues; M. S. Trimmer, repairs to barn on Somerset street; J. V. E. Vanderhoef, addition and repairs to dwelling on Prospect place; J. S. Bartle, double dwelling on Watchung avenue; Philip Geise, double dwelling on Watchung avenue; John Wirth, dwelling on Duer street; H. M. C. Clark, work shop on Grandview avenue; H. J. DeMott, wagon shed on Pearl street; George Summers, hennery on Prospect street; W. W. Schenck hennery on Somerset street.

A petition for property owners on Harrison avenue was received asking that sidewalks be laid on the south western part of that thoroughfare between Rockview Terrace and Cedar street. The matter was referred to the street committee with power.

Somerset place property owners petitioned that that street be macadamized: The petitioners informed the Council that they are willing to pay fifteen cents a foot toward the work when completed.

Bills amounting to $3,165.10 were ordered paid. Included in this amount was $500 for Lindaberry, Depue and Faulks, counsel to the sewer commission. The sum of $35 waws appropriated to Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., for Memorial Day expenses.

Councilman J. J. Stahl, chairman of the fire committee, reported the expenses of his department as $250 for April. Recorder Dolliver reported twenty-six arrests during April and $28 collected in fines.

In the absence of Mayor N. B. Smalley, Councilman L. B. Woolston, president of the Council, presided.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris J. Dumont, of Madison avenue, are parents of a girl, born to them on Thursday.

STREET LIGHT PROBLEM

Tungstens, 32 Candle Power, May Supplant 25 C. P. Incandescent.

ARCS ARE NOT FAVORED.

Conference of Civic Bodies at Mayor's Office—P. S. C. to Give Free Trial of Tungstens in Business Section.

The question of securing better lighting facilities, not only for the business section, but the residential section of the city, was freely discussed last night at a conference arranged by the Councilmanic lighting committee. As the result, H. P. Chandler, of Elizabeth, district superintendent of the P. S. C., offered to install thirteen Tungsten lights on Front street, between Watchung and Central avenues, for a month's trial. The offer was accepted.

Mr. Chandler declared that the twenty-five candle power lamp now in use is antiquated, that it never was adapted for street lighting and never will be. He said he believed that the 32 candle power Tungsten which is being used extensivey now throughout the State to be the ideal light for street purposes. Mr. Chandler was not prepared to quote prices to the city for installing these lamps, but added that a rate of $18 a lamp per year is charged in New Brunswick, Metuchen, Somerville and other towns.

Arc lights were discussed, but it was the general opinion that they would be too expensive and would not give the desired result even in the business section.

The centre of the business section which it is desired to illuminate especially includes Front street, between Watchung and Central avenues; Park avenue from Front street to Fourth street; Fourth street, from Park to Watchung avenue; Watchung avenue, from Fourth to Front street and North avenue, from Watchung to Park avenue.

Those present at the conference were Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Councilman D. W. Taylor, George S. Clay, F. L. Montgomery, Herbert Buxton, F. E. Mygatt, City Treasurer W. F. Arnold; R. H. Depew, representing the P. P. A.; William Jeffery, representing the Board of Trade; F. A. Duttenhofer, representing the Plainfield Civic Association; H. P. Chandler, W. R. Causebrook and George H. Andrews, representing the Public Service Corporation.

Mr. Depew did not favor arc lights but advocated the Tungsten lamp. He said he is of the opinion that the lamps now in use are not suitable for street lighting purposes. He declared that he and Mr. Montgomery made a tour of inspection Thursday night and found many lamps in poor condition. In his opinion the Public Service Corporation does not change the lamps often enough. He thought there should be seven or eight changes a year to get the best service.

The discussion brought out the fact that a 60 candle power Tungsten is equal to the old-style lamp now in use and does not consume as much current, while it gives a whiter light. Those representing the various civic associations had something to say on the subject of street lighting and there was not such a wide difference of opinion after all sides were heard.

Mr. Chandler said that he was authorized to quote a price of $80 a year for arc lights on a five year contract, for fifty or more lights, but this proposition was not enthusiastically received, those present being more favorable to the Tungsten lamp. The meeting was only for conference and the Councilmanic light committee will doubtless take the matter up later and make some recommendations to improve the lighting conditions.

The councilmanic light committee and Mayor Fisk took up the question of drafting an ordinance to provide for changing the ssytem of wiring for street lights, and this was discussed with the representatives of the Public Service Corporation. It will probably take a month to prepare an ordinance that would be satisfactory to all concerned, but the change is thought best inasmuch as it is proposed to make a change in the style of lamp to be used on the streets.

Beetles Destroying Trees.

According to H. Crowfut White, president of the North Plainfield Shade Tree Commission, beetles are biting off the leaves of elm trees in that vicinity. Mr. Crowfut advises citizens to spray their trees at once.

EDWARD VII IS DEAD; GEORGE V PROCLAIMED

British Empire Mourns the Death of Its Illustrious Sovereign.

Edward VII, king of Great Britain and its dominions and emperor of India, died at fifteen minutes before midnight last night in Buckingham palace, London, England, after an illness of only three days. Pneumonia, following an attack of bronchitis, was the cause of death. Anxiety over the political situation is believed to have hastened his death.

George V. was formally proclaimed King of Great Britain and Ireland, and of the British Territories beyond the Seas, and Emepror of India today, following the death of his father, King Edward VII., last night.

The Prince of Wales succeeded to the Crown the moment of his father's death, according to the laws of the Kingdom, without official ceremony, but the proclamation, in accordance with precedent, was delivered from the steps of the Royal Exchange and of St. James' Palace. This ceremony preceded that of taking the oath at St. James' Palace before the Privy Council.

Edward was King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the British Possessions Beyond the Sea, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India, field marshal, honorary admiral, honorary colonel of the cavalry of the guard, colonel in chief of the Tenth Regiment of Hussars (the Prince of Wales' Own) and of the First and Second Life Guards, the Grenadier, Coldstream, Scots, Irish and Royal Horse Guards, sovereign of the Order of the Garter, knight of the Order of St. Andrew and of the orders of the Annunciation, the Elephant, the Black Eagle, the Golden Fleece, and many more.

Edward the Seventh was the chief Free Mason. He was elected grand master of the Free Masons in England in 1874, and the next year was installed as first principal of the Royal Arch Free Masons. He originated the Royal College of Music and established a fund for the study of cancer and the search for its cure. He was god-father to more than 100 babies. Emperor William made him a field marshal of the German army. He had decorations, orders and military titles from every monarchy in the world.

The king had six children. His oldest son, Prince Albert Victor of Wales, Duke, of Clarence, died in 1892. His second son, George, Duke of York, married his dead brother's fiancee, the Princess Victoria Mary of Teck. He was born on June 3, 1865, and was married July 6, 1893. As Prince George of Wales he was a most popular "sailor prince," in the navy with which he served and among the people. The king's other children were Princess Louise Victoria Alexandra Dagmar, born in 1867, married in 1889 to the Duke of Fife; Princess Victoria Alexandra Ogla Mary, born in 1868; Princess Maud Charlotte Mary Victoria, born in 1869, married in 1896 to Prince Charles of Denmark, and Prince Alexander John Charles Albert, who was born April 6, 1871, and died the next day.

The Prince of Wales, who now becomes king, and his wife, traveled around the world in 1900 as the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. They went through the British colonies and got an enthusiastic reception everywhere. It was really not until after the return from this voyage that King Edward conferred upon the duke the title of Prince of Wales. The children of this marriage are Prince Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, born June 23, 1894; Prince Albert Frederick Arthur George, born December 14, 1895, and Princess Victoria Alexandra Alice Mary, born April 25, 1897.

Washington, May 7.—President Taft last night sent this message of condolence to Queen Alexandra:

"May 6, 1910.

"Her Majesty Queen Alexandra, Buckingham Palace, London:

"On the sad occasion of the death of King Edward, I offer to your majesty and to your son, his illustrious successor, the most profound sympathy of the people and of the government of the United States, whose hearts go out to their British kinsmen in this their national bereavement. To this I add the expression to your majesty and to the new king, of my own personal sympathy and of my appreciation of those high qualities which made the life of the

AUTOMOBILIST RELEASED

Max Mohor, of Orange, Bailed Out by Brother-in Law Today.

STRANGE ANTICS OF MACHINE.

Wheelmen and Pedestrians in Danger on Park Avenue Yesterday Afternoon—Sinclair Let Go.

It won't do for automobile drivers from out of town to overlook the fact that Plainfield has a wideawake police force and that they are on the job all the time. Max Monor, of Orange, found this out yesterday afternoon when he zig-zagged down Park avenue in an automobile, narrowly missing Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel who was riding his bicycle; escaping collision with an ice wagon near the corner of North avenue and finally landing in the clutches of Detective Sergean: John Flynn, who happened by.

Complaints had been received by Captain Frederickson, acting Chief, from several points along the route pusued by the automobilists with the result that the partolmen were on the lookout for the queerly-acting machine. Sergeant Flynn had stopped to talk with a friend when his attention was attracted by the cries of pedestrians near the corner of West Second street. He descried the automobile making a letter S down that thoroughfare and made up his mind that something was amiss. When the ice wagon was assaulted and the machine had come to a standstill Detective Flynn boarded the car and placed Mohor under arrest. Mohor demanded to see Flynn's badge and after a moment agreed to accompany the officer to headquarters where both men were locked up.

This morning when arraigned before City Judge William N. Runyon, who, by the way, witnessed some of the gyratic perfomances of the auto, Mohor said that he was just trying out the car and that he and Sinclair had stopped in the cafe of a local hotel and had had a couple of drinks which must have been stronger than the liquid dispensed in Orange, as the liquor went to his head. After that the machine did a hoochie-coochie dance along the avenue, according to stories told by several people and pedestrians' lives were menaced.

Judge Runyon read the law from chapter 127, of the laws of 1909, and afterwards held Mohor in the sum of $500 for the action of the grand jury. Sinclair was allowed to go with a suspended sentence and immediately hustled to look up friends of Mohor for bail bonds.

Walter Hetfield, Sr., was retained this morning to look after the interests of Mohor, the latter having been unable to obtain bail.

Robert Guilford, of Orange, a brother-in-law of Mohor, signed the bonds this morning and the prisoner was released. Walter Hetfield, Sr., has been retained as his counsel by Mohor.

TO RAISE THE MONEY FOR CHURCH DECORATION.

The finance committee on church improvements met at Trinity Refomed church last night and organized by electing Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor, as chairman; F. E. Smith, secretary, and A. K. Willett, treasurer. The other members of the committee are Robert J. Clark, C. M. Dolliver, E. F. Sheppard, A. L. Force, B. Frank Coriell, H. W. Marshall Floyd T. Woodhull, W. A. Woodruff, H. C. VanEmburgh, Elias H. Bird, T. R. VanZandt, James C. Field, F. S. Cutter, C. Frank French.

Plans for the new adition to the rear of the church and for beautifying the interior, were submitted and approved and the scheme for raising the necessary funds was also approved. An appeal will be made at the morning service on Sunday, May 15, for subscriptions to this work, and those not present at said service will be waited upon by a member of the finance committee, thus giving all an opportunity to assist. The idea is to have the members of the church and congregation agree to contribute so much a week or month toward the improvements. The committee adjourned to meet again on Monday night, May 16.

John T. Pearson.

John T. Pearson, aged eighty-five years, died at his home, 219 Linden avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday. The funeral services will be held from the late home, Monday morning at 11:30 o'clock and the burial will be at the convenience of the family.

Chimney Fire.

A still alarm brought the borough fire department out last evening to extinguish a chimney fire at 40 Pearl street. There was no damage.

THIS IS TAG DAY IN CITY AND BOROUGH

Have you been tagged. This is the question heard throughout the city, because, you know, this is "Tag Day" and the City Union of The King's Daughters are trying to raise $2,000 to carry on the work at The Day Nursery, as well as other charities maintained by the order. There are three hundred workers busily engaged in all parts of the city and borough tagging everyone in sight and if they have missed you it is not their fault. They started at sunrise and will keep up the good work until late tonight.

The commuters were met at the various railroad stations throughout the day, and the workers also kept tabs on people on trolley cars. The workers met with some amusing experiences, but it is yet to be reported that any were "turned down." One wealthy citizen was noticed depositing ten cents in one box, but there are hundreds of others who will make up for his small contribution.

There are two sizes of tags, the individual and those for horses, wagons automobiles and houses. "Tag Day" headquarters are located at 136 East Front street, where Mrs. A. M. Most, Mrs. E. F. Feickert, Mrs. F. W. Butler and Mrs. F. W. Jones are in charge. They are kept busy receiving the boxes of money and supplying the workers with tags. In all ten thousand tags have been provided. People are cautioned not to give money to anyone not provided with the badge of the order. The committee in charge will count the money tonight at headquarters and it will be displayed in the window. It is expected that $2,000 will be raised.

LAST SHOW FOR SEASON ONE OF THE BEST YET

The last show for this season will be seen at the Plainfield theatre tonight. "'The Servant in the House,' a profoundly thrilling dramatic invention of exquisite moral and literary symmetries, found utterance last night at Power's theatre and came as a freshet of amazement upon the parched and blsted fields of *modern plays and the frothing bat*tle of playwrights feverish in the annual plot hunt," wrote the critic for the Chicago Daily News on the day following the Chicago premiere. "Charles Rann Kennedy, the author of 'The Servant in the House,' has produced the most beautiful play of all ages because he has been able to seize with an actor's craft that which lay upon his heart with a revolutionist's fervor and hung within his soul of souls as a crystal lamp of holy unquenchable light."

"The Servant in the House," presented by the New York cast, comes to the Plainfield theatre tonight. This will be the last performance of the season.

LECTURE ON NAPOLEON.

Clergyman to Talk on "The Little Corsican."

The Women's Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest is making arrangements for a lecture of a historical nature to be given at the Plainfield High School on Tuesday night, May 17, by Rev. Clarence Woods, of Roselle. The subject will be "Napoleon Bonaparte," one which Mr. Woods has made an extensive study of and is well fitted to speak about. It will be illustrated with living pictures.

The members of Co. K are to be given an invitation to attend this lecture in a body. The proceeds will be devoted to church purposes. Mr. Wood, who is a student of Napoleon, has read over four hundred books bearing on the subject to obtain material for thelecture. He has given this lecture for the Board of Education of New York city, where it attracted considerable attention.

Judge Warns the Boys.

Another case of shooting fire arms within the city limits was brought before Judge Runyon this morning, Robert Johnson, of Essex street, being the culprit. Robert had disobeyed his father in shooting his rifle at a cat and complaints from the neighbors caused his apprehension. The judge gave the boy a lecture. The next violator will be fined.

Pin Caused Blood Poisoning.

John Walton, the night orderly at Muhlenberg Hospital, is off duty for the present owing to a case of blood poisoning in the second finger of the right hand. It was caused by picking up an infected safety pin. It was found necessary to remove the nail of the finger and the danger point is now passed.

'UNCLE DAN' FOR M'GRAW

Morris County Leader Opposes Fowler and Predicts His Defeat.

STATE TREASURER TALKS.

Fowler's Strongest Political Supporter Says Union, Morris and Warren Do Not Want Him Again.

That Charles N. Fowler, Representative to Congress from the Fifth New Jersey District, and the only Republican insurgent from this State, is not going to have a smooth road in his candidacy for an eighth term, which he has just announced, is evidenced by the declaration made today by State Treasurer Daniel Voorhees, acknowledged Republican leader of Morris county, that he is against the continuance of Mr. Fowleh in Congress. When asked if Mr. Fowler would secure the support of Morris county Republicans in the Fifth District convention, State Treasurer Voorhees promptly answered that he would not. Mr. Voorhees added that Morris county would have a candidate of its own in the person of James H. McGraw, of Morristown, who has been frequently mentioned as a successor in Congress to Mr. Fowler.

"Will Morris county be able to control the situation?" Mr. Voohees was asked.

"I think it will," answered the State Treasurer. "While it is true that Union county, with 118 delegates in the Fifth District convention, can outvote Morris and Warren counties in making a Republican nomination for Congress, it must be remembered in considering Mr. Fowler that he cannot control all the votes in his county of Union. I do not think that Mr. Fowler can count surely for himself more than twenty of the 118 delegates to be elected in Union County. These will come from Plainfield and Westfield. Morris and Warren counties, acting in harmony, as they undoubtedly will in the Fifth District convention, will easily control the nomination by securing the support of some of the delegates from Union county."

"Mr. Fowler has never had Union county sentiment solidly for him," continued Mr. Voorhees. "Two years ago he was renominated only because Morris county refused to join in a movement originating in Union county at that time to keep him out of Congress. Mr. Fowler said at that time that he would retire from Congress at the end of his present term."

"Did you talk to Senator Kean about the Congressional nomination in the Fifth District when you were in Washington a few days ago" Mr. Voorhees was asked.

"Is Senator Kean against Fowler?" asked the reporter.

"Senator Kean is busy on his own job—he wants to be re-elected to the Senate," answered Mr. Voorhees.

"Then you believe that Mr. Fowler will not be able to secure a renomination," was suggested.

"Yes, sir," replied Mr. Voorhees.

Mr. Voorhees does not entertain any doubt about the willingness of Mr. McGraw to become a candidate against Representative Fowler. Mr. McGraw has been prominent in Morris county Republican politics for several years, although never a seeker for office. Two years ago he was a delegate from the Fifth District to the National Republican Convention at Chicago. When Governor Fort was looking about for a man to name as a successor to Judge William Vredenburg on the Court of Errors and Appeals, he offered the place to Mr. McGraw, but the latter declined it. At that time he told Governor Fort that his business affairs would not permit him to attend to the duties of the judge-ship. He is engaged in the publishing business in New York, and is the owner of the Electrical World and the Street Railway Journal, besides a number of other publications. He was formerly the proprietor of Success Magazine.

OUR MAY WHITE SALE PROVES THE PRINCIPAL STORE ATTRACTION OF THIS VICINITY

Store crowded, sales soaring, values winning enthusiastic approval—such, in brief, is the story of the opening hours of this real triumph in white goods retailing. It is already an established fact that white goods buying at this season can most profitably be centered here.

Assortments provide the most complete selection of new white yard goods, white outer and underwear, white staples, etc. Weeks of time and effort were devoted to preparing for this sale—to searching the markets, viewing goods, separating the wheat from the chaff and using spot cash as the level to close deals at most advantageously low prices.

Sale continues with all its attractions—tomorrow's hosts of shoppers will find all that met with the instantaneous approval of those who have already bought.

Now is the one best opportunity to supply White Goods needs for weeks to come.

GOLF.

A one-day tournament calculated to attract the advertising golfers of Manhattan and vicinity has been arranged for Thursday, June 2, to be held over the joint eighteen-hole course of the Marine and Field and the Dyker Meadow clubs. In the evening a dinner will be served at the shore house of the Marine and Field Club, when plans will be presented for a permanent organization of the advertising interests for the purpose of promoting golf and tennis tournaments and outdoor sports among its members.

It has been decided to open the clubhouse and links of the Lawrence Park Country Club on Wednesday, May 11. The formal house warming and reception will follow on May 14. Work on the links is progressing favorably under the direction of Tom Chisholm, the club professional, who was formerly with the Canoe Brook Country Club. Chisholm is pleased with the prospect, and declares the course will afford good sport even to the most advanced player. A scratch tournament will be held on Saturday, May 14, and the committee urges all members to attend, as the scores handed in will be the basis for handicapping. Three cups are offered by the board of governors for this event.

Still another feature controlled only by us, is the ability to play pianissimo effects as they should be played—properly rendering trills and arpeggios in even the softest measures.

Remember, you needn't know the first thing about music to be able to use and enjoy this player-piano.

STRAIN TOO GREAT.

Hundreds of Plainfield Readers Find Daily Toil a Burden.

The hustle and worry of business men,
The hard work and stooping of workmen,
The woman's household cares,
Are too great a strain on the kidneys,
Backache, headache, sideache,
Kidney troubles, urinary troubles follow.

A. C. Lazzi, 44 Elm place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for five years and from my experience with them, I feel that I cannot give them too much praise. I have to da a great deal of stooping at my work and I think that my kidneys became weakened in this way. I suffered from a dull, grinding pain in my back and also had attacks of rheumatism. Another source of annoyance was irregular passages of the kidney secretions. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Randolph's drug store and I was soon in good health. Since then hard work has brought no one or two slight attacks of backache but a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to give me instant relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

SPORTS
NEWS AND NOTES
BY GEORGE E. FIRSTBROOK

SHOULD STUDY UP BASEBALL RULES

A few lessons in Spalding's baseball law would not be amiss for some of our local umpires and school team managers. This was made evident by the dispute which marred, to a certain extent, The P. H. S.-N. P. H. S. game which was played on Crescent Oval Thursday afternoon.

It all came about when Lidgate batted in Zerega's turn, banged out a two bagger scoring Van Zandt and Bristol. Lidgate was out for batting out of turn, and the two runs scored on the hit of Lidgate should never have been permitted to count. Lidgate's two bagger didn't count, why should the pair of tallies count?

A simple rule covers the case, yet the umpires became befuddled and doctored up a rule of their own—a "compromise" as one stated after the game. Lidgate was squarely out, and the pair of runners should have been ordered back on the sacks.

Some of the N. P. H. S. partisans claimed that Lidgate was aware of the fact that he was hitting out of turn and that it was an unsportsmanlike act on the part of the P. H. S. catcher.

If such is the case Lidgate should be censured by the High School management. There was no excuse for him batting out of place, as he had followed Zerega earlier in the game. A continuance of these tactics will check the popularity of school sports in this city.

Earl Fulton, a New Market pitcher of reputation, has been signed to pitch for the hustling West End A. C.

No chance of the inhabitants of Dunellen being pestered by mosquitoes this season if the Dunellen Call is correctly informed. The Call says: "Baseball enthusiasm is at the white heat point in the borough now since the great victory of last Saturday over Clinton avenue, better known as the Plainfield team, and nearly every one in the borough has turned into a baseball bug.

A baseball team has been formed at New Market. The organizers, in selecting the name of "Eagles" have chosen a bully good name. Herman Beiler is manager of the combination and George Nelson is captain. The personnel of the club is as follows: George Nelson, catcher; Carl Hansen, pitcher; Frank Stillwagon, first base; John Snyder second base; Robert Perrine, third base; Lorraine Meeker, shortstop; Herman Beiler, right field; Charles Snyder, center field; Fred Von Minden, left field.

Local fans are greatly interested in the gilt-edged performance of the Newark Indians in the Eastern League race this season. A big delegation is going over tomorrow to see McGinnity's Braves clash with the Buffalos.

If "Ory" Dodge can hit his old time form Manager Dorflinger will have a handy player. Dodge has the experience and there is no reason why he shouldn't be as speedy as ever.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability nad equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

Phone us and our wagon will call.

tended that a proper division of the cost of a joint municipal improvement such as is contemplated should be upon the basis of the population served or property values benefitted. These are the methods adopted in the case of the Metropolitan Boston Sewerage District, the Pasaic Valley Sewerage System and also that of Montclair, Bloomfield and Glen Ridge. We have yet to learn of a single instance where any other plan of apportionment has been used. We have been willing to recommend an apportionment on the basis of ratables or upon the population as shown by either the 1905 census or that of the present year. If the apportionment was based upon the 1905 census the city's proposition would entail a per capita charge on North Plainfield 45 per cent greater than the per capita charge upon the inhabitants of the city, that is to say, the cost to the borough would be $13.64 per capita and to the city $9.46 per capita. This disparity would be considerably increased if the probable relative growth of the city and the borough since 1905 is considered.

"If the preponderance of benefits to be derived from joint action was with the borough there might be some reason for the city's position, but on the contrary, we believe that the balance of such benefits would lie with the city. It is believed that removal of the city's works is only a question f a few years. If temporary makeshift is made of their further use, the city will be compelled to spend $70,000 upon enlargements and improvements. There would be a saving in maintenance to the city alone of $3,000 per annum under a joint improvement, as compared with Plainfield's present operating expense. This sum capitalized is equivalent to another $70,000. The removal of the city's disposal works would set free real estate valued at upwards of $50,000 and it is therefore not difficult to figure an actual, immediate saving to the city, by joining with the borough, on the basis of seventy-five per cent. and twenty-five per cent. apportionment. In addition to this consideration, there is no question that the city's ratables would materially increase by the proposed change in its disposal site. On the other hand the city's further investment of $70,000, above mentioned, would be an ultimate dead loss, and what is still more serious, each year's delay will mean in increasing difficlty in finding any nearby disposal site.

"It is not within our province to criticize or make suggestions as to the city's policy, but we are entitled to place before your honorable body all the facts reflecting upon the reasonableness of the position taken by either side, so that an intelligent decision may be reached by the borough, and the onus for the failure of these negotiations may be correctly placed.

We have suggested that the entire question in dispute be submitted to arbitration and in doing so we believe that a limit to concessions has been reached.

At our request Mr. Depue has prepared an amendment to the borough laws providing for the issuance of serial bonds, i. e., bonds as to which a stated amount shall be retired each year. This will obviate the necessity of a sinking fund with the dangers and expenses incidental to caring for such sinking fund for 40 years.

Notice of the intention of the Council of this borough to submit to the voters of the borough, at a special election, the question of the construction of its own sewerage ssytem, has been published, as required by law, and the required time will have elapsed on Friday, the sixth inst. To prevent any question on this score, we recommend that the Council, when it adjourns, does so for one week to May 13, next, and on that day pass a resolution fixing an early date for said special election.

Respectfully submitted,
JOS. O. OSGOOD,
S. St. J. McCUTCHEN,
J. P. EMMONS,
E. S. BOYER,
W. J. BUTTFIELD,

OCEAN GROVE PROGRAM HAS NOW ANNOUNCED

Great oratorios are to be dispensed with at Ocean Grove during the summer, but the program gives the first complete arrangement for the entertainment of the people who will visit that seaside resort.

The usual concerts and other musical entertainments will be included and negotiations are being made by Professor Tali Esen Morgan with a number of prominent artists.

There will be two children's festivals and also the Fairyland usually connected with the baby parade in Asbury Park.

The large orchestra of preceding seasons will be greatly diminished, only a few cornets and violins having been engaged as yet.

The religious program, which will open on Sunday, June 19, will be fully as extensive as at any time in the history of the camp-meeting city.

The program of religious and other meetings of the summer in so far as it has been arranged is as follows:

Sunday, June 19—Bishop Randolf Dubbs, of the Evangelical society.

Wednesday, July 6—National Association of Friends convention begins to last a week. Special services of religious nature.

Sunday, July 17—Services by Friends.

Sunday, July 24—Bishop Candler will preach.

Monday, July 25—Lecture in evening by Bishop Chandler.

Saturday, July 30—Lecture by Bishop Quayle, of the M. E. church, North.

Sunday, July 31—Anniversary and memorial services of Ocean Grove will be held. Preaching by Bishop Quayle.

Monday, August 1—The Rev. Dr. J. R. Shannon, of the Metropolitan church of Washington, and the Rev. John Krantz, of the Methodist Publishing Company, of New York, will preach. Bishop Wilson will preach in the afternoon at the missionary service.

Sunday, August 7—Dr. McMullen, of New York.

Sunday, August 14—The Rev. Dr. Eckman, of St. Paul's church, New York.

Sunday, August 21—Camp-meeting services; Bishop Wilson.

Sunday, August 28—Camp meeting services with some other bishop in charge.

Sunday, September 4—Methodist Brotherhood Day. Arrangements are being made for preaching by a bishop of prominence.

No other Sundays have as yet been definitely fixed.

During the season a day will be devoted to the International Sunshine Society, and another to the Florence Critendon Circle. The W. C. T. U. will have two days. Several days will be given over to both the Woman's Foreign and the Woman's Home Missionary Societies. There will be two or three days devoted to education.

The great Bible class will be in charge of Dr. Munhall, and the Rev. Mr. Hudson will have charge of the intermediate Sunday-school. Mrs. Kate Skrim will have the teaching of the primary department. Mrs. J. A. Hudson will direct the youth's department and the children's meetings.

Dr. William H. Morgan, of Newark, will be in charge of the Young People's Temple, beginning about the last of June or the first of July, up until July 31, when Dr. Charles H. Mead will take charge and conduct it to the close of the season.

The twilight services will again be conducted by Miss Rumsey, beginning somewhere about July 1 and continuing from then on through the remainder of the season. Miss Ruth Harris will be in charge of the singing of these meetings.

The holiness meetings, conducted by the Rev. Dr. Alday, at 9 a. m., will begin with the first Sunday of the season and continue every day until the last Sunday in September.

The Sunset meetings at the beach will be held every Sunday evening that the weather permits.

Planning for Annual Horse Show.

The Plainfield Riding and Driving Club in preparation for the seventh annual horse show June 2, 3 and 4, have enlarged the stables and carriage enclosure, sufficient for all probable needs. The ring 325x180 feet is underdrained, insuring a dry and springy track. Every precaution against fire will be taken and during the days of the show a detachment of the local fire department will be present and on duty day and night. Tea will be served in the ladies' pavilion and a maid will be in attendance in the ladies' cloak room.

Union Lodge, No. 4026, G. U. O. O. F., will attend service at the Mt. Olive Baptist church, Sunday night, Rev. Dr. Roberts, of the Shiloh Baptist church, will preach the sermon.

$3.50 Recipe Cures Weak Kidneys, Free

Relieves Urinary and Kidney Troubles, Backache, Straining, Swelling, Etc.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eye; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps, unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and the despondency?

I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, K1239 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-conquering powers.

It will quickly show its power once you use it, so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

Lew Fields' production of "The Jolly Bachelors," with Nora Bayes, continues its routine of playing to absolute capacity eight times per week at the Broadway Theatre. The entire company numbers 200 people and the principal members of the cast in addition to Miss Bayes are Harold Crane, Jack Norworth, Lionel Walsh, Billie Taylor, Elizabeth Bruce, Stella Mayhew, Nat Fields, Robert Dailey, Ethel Kelly, Jesse Sadler, Nellie Lynch, Lew Fullerton and Henry Lehman. Matinees Wednesday and Saturdays. Best seats Wednesday matinee $1.50.

"Lulu's Husbands," with Mabel Barrison and Harry Conor, under the management of the Messrs. Shubert, is evidently destined to be an all-summer dramatic attraction, for it has started with a rush and seats are in demand for many weeks in advance. It has been computed that there are more than 100 laughs in the entertainment which means that the fun is continuous from start to finish. In addition to Miss Barrison and Mr. Conor, the cast contains such expert laughmakers as Louise Closser Hale, Fanchin Campbell, Sophie Tucker, Mae Carlisle, Edward Heron, Robert Dempster, Riley Chamberlain, George Sheloir, H. S. Sargent and F. T. Daniels. Matinees Wednesday and Saturdays. Best seats Wednesdays matinee for $1.50.

Wholesome, native American humor never scored a more sweeping victory than in "The Fortune Hunter," Winchell Smith's comedy of town and country, which is now in its thirty-fifth crowded week at the Gaiety Theatre, at 46th street and Broadway. This pleasant piece so perfectly played by John Barrymore and his supporting company has won the cordial commendation of ministers, priests and rabbis in New York and Chicago. Vice-president Sherman declared on his last visit to New York that he "came from Washington to see it." The story is engrossing in its cumulative interest, the stage pictures are so typical and the humor so racy of the soil that the American playgoer feels that here at last is a comedy that is nobly of the United States. The end of the run is still far, far away and seats are selling four weeks in advance. All visitors to New York owe it to themselves to witness "The Fortune Hunter." It represents the best in our national life and throughout it is delightfully entertaining. Up-to-date advice has been given from a score of New York pulpits to see this comedy and to learn of what high things the modern stage is capable.

FRIGHTFUL DEATH OF A CEMENT WORKMAN.

New Village, May 7.—Disregarding instructions given by three of his fellow-workmen cost the life of Dominick Burge, at the Edison cement plant Thursday afternoon. The man was left in charge of the conveyor and was given specific instructions how to operate it. His companions then left him and went to another part of the plant.

While they were gone they noticed that the machinery which operated the conveyor was not working properly, and investigated. Burge was found in the convevor, having been drawn into the ponderous machine. His leg was crushed up to the hip and it was necessary to take the machine apart in order to release him. He died just as he was being lifted out.

The body was taken to an undertakers, and the funeral will be held from there tomorrow.

ENGLISH DIVINE PUTS BAN ON BRIDGE WHIST.

Bridge whist was eliminated from the list of "manly sports" by Rev. F. B. Meyer, of London, at a meeting Thursday afternoon in the series under the auspices of the World's Sunday-school Association, which closed last night. Mr. Meyer is president of the association. He doesn't share the universal love of his countrymen for bridge, which, he declared, should be barred from the pastimes of a true Christian. He urged participation in all other manly sports.

The meeting was held, as were those of Wednesday, yesterday morning and last night, in the First Presbyterian church. Rev. Howard H. Brown, of Orange, president of the Essex County Sunday-school Association, presided.

Mr. Meyer, in addition to his references to sport, discussed the advisability of "getting back" to the old-fashioned forms of religion. He maintained that the old rules and regulations would have to be revived, as the present-day customs of church-goers in regard to attendance at theatres, card-playing and indulging in inordinate dress were unchristianlike. Until Christian men become active in municipal life, he declared, the cities of the land will not be clean.

"The Art of Illustration in Teaching" was the subject of an address by Marion Lawrence, general secretary of the association, and a song service was led by Professor Edward O. Excell, of Chicago, musical director of the world association.

MOB TRIES TO LYNCH MAN ACCUSED BY CHILD

A mob at Elizabethport Thursday afternoon attempted to lynch John Conway, a man who lives at 418 Pine street. It is alleged that he tried to attack Mary Picastay, five years old, whose parents reside at 402 Bond street.

He met the girl at 3 o'clock and is said to have enticed her into a hallway at 455 Bond street, where he nearly tore all the clothing from her body. The child's screams were heard by her mother, who was looking for her, and she came to the rescue. The alleged assailant fled, hotly pursued by Detective-Sergeant Mulcahy, who happened to be in the vicinity.

Conway ran through Heidritter's lumber yard and managed to elude the detective, who gave up the search. When the people living in the neighborhood heard of the affair they started out to search for the fugitive and finally located him in the cellar of a house on South Park street.

Policeman Conboy, who happened to be out for a walk, saw the excitement and when he learned the cause he took a baseball bat from a boy in the crowd and, entering the cellar, forced Conway to surrender and took him to the Second Precinct Station. He was followed by an enraged crowd that made efforts to get the prisoner away in order to hang him, and it was with great difficulty Patrolman Conboy managed to get the man lodged safely behind the bars.

In police court yesterday Conway was committed to jail without bail to await the grand jury's action.

PRINCETON STUDENTS IN FOREIGN MISSION.

Princeton, May 7.—Both American and English universities have been actively interested in the Christian movement for the enlightenment of China, and among the various institutions for that purpose the Princeton mission in Peking has become one of the most influential, and will soon be an established power in the revolutionizing of the Chinese capitol, mentally, morally and physically, according to a review of Princeton's work there just made public here.

The organization is allied with the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association and besides the general educational work which is carried on, it also has the other activities of the latter organization as a main issue.

One of the secretaries of the organization, Robert Gailey '97, all-American football player while at Princeton, who had been for some time supported in China by the University entered in the mission's service in 1906 with Dwight Edwards '04. In 1907, Louis D. Froelick '06 followed taking up temporary work in the army department of the Peking Association.

John Wanamaker, the merchant, a few years ago, pledged $30,000 for an Association building at Peking which will be the headquarters of the Princeton mission. At present the mission is temporarily occupying buildings on a centrally situated lot, which has been paid for by a fund raised for the purpose in Peking.

Thus far a well patronized night school, the supplying of American students for parts in the government schools, and the fruitful work among the soldiers of ten different nations, are the features of Princeton's missionary enterprise among the descendants of Confucius.

Besides the work of the Princeton delegation in China, Yale, Pennsylvania, and Obelin College have long been active in this field. Harvard and the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, England, have proposed to establish missions in Chinese territory.

The Telephone— A Friend in Need

WITH a telephone at home, the business man does not feel the urgent necessity of being at the office.

Without a telephone, frequently he goes to business when he should stay indoors, sometimes thus developing a serious sickness from a slight indisposition. A telephone would keep him in touch with his place of business, and his place of business in touch with him, so that all ordinary affairs of the day would go on as though he were at his post.

It does not matter how far a man lives from his office, for Bell Telephone Service is both Local and Long Distance.

FREEHOLDERS DECIDE ON TUBERCULOSIS HOSPITAL

The principal thing done by the Union County Board of Freeholders at its meeting in Elizabeth Thursday afternoon was to finally decide on the erection of a county tuberculosis hospital, reports having been received from the different municipalities throughout the county giving their indorsement of the project.

After these communications were read Freeholder Krouse, of Linden, offered a resolution which was unanimously adopted by the board.

The resolution provided that the director appoint a committee of three, together with the county collector, Nathan R. Leavitt, to investigate the cost of a tuberculosis hospital, and to examine into the cost of maintaining the same, and to investigate institutions of like character erected by other counties or municipalities in the State, and report back to the board the result of their investigations, and to make such recommendations as they deem necessary. Director Cady, of Summit, appointed as the committee Freeholder Krouse, of Linden; Doane, of Plainfield, and Haviland, of Elizabeth. The director himself is also a member by virtue of his position.

A resolution was adopted by instructions from Circuit Court Judge Vail increasing the salary of the court crier, Henry J. Shoppe, from $900 to $1,200 a year.

Freeholder Wilbur offered a resolution which was adopted, that the County Road Committee be instructed to go ahead and properly finish the road from Roselle to Elizabeth, and deduct the cost of this from the balance due Contractor James C. Parks who, it was claimed, had failed to complete the job to the satisfaction of the board.

Parks, in a communication to the board, threatened a law suit if any of his money was withheld. The above action is its reply to his threat.

A committee of three was appointed to report on building a bridge across Effington place, Westfield. The Sinking Fund Committee reported it had $61,564 at its disposal. It was decided to run a pipe 100 feet long across a culvert at Woodside avenue, Lyons Farms, at a cost of $300.

P. H. S. NOTES.

The crowd at the P. H. S.-N. P. H. S. game was the largest that has ever attended a High School game Manager Runyon announces that the receipts were very large and will help the team out of the hole in which it has gotten on account of the poor attendance at the other games.

In the last inning N. P. got busy and rattled P. H. S. a little, but not enough to do any damage. They scored two runs in this inning.

The fielders on both sides played exceptionally good games and very few flies were muffed.

P. H. S. started right out at hitting. Doane was the first up at bat and knocked a pretty base hit right off the reel.

Doane made the first run on Clarke's hit through short. It was a pretty one.

In the first inning Runyon knocked a fly right into the centerfielder's hands, which was doubled back to second putting Lidgate out.

In the second inning Conroy made a pretty hit through Zerega.

Van Zandt made a pretty run on Doane's hit in the second inning.

Townley, the N. P. H. S. pitcher, made a fine showing in the third when Lidgate knocked a hot one right into his hands, which he held on to.

Lidgate made the only two-base hit for P. H. S., bringing in Bristol and Van Zandt, but it didn't count as he was declared out for batting out of turn.

All through the game Doane was a star at the bat, also in the field.

Bristol was right there on second. He caught Lidgate's throw from the plate every time. N. P. hardly ever reached second on a steal.

Clarke kept them all guessing on third. He kept many a man from reaching home.

Percy Bailey's catch of Lidgate's hot liner in the sixth was a peach.

UNION ENDEAVORERS CONVENTION PROGRAM

William Phillips Hall, one of the leading laymen of the Methodist Episcopal church and a trustee of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, will be the speaker at the evening session of the annual convention of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union, to be held Friday, May 13, in the Presbyterian church at Westfield, the meeting beginning at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Hall is known as the business man evangelist. His business interests are large and important. He is the inventor of the block signal system in use on most of the railroads throughout the country and is president of the Hall Signal Company, whose plant is at Garwood, with offices in New York. His home is in Greenwich, Conn.

As an evangelist Mr. Hall's efforts have been crowned with success, many having been led into the Christian life through his earnest words and forceful personality. His wide experience in Christian service and his wide acquaintance with men of affairs have given him a fund of information and an insight into human character such as come to few men.

As a speaker Mr. Hall is in much demand. At the St. Paul international C. E. convention held last July he made an address that will not soon be forgotten, and delegates to the State C. E. convention held at Atlantic City in 1908 will remember his strong address on personal evangelism given in the pavilion on the Steel Pier—"out at sea."

Besides Mr. Hall's address there will be a number of interest features in the program for "Friday, the 13th." There will be a roll call of all the societies of the county, and the badge banner, now held by the Greystone Presbyterian C. E. Society, Elizabeth, will be awarded to the society having the largest percentage of its active members present. The county union is divided for convenience into four districts, each in charge of a vice-president. The four sections are Elizabeth, Plainfield, Rahway-Westfield, Summit. The societies in each of these districts are those in the towns named and all contiguous territory. There are thirty-eight young people's societies, three intermediate and eighteen junior societies.

Officers for the year will be elected, the delegates acting upon the report of the nominating committee, of which Fred S. Bonteau, of Summit, is chairman. The present officers are: President, P. F. Benedict, Roselle; vice-presidents, William D. Newton, Summit; Clarence B. LaRue, Plainfield; Frederick L. Mintel, Rahway; F. Herbert Hand, Elizabeth; secretary, Harry F. Brewer, Elizabeth; treasurer, Frederick E. Woodruff, Cranford.

The meeting will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, and until that hour seats will be reserved for each society of the county, the places being designated by markers. Those societies having badges are requested to wear them, and all delegates are asked to wear the county colors—Yale blue and white. The convention will be open to all, and friends of the young people are most cordially invited.

At 4:30 p. m. there will be a conference of the Junior superintendents of the county, in charge of the new county superintendent, Miss Nell C. Green, of Elizabeth. Miss Green has been fortunate in securing as the speaker for her conference Chester Bradley, of Newark, the superintendent of Junior work in the Essex County C. E. Union. Mr. Bradley's work for the boys and girls has not only endeared him to the children, but has won for him the high esteem of the officers and societies of Essex. It is expected that the conference will be of great value to the superintendents.

Following the conference the junior workers will be entertained at supper by the C. E. Society of the Westfield church, of which Miss Ethel Irving is president.

A meeting of the executive committee of the union will be held at 7:15 p. m., at which the business of the year will be closed and reports received. This committee consists of the officers, department superintends, and delegates from the societies comprising the union, each society being represented by three members—its president, one other delegate appointed by the president, and the superintendent of the Junior society.

The annual meeting last year was held at Summit and was largely attended. The year has been one of growth and advancement, and it is expected that the convention at Westfield will be one of especial interest and profit.

Fifteenth Annual Institute.

The fifteenth annual institute of the Plainfield Graded Union of Sunday-school Teachers will be held in the First Baptist church Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock and 7:45 o'clock in the evening. Beginners, primary, junior and intermediate teachers are invited, as well as all who are interested in Sunday-school work.

Mrs. John Andrews and Miss Abby Crammer, of Somerville, have been visiting Mrs. Lawrence Whitall, of this city.

Pastor Says He Earned Respect of Protestants and Catholics.

THE INCIDENT AT ROME.

Rev. Dr. Herring Deplores Utterances of Archbishop MacConnell and Rev. Dr. Brann.

In the course of a sermon on "Truth and Freedom" last night at the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, the pastor, made reference to the incident at Rome that prevented a meeting between former President Roosevelt and Pope Pius X. He treated the subject calmly and in expressing the view that Mr. Roosevelt had shown tact and diplomacy in the way he treated the incident, said:

"We have read with extreme regret the remarks of Archbishop MacConnell, of Massachusetts and the Rev. Dr. Brann, of New York, in which they characterized Mr. Roosevelt's refusing to take sides in a religious controversy as insulting to the Pope. The only thing that our ex-President could do for the sake of both his Catholic and his Protestant friends under the trying circumstances was the very thing he did do. It was hardly fair to place such restrictions upon his actions.

Mr. Roosevelt is an apostle of peace but of a peace that has intimate relations with righteousness. We have this confidence in him that according to his light, he is brave enough to give every man "the square deal," but we do not believe that the diplomacy that made conditions which deprived him of his freedom and endangered his popularity with the American people was wise or thoughtful.

"There were just three things open for Mr. Roosevelt to do after the conditions were imposed upon him by the papal authorities. He might have accepted them and had his audience with the Pope, or he might have rejected them and addressed the Methodists. We can readily see what either of these actions would have meant in the eyes of all true Americans. There was only one other thing open to him and that was to courteously refuse to take sides.

"I believe that Mr. Roosevelt has still the great respect of the Pope, the respect of the Methodist church and Protestants generally for his wise action. More than that I believe that the great body of American Catholics have exactly the same respect."

Dr. J. C. Anderson was master of ceremonies, and made an address on Odd Fellowship, while J. W. Murey, local and grand secretary of the order, presented an annual report of the local and national order, showing the grwoth in membership and finances during the year. William Jones was marshal for the occasion. Following the report, the sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. E. W. Roberts, of the Shiloh Baptist church, who is a member of the order. INTERESTING EXHIBIT OF Y.W.C.A. CLASSES

Among the hundreds of people who attended the annual exhibit of the educational classes of the Young Women's Christian Association which was conducted at Shirley and Johnson's store Saturday afternoon and evening, there was hardly a single person who did not speak words of praise of the advancement and accomplishments in this department of work of the association.

The visitors to the exhibit found a big display of handiwork in dressmaking, millinery, embroidery work and cooking.

The embroidery exhibit was particularly attractive and was largely patronized by the woman-folk. This exhibit was in charge of Miss Amy Lough.

The hats and ribbon flowers in the millinery department which was under the supervision of Miss Edith Capron was also inspected by the visitors. Many favorable comments were forthcoming on the flowers which filled the vases.

A point of interest was the cooking table which was filled with dainties prepared by members of the cooking class. In charge of this department were Miss Willian A. Conner, Miss Anna Campbell and Mrs. Frank Rowley.

The art displayed in the dressmaking exhibit also reflected a great amount of credit on the gownmakers. Miss Isabel Scarborough was in charge of this booth.

There were also on exhibition photographic exhibits of gymnastic work. This feature appealed more to the men folk who visited the exhibit.

The officials of the association are highly gratified over the splendid showing made by the different classes and preparations are being made to increase the scope of work next season. At the present there is an enrollment of 350 members in the different classes.

Haberle and Adams expect to reach Philadelphia tonight and start wesward again tomorrow morning. Both riders carried letters of introduction to mayors of other cities from Mayor Newton B. Smalley.

YOUNG FRIENDS HEAR HENRY M. HAVILAND

To protest against indifference, to suggest a wider interpretation of religion than those commonly accepted, to pray,—not, "Our Father, we thank thee for our many blessings," but "show us how to be thankful," were some of the chief thoughts expressed in an able paper presented by Henry M. Haviland, of Brooklyn, at the annaul meeting of the New York and Brooklyn Young Friends' Association, with the local association yesterday afternoon. The meeting was held at the meeting-house of the Religious Society of Friends on Watchung avenue.

In spite of the unfavorable weather a large audience gathered. The paper was well written and profoundly thoughtful. In the discussion that followed others said, "that God is found in the flaming sunset, in the grandeur of the mountain peak, but as well in the soul shaped to higher purpose by suffering;" that it "is essential for all of us to do something with all our heart and soul" and that "he who has lived truly, honestly and uprightly expresses the true religion."

The visitors who entered into the discussion were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Browning, S. Elizabeth Stover and Edward Cornell. Soon after the close of the meeting supper was served, and the guests left on an early train for their homes.

MRS. JEANETTE JAMIESON DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

Mrs. Jeanette Jamieson, wife of James A. Jamieson, aged twenty-seven years, died yesterday at her home, 229 Stebbins place. SERMON TO PYTHIANS

HOPE CHAPEL WAS CROWDED.

God an Inexhaustible Source of Power and Influence for Good, Says the Pastor.

Unity and Perseverance lodges, Knights of Pythias, accepted the invitation of Pastor L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel to attend the service in the chapel last night and about one hundred members of the two lodges were present in a body. Part of the chapel was reserved for the knights and after they were seated the edifice rapidly filled up.

The Pythians sang their ode and the chapel choir rendered some selections after which Rev. Mr. Howard delivered his address. The concluding ceremony was the singing by the combined audience and the benediction by the pastor.

At the beginning of his address, Rev. Mr. Howard expressed his appreciation of the visit of the lodges, saying that it showed their desire to live up to their ideals, and that it was of those ideals that he intended to speak. The text was John XIII., 34: "A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another, even as I have loved you."

Beginning with a discussion of the necessity of gaining new things spiritually, if one is to keep alive in character, Rev. Mr. Howard went on to show that there was something new in love for every man and every community. James especially showed the new possibilities of love toward God and man in his life, and every growing life may do as Jesus did to some extent. Many persons think that there is nothing new to be learned in the realm of character and that is one reason why persons who are otherwise very much alive are suddenly found to be very weak at this vital point, if not actually dead. They learned the A B C of the spiritual life when they were children and they have never learned any more.

Contrasted with such men are others who lead the world by the force of their Christian influence. They are men who have felt the love of God as an inexhaustable source of power and influence from which they could continue to draw as long as they kept in sympathetic touch with it. They are the men of unselfish service who have taken Christ as their ideal and the cross of Christ as their standard of love and devotion to their fellow-men.

Illustrations of the never-failing attractiveness of the truly loving life were given, and an earnest appeal was made to the men not to wait for sorrow or calamity to frighten them or to soften their hearts, but to let past calamities, especially that of the crucifixion, be enough to impel them to choose the loving life inspired by Christ and nourished by faith in God who himself is Infinite Love.

Mr. and Mrs. Debele were showered with congratulations and were also the recipients of numerous handsome presents.

FIREMAN IS INJURED PUTTING OUT A BLAZE

The home of Mrs. Alice Peel, 117 Washington street, was partially destroyed by fire shortly after midnight yesterday morning. Cause of the fire was due to one of Mrs. Peel's boarders upsetting a lamp when he returned from town in a rear room in the upper section of an extension to the house.

Occupants of the house were speedily aroused and the burning lamp thrown out of a window, but the carpet caught fire and before the flames could be extinguished, they were eating their way up the rear of the building until the roof was reached.

Owing to the failure of the fire alarm system to operate properly considerable delay was experienced by the firemen in getting to the scene. Box 15 was pulled, and the gong blew 11, 12, 13, 45 and 6-6. It was about twenty minutes before the different companies were able to ascertain the location of the blaze, but once on the job the progress of the fire was quickly stopped.

Captain George Feiring sustained slight injuries about his face and hands while at work on the roof. Feiring stepped in a hole and crashed through the roof to the room below.

It was at first believed that Feiring was seriously hurt. City Physician Charles B. Lufburrow was summoned and the Captain removed to his headquarters. Feiring was badly shaken up and badly scratched about the hands, but he was able to resume duty yesterday morning.

The damage of the fire is placed at about $200, covered by insurance.

BOY PETTING DOG BITTEN BY ANIMAL.

The injures of the boy were attended to by Dr. A. H. Dundon.

TROLLEY CAR AND AUTO FIGURE IN A COLLISION

A collision between an automobile and a Public Service Railway sand car occurred near the corner of Park avenue and Front street on Saturday afternoon in which damage to the amount of $350 was inflicted on the machine which is the property of Stephen H. Voorhees, of 602 Madison avenue. With Mr. Voorhees in the car were his two children and one of their little friends and fortunately none of them were injured.

The sand car was in charge of Motorman Patrick Greely and Conductor Emil Muellner and on the motorman, according to bystanders, lies the responsibility for the accident. Traffic was congested at the point of collision and it was causing the traffic policeman all kinds of work to get the vehicular movement straightened out. Tobias Nolan, was the Patrolman on the job and after much persuasion with the drivers and others managed to clear the situation.

The railway men claim that the driver of the damaged auto was at fault, but Mrs. Voorhees stated this morning that the automobile was at an absolute stand-still and that it looked as though the motorman had miscalculated the distance between the cars and although moving slowly was unable to prevent sideswiping Mr. Voorhes' car. It will require at least the amount named above to repair the damage to the body of the auto and perhaps more if the machinery is discovered to be damaged.

According to all that can be learned from witnesses of the accident the whole street from the corner of Park avenue to some distance beyond Somerset street was literally crowded with vehicles of all descriptions and it was all a simple pedestrian could do to cross from one side of West Front street to the other. It was providential that no injury was done to any person in the throng which was surging up and down and across the thoroughfare.

DIOCESAN CONVENTION AT TRENTON WEDNESDAY

The Episcopal church of the Diocese of New Jersey will have its one hundred and twenty-sixth convention in Trenton beginning tomorrow and continuing Wednesday. The convention will be made up of the clergy, to the number of 130, resident within the diocese, and three lay delegates from each parish organization. It will be presided over by the Rt. Rev. John Scarborough, Bishop of New Jersey. Delegates have been appointed by Grace Holy Cross, St. Stephen's and Heavenly Rest churches, of this city.

A meeting of the Church Club of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey, made up of clergy and laymen of the diocese, will be held at the Trenton House, Trenton, tonight. It will be followed by the semi-annual club dinner and the principal speaker will be the Rev. L. B. Ridgeley, dean of the Boone School, Michang, China. Other addresses will be made by men prominent in the affairs of the church. These meetings are always held on the eve of the general convention of the diocese

In New Jersey, the first Episcopal church, St. Pter's, Perth Amboy, was founded in 1685. From that time until 1702 there seems to have been no advance made in church organization or building. In the latter year four churches were established, St. Mary's Burlington; St. John's, Elizabeth; Christ church, Middletown, and Christ church, Shrewsbury.

Progress theerafter was rapid until the Revolution when the church was practicaly destroyed. Its rehabilitation thereafter was a great undertaking. The Diocese of New Jersey was organized in 1785 substantially as it exists today. It was not, however, until August, 1815, that the first bishop, John Cross, was elected and took up the work of the episcopate. It is an interesting fact that in nearly 106 years New Jersey has had but four bishops—Bishop Cross, Bishop Doane, Bishop Orenheimer and Bishop Scarborough.

The progress of the diocese under Bishop Scarborough has been great.

MRS. BOOTH HEARD HERE

MORE THAN $500 COLLECTED.

Park Avenue Church Crowded to Its Doors—Hundreds Turned Away—150 Added to League.

Under the spell of her great personal magnetism, Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, the "little mother" of the convicts in the various States prisons in this country, held the attention of an audience of nearly a thousand persons in the Park Avenue Baptist church last night while she told the story of her life work. It was estimated that more than two hundred more people were turned away from the dors because of lack of room. A strong appeal from Mrs. Booth added nearly 150 members to the Hope Hall League and nearly five hundred dollars was handed to her from the collection.

On the platform with the speaker were her son, Charles Drandon Booth, Rev. J. A. Lane and the pastor of the church, Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire. Mrs. Booth's daughter, Myrtle, was in the audience and later joined her brother in distributing and collecting the membership cards in the audience. Before Mrs. Booth was introduced to the people, Pastor Maguire in his inimitable way requested the removal of the women's hats. The hats came off while ripples of laughter ran through the auditorium. Judge William N. Runyon sang splendidly "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and George E. Hall, superintendent of the Bible school, introduced the speaker.

Mrs. Booth won the attention of her hearers at the very outset when she said, "I am going to tell you the story of my boys, those about whom so much misunderstanding exists and who number approximately 84,000. They make up the population of a big city, but they are all behind prison bars and the world cannot understand why there are among them thousands who await the call of love to make them better."

The speaker took her audience through some of the prisons in the east and west and made special mention of a penitentiary near Philadelphia where her work was among an unseen audience. All the prisoners were confined to their cells and there was no place in which they could gather to hear her speak. Here while many of the men never catch a glimpse of the little woman who is winning them to better lives, know her voice and are always glad to hear it. She declared that she had never yet asked permission to enter a prison. The authorities ask her to come as she helps them with the prison discipline. "I would rather have the freedom of the prisons than the freedom of all the best cities in this country," she said.

Speaking of the prison at Trenton, Mrs. Booth said that the sooner the New Jersey legislators learned the fact that everyone of the inmates of its walls have a soul and that they should not be thrust on the world after serving a long term without sufficient funds to get to their friends and families, the better it would be for the State and the ex-convict. The prison may prove a stepping stone to better things through the mercy of God.

Experiences among the colored convicts of the South followed and here, Mrs. Booth said, contrary to the expectations of the prison keepers most wonderful results have been obtained. Instead of the spasmodic good behaviour of the negroes which the keepers maintained was due to the emotional character of the black man, the resulting appeal to their better natures has added some 1,400 names to the Volunteer Prison League and they all wear the button of the league and gambling, stealing and fighting have disappeared from among them. It is merely finding the jewel beneath the surface and polishing it up to make it shine.

Referring to the work at Hope Hall in New York, Mrs. Booth said that after the men are released from prison they are taken care of for certain periods or until they have obtained employment and it is part of the duty of the ex-convict to tell his new employer the truth about his past so as to begin honestly. Ninety-five per cent. of the men thus given a chance have "made good," the other five per cent. having been victims of their worst enemy, drink. She declared that she had been treated splendidly by the Parole Board of New York State and her influence went a long way toward reuniting broken families and helping the boys thus released to find employment and keep it. ANSWERS WILSON'S CHARGE.

Library Trustees Tell About Penny-a-Day Fee.

Westfield, May 9.—The trustees of the Westfield Free Public Library issued a statement Friday explaining why a penny a day is charged for certain books. The statement sets forth that the charge arrangement was made by subscribers to the extended fiction list, which places the latest books of fiction in the library for the use of subscribers, who afterward turn the books over to the library. The books are not purchased with town appropriation, and after the subscribers are through with the books they reach the shelves of the library.

The statement was issued to refute the statement of Councilman A. J. Wilson, who opposed giving the library trustees an increased appropriation of $300 on the ground that the library was not a free institution.

Mr. and Mrs. Caperton, of West Virginia, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Caperton's parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue.

OUR MAY WHITE SALE PROVES THE PRINCIPAL STORE ATTRACTION OF THIS VICINITY

Store crowded, sales soaring, values winning enthusiastic approval—such, in brief, is the story of the opening hours of this real triumph in white goods retailing. It is already an established fact that white goods buying at this season can most profitably be centered here.

Assortments provide the most complete selection of new white yard goods, white outer and underwear, white staples, etc. Weeks of time and effort were devoted to preparing for this sale—to searching the markets, viewing goods, separating the wheat from the chaff and using spot cash as the level to close deals at most advantageously low prices.

Sale continues with all its attractions—tomorrow's hosts of shoppers will find all that met with the instantaneous approval of those who have already bought.

Now is the one best opportunity to supply White Goods needs for weeks to come.

Patrolman Charles Flynn witnessed the New York Americans trim Washington Friday to the tune of 11 to 0. The local cop was the guest of Secretary Tom Davis, of the New York club.

Kid Brogan, who was introduced into baseball society in this city when Phil Daab was the manager of the local team, is now playing a fast game for the New Brunswicks. Brogan is one of the speediest boys in the semi-pro ranks, but he failed to make good in the Eastern and Connecticut leagues.

Managers of boys' clubs can secure score cards by applying to The Daily Press. Scores of all games must be in at 9 o'clock in the morning to insure publication.

Locals fans are warming up to pennant races in the two major leagues judging by the crowds that are on hand nights watching The Daily Press' bulletin board which displays the complete result of all games played in the big leagues.

PLAINFIELD DEFEATS GARWOOD HANDILY

If Manager Dorflinger had offered prizes for error making in Saturday's game it is doubtful whether his band of athletes could improve on the array of frazzles uncorked in Saturday's contest with the Garwood A. C. Despite eight glaring misplays, and ragged support, Warry McLaughlin managed to pull the locals through victorious by the score of 8 to 5. The Garwoods also played a loose game, the visitors having six errors in their column.

It was a wearisome contest all the way and the fans breathed easy when Brewer ended the exhibition by grounding out to Boyd. McLaughlin twirled a fine game in spite of the punk support accorded him. Although the visitors rapped out ten hits, McLaughlin held them powerless at critical stages of the contest. Twelve Garwood men fanned the breezes.

Brewer, who pitched for the locals a part of last season, also performed well. The twirler also starred for his team with the stick. Brewer having three bingles to his credit. Fielding honors were snatched by Washburn, the lightning third sacker of the visitors. Several of his stops and throws were in the marvelous class.

The locals started off well by scoring one run in the first and two in the second. Garwood got active in the third by registering three tallies and one each in the fourth and fifth rounds. It began to look as if the visitors intended to walk away with the game in the eighth round when the sacks were filled. McLaughlin, however, was on the job and after Colwell had flied to Schott, Warry fanned Grimes and Washburn out, thus retiring the side without a tally.

Brewer weakened in the last two rounds. In the seventh Plainfield tied the score by making two runs and in the eighth they clinched the game by getting three more across the pan. The score:

One hundred and forty-seven people signed cards pledging support to the institution and when Pastor Maguire asked the audience if they would like to have Mrs. Booth return every hand in the audience was raised. MAY DISBAND COMPANY.

Captain Rogers Claims Guardsmen Are Disobedient.

Trenton, May 9.—Because its members are indifferent and often disobedient to orders to their officers, Captain John M. Rogers, acting in the capacity of temporary commander of Company E, Second Regiment, National Guard, has recommended to Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, commandant of the regiment, that the company be disbanded. Reports show that one officer and eight privates reported for last week's drill, and for the drill scheduled for Thursday night only two noncommissioned officers and ten privates showed up.

The only word of commendation uttered for the company by Captain Rogers is for First Lieutenant William M. Jameison who, he says, has been loyal to his duty. It is a foregone conclusion that the recommendation of Captain Rogers will receive the favorable action of his superior officers, and that the company will be disbanded.

May Locate in Perth Amboy.

Perth Amboy, May 9.—A German cotton corporation is expected to locate in this city shortly, according to a statement made by Mayor Albert Bollschweiler, who has received several communications from John Lawrence Maine and Samuel J. Smith, of New York City. The new industry will employ about 1,000 men and 3,000 girls.

Graft Charges Denied.

New Brunswick, May 9.—R. V. Turner, president of the Standard Bitulithic Company, has issued a statement, making a denial that there was any graft in street paving done by his concern in this city. The charges were made by Councilman Peter Kinney.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Plainfield Council, No. 294, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet this evening and it is expected that there will be initiation.

Washington Camp, No. 30, P. O. S. of A., will hold its regular meeting tomorrow night in Jr. O. U. A. M. hall, 119 West Front street.

Ten new members were added to the Jr. O. U. A. M. at their meeting Friday night and another application was received. The membership has passed the four hundred mark and bids fair to reach 500 before long.

TWO STATE CONVENTIONS.

K. of C. and S. of V. to Meet in Red Bank.

Red Bank, May 7.—Elaborate preparations are being made here for the entertainment of the delegates to the Sons of Veterans and Knights of Columbus conventions, which will be held here this week.

The Knights of Columbus will convene in St. James' clubhouse in Monmouth street on May 10, and after the business session a dance will take place. William J. Howell, of the local council, is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

The convention of the Sons of Veterans, or State encampment, will be held in the Town hall the following day, and is being arranged for by a committee from Samuel T. Sleeper Camp No. 16, of Red Bank.

How to Fold a Dress.

To fold a dress skirt properly for packing and to avoid the crease down the middle of the front breadth, fasten the skirt band and pin the back to the middle of the band in front. Lay the skirt on a table or other flat surface, right side out, with the front breadth down. Smooth out all creases and lay folds flat. Then begin at the outer edges and roll each side toward the centre back until the rolls meet. In this way the hang of the skirt is not injured, there are no wrinkles and the front breadth is smooth and flat. If the skirt is too long for the trunk fold it over near the top and place a roll of tissue paper under the fold.

Genius.

The only difference between a genius and one of common capacity is that the former anticipates and explores what the latter accidentally hits upon. But even the man of genius himself frequently employs the advantages that chance presents to him. It is the lapidary that gives value to the diamond, which the peasant has dug up without knowing its worth.

Sues for Burned Auto.

Perth Amboy, May 9.—H. Rippen, of this city, has started suit against the Aetna Fire Insurance Company to recover the cost of replacing several attachments to his automobile, which was damaged by fire at Red Bank several weeks ago.

A SPRING LUNCHEON FOR THE SPRING BRIDE.

Sweet peas make a graceful and artistic decoration for a spring luncheon, and the pink and white effects can be carried out in parts of the menu.

Use no table cloth, having doilies on the polished table, preferably lace ones, with tumbler doilies to match.

In centre of round table have a large plateau of pink sweet peas, slightly higher in centre. From this trail ropes of smilax to divide the table into four sections.

In each of the sections close to the mound of flowers have a branching sliver candlestick, with unshaded pink candles, and at the corners have four low candlesticks with pink candles.

Silver dishes holding pink glace fruits and nuts, and baskets of pink iced cakes are arranged in each section. A newer idea is to have one of the small iced nut cakes on a low standard. This is not much larger than a breakfast plate and is known as a Mary Garden.

At each plate have a small gilded basket filled with sweet peas, with the place card tied to the handle with narrow pink ribbons.

An appropriate menu for such a luncheon would be an appetizer made of chopped anchovies and minced red peppers on rounds of croutons, strawberries on the hulls, or cantaloupe, with whipped cream in bouillon cups, minced salmon molded in fish form with a cucumber sauce, a pate of sweetbreads and mushrooms, squabs, with tiny potato croquettes and individual molds of cranberries an endive salad stuffed with a cheese paste, strawberry tarts—open molds of puff paste, filled with cooked fresh strawberries, and ices molded in the form of a large pink flower set in green spun sugar, with a spray of sweet peas across the top. With the ice pass a chilled fresh strawberry sauce.

For a less elaborated luncheon the pate and tarts could be omitted and lamb chops or breast of chicken substituted for the birds.

Hungarian Goulash.

Wash thoroughly lamb kidneys cut in thin pieces. Put two tablespoons of butter into a saucepan and when hot add pieces of kidneys. Shake and cook fast for ten minutes. Add four tablespoons of stock or gravy, two tablespoonsful of lemon juice, one tablespoonful of chopped mushrooms, salt and pepper to taste. Cover and cook slowly for fifteen minutes. Mix together the yolks of two eggs and three-fourths of a cupful of milk; add to the contents of the saucepan and stir until sauce begins to thicken. Then take up and serve at once. Sprinkle a little chopped parsley over it.

Cleaning Grater.

Most every housekeeper knows what a job it is to clean a grater after grating cocoanut, lemon, or, in fact, everything she grates. If she will have handy a small scrubbing brush or hand scrub, every particle will come out immediately and leave the grater sweet and clean.

Mutton Broth.

When carefully prepared this is a very good and nourishing soup. The stock is made from neck, breast or shoulder pieces. When the broth is ready the mutton is boned and the meat cut into dice. Additional flavor is given to the broth by small cubes of carrots and turnips, some barley, celery, leeks and parsley.

Dry Cleaning Talk

Gentlemen's clothes cleaned by a Cleanery with the ability nad equipments to produce first-class work, will stay clean longer, as when done by an ordinary suit presser who only brushes the surface dust off and removes the most prominent spots from the surface.

With our process the garments are thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the linings are cleaned and spots that are removed will stay removed and do not appear again the first time the garments are exposed to the dust and grim of the street.

In the beginning it may cost a little more, but will pay at the end as the clothes don't have to be at the cleaners every two weeks.

Phone us and our wagon will call.

CHURCH SOCIETY NOW ON ITS 30TH YEAR

Twenty-nine years of activity and successful endeavor have been rounded out by the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church. The occasion was marked by a special anniversary service which was conducted in that church last night.

One of the interesting features of the observance was a comprehensive report presented by Mrs. Mary A. M. Newell, secretary of the society, which noted all of its achievements during the year.

Mrs. Newell's report was augmented by words of praise for the society by the pastor, Rev. John C. Broek, in which the latter congratulated the members of the organization for the faithful performances to their duties, and their many acts of self-sacrifice displayed in the work.

The altar was made beautiful by profuse floral decorations of dogwood, lilacs and other spring blooms.

In referring to the record of the past year, Mr. Broek said:

"The work which you have accomplished during the past year has required a large amount of time, sacrifice, worry, hard work and money. This work you have wrought not simply for this church, but for the Christ whom you love. You have not been ashamed to do the lowliest forms of service for Christ. The spirit behind all service counts as much as the work which has been accomplished. You have been especially generous and kind to me this year. I hear such good things concerning the future plans of your society for the uninterrupted improvement to our church that we all rejoice. You are striving to outdo your splendid record of the past.

The text was taken from John 21:17 Simon Peter, "Lovest Thou Me," "Feed My Sheep.

It is interesting to study Peter's character. He was changed from a humble Galelean fisherman to a prophet and apostle, when a horizon appears before him which is limitless. The reason Jesus asked Peter this question, "Lovest Thou Me," was to impress upon his church and all Christians that the one essential requisite for all Christian service is love to Christ. Love must be the fountain from which all our Christian service flows.

Peter made the discovery of his life on this day. He found that it was not his knowledge, his faith or his good works that equip for service, but it was love to His master.

The command, "Feed My Sheep," was welcome news to Peter. Where there is love there is activity. If Christ had not given Peter something to do, his heart would have ached.

We serve Christ not for reward. The joy of the Lord is not receiving a crown or a harp, but it is helping Christ save. Friendship with Christ is only won by doing God's will in love.

Mrs. Newell's report in detail is as follows:

The 29th year of the Society has been one of successful endeavor along the usual lines of work. Eleven new members have been added, making a membership of sixty-six and nine associate members. Ten regular meetings with an average attendance of thirty-four, and two special meetings have been held.

Of every committee it may be said "Well Done."

The flower committee has sent flowers to the sick room and to the homes of the sorrowing, and most efficiently decorated the church and lecture room on all special occasions.

The missionary committee collected $58.25, which was evenly divided between the Women's Board of Domestic Missions and the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions.

The visiting committee made 191 calls, and brought cheer to the sick and shut-ins by sending flowers and the greetings of the season at Christmas and Easter.

The sewing committee held six meetings, preparing and sending a box of clothing and home supplies valued at $103.94 to the pastor of a small Western church. The society is endebted to the Young Woman's Mission Band for a contribution to this box. At the same time a barrel of clothing was sent to the Kentucky Mountain Mission, and the same to the colored school at Aiken S. C.

The devotional committee has furnished leaders for the half-hour's devotional service which always precedes the regular business meeting.

The relief committee sent out three dinners, fruit and flowers at Thanksgiving; five dinners and four baskets of fruit at Christmas; and in relieving cases of need have tried to lighten, in a measure, the burden of the poor and unfortunate.

Our finance committee, surpassing all previous efforts, realized from the turkey supper $315, from the subscription quilt $77, from the concert given last May $22, "Mile of Pennies" $39, Larkin's soap $10, making a total of $463 turned into the treasury by this most untiring committee.

In response to an appeal from the Sewing Guild of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions articles to the amount of $15 were collected and sent to the board rooms in New York to be used on the Abarian field.

Five dollars was given by the society towards supporting an interpretor at the Winnebago Indian Mission. An individual gift of $5 for the same purpose was also made.

Two hundred dollars was given towards support of the choir and $25 to the Netherwood church fund.

The pastor's study has been enlarged, redecorated and refurnished at a cost of $87.

With sadness we report that death has again entered our ranks and claimed three of our number. Mrs. A. L. Force, our vice-president, and Mrs. Disborough, two of our beloved active members, and Mrs. Thompson from the associate list, have been called home.

While our committees have worked faithfully and well, and our success has been most gratifying, we would pray for still more earnest and consecrated endeavor for the coming year, realizing that of ourselves we can do nothing, only as we are blessed of the Master for whom we work.

Respectfully submitted,
MARY A. M. NEWELL,
Secretary.

RECORDER DOLLIVER HAS A BUSY COURT.

Business was brisk in the borough court this morning when five cases were disposed of by Recorder Dolliver. John Boyle, for creating a disturbance at Saengerbund Hall on Friday night was fined three dollars.

Amid and Razzi Dayo, two Arabs, who were arrested by Chief Weiss for peddling without a license, were each fined two dollars.

Edward Hope, of Harmony street, and Daniel O'Connor, of Harrison avenue, were defendants on complaints registered by their respective wives. Both men were chargd with being drunk and disorderly at their respective homes. Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence in both cases.

ANOTHER BURGLARY.

Small Haul at a Butcher Shop Reported by the Police.

The butcher shop of U. G. Pierson, on Watchung avenue, was burglarized sometime between Saturday night closing time and yesterday morning. The safe was broken open and the money drawer extracted This box was taken to the rear of VanZandt and Voorhees' feed mill near the railroad tracks and there broken open with a cleaver stolen from the shop. The box contained forty dollars in money.

It is believed by the police to have been an "inside job" and they are working on that theory to apprehend the burglar.

Word from Missionary.

Rev. John Y. Broek, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, at the morning service in Trinity Reformed church yesterday read a letter which he had received from Dr. Paul W. Harrison, their missionary, who is at Busrah, Arabia, dated April 2. Dr. Harrison explained that he is now learning the language. He sees plenty of opportunity for work. A new hospital is now in course of construction, and for the present a dwelling house is used for that purpose. Dr. Harrison said that he was well and is anxious for the work. His address is Busrah, Arabia, Persian Gulf, via Bombay.

Music at High School.

Charles L. Lewis, supervisor of music in the public schools, had the sixth and seventh grades at the High School this morning to sing. The children rendered the same songs as they sang at the contest two weeks ago. They were "Wonderer's Night Song," "When Night is Bright," and "Wer't Thou in the Cold, Cold Blast." At the close of their singing the High School Glee Club sang "Captain My Captain," and "Good Night, Beloved." Mr. Lewis thinks that he was treated unfairly in the past contest.

Clever Comedy at Proctors.

Peck's Bad Boy will be the headliner at Proctor's theatre today and until Wednesday, and this means a hearty laugh for all who attend. Harry Crandall & Co. are playing this same scene in an up-to-date form. Lovers of good music will appreciate the Continental Quartet. Harry Leander, the trick comedy bicyclist, will present will present "A Night on the Beach," and Fred Russell, a clever comedian, is all to the merry in his line of talk. The pictures are better than ever.

Brodhead Toastmaster.

Calvin E. Brodhead, of Belvidere avenue, has been selected as toastmaster for the dollar dinner to be given at Hotel Kensington, Wedensday night, May 18, under the auspices of the West End Democratic Club. The committee has received assurances from all the speakers of their intention to be present. State Chairman James E. Nugent, of Newark, has advised the committee that he will deliver an address on the State Committee.

Assault Case Continued.

Because the complainants, Motorman James Skillman and Conductor William Guilford, failed to appear in the city court this morning to prosecute the case against Charles Walpole, who it is alleged, assaulted the motorman by striking him with a stone, was postponed until next Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The bonds of $500 were continued, Walpole's father remaining security for his son's appearance on that day.

UP A TREE

By MAX ADELER

One day last fall Peter Lamb was walking by Keyser's orchard, and the apples looked so tempting that he concluded to get over the fence and go up a tree after some. He was just fairly up the tree when Keyser came along with his dog, and as he had had a great many apples stolen, he was pretty mad at finding Lamb in the act of taking some without leave. So after expressing his sentiments in very vigorous language, he told Peter that as he was so very fond of apples he might stay up there all night enjoying them. Then he called the attention of the dog to Peter, told the animal to watch him, and walked up to the house.

As the brute lay down beneath the tree, Peter thought he had never seen such an awful-looking dog, and he called to Keyser to take it away, and to let him pay for the fruit. But Keyser pretended not to hear him. Then Peter tried to scare the dog off by pelting him with apples; but every time he hit the animal he seemed to become more ferociously determined to eat a piece of Mr. Lamb before he abandoned him. Peter then tried coaxing the dog, but the more blandishments he offered, the hungrier the dog seemed to get. Then Peter waited till the dog became calmer and lay down, and then he tried to steal down the other side of the tree; but before he reached the ground the dog was on the alert, and ready to nip Mr. Lamb's calf.

At last Peter determined to resort to strategy. He went up as high as possible in the tree, and took off his boots, his coat, his trousers, and his hat, and, fixing them together by the aid of pins and his suspenders, so that they would resemble the figure of a man, he stuffed them with leaves. Then he carried the effigy down and and set it astride one of the lower branches, propping it up so that it would be within plain view of the dog. Then he stepped softly away from it, and waited his chance to slide down the trunk. He made two or three feints, and was delighted to see that when the dog heard the noise it merely glanced at the figure, seemed reassured, and went to sleep again. At last he got clear down to the ground, and when he was a few yards from the tree he ran as fast as his legs would carry him.

It was then late in the afternoon, and he succeeded in getting over to Deacon Jones' without being observed. He found the deacon sitting on the fence, and explained his appearance in a simple shirt and pair of drawers, by saying that he had been swimming in the creek and that somebody had stolen his clothes.

The deacon lent him some raiment, and Mr. Lamb went home bent upon revenge. Redressing himself, he got a club, called his own dog—a bigger animal than Keyser's—and started for the orchard. When he reached it, his old enemy lay beneath the tree watching the effigy. Then Mr. Lamb confidently climbed over the fence and set his dog at Keyser's. A fierce combat ensued, and while it was in progress Peter crept up and knocked Keyser's dog on the head, killing it outright. It was then about dusk, and Peter ordered his dog to lie under the tree and "watch" the effigy, while he hid behind a neighboring tree.

After a little while Keyser came out for the purpose of letting Peter go if he felt penitent. He came up to the tree without recognizing the change of dogs, and addressing the effigy;

"Well, how do you feel by this time?"

No answer.

"Want to come down?"

No reply.

"If you'll promise never to steal my apples any more, I'll let you off."

Still no answer.

"Oh, you're too mad to talk, are you? Well, you just come down, anyhow."

Silence from the effigy.

"Look here, I don't want any more nonsense from you. Come down, or I'll pull you down!"

Then Keyser climbed up the tree and grasped Mr. Lamb's stuffed coat by the arm. He was just about to utter an exclamation of surprise, when Peter came out and said:

"Well, now, you just pull away. That's my dog under that tree; your dog's dead; and my dog'll eat you up quicker'n a wink if you get off that limb before I tell you. Thought you had me, did you? If the jury knows itself, you'll roost among that foliage until morning. Sick him, Bull, sick him!"

Then Mr. Lamb knocked an apple off another tree, and sat down to eat it. Keyser first began to study up a plan for murdering him; then he thought he would swear; then he had a notion to cry for help. But at last he concluded to accept the situation gracefully; and after some conversation, Peter agreed to let him go if he would swear to send around four bushels of apples in the morning. He registered a solemn oath to that effect, and Mr. Lamb held the dog while Keyser came down. Then Keyser went as near to Peter as he dared, and, shaking his fist at him, he said:

"You low-lived, mutton-headed, bow-legged thief! If that dog wasn't here I'd knock you down and sit on you till I squashed the breath out of you, you wall-eyed scoundrel, you!"

Then he went up to the house. Peter chuckled and shouldered his clothes, and started for home. Those apples have not yet arrived, but Mr. Lamb has not yet been out to inquire for them.

Study a moment this detailed sectional cut of a BOYNTON "Square-pot" boiler.

Note how all interior surfaces tend upward toward the front connection. This means quick water circulation and lively steaming. A slow fire under a does more to kill the chill in a cold house than a roaring, red hot blaze in the ordinary round pot type of boiler. This is because the BOYNTON has most fire surface and best draft.

BOYNTON "Square-pot" boilers are easily cleaned. They have the same quick cleaning grate and capacious ash-pit as the famous BOYNTON hot air furnaces.

A dozen other strong features that we can't mention here—get the BOYNTON man to show you.

Great Point of Difference.

At the trial of the rebels held at Carlisle, England, after the 1745 rising, one witness was, although a Scotsman, examined under the English form of adjuration. He gave an account so palpably wide of the truth that the prosecuting counsel had him resworn after the form of his own country. He then gave evidence of a very different stamp. On being asked how he came to utter so many falsehoods when first sworn, he replied: "Sworn! There's an unco' difference 'atween blawing on a beuk an' sennin' ane's saul to hell!"

Citizens Drove Hard Bargain.

Chatham square, now one of the busiest points on the lower East side, had a bad beginning. A giant negro who was a sort of king of ten superannuated slaves, was allowed to settle there, each of his subjects being required to pay a fat hog and a score of bushels of grain every year for the privilege of living there, a part of the agreement being that their children should remain slaves.

Kind of Bottle for Him.

An agent come into our sanctum yestiddy tryin' to sell us a bottle thet he claimed would keep anything we put into it fer 72 hours, but it was a fraud, we could open it without a corkscrew even; th' bottle thet keeps anythin' in our neighborhood fer 72 hours has gotter be made outen armor plate an' closed with a time lock.—Alkali Eye.

Turkish Medicines.

The educational test for pharmacists in Turkey is not on drugs, chemicals, etc. It is on arithmetic, the Turkish and French languages and general smattering. Still, most Turks go to the native dry goods or grocery store for their favorite remedies—oil, tallow, candle plasters, linseed, poultices and stuff for camomile teas, etc.

Poetry in Man Dies Hard.

Don't ever think the poetry is dead in an old man because his forehead is wrinkled, or that his manhood has left him when his hand trembles. If they were ever there, they are there still.—Dr. Holmes, "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

A Good Man.

He was a good man, my father was, an' his usual form of address to me was "my son," thess so, unadorned, an' I don't know but it's helped me all my life. It sort o' challenges a boy to be called "my son" by a good man. —Ruth McEnery Stuart, in Century.

Coming Easy.

Mrs. Gramercy—What in the world put the idea of a divorce in your head? Mrs. Park—I've been so happy here in the country with the check my husband sends me regularly. I'm sure living on alimony must be the ideal existence.

Improvement Coming.

Enraged Creditor—"I've had enough of mounting all these stairs every day to collect this bill." Debtor—"Well, I can tell you a piece of news that will please you. After to-morrow I'm going to live in the basement."—Pele Mele.

His Trade Mark.

"I wish you didn't have such a flat and plebeian nose, papa," said the aristocratic young daughter of the plain old merchant. "That's the mark of the grindstone, my dear," replied the plodding old man.

Daily Health Hint.

By eating a portion of meat with one of bread and adding fresh vegetables and water, every need of the body can be supplied without overloading the stomach.

No Charity in That.

Wife—I say, do you know the girl in the flat above us won a piano at the charity bazaar lottery yesterday? Husband—A piano? Great Scott! And that's what they call a charity bazaar!

Worth Cogitating.

The first theft was committed by Eve, but who was the first receiver of stolen property? Let that always be remembered.

Requisite for Happiness.

The best conditions for future happiness lie in the largest possible appreciation of the present.—C. B. Newcomb.

Judgment.

It is never too late to resolve to judge yourself by the same standard which you use in judging other people.

Says the Cynic.

When some women lack the opportunity to flirt they think themselves saints.

Poor Example for Humanity.

The Protector.

CHAPTER 1.

The Makers of Maps.

There is scarcely a single cause in which a woman is not engaged in some way fomenting the suit.—Juvenal.

"Then you offer me no hope, doctor?"

The gray mane of Dr. Samuel Ward waved like a fighting crest as he made answer:

"Not the sort of hope you ask." A moment later he added: "John, I am ashamed of you."

The cynical smile of the man I called my chief still remained upon his lips, the same drawn look of suffering still remained upon his gaunt features; but in his blue eye I saw a glint which proved that the answer of his old friend had struck out some unused spark of vitality from the deep, cold flint of his heart.

"I never knew you for a coward, Calhoun," went on Dr. Ward; "nor any of your family. I give you now the benefit of my personal acquaintance with this generation of the Calhouns. I ask something more of you than faint-heartedness."

The keen eyes turned upon him again with the old flame of flint which a generation had known—a generation, for the most part, of enemies. On my chief's face I saw appear again the fighting flush, proof of his hard-fibered nature, ever ready to rejoin with challenge when challenge came.

"Did not Saul fall upon his own sword?" asked John Calhoun. "Have not devoted leaders from the start of the world till now sometimes rid the scene of the responsible figures in lost fights, the men on whom blame rested for failures?"

"Cowards!" rejoined Dr. Ward. "Cowards, every one of them! Were there not other swords upon which they might have fallen—those of their enemies?"

"It is not my own hand—my own sword, Sam," said Calhoun. "Not that. You know as well as I that I am already marked and doomed, even as I sit at my table to-night. A walk of a wet night here in Washington—a turn along the Heights out there when the winter wind is keen—yes, Sam, I see my grave before me, close enough; but how can I rest easy in that grave? Man, we have not yet dreamed how great a country this may be. We must have Texas. We must have also Oregon. We must have—"

"Free?" The old doctor shrugged his shoulders and smiled at the arch pro-slavery exponent.

"Then, since you mention it, yes!" retorted Calhoun fretfully. "But I shall not go into the old argument of those who say that black is white, that south is north. It is only for my own race that I plan a wider America. But then—" Calhoun raised a long, thin hand. "Why," he went on slowly, "I have just told you that I have failed. And yet you, my old friend, whom I ought to trust, condemn me to live on!"

Dr. Samuel Ward took snuff again, but all the answer he made was to waggle his gray mane and stare hard at the face of the other.

"Yes," he said, at length, "I condemn you to fight on, John;" and he smiled grimly.

"Why, look at you, man!" he broke out fiercely, after a moment. "The type and picture of combat! Good bone, fine bone and hard; a hard head and bony; little eye, set deep; strong, wiry muscles, not too big—fighting muscles, not dough; clean limbs; strong fingers; good arms, legs, neck; wide chest—"

"Then you give me hope?" Calhoun flashed a smile at him.

"No, sir! If you do your duty, there is no hope for you to live. If you do not do your duty, there is no hope for you to die, John Calhoun, for more than two years to come—perhaps five years—six. Keep up this work—as you must, my friend—and you die as surely as though I shot you through as you sit there. Now, is this any comfort to you?"

A gray pallor overspread my master's face. That truth is welcome to no man, morbid or sane, sound or ill; but brave men meet it as this one did.

"Time to do much!" he murmured to himself. "Time to mend many broken vessels, in those two years. One more fight—yes, let us have it!"

But Calhoun the man was lost once more in Calhoun the visionary, the fanatic statesman. He summed up, as though to himself, something of the situation which then existed at Washington.

"Yes, the coast is clearer, now that Webster is out of the cabinet, but Mr. Upshur's death last month brings in new complications. Had he remained our secretary of state, much might have been done. It was only last October he proposed to Texas a treaty of annexation."

"Yes, and found Texas none so eager," frowned Dr. Ward.

"No; and why not? You and I know well enough. Sir Richard Pakenham, the English plenipotentiary here, could tell if he liked. England is busy in Texas. Texas owes large funds to England. England want Texas as a colony. There is fire under this smoke, talk of Texas dividing into two governments, one, at least, under England's gentle and unselfish care!

"And now, look you," Calhoun continued, rising, and pacing up and down, "look what is the evidence. Van Zandt, charge d'affaires in Washington for the Republic of Texas, wrote Secretary Upshur only a month before Upshur's death, and told him to go carefully or he would drive Mexico to resume the war, and so cost Texas the friendship of England! Excellent Mr. Van Zandt! I at least know what the friendship of England means. So, he asks us if we will protect Texas with troops and ships in case she does sign that agreement of annexation. Cunning Mr. Van Zandt! He knows what that answer must be to-day, with England ready to fight us for Texas and Oregon both, and we wholly unready for war. Cunning Mr. Van Zandt, covert friend of England! And lucky Mr. Upshur, who was killed, and so never had to make that answer!"

"But, John, another will have to make it, the one way or the other," said his friend.

"Yes!" The long hand smote on the table.

"President Tyler has offered you Mr. Upshur's portfolio as secretary of state?"

"Yes!" The long hand smote again.

Dr. Ward made no comment beyond a long whistle, as he recrossed his legs. His eyes were fixed on Calhoun's frowning face. "There will be events!" said he at length, grinning.

"I have not yet accepted," said Calhoun. "If I do, it will be to bring Texas and Oregon into this Union, one slave, the other free, but both vast, and of a mighty future for us. That done, I resign at once."

"Will you accept?"

Calhoun's answer was first to pick up a paper from his desk. "See, here is the dispatch Mr. Pakenham brought from Lord Aberdeen of the British ministry to Mr. Upshur just two days before his death. Judge whether Aberdeen wants liberty—or territory! In effect he reasserts England's right to interfere in our affairs. We fought one war to disprove that. England has said enough on this continent. And England has meddled enough."

Calhoun and Ward looked at each other, sober in their realization of the grave problems which then beset American statesmanship and American thought. The old doctor was first to break the silence. "Then do you accept? Will you serve again, John?"

"Listen to me. If I do accept, I shall take Mr. Upshur's and Mr. Nelson's place only on one condition—yes, if I do, here is what I shall say to England regarding Texas. I shall show her what a Monroe doctrine is; shall show her that while Texas is small and weak, Texas and this republic are not. This is what I have drafted as a possible reply. I shall tell Mr. Pakenham that his chief's avowal of intentions has made it our imperious duty, in self-defense, to hasten the annexation of Texas, cost what it may, mean what it may! John Calhoun does not shilly-shally.

"That will be my answer," repeated my chief at last. Again they looked gravely, each into the other's eye, each knowing what all this might mean.

"Yes, I shall have Texas, as I shall have Oregon, settled before I lay down my arms, Sam Ward. No, I am not yet ready to die!" Calhoun's old fire now flamed in all his mien.

"The situation is extremely difficult," said his friendly slowly. "It must be done; but how? We are as a nation not ready for war. You as a statesman are not adequate to the politics of all this. Where is your political party, John? You have none. You have outrun all parties. It will be your ruin, that you have been honest!"

Calhoun turned on him swiftly. "You know as well as I that mere politics will not serve. It will take some extraordinary measure — you know men—and, perhaps, women."

"Yes," said Dr. Ward, "and a precious silly lot they are; the two running after each other and forgetting each other; using and wasting each other; ruining and despoiling each other, all the years, from Troy to Rome! But yes! For a man, set a woman for a trap. Vice versa, I suppose?"

Calhoun nodded, with a thin smile.

"As it chances, I need a man. Ergo, and very plainly, I must use a woman!"

They looked at each other for a moment. That Calhoun planned some deep-laid stratagem was plain, but his speech for the time remained enigmatic, even to his most intimate companion.

SHERIFF'S SALE—In Chancery of New Jersey. Between Charles A. Orner, complainant, and Emma Moore et al., defendants. Fi. fa. for sale of mortgaged premises.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the City of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all tracts or parcels of lands and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Westfield, now Fanwood, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey:

COUNTRY CLUB OPENING

Tennis, Golf, Supper and Dance are Enjoyed by a Big Crowd.

OTHER CLUBS AS GUESTS.

Park Club, Park Golf Club and Watchung Hunt Club Were All Largely Represented.

The annual houseopening and field day of the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday was all that one could desire, it being one of the most sucessful social events of the season. Ideal weather, together with perfect condition of golf links and tennis courts, combined to make the affair one of great pleasure. The club members as well as all the members of the Park, Park Golf and Watchung Hunt Clubs were invited and extended the full privileges of the home organization for the day.

From early morning until nearly dark, the golf course and tennis courts were thronged with enthusiastic players and it was an auspicious opening of the local season in those sports. The green committee has been working hard to get the course and greens in condition for the opening and its efforts were well rewarded.

Not only on the links and courts was the day enjoyed, but the social features at the clubhouse were equally as pleasant. Throughout the afternoon tea was served, and this was followed with a dinner-dance in the evening. Nearly two hundred guests were served at dinner. The clubhouse was never more attractive, the house committee having spent considerable time in decorating the interior. The dancing was continued until 11 o'clock. This event is not only looked forward to by the home club members, but those of the other clubs in this city, and all appreciate the hospitality extended.

Saturday morning there was the initial contest among the boys for cups offered in a weekly competition. This attracted a good sized field. The best scores:

E. R. Walbridge, 106, 10.96; L. S. Church, 110, 5-105; S. D. Warren, Jr., 165, 25-140; J. P. Stevens, Jr., 179, 23-156.

Throughout the days there was the weekly competition for the spring handicap cups, Classes A and B. There was a large number of entries and all of the scores were good. The leading ones returned in the two classes follow:

Class A—Arthur Murphy, 82, 8-74; E. T. Wilson, 88, 12-76; W. Lester Glenney, 85, 4-81; Dudley H. Barows, 85, 4-81.

"Red" Grimes, of the Garwood team, was incapaciated before Saturday's game by being hit in the left eye by a ball batted in practice. The injured eye closed itself before half the game was played which necessitated him going from shortstop to center field.

The Plainfields will journey to Flemington next Saturday to engage in battle with the Hunterdon county champions.

The Garwood A. C. will hold its last dance of the season at Becker's auditorium on Friday evening, May 13, the proceeds to benefit the baseball team. The Garwood's have games booked with some of the best teams in the State including Plainfield, Somerville, Bound Brook, Nutley, Flemington, High Bridge, Elizabeth and the Knickerbockers, of Bayonne. There are several open dates for first class teams offering suitable inducements for Saturday, Sunday and holiday games. Address Richard Watt, Garwood, N. J.

The newly organized South Plainfield Giants wish to arrange Saturday games with teams in Plainfield and vicinity.

DUNELLEN WINS FROM NORTH PLAINFIELD

Dunellen's crack combination of ball tossers scored its second straight victory on Saturday by defeating the North Plainfield A. A. in an exciting contest by the score of 9 to 5. The Dunellenites played a losing game in the field but they excelled the boroughites at the bat. Miller had a big hitting date. Four times he connected with the ball safely and three times did he score.

Clarke, of the P. H. S. nine, succeeded Craig on third base. He had a bad afternoon, making three errors.. Craig will join the Somerville nine next Saturday. The score:

Who won this game? The scorer of the Climax A. C. left the following communication at The Daily Press office this morning, but he overlooked the fact of giving the final result: "The Climax A. C. journeyed to Metuchen Saturday and were in a fair way of defeating that agrgegation, as the score stood eight to two in their favor in the seventh inning, when one of the opposing players slid into the Climax second baseman breaking his leg. This necessitated a considerable delay, making it quite late so the game was called.

WARNING TO SELLERS OF BEER FROM WAGONS

The first step toward prohibiting the sale or delivery of intoxicating beverages in Summit by any person or firm who shall not be granted a wholesale license by the Summit Board of Excise Commissioners, was taken today, when the following notice is to be served on the drivers of wagons from outside towns and cities by the local police:

Your attention is directed to the opinion of the Supreme Court filed February 21, 1910, in the case of State vs. Kind et al., in which the first syllabus by the court is as follows:

"Defendant was convicted in Cumberland county for selling intoxicating liquor without a license. It appeared that he had his place of business in Atlantic county and held a license there entitling him to sell bottled beer to be drunk elsewhere than on his premises; that customers in Cumberland county sent orders to him by mail, making payment in advance, and the practise was to deliver the beer to them from a stock on defendant's wagon in Cumberland county. Held, that a charge to the jury if defendant assumed the duty of delivering the goods at a particular place he did not consummate the sale until the delivery of the goods at that place was not erroneous."

In the case cited the defendant was indicted by the grand jury and convicted, and the Supreme Court sustained the conviction and sentence.

In accordance with that decision, any person who is not licensed in the city of Summit, although he may be licensed in some other municipality, who sells and delivers intoxicating liquor in the city of Summit, is liable to indictment, and the police authorities of this city have been instructed to take all necessary steps to secure the arrest and conviction of all violators of the law as thus announced by the Supreme Court of this State.

The New Cretonnes And How They're Being Used

We have built a series of "one-sided rooms" in our upholstery department, to show people what wonderful things Colonial cretonnes are, when properly used, for draperies, portieres, wall coverings, etc.

The designs themselves are delightful, and the variety almost endless.

These rooms are hung with these cretonnes; utility boxes, window seats and chair cushions are covered with them, and from the windows and book shelves hang the most delightful of curtains possible to imagine made of them.

As though cretonnes themselves were not enough, we show with them special wall papers, designed exactly as the cretonnes are designed, and these we sell by the roll. It is these cretonnes that we are showing in these wonderful "one-sided rooms," and we should like nothing better than to have you come and see for yourself the charm that proper hangings can give to small and large rooms, when skillfully treated.

To-morrow we shall sell 2,000 yards of

20c Cretonnes at 16c a Yard

among which you will find many of the newest and most popular designs and colors.

SAFE AND SANE FOURTH

Mayors of New Jersey, Local Physicians and Others for Reform.

THE SENTIMENT IS STRONG.

Information Gathered by the Mayor for Use at Public Hearing on Monday Night.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk, in his efforts to ascertain public opinion regarding the proposed ordinance for a safe and sane Fourth of July, has already received a number of replies to letters of inquiry sent out by him. Thus far nine Mayors have been heard from and they all favor the plan for the civilized celebration, claiming that they believe that the majority of the people approve the idea. The Mayors who have responded are as follows:

William Howard, of Rahway; N. J. Melvin, of Cape May; Bird W. Spencer of Passaic; C. W. Kunzy, of Bordentown; Dr. Victor Marvlag, of Elizabeth; Jacob Haussling, of Newark; Albert Bollschweiler, of Perth Ambdy; Franklin P. Stoy, of Atlantic City, and J. J. Morrison, of New Brunswick.

These local physicians have replied adding their endorsement and approving the proposed ordinance: Dr. V. VanD. Hedges and Dr. T. S. Davis, of the Board of Health; Dr. Albert Pittis, Dr. J. Stanley Woolley, Dr. N. H. Probasco, Dr. P. B. Cregar, Dr. H. V. Hubbard, Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, city physician; Dr. James F. Lawson, Dr. J. H. Buchanan, Dr. A. F. Van Horn, Dr. T. H. Tomlinson and Dr. Thomas A. Blair.

Dr. H. M. Maxson, superintendent of public schools, also approves the ordinance and urges the adoption of a safe and sane Fourth for Plainfield, "free from riot of noise and death." Miss Anna M. Day, of Stillman School; Miss Flora I. Griffin, of the Bryant and Lincoln School and Lindsey Best, principal of the city public schools, write in approval of the plan.

The report received from police headquarters show that in 1909 five severe accident cases were treated there, including one where there was the loss of a hand, and in 1908 four accident cases were treated. Miss Josephine Hughes, superintendent of Muhlenberg Hospital, reports four accident cases in 1907; five in 1908, and five in 1909, including the loss of fingers and serious results from gunshot wounds.

Mayor Fisk expects other replies and they will be turned over to the Common Council for consideration. On Monday night a public hearing will be granted on the ordinance.

Mayor Fisk received several additional letters this morning in which the writers upheld the principle of prevention of accidents in Independence Day. Among the letters were those from Mayors Theodore Ayres, of Morristown; John J. Cain, of Bayonne; William Cardwell, of East Orange, and C. A. Farner, of Burlington. The last named regretted the fact that he had no power in the matter and hoped that the Legislature would some day enact a law which would put the power into the hands of the city officials so that proper action could be taken by the various cities throughout the State.

It has been suggested that the method pursued in Jersey City and many other places be tried here. That is to submit the entire question to the pupils of the public schools. Let the children themselves decide whether they want to endanger their own precious lives in exploding dynamite productions simply for the noise.

Dr. J. C. Anderson and Dr. E. W. Rushmore have responded to the Mayor's letter, the former being in favor of restrictions and the latter preferring the old fashioned Fourth.

Mrs. M. E. Benton, president of the Mothers' Association; Principal Miss Genevieve Petrie, of the Irving School, and Miss Bullock principal of Franklin School, endorse the Mayor's attempt to secure the safe conduct of the cannon cracker advocates on July Fourth next.

Will Hold a Memorial Service.

A memorial service for Harold Lawrence B. Mulford, son of Mrs. Charles A. Pomeroy, formerly of the borough, who died there on February 20, will be held at the Pawling School chapel, Pawling, N. Y., on Sunday, May 22, at noon. Young Mulford was a student at this school. Dr. Gamage, headmaster of the school, will deliver an address and a memorial tablet, erected by the master and the students, will be unveiled.

Patrick Connolly, of High Bridge, is visiting John Connolly, of East Fifth street.

BAND CONCERTS ARE NOW UP TO PUBLIC

Summer is coming and so is Ben Le Vere and band concerts maybe. On the subject of the possibility of Plainfield having band concerts during the coming summer, the veteran band leader, in a conversation with a Daily Press reporter yesterday, declared he had not given the matter a thought; but Mr. Le Vere intimated that he was willing to take hold of the project, if he is assured of financial support.

Plainfield has not had any band concerts since 1907, but there is a chance of them being resumed, if a committee of citizens will organize themselves and pave the way. Mr. Le Vere informed the Daily Press reporter that with a fund of $500 on hand he will be able to erect a grandstand and provide weekly concerts, to begin the middle of June and to continue until the middle of September. The cost of each concert, Mr. Le Vere explained, would be about $75 each, but that the grandstand receipts, based on 10 cent admissions, would provide sufficient income to have them continued until September.

"If there is a demand for band concerts in Plainfield," said Mr. Le Vere, "I am willing to do my part on the musical end, but to put the proposition on a solid basis, I would suggest that those interested form a committee, solicit subscriptions and look after the financial end."

This is where Mr. Le Vere stands in the matter. Now if citizens desire concerts, it is their duty to be up and doing in the matter.

AND NOW THEY WANT NEWSBOYS LICENSED

Miss Phillips, who is associated with the work of the Organized Aid Association, has written Mayor Charles J. Fisk, suggesting that a plan be adopted by the Common Council to license all boys who sell newspapers in the city, similar to the idea as carried out in Newark and Jersey City. In the latter cities the newsboys are provided with a badge which is issued by the Board of Education and in this way the board is able to keep track of boys of school age.

While the Mayor has not expressed any opinion on the subject, he has hinted that such a scheme might work a hardship in this city, that the idea is a little too far in advance of the growth of Plainfield. In Newark and Jersey City there are more boys of the "street urchin" class and Plainfield is quite free from this. It has been pointed out that in the newspaper offices where regular carriers are employed, it is often compulsory to get substitute carrier at short notice and if the boy did not happen to have a badge he could not carry the route. However, the matter will be turned over to the Common Council for further consideration.

BURNETT'S TRAGIC DEATH

Smalleytown Man Falls Off Wagon and Dies of Strangulation.

HORSE DRAGGED HIM HOME.

Dead Man Visited this City Yesterday and Purchased Things for a Birthday Celebration Next Friday.

Peter Burnett, of Smalleytown, met a tragic death while on his way from Sterling to his home last night. Burnett fell head foremost from his wagon, his neck catching between the axle and the front wheel.

County Physician Long, of Somerville, after viewing the remains this morning, declared that Burnett died of strangulation and not a bone in the dead man's body was broken. Burnett's face head and arms were cut and bruised, and according to Dr. Long has was dragged fully two miles.

Unable to extricate himself Burnett was carried to his home with his body dangling between the wheels and axle of the vehicle. Mrs. Burnett discovered her husband's body as a result of the constant neighing of the horse.

Burnett was in this city yesterday making purchases for a party in honor of his forty-second birthday, which was scheduled to take place next Friday at his home.

While in the borough he purchased a new wagon at W. J. Conroy's wagon manufactory and after visiting other places at 6 o'clock left for his home. According to reports Burnett made several stops at Stirling, which is about two miles distant from his home.

Burnett is the son of the late John Burnett, who was killed by a train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at South Plainfield about fifteen years ago. He is survived by a mother, a wife and four children.

Burnett was well known in this city. For several summers he was in the employ of the Natural Ice Company.

The funeral services will be held at his late home on Thursday afternoon. Burnett was a member of a Jr. O. U. A. M. lodge at Summit.

Surviving him are a sister, Mrs. Henry Bodenheimer, of Somerset street, and a brother, Charles Burnett, of Washington street. There is also an unmarried sister, Kate, and three brothers John, Edward and George, who reside at Smalleytown, in addition to a wife and four children.

BANKS RECOVERS $500 DAMAGES FOR ASSAULT

The case of W. T. Banks against Eugene J. Schwartz, tried yesterday in the Union County Circuit Court, at Elizabeth, resulted in a judgment in favor of the plaintiff for $500. The action was for damages for assault and battery and false imprisonment. The evidence showed that in September last, Banks went to the office of E. J. Schwartz & Co., wealthy tanners, attheir factory at Jersey City, and while there was assaulted by E. J. Schwartz, president of the concern.

Schwartz accused Banks of purchasing goods in the name of his concern. Banks denied it and at first declined to pay the bill. He was then assaulted by Schwartz and a policeman was called in. Banks was taken to police headquarters, where he was held a prisoner without any complaint being made. Later on in the day, Schwartz called up police headquarters and obtained from Banks a check, which Banks paid under protest in settlement of the alleged bill, and then Schwartz ordered his release.

The testimony was very conflicting, and it was a hard fought case. MacLear and Fort represented the defendant. Codington and Swackhamer representing Mr. Banks. The evidence showed that Banks was considerably injured, and the jury rendered a verdict in his favor.

ALPHEUS L. MUNDY DEAD

Former Plainfielder Passed Away Suddenly of Heart Disease.

HE WAS SIXTY-SIX YEARS OLD.

After the Civil War He Engaged in Dry Goods Business Here—Funeral at New Brunswick Thursday.

Alpheus L. Mundy, aged sixty-six years, a native of Martinsville, and one of the best known residents of New Brunswick, died at 11:45 o'clock yesterday morning at his home, 19 Carroll street, New Brunswick, of heart trouble. He had suffered several attacks with his heart recently, but went out yesterday morning for his customary walk with "Teddy," a little cocker spaniel, that had been his faithful companion for years.

Almost the last man he met on the street was an undertaker, a personal friend. This was at 11 o'clock and three-quarters of an hour later the undertaker was summoned to the Mundy home.

Mr. Mundy was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Israel C. Munday, who were also natives of Martinsville. He secured an early education in the district schools of Martinsville. At the age of sixteen years he went to New Brunswick and took a position in the dry goods store of Hagaman & Dunham as clerk. Here he served for six years.

Mr. Mundy, then twenty-two years old, secured a position in New York city with the well known dry goods firm of A. T. Stewart & Co., where he served for some time. With the outbreak of the Civil War Mr. Mundy responded to the call of his country and enlisted in Company A, Eighth Regiment, N. Y. Vols., and remained in the service until the close of the war.

After the war he returned to Plainfield and engaged in the dry goods business with Howard A. Pope and Carman Parse, under the firm name of Pope, Parse & Mundy. The firm remained in business for ten years and later Mr. Mundy engaged in the dry goods business at Somerville, but finally returned to New Brunswick and purchased the stock of the VanCleef store on Church street, the store in which he had clerked when a boy. Six years later he sold out and then purhcased the carriage business of Ballentine & VanFleet on Bayard street. In 1905 he was elected freeholder.

Mr. Mundy was a member of the First Reformed church, New Brunswick. He was elected a freeholder under the Strong act which provided for a commission of five representing the county at large. He was reelected in 1907. Last year he was defeated for a third term by a small majority.

Mr. Mundy was a member of the Masonic Lodge in New Brunswick and active in its work. He was a cousin of Walter Linbarger and Mrs. J. P. Humble, of the borough.

The funeral will be held from the late home Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The burial will be at Bound Brook.

PEARSALL SUCCEEDS ROTTBERG AS CORPORAL.

J. F. Pearsall was elected corporal to succeed Samuel Rottberg, at the business meeting of Co. K, last night, the latter having served his full time and deciding to retire from the organization owing to a pressure of other duties. His action is deeply regretted by his fellows for he has been a hard worker. He served five years. Corporal Pearsall is a 100 per cent. member and the choice is considered a good one. John Hixon received a gold prize, which was won by him on the company range in a match last week.

After the regular drill the company was divided into squads for instruction in detail work and this proved interesting and helpful to a majority of the men. Sergeant Nathan Hort was complimented last night for his efficient work. He has a bright future in the national guard according to the military officers.

Mary Carrick.

Miss Mary Reilly, of North Plainfield, through whose efforts Miss Bridget Carrick, was sent back to her home in Ireland, while in a dying condition, received word last night from the girl's mother that the young woman had passed away of tuberculosis. Miss Carrick was employed by several families here and was well liked. The latter raised $52.25 in a week with which to send Miss Carrick home, it being her one wish that she could see her mother and sisters before she died. Miss Reilly is greatly pleased that she was able to render the service.

for the benefit of the hospital. He is Frederick C. Patterson, who has been acting as the coach. He and Edward Sheldon, the author of "Salvation Nell" and "The Nigger," who is also a Plainfielder, will be the only two professionals in the cast.

Mr. Patterson, who is a native of London, England, and is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, is devoting his life to the drama. He has appeared in various plays with such famous thespians as Richard Mansfield, Mme. Duse, Mrs. Leslie Carter, Ben Greet, Hilda Spong, Miss Mary Shaw and Miss Mabel Montgomery. At times he has been stage manager for Mrs. Carter and the Misses Spong, Shaw and Montgomery. Some three years ago he launched into the club and university dramatic society work and has since given his time as a coach and stage manager for high class amateur productions.

The residential property at 807 West Seventh street, occupied by Mr. Manning prior to his death, is bequeathed to his son, Walter F. Manning and daughter, Mrs. Philip MacIntyre.

To his daughter, Mrs. Philip MacIntyre, Mr. Manning gives the property on West Front street, adjoining that of the First M. E. church, upon which stands brick buildings, used as stores and apartments; also a plot of land owned by him and situated on Clinton avenue, between Seventh and Eighth street. To his grandson, Russell Macintyre, Mr. Manning bequeaths his gold watch.

In addition to other bequests to his son, Walter F. Manning, Mr. Manning also gives him all his money on deposit in the City National Bank, and the residue of the estate is to be divided between his son, Walter F. Manning and his daughter, Mrs. Philip Macintyre.

LAUDED MEN OF ACTION

Alexander Gilbert Paid Tributes to Roosevelt, Hughes and Gaynor.

DEPLORED CITY EXTRAVAGANCE

Banker's Address at Grace Church Men's Club Banquet—Justice Jenks and Others Also Spoke.

The annual dinner of the Men's Club of Grace church, held in the parish house last night, was a delightful occasion, which was attended by about one hundred members and guests. There were excellent speeches by Justice Almet F. Jenks, of New York; Rev. C. H. Mallery, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest; former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, Councilman Frederic E. Mygatt and Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church. George S. Clay, who was president of the club last year, was the toastmaster.

The keynote of all the speeches was more civic pride, while the true purpose of a men's club, that of men banding together for the promotion of religion and social features received much attention on the part of the speakers. Mr. Gilbert in his address called attention to the present extravagance in the city government, lauded Roosevelt, Hughes and Gaynor.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert said that he had been limited to five minutes, which he said might mean that this was the limit of the capacity of the audience or his oratory. "We are living in a 'Message to Garcia age,'" continued Mr. Gilbert, "the story of which I believe originated in the Roycroft Shop and has been translated into every foreign tongue. This is exemplified in the demands being made today on public men. The people prefer action to oratory. This is in evidence everywhere.

"Three men who loom up most prominently today have established a record for doing things, of striking at the root of evil. These men are Roosevelt, Hughes and Gaynor. They have so aroused patriotism that people now believe that it pays to be honest. Public weal is put above politics. This wave of reform is due to Roosevelt. The great reception given to him abroad is due to the fact that he dare to grapple with great questions and enforce the laws, which has brought happiness to the masses.

"The influence of Governor Hughes has been felt throughout the country. Through his efforts the speculative markets have been modified and restricted and the evils of the Stock Exchange have been abolished.

"What shall I say of Judge Gaynor? His administration has inspired New York and the whole country. It is a Herculean task to rid New York of men who have dominated and controlled it, but he will surely succeed.

"Are we carrying any message to Garcia for Plainfield, to keep it as a splendid place for New York people to live. We are growing rapidly and our bonded indebtedness is increasing rapidly. The lines are sharply drawn between those who want all the improvements and the more conservative people who favor going slow. We do not want to adopt a niggardly policy, neither do we want to go about seeking how we can spend our money. You all know as business men that an evil to be avoided is that of being overburdened with debt. When this is permitted it is a case of going to the wall and prosperity and growth is retarded. We can use our influence to see that Plainfield is given a wise, prudent and systematic government and then we shall accomplish something."

The guest of the evening, Justice Jenks, who was the first speaker, was introduced by Mr. Clay as an eminent jurist, one who decides great cases regardless of the fact whether the interested parties are poor or wealthy. He said that judges are not always right in their decisions, neither are they alway serious. They are human like most folk and often consent to talk to laymen. Justice Jenks was then given a cordial reception by the diners.

"The patron or patron saint of this club, D. H. Rowland," said Justice Jenks, "invited me to attend this dinner. He made an apointment to meet at the Liberty street ferry at 4:15 sharp. I was there and saw him first and before he could see me I had purchased my own ticket. The point of the story is this. Charles Clark, an eminent newspaperman, once delivered a lecture on 'The Philippines,' and afterward he was tendered a check for $25 which he declined, explaining that it was a

DRY GOODS MAN IS HELD UP AND ROBBED.

New Brunswick, May 10.—In Highland Park Sunday night Harry Krechman, a dry goods dealer, of Burnett street, was held up and robbed. Three of his alleged assailants, William Hoffron, twenty years old of Philadelphia; John Paque, twenty-six years, of Utica, N. Y., and William Hagen, twenty-six years, of Philadelphia, are under arrest on charges of highway robbery. A fourth man escaped. Krechman declares the men accosted him on the Albany street bridge about midnight, asked for a match and the time. He pulled out his gold watch to accommodate them. Later they held him up, one holding his mouth while the others hustled him down the River road, ripped open his pockets and stole the watch, penknife, $8 in cash and a stickpin, valued in all at $50.

Policemen Wilcox and Lyons got the three men on a Metuchen car bound for this city. Some of the stolen goods, it is alleged, were found on them.

WHY SALVES FAIL TO CURE ECZEMA.

Scientists are now agreed that the eczema germs are lodged not in the outer skin or epidermis, but in the inner skin. Hence, a penetrating liquid is required, not an outward salve that clogs the pores.

We recommend to all eczema patients the standard prescription Oil of Wintergreen as compounded in liquid form known as D. D. D. Prescription. A trial bottle of this D. D. D. Prescription, at only 25 cents, will instantly relieve the itch. We have sold and recommended this remedy for years, and know of wonderful cures from its use. We recommend it to our patrons.

OUR MAY WHITE SALE PROVES THE PRINCIPAL STORE ATTRACTION OF THIS VICINITY

Store crowded, sales soaring, values winning enthusiastic approval—such, in brief, is the story of the opening hours of this real triumph in white goods retailing. It is already an established fact that white goods buying at this season can most profitably be centered here.

Assortments provide the most complete selection of new white yard goods, white outer and underwear, white staples, etc. Weeks of time and effort were devoted to preparing for this sale—to searching the markets, viewing goods, separating the wheat from the chaff and using spot cash as the level to close deals at most advantageously low prices.

Sale continues with all its attractions—tomorrow's hosts of shoppers will find all that met with the instantaneous approval of those who have already bought.

Now is the one best opportunity to supply White Goods needs for weeks to come.

GOLF.

The dinner served by Superintendent John Hilton at the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday, as well as the luncheons, called forth favorable comment from the patrons. Nearly 150 people were served at dinner and the menu was a particularly fine one. The service was the best.

Dave Ogilvie, professional of the Morris County Golf Club, has secured a leave of absence from his club, the vacation to begin in July. He plans to visit relatives in Scotland, and will be gone for a couple of months. Ogilvie alternates between Morris County and Augusta, and in that way manages to keep busy the year round.

There is a member of a certain golf club not many miles from New York who has the reputation of never buying a ball. His favorite method of procuring the gutta percha spheres is to work with a scythe in the long grass running parallel with the fairway. In the season he generally manages to keep quite a stock on hand. It is needless to say he is not popular with his fellow members, and still less with the club professional.

Apropos of looking for balls, a trick that a Virginia Hot Springs caddie was credited with devising comes to mind. This boy, who possessed a fox terrier more than ordinarily astute, would take a golf ball in hand, allow the dog to scent it, then quickly change it for a stone and throw the stone among the leaves. The dog, having the scent of the rubber, would rush after the decoy, and seldom failed to bring back a ball.

With regard to the controversy as to good and bad courses a Boston writer makes the following observations:

No golfers enjoy the game more than those who belong to the clubs whose courses would be placed in the third division, namely, links with no pretensions, near the residences of the members. One of the Western golfers, a member of the Yale team, was down on the Cape last summer and near a short nine-hole course, but he refused to play over it on the ground that it would hurt his game in the coming championship tournament. There's a good deal in this view, but not every golfer aims at being a championship player. It takes all sorts of people to make a world and it takes all sorts of golf courses to suit the players of the game. But don't let us deceive ourselves that we have the real thing when we are far from being so fortunate.

"Glorying in Tribulations" will be the subject of the prayer-meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night.

Preparatory services will be held at Hope chapel on Thursday night and the regular communion service on Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Frank D. Pike, of Park avenue, left this morning for Atlantic City, where she will spend the rest of the month.

THE FORUM.

Playgrounds.

Editor, The Daily Press:

No welfare movement of recent times has made a more rapid advance than the now nation-wide movement for city playgrounds. In the summer of 1907, according to Dr. Henry S. Curtis, former secretary of the Playground Association of America, there were 90 cities that maintained playgrounds. In the summer of 1908, there were 185 and in 1909 there were 335. This has meant an increase of about 100 per cent each year for the last three years. There are about 800 cities of over 5,000 inhabitants in this country. If there is the same increase this year as during the last three years, every city of over 5,000 population will have playgrounds in 1911.

This rapid increase in the number of playgrounds has been due to a growing appreciation of the value of playgrounds as an agency making for health, physical development, the prevention of juvenile crime and training in habits of right living. They are not aluxury or a fad but a necessity to every city whose men and women are interested in building up a robust motherhood and a vigorous citizenship for the city of tomorrow.

The creation of a playground is a sanitary measure as much as pure water and clean streets. If children are to be healthy and strong they need plenty of air, sunshine and exercise. These vital elements the playground furnishes. The last International Conference on Tuberculosis adopted a resolution that playgrounds constitute one of the most effective methods for the prevention of tuberculosis and that playgrounds should be put to the forefront in the world-wide propaganda for the diminution of its unnecessary destruction of human life.

Since disease and lack of vitality are the primary causes of a large percentage of poverty, the playground is a preventive of poverty and an exceedingly important factor in the solution of the problems of charity.

Many mentally inert children, believed to be mentally defective, have found themselves in the stimulating activities of organized play. Their lives have been made useful, and it has saved them from becoming a burden to the community.

Considered simply from the standpoint of its contribution to public health, the playground makes for a higher average of physical and mental fitness in a city's population and thus effects a great saving in a city's expenditures for the care of its dependent and defective classes.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Fowler Wants Another Term.

Representative Charles N. Fowler announces he is a candidate for renomination in the Fifth District. The announcement does not take the voters of the district by surprise. There would have been astonishment if Mr. Fowler had stated that he was not a candidate. Representative Fowler's attitude in Congress is well understood. He is not classed with the Western men, who are "insurgents" from principle. It is well understood that if Speaker Cannon had reappointed him chairman of Banking and Currency Commission he would now be in line with the Cannon regulars. He was displaced and chargrined. Personal animosity toward the speaker inspired his subsequent actions and colored his motives. During his time in Congress Mr. Fowler has been a chronic absentee. He has taken little or no interest in public affairs apart from the currency question, and his dominant idea has been to get a currency system adopted with the Fowler name attached to it. Nor has he abandoned that ambition. Mr. Fowler wants another term.—Newark Star.

Annual Statement First M. E.

The annual statement of Samuel Bingaman, treasurer of the First M. E. church, has been made public through the weekly bulletin. The balance on April 1 1909, was $137.84, and the receipts for the year were $7,015.57, including $5,062.57 received through the envelope system. The expenditures were $7,151.50, laving a balance on April 1, 1910, of $1.91. This includes the pastor's salary, $2,500, and $1,820.77 for music, which comprise the two largest items of expense.

Former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer was a guest at the banquet of the Passaic Board of Trade, in Passaic last night, at which President Taft made one of his characteristic speeches. There were six hundred diners present.

WAYWARD YOUTH HELD FOR JUVENILE COURT

Julius Richards, a ten-year-old Hebrew boy, stole a bicycle from in front of the North Avenue station yesterday afternoon and turned it over to Frank Lewis at the Grove street bridge, when he discovered that he was being followed by Patrolman McCarthy. The officer chased the boy for several blocks and finally caught him near Tier's pond. When arraigned before Judge William Runyon this morning the youngster explained that he "just wanted a little ride."

The boy has a bad record and for some months it is said he has been "good." However that may be, it is charged against him that he volunteered to help out on Tag Day and instead of turning the money into the box provided for that purpose he slipped the coins into his own pocket. Patrolman McDonald noticed this peculiarity of the boy and took the necessary steps to prevent further stealing of funds properly belonging to the King's Daughters

Judge Runyon told the boy's father this morning that all the clemency possible had been shown the boy and that he would have to answer in the juvenile court at Elizabeth.

Must Explain Something.

From the pockets of the clothing found by Patrolman Meyer, at the corner of Watchung avenue and Third street after midnight last Saturday, a photograph some letters and a memorandum book would indicate that the "personal baggage" belongs to an Italian who is well known in this city. The police will probably return the stuff to its original owner on identification. But, he would better call at headquarters.

Proctor's Good Show.

The Continental Four, singers of high-class songs, pleased a capacity audience at Proctor's theatre last night. The quartet is exceptionally well balanced. Harry Crandall & Co., provides lots of merriment in the sketch, "Fun in a Grocery Store." There are five in the company. Leander in his comedy bicycle skit, "A Night at the Beach," makes a hit, and Fred Russell has some good up-to-date-minute stories. The pictures are interesting and instructive.

Miss Lyons Surprised.

Miss Margaret Lyons, of Washington avenue, was given a surprise party at her home last night. There was a large number of friends present and the evening was spent playing games and in listening to vocal and instrumental music. Refreshments were served at a late hour. The dining-room was attractively decorated, the chief color being green.

AUXILIARY POWER FOR WIRELESS CURRENT URGED.

When the steamer Kentucky was sinking off Cape Hatteras, the last throb from its wireless flashed the word that water was coming in to the hold and in a few minutes its dynamo would stop, putting an end to further message sending. This exigency is likely to be repeated in the case of other vessels. The boilers and machinery are placed as low as possible in the ship, on account of their weight, but this means they are quickly put out of action when the water comes in.

It would seem essential that provision be at once made for auxiliary power, placed on an upper deck, to provide current for the wireles up to the moment the entire hull goes under, says main floats even when half submerged, and in such condition needs the help of its wireless more than ever, to assist rescue ships in finding her.

A gas engine and generator of sufficient power would not occupy much space, and would be usable long after the fires below had been extinguished, or a small steam plant would furnish all the power required but to depend on the below-decks plant seems to be only half equipped.

Onion Omelet.

One large Spanish onion, minced fine and fried in butter until tender. Mix the omelet as follows: Separte the whites of four eggs and beat to a stiff froth. To the beaten yolks add four tablespoonfuls of sweetened cream, a little salt, pepper, and lastly, the whites stirred in lightly. Put in a hot frying pan a tablespoonful of butter. As soon as it is melted and hot turn in the eggs. When the eggs are set and brown on the bottom, fold in the onion. Season with salt and pepper. Stir to mix. When done fold and serve hot for breakfast.

DIOCESE OF NEW JERSEY IS IN CONVENTION TODAY

Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church; Rev. Morgan Ashley, of St. Stephen's church; Rev. C. H. Mallery, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, and Rev. George A. Warner, of Holy Cross church, together with lay delegates from each parish, are in attendance at the one hundred and twenty-sixth convention of the Episcopal church of the Diocese of New Jersey, which began this morning in Trenton and will continue tomorrow. Mr. Stevenson will preach the convention sermon today.

The convention will be presided over by Rt. Rev. John Scarborough, Bishop of New Jersey. A meeting of the Church Club of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey, made up of clergy and laymen of the diocese, will be held at the Trenton House tonight. It will be followed by the semi-annual dinner and the principal speaker will be Rev. L. B. Ridgeley, dean of the Boone School, Michang, China.

pleasure for him to be present and speak. The man insisted on Mr. Clark accepting the check, adding, 'I think the lecture was worth it.'

"Mr. Clark then replied, 'Well, if I don't accept the check what will you do with it.' The answer was: 'Why, we will keep the money and get a better speaker next year.'"

The speaker said that men's clubs are a sign of the times and he favored them. He thought Roosevelt's motto: "A square deal for everyone," expressive of the true purpose, and he added that he did not believe that people would object to trusts and combinations on that basis. He thought that there was just as much reason for the existence of men's clubs as there is for organization among tradesmen and that a man could be just as good a churchmen in a business suit as a frock coat and silk hat. He characterized it as a proper and legitimate trust, that is men's clubs, where men can work shoulder to shoulder with the clergyman for the best interests of the church.

In conclusion Justice Jenks told a pathetic story of an eleven-year-old girl who, because of many duties in caring for her brothers and sisters had not been able to attend church and Sunday school. This worried her when she was dying, and she wondered what Christ would say to her. A kind friend said to her, "Just show Him your hands." This thought seemed to comfort her.

Rev. C. H. Mallery, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, was the second speaker and he devoted his remarks to extolling the good work of the Men's Club in his parish, which has a membership of 110, while there are 100 communicants in the parish. This, Mr. Mallery said, was a mathematical problem hard to solve. In his opinion a men's club should not be wholly religious or wholly social, but a combination of both. It should be up-to-date and keep in touch with the world and church. He recalled the fact that Mayor Fisk recently addressed his club, telling all that had happened and all that was going to happen. Soon afterward work was started improving some of the streets in the wilds of the West End, showing that the Mayor's visit to the club was not in vain.

In the brief remarks made by Councilman F. E. Mygatt, who was introduced as a man of whom Roosevelt should be proud, he said that great power lies in a civic body and he hoped that such organizations would become better acquainted with city affairs, for they are doubtless great moulders of public opinion.

The last speaker was Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, who sounded the praises of his men's club. He said that he valued the organization for what it has done in the past and for a promising future, and he thanked the men for their cordial and hearty support in the work of the church.

During the evening, the diners were entertained with piano and mandolin selections; also popular songs by a professional singer.

Prior to the dinner, the club held its annual meeting and elected these officers:

President, Dr. H. D. Corbusier; vice-president, George M. Holstein; secretary, Oliver B. Hill; treasurer, C. G. Munro; executive committee, two years; A. Willis West, Charles DuBois, Herbert E. Jackson, J. Paul Nolting and F. W. Iredell.

The excellent dinner was prepared and served by Mrs. Henry Johnson.

Stabbed During a Dispute.

Whitehouse, May 10.—Some of the laborers employed in the construction of the macadam road from this place to Lebanon got into a scrap Sunday at the shack near Potterstown, where they make their headquarters. One of them sustained a slight stab wound. The dispute was said to be over the possession of a hammer. A physician dressed the cut and the man is able to be about today.

15TH ANNUAL INSTITUTE OF S.S. TEACHERS UNION

The fifteenth annual institute of the Plainfield Graded Union of Sunday School Tteachers was held yesterday afternoon and evening in the First Baptist church and the meetings at both sessions were largely attended.

The afternoon session included the devotional service conducted by Mrs. D. L. Darby; a piano solo by Miss Elizabeth Martin; an address by Mrs. F. W. Miller, of Somerville, on the new graded work in the Sunday-school. Miss Marjorie Brown played a violin solo and immediately afterwards the offertory was taken. Miss Josephine Baldwin, of Newark, took the place of Miss Kate Z. Gaston, who was to have spoken on the junior lesson. Miss Elmira Runyon conducted the hand work in grades.

The principal speaker at the evening session was Rev. Milton S. Littlefield, pastor of the Bay Ridge Presbyterian church, Brooklyn. The devotional exercises were in charge of Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church, and the responses to the roll call were hearty and prompt. The solo by Miss S. Etta Raybert was beautifully sung.

Rev. Mr. Littlefield's speech on "The Challenge of Adolesence" was a masterly effort and showed where the parental and Christian influence could be best applied with boys and girls. Mr. Littlefield said that a boy, between fourteen and eighteen years of age is more approachable than when he reaches a more mature age, while the best time for good influences to make progress with the girl is when she is twelve years old or at the latest thirteen. Character and life impulses receive their greatest stimulus at the ages named and remain forever factors in the after life of the man and woman.

CHURCH OPPOSES TROLLEY.

St. Paul's Trustees to Fight Line on Old Bergen Road.

The trustees of St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, in Old Bergen road, Jersey City, have retained counsel to oppose the extension of a trolley line in that thoroughfare on the ground that the trolley cars will disturb the church services.

An agreement to extend the line was recently entered into by Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn and the Public Service Railway Company. The church trustees will contend that the city has no authority to make such an agreement.

Harvard's Football Profit $47,830.59

Graduate Treasurer William F. Garcelon's annual report on the financial conditions of Harvard athletics was accepted by the Harvard Athletic Association at its meeting last night. The report was for the year which ended July 31, 1909. The total income of the association was $125,585.53, and the expenditures $121,819.35, making a net gain of $2,766.18 for the year. The football games yielded $78,897.76, and the expenses incurred amounted to $31,067.17, showing a profit of $47,830.59. Baseball showed a gain of $9,780.22, and tennis $1,188.23. Rowing showed a deficit of $11,899.58, and track athletics a loss of $4,776.13.

Crusade on Asphaltum Binder.

Truck owners and automobilists are agitated over the proposed adoption of asphaltum binder for the Mercer county road contracts, and a petition praying for "a more permanent paving material" and representing property worth more than a million dollars, was presented to the Board of Freeholders at its meeting today.

RECEPTACLE AT DOOR OR NO MAIL DELIVERY

If a bill that was reported favorably yesterday in the United States Senate at Washington, by the Senate committee on postoffices and post roads becomes a law the delivery of mail by city letter carriers will only be made at such residences and places of business as provide at the door or entrance receptacles for its deposit. In reporting the bill favorably the committee transmitted to the Senate a letter from Postmaster-General Hitchcock in which he declared that its enactment would not only result in an important saving in the cost of city delivery, but would render the service more efficient by reason of a speedier delivery of the mail.

The postmaster-general stated in this letter the average wait by city letter carriers at each place of delivery is fifteen seconds and that the 26,000 carriers would save an hour and a half each working day as a result of the enactment of this law. Mr. Hitchcock figures that the measure, if put into operation, would reduce the cost of city delivery several million dollars annually.

BADLY CUT BY RAZOR IN JEALOUS MAN'S HAND.

Elizabeth, May 10.—The Elizabeth police are searching for a Pole, who, with a razor, Sunday night badly slashed Frederick J. Sachs, of 983 South street. Sachs is a driver for the Elizabeth Ice Company. The affair took place here in a dance hall in Washington avenue. The Pole, it is said, became jealous of Sachs for paying too much attention to his sweetheart and dancing with her. He slashed the ice man on the forehead, neck, both arms and wrists. The worst cut is one on the forehead in which seventeen stitches had to be taken by Dr. Buck in Henry J. Schmidt's drug store. All together about thirty-five stitches had to be put into the man's wounds. Sachs is twenty-six years old and has a wife and three children.

THINK SON KIDNAPPED.

Parents Have Not Heard from Harry Lee Since April 30.

Fourteen-year-old Harry Lee has mysteriously disappeared from Atlantic City and his parents have asked the Atlantic City police to locate him, as they fear he has been kidnapped. Not a trace of the boy has been seen since he disapepared on April 30.

The father has asked the police to arrest a man who was seen with his son on the day he disappeared. The father also said the boy was a reader of stories of adventure and that he believes his mind became fired to do heroic deeds.

Station Thieves Sentenced.

John Waite, William Karcher and the latter's nineteen-year-old bride, who on the night of February 6 attempted to rob the Erie Railroad station at Essex Fells and were captured after a revolver fight with Marshal Eysoldy of that village, were before Judge Ten Eyck, in Newark, yesterday for sentence after pleading non vult to the charge. Waite was sentenced to three years in State prison, while Karcher and his girl wife got off with terms of eighteen and twelve months, respectively, in the penitentiary.

MAYBUS TOLD OF SHOT MEANT TO KILL HIM

Somerville, May 10.—With his head still swathed in bandages as the result of having one side of his face torn away by a charge from a double-barreled shotgun on April 10, William T. Maybus, a New York real estate dealer with a country place near Franklin Park, appeared in the Somerset county court here yesterday morning. He was the principal witness against Paul Whitte, the former chef of the Maybus household, who was placed on trial before Judge Clarence E. Case and a jury for attempting to take the life of his former employer.

Whitte, who is of middle age, had the appearance of a prosperous business man. He was brought from jail and seated before the bar within a few feet of his intended victim, Maybus.

Maybus, who talked with difficulty while on the stand, testified that on the day of the shooting he had taken Whitte over to the Monmouth Junction Station in a buggy, as the latter said he wanted to get his hair cut.

Maybus said he then went to New Brunswick and tied his horse under a hotel shed to await his return. When he returned to Monmouth Junction he found that his servant had taken his conveyance and left him to walk home. He started out to walk, and met Whitte driving back to meet him. When he got in the buggy with Whitte the latter was drunk and wanted to dictate.

He insisted in going back to Monmouth Junction Station for a drink. Whitte pulled on the reins in an effort to turn the horse in the wrong direction until one of the lines broke. It was then that Maybus had a struggle with him and threw him out of the buggy. Maybus said that Whitte threatened to kill him and then he got out and struck him several blows. After he had beaten Whitte into submission he placed him in the buggy and drove home.

All this happened on the afternoon of the shooting at 6 o'clock in the evening of the same day. Maybus testified that he was about to enter his house after making a trip around the farm when he was met at the kitchen door by Whitte, who had a gun in his hand and said: "D—— you, you done me and now I will do you."

Maybus said that he said, "Paul, you wouldn't shoot me," and then, as a matter of precaution, stepped behind a pillar of the portico about seven feet from where Whitte was standing.

Whitte, he said, eyed him for a few seconds and then raised his gun and fired the load of shot, tearing away the side of Maybus' face. Maybus then jumped over the railing of the portico and ran out into the road, where he met his brother Louis just driving toward the house.

Louis took him in the carriage and hurried him to New Brunswick for medical treatment.

Maybus admitted that he had also been drinking on the day of the shooting, but was not drunk. Louis Maybus testified that he found his brother in the road, with the side of his face torn off as he drove home on the night of the shooting.

Twenty-four cases against hotel and saloon-keepers in Atlantic City await the action of the May grand jury, which is to convene at May's Landing today. Supreme Court Justice Trenchard is expected to renew his demands for indictments against license holders charged with violations of the Sunday law, but the grand jury, as usual, probably will ignore them all.

Thieves got into the home of David Spelzman, at 61 Paterson street, Paterson, about 1 o'clock Sunday morning and stole a quantity of jewelry and silverware. The stolen articles include a lady's hunting-case solid gold watch and gold chain, one dozen Rogers silver tea spoons, one-half dozen silver fruit knives, one meerschaum cigar-holder and three gold baby finger rings.

A class of six is to be graduated from the Mercer Hospital Training School for Nurses Thursday with appropriate exercises in the Prospect Street Presbyterian church. The graduates are: Miss Ethel Paff, Trenton; Miss Marjorie Roche, Trenton Junction; Miss Bessie Jarrett and Miss Agnes Mullane, Bordentown; Miss Evelyn Johnson, Toms River, and Miss Marguerite Smith, Columbia, Pa.

Joseph English, sixteen years old, of 29 Liberty street, Paterson, landed at the General Hospital, Paterson, Sunday afternoon as the result of coasting down the Broadway hill on his bicycle. Half way down the hill his bicycle struck the rear wheel of a rig. The next instant English had fallen to the pavement. By the time spectators arrived the boy was dazed. His injuries consisted of a long cut in his scalp and his body was badly bruised.

Marguerite Rodman, ten years old, back at her home in Burlington from the hospital where she spent five months, is just enjoying a Christmas tree that was erected for her last December. She was taken ill just before the holidays and compelled to undergo an operation. The little girl wept when taken to the hospital over the thought of missing her Christmas pleasures. To end her sorrow her cousin, George Rodman, promised to keep the tree decorated until her return.

Harold B. Ayres, chairman of the Asbury Park Carnival Commission, attended the Elizabethan May Day revels at Bryn Mawr College, near Philadelphia, Saturday, with a view to obtaining new features in connection with the coming carnival and to arrange a lively and entertaining program for the coronation of Queen Titania. There will be a meeting of the carnival commission next week to decide upon the baby parade souvenirs and the question of contract with the Amphitheatre Company.

Patrolman J. H. Kenney brought six boys to Paterson's police headquarters at 11 o'clock last Saturday night. Frank and Louis Loh and Vincent Martin claimed they lived in Weehawken, while William Everett, William Crosby and William Robertson claimed Union Hill as their home town. The lads arrived in Paterson on a motor car and were unable to get home. They had no money and they were given lodging in a cell. At 5 o'clock Sunday morning they started out from headquarters to tramp to their homes.

Services commemorative of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of the Lafayette Methodist Episcopal church were held in Jersey City Sunday. The present church was built around a log cabin. The cabin is still used as a Sunday school room. The sermon was preached by Rev. C. E. Little, one time pastor of the church. A pulpit, erected to the memory of Mrs. Jennie Cumming, was unveiled by Rev. H. C. Lyle, the present pastor. When Mrs. Cumming died several years ago she left her home in Suydam avenue, Jersey City, to the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

A jury in Magistrate Smith's court at Burlington will decide next week whether a chicken-raiser is privileged to shoot stray cats that feed upon his flocks. John Rue, of Beverly road, is defendant in the case, and Frank Hartman, agent of the S. P. C. A., is plaintiff, while the cat was owned by Charles Staub, a neighbor of Rue's. Rue's son shot the cat while it had a fat young broiler in its mouth. The shot was not instantly fatal, and Staub took the case to the anti-cruelty society. Rue declares that twenty of his broilers had already been stolen, and that the Staub cat was the robber. He threatened to sue the cat's owner for the loss of the chickens.

AGAIN SAYS HUSBAND ILL TREATED ANIMALS.

Califon, May 10.—Upon complaint of Mrs. George B. Hoffman, of Lower Valley, against her husband for cruelty to animals, former Mayor Henry Johnson, of Washington, visited the Hoffman farm Saturday and made a personal examination of the live stock. A veterinary surgeon accompanied him. He stated the animals were in a terrible condition and that he would institute legal action at once. Hoffman states he purchased sufficient food for the animals, but that owing to his illness he was unable to give the cattle proper attention and that his wife and son refused to look after them for him owing to domestic troubles. He also stated he was unable to hire any one to look after them. Upon being fined Hoffman said: "There will be a general cleaning out of live stock and everything at the farm." Hoffman became a life tenant of the farm at the death of his father several years ago. At one time it was considered one of the best farms in the valley, but owing to lack of ambition and continual differences between husband and wife it has been neglected. No crops of any account have been grown during the past two years. Portions of the fields have been planted, it is said, but at harvest time the products were not gathered. When the census enumerator, it is said, visited the Hoffman farm and asked what had been raised, there in the past year, Hoffman replied: "We raised —— all last year and started in again this year." This is the third complaint the wife has made against her husband for cruelty to animals.

54-40 OR Fight

By Emerson Hough

Author of The Mississippi Bubble

Illustrations by Magnus G. Kettner

(Copyright, 1909, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

"There are two women in our world to-day," said Calhoun. "As to Jackson, the old fool was a monogamist, and still is. Not so much so Jim Polk of Tennessee. Never does he appear in public with eyes other than for the Dona Lucrezia of the Mexican legation! Now, one against the other—Mexico against Austria—"

Dr. Ward raised his eyebrows in perplexity.

"That is to say, England, and not Austria," went on Calhoun coldly. "The ambassadress of England to America was born in Budapest! So I say, Austria; or perhaps Hungary, or some other country,—which raised this strange representative who has made some stir in Washington here these last few weeks."

"Ah, you mean the baroness!" exclaimed Dr. Ward. "Tut! Tut!"

Calhoun nodded, with the same cold, thin smile. "Yes," he said, "I mean Mr. Pakenham's reputed mistress, his assured secret agent and spy, the beautiful Baroness von Ritz!"

He mentioned a name then well known in diplomatic and social life, when intrigue in Washington, if not open, was none too well hidden.

"Gay Sir Richard!" he resumed. "You know, his ancestor was a brother-in-law of the duke of Wellington. He himself seems to have absorbed some of the great duke's fondness for the fair. Before he came to us he was with England's legation in Mexico. 'Twas there he first met the Dona Lucrezia. 'Tis said he would have remained in Mexico had it not been arranged that she and her husband, Senor Yturrio, should accompany Gen. Almonte in the Mexican ministry here. On these conditions, Sir Richard agreed to accept promotion as minister plenipotentiary to Washington!"

"That was nine years ago," commented Dr. Ward.

"Yes; and it was only last fall that he was made envoy extraordinary. He is at least an extraordinary envoy! Near 50 years of age, he seems to forget public decency; he forgets even the Dona Lucrezia, leaving her to the admiration of Mr. Polk and Mr. Van Zandt, and follows off after the sprightly Baroness von Ritz. Meantime, Senor Yturrio also forgets the Dona Lucrezia, and proceeds also to follow after the baroness—although with less hope than Sir Richard has taste! The Baroness von Ritz has brains and beauty both. It is she who is England's real envoy. Now, I believe she knows England's real intentions as to Texas."

Dr. Ward screwed his lips for a long whistle, as he contemplated John Calhoun's thin, determined face.

"I do not care at present to say more," went on my chief; "but do you not see, granted certain motives, Polk might come into power pledged to the extension of our southwest borders—"

"Calhoun, are you mad?" cried his friend. "Would you plunge this country into war? Would you pit two peoples, like cocks on a floor? And would you use women in our diplomacy?"

Calhoun now was no longer the friend, the humanitarian. He was the relentless machine; the idea; the single purpose, which to the world at large he had been all his life in congress, in cabinets on this or the other side of the throne of American power. He spoke coldly as he went on:

"In these matters it is not a question of means, but of results. If war comes, let it come; although I hope it will not come. As to the use of women—tell me, why not women? Why anything else but women? It is only playing life against life; one variant against another. That is politics, my friend. I want Pakenham. So, I must learn what Pakenham wants. Does he want Texas for England, or the Baroness von Ritz for himself?"

Ward still sat and looked at him. "My God!" said he at last, softly; but Calhoun went on:

"Why, who has made the maps of the world, and who has written pages in its history? Who makes and unmakes cities and empires and republics to-day? Woman, and not man! Are you so ignorant—and you a physician, who know them both? Gad, man, you do not understand your own profession and yet you seek to counsel me in mine!"

"Strange words from you, John," commented his friend, shaking his head; "not seemly for a man who stands where you stand to-day."

"Strange weapons—yes. If I could always use my old weapons of tongue and brain I would not need these perhaps. Now you tell me my time is short. I must fight now to win. I have never fought to lose. I cannot be too nice in agents and instruments."

The old doctor rose and took a turn up and down the little room, one of Calhoun's modest menage at the nation's capital, which then was not the city it is to-day. Calhoun followed him with even steps.

"Changes of maps, my friend? Listen to me. The geography of America for the next 50 years rests under a little roof over in M street to-night—a roof which Sir Richard secretly maintains. The map of the United States, I tell you, is covered with a down counterpane a deux, to-night. You ask me to go on with my fight. I answer, first I must find the woman. Now, I say I have found her, as you know. Also I have told you where I have found her. Under a counterpane! Texas, Oregon, these United States under a counterpane!"

Dr. Ward sighed as he shook his head. "I don't pretent to know now all you mean."

Calhoun whirled on him fiercely, with a vigor which his wasted frame did not indicate as possible.

SERIOUS FIGHT AT A WESTFIELD BARN DANCE

Westfield, May 10.—One pupil rendered unconscious by being struck on the head by a pitchfork, and another having his right ear nearly cut off, were some of the incidents in connection with a barn dance held by the seventh grade of the grammar school Saturday night. The first named victim is Leona Hutchins, while the one whose ear was badly torn is James Todd, a son of Rev. W. B. Todd, a retired Congregational clergyman. Pupils of the eighth grade broke in on the dancers and a fight ensued.

The seventh grade pupils have a dance every year. The one Saturday night was in the barn of the late L. V. Clark, on Clark street. There was a fear that the eighth grade pupils would try to break up the dance and all the windows were locked and the doors barricaded. In the middle of a waltz there was a rap on the door and an eighth grade scholar demanded admittance. This was refused, and there came another demand to open the door. Again the answer came back that the seventh graders did not want to be molested.

The eighth graders withdrew for a council and then decided that they would break into the barn. Todd was selected as the man who would tackle the window. He had crawled half way through the opening when the scrimmage began in earnest, and he was roughly handled. In the fight his ear was so badly cut that it hung by a shred of flesh. The eighth grade pupils gave their companion temporary treatment and then the fight with the seventh graders was renewed. It was at this juncture that a fork either fell or was pitched from the hay mow. It struck Miss Hutchins on the head and laid her scalp open. She was hastily removed to her home, where she received medical attention.

Meanwhile the police had got wind of the fight and they rushed into the building, separating the combatants.

There is some criticism because the seventh grade pupils did not take the precaution to have chaperones at the dance.

It is not believed that Todd will lose his ear. The cut has been sewed, and it is expected that the parts will heal together.

SOMERSET WATER CO.'S PLANS ARE DISCUSSED.

Engineer Morris R. Sherrerd, of the State Water Supply Commission, and his assistant, James C. Hallock, conferred with representatives of the Somerset Water Company regarding the concern's plans to supply water in Bernards and Bedminster townships, in Somerset County, from Peapack Brook.

Mill owners on the stream were also represented and the discussion hinged on the maintenance of the flow of the water-way. Mr. Sherrerd will make a verbal report to the commission at Trenton today.

CANAL IN FIVE MINUTES.

Panama Commissioners Show the 50 Miles at a Glance.

The ideas of the average person about the Panama Canal are usually about as vague as anything can be. People know that it is going to be a waterway between the Atlantic and the Pacific, and that is about all. And this has been, not so much because they have not wanted to know, as that they have not been able to get at the facts in any concrete, understandable way, except in general through the medium of the scientific journals, which to the lay mind are incomprehenable enough in themselves.

It is to give the public a clear, concise idea of just what the work is that the Isthmian Canal Commissioon has recently issued a booklet in which the statistics and important facts about the waterway and its construction are set forth in the briefest possible way.

One can go through it in five minutes—the pamphlet, not the canal—and finish with a good, solid idea of just what the work is and exactly what is going on down there where they are separating two continents.

One of the best things in the booklet is a table of simple statistics about the most important things of which one wants to know. It gives them briefly and definitely, and in a form which is nothing if not easily understood. Here are a few of the things one learns:

Length from deep water to deep water, 50½ miles; length on land, 40½ miles; bottom width of channel, maximum, 1,000 feet; bottom width of channel, minimum, through the nine miles of Culebrat cut, 300 feet; average width of channel, 600 feet; number of locks, in pairs, 12; usable length of locks, 1,000 feet; usable width of locks, 110 feet; depth of water in locks, 45 feet; depth of canal channel, except 41 feet for seven miles on Atlantic side, 45 to 85 feet; Gatun Lake, area, 164 square miles; excavation, estimated total, 174,666,594 cubic yards; excavation completed by April 1, 1910, 103,205,666 cubic yards; concrete, total amount for canal, 5,000,000 cubic yards; Canal Zone, area, 448 square miles; Canal force, actually at work, 39,000; canal force, Americans, 5,500; total estimated cost of canal, $375,000,000; work begun by Americans, May 4, 1904; date of completion, January, 1915; time of passage through locks, 3 hours; time of transit through entire canal, 10 to 12 hours.

WOMAN STILL A SAVAGE.

Dr. Baff Thinks Her Love of Adronment Proves His Theories.

Dr. Max Baff, of Clark College, Worcester, Mass., believes that the women of today are no better from a psychological standpoint than the savage of old. Although he is opposed to woman suffrage and a bachelor, he is not a woman hater.

"My lady can't break off the habits originating with savages, whereas man has put these fads and fancies behind him," he says. "She emulates them by her love of bird feathers, hanging ornaments to her ears, wearing bracelets, rings and necklaces, affecting gaudy colors. She arranges her hair in fantastic shapes by artificial methods and is partial to a daub from the powder or paint pot. Like savages, she is color blind prone to religious hysteria, and impressionable."

He thinks the suffrage agitation a form of woman's emotional insanity which will soon end.

Five Years for Barn Burner.

Judge Horner sentenced Edwin Worrell, of Medford, yesterday to five years in State prison at Mount Holly for having set fire to the barn of Charles H. Wright, at Medford. Worrell was convicted by a jury last week. Besides the barn considerable livestock was burned. According to the Mount Holly authorities Worrell had been twice before convicted of burning barns.

"SHOULD STUDY UP BASEBALL RULES"

In reference to the controversy which marked the N. P. H. S.-P. H. S. game on Thursday, several of the N. P. H. S. partisans put up the claim that Lidgate intentionally batted out of turn. In justice to Lidgate it must be said that he is a clean ball player and the insinuation naturally hurt him. In talking of the incident to a Daily Press reporter Lidgate declared it was not an intentional act on his part. He explained that the P. H. S. batting order had recently been changed. Formerly he followed Doane, and in the heat of the excitement on Thursday, he lost sight of the new order of things, and went to bat after Doane in the fourth inning, and this was what caused the dispute.

Now a word about that decision. Both umpires admitted that they blundered, and to avoid further disputes it is up to the managements of both teams to secure competent officials in the two remaining games. Judge Runyon has been suggested as the arbiter of the next game by adherents of both sides, and it is hoped that he will consent to act in that capacity.

There is no room for argument on the dispute. The rule is clear on the subject. Lidgate should have been declared out for batting out of order and the two runs should not have been allowed to stand.

The attention of Howard George, who was umpiring bases, was called to Lidgate batting out of order by the N. P. H. S. scorer, before Nash had taken his position at the bat, but it was not before the second protest was made that the umps stopped the game to inquire into the rules. Then Nash had a ball and strike called on him. Then Umpire Craig stepped in and declared Lidgate was safe and the two runs should count.

Despite the decision the High School nine retired on two outs. This Mr. Craig admitted today.

Somerville will have its baseball opening next Saturday. Howard Craig, a local boy, will be in the line-up of the Somerset aggregation.

STAR RIDERS ENTER DECORATION DAY RACE

All the star amateur bicycle racers of note in the east will compete in the Plainfield Cycle Derby on Decoration Day. For years the Irvington-Millburn race was one of the biggest sporting events in the country, and now the Plainfield Derby is bound to take its place.

The Plainfield Cycling Club made a big success of the race last year and the event this year is attracting wide attention in cycle racing circles.

Jack Horner, who is managing the race, is booking entries every day. Riders who have entered to date include Peter Sorensen, of Brooklyn, who finished a winner in the 1909 race; Franklin Fisher, the speed merchant, of the Century Road Club, of Long Island; Carl Erikson, of Brooklyn; Paul Hendrick, of Dobbs Ferry, and Clarence Carinon, Jake Magin and Ernest Jakus, of Newark.

Plainfield will also be represented in the race with a sprinkling of riders. Local boys who will ride are Ray Mantz, Percy Haberle, E. S. Bird, George and Eddie Simon. In the list of prizes a silver loving cup is offered to the first local rider who crosses the tape.

The prizes for the twenty-five-mile race include five bicycles and a diamond ring.

The one-mile open will also bring together a fast "bunch" of riders. Bicycles are first and second prizes in this event.

A two-mile race for boys fourteen years and younger is attracting the attention of youths. The winner of this event will also receive a bicycle.

Entries for all three races will close May 28 with Jack Horner Daniel M. Adee, president of the National Cycling Association, will referee the races.

BRANCH BERGH SOCIETY HAS LIVELY MEETING

A lively meeting of the local branch of the S. P. C. A. was held in the parlors of the Young Men's Christian Association yesterday afternoon and reports from the special agent, Mrs. S. G. VanHoesen showed the interest which has been developed in the work during the past few weeks. According to the figures presented an average of one horse a week has been maintained in eliminating the maimed and unfit for use.

A report was read in which details of the selling of horses in Newark and other cities to ashcart men, peddlers and others in nearby cities. It was alleged that these animals were sold only after they had reached the point of uselessness and the practice would be stopped in so far as it relates to Plainfield. The best means of discouraging the habit, Mrs. VanHoesen said, was to kill every one of the animals found to be suffering.

An experience was related by Mrs. VanHoesen of a contest between herself and an obstinate express wagon driver which occurred yesterday while she was on her way to attend the meeting. The horse belonging to a man by the name of Stewart, had been frightened by a passing trolley car and after its initial fright was overcome the drived began to saw on the bit causing the horse's mouth to bleed. With the assistance of a couple of patrolmen who were attracted to the scene the driver was made to desist and warned that a repetition of the oense would mean arrest.

The society has secured rooms in the Smalley building, and hereafter communications of complaints may be telephoned there instead of to Armstrong's drug store. The telephone call is 949. Other calls may be sent to Mrs. VanHoesen as usual.

"Tag Day" Netted $1,100.

"Tag Day" netted $1,100 for the various charities carried on by the City Union of The King's Daughters. Last year the sum contributed in this way amounted to $1,300, but the order is well pleased with the result and the money will help them to carry on the work at The Day Nursery, the Baby Camp and for the support of the city nurse. The money was counted at headquarters on East Front street on a counting machine furnished by F. W. Yates, and the process was watched by a large crowd of people.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Western, of 470 West Front street, at 10:15 o'clock this morning and left a six pound girl.

THE UNDERHILL---STRAIT WAR STARTED ANEW

G. H. Underhill and Freeman Strait, of Watchung, are fighting in the courts again. The case of Underhill against Strait for assault, got a start in the Somerset County Court yesterday afternoon.

The suit is somewhat complicated, as Underhill had Strait arrested on the charge of assault several weeks ago. Strait had a hearing, and after the case was dismissed by Justice Snape, Strait retaliated by having Underhill arrested.

Underhill, on his hearing was held in $200 bail for the grand jury. Now what is puzzling the local legal talent is why Strait after being dismissed by a local court, is a defendant in a case which is identically the same as aired in the North Plainfield court seevral weeks ago.

Among the witnesses called this morning was Mrs. Underhill, wife of the complainant.

MR. FOWLER'S CANDIDACY

Chairman Smith Tells Why It is Not Popular in Union County.

"A SELF-CENTERED MAN."

Voorhees Declares that as a Regular Fowler and His Friends Should Support McGraw, Morris County's Choice.

Frank H. Smith, chairman of the Union County Republican Committee, and a close political friend of United States Senator John Kean, had a short conference yesterday afternoon with State Treasurer Voorhees concerning the situation in the Fifth Congressional District. Mr. Smith found the State Treasurer strong in his determination to defeat the renomination of Representative Charles N. Fowler for election to an eighth term in Congress.

"Frankly speaking," said Mr. Smith in talking about the Congressional nomination, "Union county is not very enthusiastic about continuing Mr. Fowler in Congress. As I said the other day, I do not know of any opposition in the county to Mr. Fowler, but nevertheless he is not strong with the organization men. He is a self-centered man in his political ambitions and has never been active in a campaign except when he has been a candidate himself. This has not tended to make him especially popular with the men who fight the battles of the Republican party in our section. More than this, he has gone out of his way at times to cast reflection on the loyalty of members of the county committee with reference to his own candidacies, and remarks of this character certainly do not set well with the men at whom they are aimed."

Mr. Smith said the State Treasurer seemed to be thoroughly in earnest in his opposition to Representative Fowler and he intimated that as a result of this new development in the situation Mr. Fowler's chances of being returned to Congress were not as bright as they appeared to be a short time ago.

When State Treasurer Daniel S. Voorhees today was shown the statements made by Frank H. Smith, Union county's Republican chairman, as to the position of Union on Fowler's candidacy, he declared that Morris county's position is one in favor of its candidacy rather than one merely in opposition to the present representative. He also emphatically declared that Mr. Fowler is a regular and should not be classed as an insurgent.

"Morris has a candidate of its own this time," said "Uncle Dan." "In the past we have forced the nomination of Mr. Fowler on Union and now as we have a candidate we expect Mr. Fowler and his friends to support him. Mr. Fowler is not an insurgent; he's a regular and as such we expect his friends to support the nominee.

"We don't feel like pressing Fowler upon Union county this time. Union has the majority in the convention but we expect that it will turn in for our candidate. James H. McGraw is the man Morris wants for the place and he will accept the nomination. It is generally understood that Warren will be with us; it always has in the past. You see that Warren and Morris were in the old district and we have always acted in harmony. I want it understood that the fight is not one against Mr. Fowler; rather it is one in favor of Mr. McGraw.

When asked how it was that two years ago, according to general rumor, Morris had backed out after agreeing at a conference with Union to oppose Fowler, Mr. Voorhees shed new light on that situation.

"At that time we told the Union county people that we would support the man who got the majority of delegates in Union. Mr. Fowler got them and we lived up to our agreement. That is all. In my judgment Mr. McGraw will be the nominee and he will make an excellent candidate.

As to the number of delegates Mr. Fowler would control in the convention, Mr. Voorhees said that he conceded him approximately twenty, and that these would come from Union county. Most of these twenty he believed would be from Plainfield and Westfield, where Mr. Fowler's forces are marshalled by James T. MacMurray and Charles N. Codding, respectively. Mr. MacMurray is out of town, but it is expected that he will make a heroic fight again for Mr. Fowler. It was said by Mr. Voorhees that he had not heard from Mr. MacMurray although the latter had called him up on the 'phone last Sunday when he was not home.

Mrs. J. H. Greene, of West Seventh street, has returned home after an extended vlist with friends in Metuchen.

GREAT CROWD HEARS THE Y.M.C.A. ORCHESTRA

Martin A. Korff rounded out twenty-five years as an orchestral director at the Y. M. C. A. last night at one of the most artistic concerts ever given by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra. The auditorium was packed to its capacity and several hundred people were unable to gain admittance to the hall. In appreciation of the orchestra's services the Y. M. C. A. will tender a dinner to Director Korff and his musicians on next Tuesday night.

All of the artists acquitted themselves creditably and were obliged to respond to encores. Miss Grace Carroll was contralto soloist and Mrs. Violet Trueli-Johnston played the violin and Dr. Leonard Waldo played the 'cello.

The male quartette of Grace P. E. church, directed by S. Frederick Smith, sang several selections. In the quartet were William Tallamy, first tenor; Harry Yaeger, second tenor; Mr. Van Miner, first bass, and Bertram Tallamy, second bass.

A feature of the program was the rendition of Joseph Haydn's Symphony Militaire by the orchestra. The program was as follows:

Part One—Processional, Karnival zu Rom, Mendelssohn; Symphony Militaire, Haydn, Adagio, Allegro, Allegretto, Menuetto, Finale, Presto; violin solo, Romanze, Svendsen, Mrs. Johnston; Miss Mabel Maxson at the piano; contralto solo, Whehe'er You Watch, Haendel, Miss Carroll, Miss Alice Carroll at the piano; 'cello solo, Gavotte, Glueck; The Sandman, from Haensel and Gretel, Humperdinck, Dr. Waldo; quartet, Until the Dawn, Parks; Menuet-A l'antique, Paderewski; Flower Song, Lange, (played May 11, 1885).

WESTFIELD WOMAN SEEKS A SEPARATION

Vice-Chancellor Walker conducted a preliminary hearing yesterday at Trenton on the application of Mrs. Dorothea Louise Arnold, of Westfield, for an order requiring her husband, Oscar M. Arnold, also of Westfield, to pay her an allowance pending the result of an action for maintenance and alimony.

The court made an order allowin the wife $7 per week and also $30 for counsel fees. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold are both past middle age. They separated on April 18 last, the wife charging that her husband was self-willed and penurious towards here and had also abused her. In a lengthy affidavit submitted yesterday by Former Assemblyman Samuel Swackhamer, counsel for the husband, the latter denied the charges made against him. He declared that all the trouble between himself and his wife was due to the latter's grumbling because he did not provide money enough for her.

Arnold is employed in New York in the insurance business at a salary of $1,400 per annum, which he says is much less than he formerly earned. William A. Codington, of Plainfield, represents Mrs. Arnold.

WILLIAM GAUB MAY BE COUNTY DETECTIVE

William Gaub, a former lieutenant of the North Plainfield fire department, is being boomed for a position on the Somerset county detective staff. Gaub rendered efficient service to the police in the hunt for John V. Buckley, alias John Grant, the murderer of Mrs. Edna Covely, of Somerset place, and the movement to make him a county detective is an effort on the part of North Plainfield people to reward Gaub for his services.

Gaub was also prominently identified in the capture of George Wood, who murdered George Williams, the Watchung grocer, about five years ago.

Gaub, in his efforts to land on the county detective bureau, is being supported by Mayor N. B. Smalley, Chief Weiss and other influential citizens of the borough.

WON'T EXTRADITE LEWIS

Governor Fort Decides That There is Not Sufficient Evidence.

VICTORY FOR C. A. MARSH.

Governor Hughes' Application for Custody of Alleged Embezzler is Refused—The Reasons Given.

Basing his decision on conclusions similar to those which guided him in refusing to grant a requisition in the case of the Beef Trust prosecution, Governor Fort yesterday at Trenton refused the aplication of Governor Hughes, of New York, for the extradition of Frederick Lewis, of Newark, who was arrested in this city several months ago charged with having committed the crime of grand larceny in the State of New Jersey. Lewis, who is represented by Craig A. Marsh, was arrested here and about two weeks ago was released on bail.

The Governor decides that Lewis is not a fugitive from justice, because sufficient evidence has not been presented by the New York authorities to show that the latter was in the State of New York on April 1, 1909, the date that the alleged crime was committed.

In refusing to order the extradition of Lewis the Governor was guided by an opinion given by Attorney-General Wilson, who conducted a hearing on the case and advised the Governor as follows:

"Accompanying the requisition is an affidavit made by John A. Palmer, reciting that he knew the defendant, and 'personally saw him in the city' of New York on the first day of April, 1909, at Twenty-third street and North River.' This is the only evidence offered by the demanding State as to the presence of the defendant within the State of New York on the day the indictment alleges the crime was committed.

"As controverting this essential jurisdictianal fact, an affidavit of the defendant has been filed, which recites that he was not within the State of New York on the first of April, 1909, and had not been in that jurisdiction since September, 1908.

"There is also an affidavit made by his wife, corroborative in character. She recites that she resides in the city of New York, and that her husband has lived in Newark, New Jersey, for more than two years; that she has been in the habit of visiting him weekly during that time, and that she did, in fact, visit him in Newark on the first day of April, nineteen hundred and nine; that she was with her husband from 11 o'clock in the forenoon until 5 o'clock in the afternoon; that she spent the whole time, between the hours just named, in the company of her husband, and that he left her when she entered the railroad train at the Newark depot on her return journey to New York.

"An affidavit is also presented, made by the grandson of the defendant. In it he recites that on the first day of April, 1909, he called personally to see his grandfather at the latter's residence in Newark; that he remembers the date by reason of the fact that on that date there was to be a reunion at the home of deponent's parents in New York city, and that it was concerning said reunion that the deponent conversed with his grandfather, and took messages from his grandfather to deponent's father and mother; that when deponent rang the bell at the residence of his grandfather, the person who answered the bell informed deponent that his grandfather had gone to the depot to meet his wife, whereup deponent started for the depot, but had gone less than a block when he met his grandfather on Broad street, in Newark.

"From this review of the testimony, it would seem to me that it had not been reasonably established that the defendant was, in fact, within the jurisdiction of the demanding State on the controlling day, viz., the first day of April, 1909. This fact must be established to the satisfaction of a reasonable mind. The failure of the proof upon this jurisdictional fact, in my opinion, should prompt your Excellency to deny the application of the demanding State."

PASTOR'S WIFE TELLS OF HORRORS OF CONGO

Before an audience of women that filled the parlors of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Maguire, wife of Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, gave a missionary talk, telling something of her experiences during the two years she spent on the Congo with her husband. For more than an hour she held the close attention of the women as she described the terrible condition of the natives when she first reached the Congo.

Mr. and Mrs. Maguire were located at a place called Mayombe, which they established as their headquarters. From this point they worked throughout that whole section, being about 150 miles inland on the north bank of the Congo.

Mrs. Maguire told of one pathetic incident she experienced soon after her arrival. She found a little girl lying outside her hut crying as though her heart would break. When questioned Mrs. Maguire learned that the child had been sold to an old man for his fifth wife. It is the rule that a man must pay for his first wife. After that the wife must work and raise money to pay for her husband's second wife, and this rule continues indefinitely or until the husband dies.

Especially fascinating in its wierdness was Mrs. Maguire's story of the "witch doctors" and how the natives are led to believe them capable of driving away the evil spirits. The process is one of barbarism and almost beyond comprehension. There are thousands of villages and towns throughout that section being densely populated.

Mrs. Maguire compared by way of contrast the condition of the children when she and her husband went to that country and when they left there, showing what a change had taken place. The children instead of being dirty and living on any old thing they could find to eat, were clean, well dressed and attended church and Sunday-school regularly. Instead of the barbarous practices the church bells were heard and everything took on an air of civilization. All this was in the section of the country where Mr. and Mrs. Maguire were located. They succeeded in establishing four mission stations during their sojourn. Of course, she said that the interior of the country had scarcely been touched by the missionaries and there yet remained a great deal of work. At the close of Mrs. Maguire's talk the women extended to her a vote of thanks.

MANAGER FOR HOSPITAL

Governors Decide to Employ Business Agent at $1,500 Salary.

ANNUAL ELECTION IS HELD.

John P. Stevens Only New Member on Board—Report for April Read—Amendment to Constitution.

Authority was given at the regular monthly meeting of Muhlenberg Hospital's Board of Governors Monday night to the managing committee to engage a business manager for the institution at a salary not to exceed $1,500. This manager will have general charge of the business affairs of the institution exclusive of the actual care of patients and supervision of the nurses which will be in charge of Miss Hughes, the superintendent, as heretofore.

The board voted unanimously in favor of extending for one year from June 1, 1910, the present arrangement with the Anti-Tuberculosis League.

The annual election for governors to serve for three years resulted in the selection of the following: Leighton Calkins, J. E. Erickson, Charles J. Fisk, Benjamin A. Hegeman, Jr., David T. Kenney, S. Durell Lounsberry, William L. Saunders, John P. Stevens. All of these were re-elected except Mr. Stevens, who goes on the board as a new member.

The medical report for April showed thirty-four patients remaining in the hospital on April 1, and seventy-three admitted during the month. Fifty-two were discharged cured; seven were discharged improved, and one was discharged not improved. Five died. This left forty-two patients remaining on May 1. The total number of patients treated was 107, with seventy-nine operations. In the dispensary there were seventy-seven patients treated and 153 daily dispensary visits. In the contagious ward there were six patients during the month, two being discharged. One patient was discharged from the tuberculosis pavilion, leaving seven patients remaining. There were 1,323 general hospital days.

The special committee appointed some time ago to consider the advisability of consolidating the managing committee and the buildings and grounds committee, reported favorably, and submitted amendments to the by-laws for the purpose of carrying out this change. These amendments will be acted upon at the next meeting. If acted on favorably, there will in the future be an executive committee having general management of the administration of the hospital.

MAYOR FISK APPOINTS THREE PUBLIC WEIGHERS

Mayor Charles J. Fisk has decided to take advantage of section 14, chapter 259, of the New Jersey laws of 1908, which permits him to designate places where public scales may be maintained, and he has selected the following:

Boice Runyon & Co., 238 Park avenue; George O. Stevens, 747 West Front street; Joseph Harrigan, 929 South avenue.

These firms have formally accepted the designation and have agreed to furnish bonds in the sum of $100 for the faithful performance of duties to be required of them; also to provide themselves with the proper test weights. These scales will be intended for the public weighing of coal only. Official notice of the Mayor's action will be made in a few days. The scales will be subject to inspection at all times.

Anyone can demand that their coal be weighed on these scales, and the charge will be twenty-cents a load to be paid by the purchaser of the coal. In return a properly signed certificate will be furnished showing that the coal has been weighed on the designated scales and is of the call ed-for weight if that fact is proved. It will be optional with anyone as to whether he desires the coal weighed in this manner, there being nothing compulsory about the action of the Mayor in designating the scales, except to establish them according to law.

STEEPLECHASE PROGRAM

Watchung Hunt Club's Sixth Annual Meet on May 30.

LARGE PURSES ARE OFFERED.

Six Races in All—Event Will Be Confined to One Day this Year—Entries Will Close on May 30.

Announcement was made today by the race committee of the Watchung Hunt Club of the details for the sixth annual steeplechase meet to be held at the club's grounds on Memorial Day afternoon, May 30, beginning at 2 o'clock. It was originally planned to hold a two-day meet, including the Saturday previous to May 30, but it was afterward decided to make it a one-day affair. The fact that it will come in horse show week will tend to attract an unusually large number of people here.

The committee has been assured of a large entry list including the best horses from Meadowbrook, Cedarhurst and other points in the Metropolitan district, as well as New Jersey. The club will offer the largest purses in its history, the first in each race being $100, second $35, and third $15, in addition to cups to the winners. The entries will close May 23 with E. C. Smith, clerk of the course, at the Windsor Arcade, New York city.

There will be six races in all, two of which will be three-mile steeplechase events. The others will be a 1½-mile flat race for hacks and hunters, a ¾-mile flat race, (open) for horses three years old and up; a ½-mile race for galloways, (15 hands) and the usual farmers' race for horses owned and worked by farmers in this section.

The grounds are now being put in first class condition to accommodate the big crowd sure to attend and extra provisions will be made for parking spaces and the entertainment of guests. The judges will be practically the same as last year.

OUR MAY WHITE SALE PROVES THE PRINCIPAL STORE ATTRACTION OF THIS VICINITY

Store crowded, sales soaring, values winning enthusiastic approval—such, in brief, is the story of the opening hours of this real triumph in white goods retailing. It is already an established fact that white goods buying at this season can most profitably be centered here.

Assortments provide the most complete selection of new white yard goods, white outer and underwear, white staples, etc. Weeks of time and effort were devoted to preparing for this sale—to searching the markets, viewing goods, separating the wheat from the chaff and using spot cash as the level to close deals at most advantageously low prices.

Sale continues with all its attractions—tomorrow's hosts of shoppers will find all that met with the instantaneous approval of those who have already bought.

Now is the one best opportunity to supply White Goods needs for weeks to come.

Mrs. J. C. Manchester, 120 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney and bladder trouble for a long time. I doctored a great deal but failed to find a cure until I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and made up my mind to give them a trial. Good resoults followed their use and my kidneys were soon restored to a normal condition. I believe my cure is a permanent one and I will always give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement when an opportunity occurs."

The "Square-Pot" of the

BOYNTON FURNACE

Solves the House Heating Problem

We are saying a great deal about the square fire pot in our furnaces, hot water heaters and boilers — and with reason, for it is the actual solution of the house heating problem.

Our "square pot" (shown here) has the largest grate surface—consequently admits most air to the fire.

Its perpendicular corners and corrugated sides offer least resistance to clearing — hence an accumulation of dead ashes and clinkers is an unknown thing in a BOYNTON. That's why a BOYNTON fire is a live fire, and full of intense heat.

This "square pot" is our exclusive patent and is found in no other line of heaters. Other BOYNTON "features" are also vast improvements over the kinds most commonly in use.

Ask the BOYNTON man in your town.

The P. H. S. baseball team journeyed to Essex Fells to play Kingsley School today. P. H. S. is in good form now and ought to make a fine showing.

The baseball team got in some good practice in the game with the Elks on Saturday.

Lidgate pitched a fine game on Saturday and proved himself as good a player before the bat as behind it.

Van Zandt makes a good catcher and held Lidgate's swift balls on Saturday.

To give the fellows experience Captain Van Zandt changed nearly every position on the team after each inning in the Elks' game.

GOLF.

According to the program received, this year's annual championship tournament of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association will be practically the same as before. It will be held at the Montclair Golf Club from May 31 to June 3. The tournament will start with an eighteen-hole medal play testing round, and those with the best eight scores will qualify to continue for the title. Provision has likewise been made for second, third and fourth eights.

All-match play will consist of eighteen holes, and the rounds will be played in the forenoon. The first championship round is carded for 10:30 o'clock on June 1, while the other divisions will be got under way at 11 o'clock. There will be a nine-hole putting competition in the afternoon. At 10:30 o'clock on the morning of June 2 the semi-final round will be started in the championship division, and this will be followed half an hour later by the semi-final round matches in the other sets. An eighteen-hole medal play handicap is the side attraction scheduled for 2 o'clock that afternoon. On June 3, the last day, final round matches in the championship and other classes will be run off on the same schedule as on the previous day, while the tournament will be brought to a close at 1 o'clock with a mixed foursome handicap.

Entries will close with Mrs. E. F. Sanford, the secretary, No. 317 West 93d street, New York, on Saturday evening, May 28, and all entries must be made through the secretaries of the players' clubs and be accompanied by a $2 entrance fee. One of the rules of this association is that no competitor may use caddies other than those supplied by the club; also, that such caddies shall not be more than sixteen years old. The course will be open to contestants the week previous to the tournament.

MRS. FRANK BERGEN MONDAY CLUB'S HOSTESS.

Bernardsville, May 11.—The women of the Monday Club, a literary society of Elizabeth, were entertained here at luncheon by Mrs. Frank Bergen Monday. Mrs. Bergen's guests were brought to Bernardsville by a special train on the Lacawanna, leaving Broad street station, Newark, at 12 o'clock.

The train stopped at the foot of the hill on which Mr. Bergen's country seat is located, and an option was given to the guests to ride in carriages or autos or walk along a road that winds upward through "the forest primeval" to clearing on the hill-top surrounding the residence. The visitors preferred to walk, stopping here and there to admire the views of the valley and mountains, but nothing on the way up equalled the scenery at the summit. The guests returned in the afternoon by the same train, leaving Bernardsville at 4:30 o'clock.

ROSELLE CITIZENS' LEAGUE.

Roselle, May 11.—The Citizens' League, a non-partisan organization, held its annual meeting Monday night in the chapel of the Roselle First Baptist church. Mayor Charles W. MacQuoid explained the cause of the change of the water supply for the twin boroughs and the surrounding towns. He said that he had had a consultation with Frank Bergen, attorney for the water company and that Mr. Bergen told him that the water which the people are getting is pure. It is being pumped from the Robinson branch of the Rahway River. It will be several months before the water supply will again be had from Netherwood, Mayor MacQuoid said.

The league elected an executive committee which consists of the following members: Rev. C. S. Wood, Baron Von Oldenneel, W. G. Lawrence, Porter H. Guard, George Vaughan, Sr., F. E. Bloss, A. W. Meyer, E. P. Tenney, Rev. C. E. Goodall, F. C. Manley, J. R. Merrill, E. D. Tribbet, A. A. Pope, F. W. Walker, and Dr. H. C. Pierson. The committee will elect a chairman within ten days and this officer will be the president of the league.

Opposes New School.

Bernardsville, May 11.—The proposed new school project was overwhelmingly defeated at a special school meeting held here Monday. It had been planned by the school board to erect a large building.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church held its monthly meeting in Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon.

TEMPLARS CELEBRATION AT TRENTON A BIG ONE

The three days' celebration at Trenton marking the fiftieth anniversary of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, in New Jersey, was featured yesterday afternoon by a parade in which representatives of nineteen commanderies in the State participated. Trenton's merchants and citizens had done their share toward making the occasion a memorable one, and all the leading thoroughfares were gayly decorated with flags and bunting and Masonic emblems. An ideal May day contributed to the festivities.

The anniversary celebration, coupled with the annual conclave of the Grand Commandery in Masonic Temple, brought to this city more distinguished sir knights than have ever before gathered at Trenton at one time. The visitors, besides the fifteen hundred uniformed paraders, included delegates from every commandery in the State and prominent members of the order from other parts of the country.

The parade was in charge of Grand Commander Sir Charles A. Mohn, who was followed by the grand officers of the Grand Commandery of New Jersey and the visiting grand officers, the past grand officers and past eminent commanders. There were three divisions in the parade, commanded respectively by Eminent Sir Thomas E. Bullivant, division commander; Eminent Sir Nelson Y. Dungan and Eminent Sir Ralph H. Burton. The route of the parade was lined with spectators, who accorded the visitors a cordial welcome A reviewing stand had been erected in the westerly section of the city, where the parade was reviewed by the grand officers.

At the annual conclave of the Grand Commandery in Masonic Temple yesterday, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Grand commander, Charles A. Hazard, Hightstown; deputy grand commander, John R. Contrell, Newark; grand generalissimo, Joseph Mason, Paterson; grand captain general, Otto H. Stillman, New Brunswick; grand senior warden, Colonel Nelson Y. Dungan, Somerville; grand junior warden, William P. Hayes, Trenton; grand treasurer, William Carmen, Metuchen; grand recorder, John M. Wright, Trenton; grand standard bearer, Robert H. Ingersoll, Atlantic City; grand sword bearer, Joseph McDonald, Orange; grand warder, Gilbert W. Blanchard, Passaic.

MORRIS COUNTY JAIL SEVERELY CRITICISED.

That conditions in the Morris county jail tended to weaken the men confined there for more than a few days was the opinion of the Morris county branch of the State Charities Aid Association, which met yesterday afternoon in the Market Street Mission at Morristown.

Thomas B. Ironside, the president of the association, told the members that the prisoners had no exercise, no work and poor food, resulting in their being discharged in a weakened condition, with a strong craving for drink. Recently the prisoners made complait about the food.

Mr. Ironside told the meeting that breakfast consisted of bread and coffee and dinner of pea soup and bread one day; meat, bread and potatoes the next day and bean soup and bread the following day, then back to pea soup.

The caning of chairs was suggested as an occupation for the prisoners, but Mr. Ironside insisted that there was not enough room in the jail for that.

Mr. Ironside said: "The trouble is that despite the fact that the average member of the Board of Freeholders wants things right he also wishes to stand right with his constituents and keep the taxes down, and his hands are often tied by State laws when it comes to making expenditures."

FEDERAL FIGHT ON TRUNK SEWER ENDS.

Word was received in Newark yesterday by members of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission that an agreement recently drawn up between that body and the United States Government has been signed by Attorney General Wickersham and that the federal authorities will within a few days make a formal move for the termination of their part in the suit which was brought by New York to enjoin the New Jersey commission from emptying the sewage of the Passaic Valley through a long trunk route into New York Bay at a point near Robbins Reef. The stipulation which has now been entered into by the Government was signed several days ago by Julius A. Lebkuecher, of Newark, president of the commission.

The action now completed marks the end of a controversy extending over more than two years, and removes, it is said, practically the last obstacle to the building of the trunk sewer through the Pasaic Valley.

The commission will proceed immediately to obtain a War Department permit and otherwise complete the official formalities necessary, and it is expected that by next fall the work of digging the big trunk sewer will be well under way. This will mark the outcome of an agitation extending over more than a dozen years for the purification of the Passaic river.

Alimony for Mrs. Dixon.

Jersey City, May 11.—As the result of Vice-Chancellor Garrison's order Monday Corporation Counsel Warren Dixon, of this city, must pay $125 a month alimony to Mrs. Dixon and also to pay her $5 a week for each of the Dixon children so long as they remain with their mother. Mr. Dixon did not oppose the order. Mrs. Dixon began suit for divorce recently on the grounds of desertion. A previous suit was discontinued because of the serious illness of the elder son of the couple.

Trained Bull at Proctors.

Those who saw Miss Adele VonOhl at Proctor's theatre last winter will be interested to know that she is making a big hit with her act on the big circuit in the west. Her sister, Miss Winonah VonOhl, and her company will play Proctor's next Monday. The company is a capable one and Miss VonOhl introduces a trained bull which was a big hit in vaudeville. It is a real Wild West show to interest both young and old. The act introduces fancy roping and other novel stunts.

JERSEY CITY LOSES FIGHT.

Master Indorses Method of Purifying Municipal Water Supply.

Jersey City is practically beaten in its long and costly litigation against the Jersey City Water Supply Company if the report of Special Master William J. Magie, former Chancellor, is accepted by the court. The company tried to force the city to take the plant, and the city contended that the company had not properly completed it and had violated the contract for the construction of the plant, as it had not provided against the pollution of the supply by disposing of the sewage of Boonton, Dover and Hibernia, which flows into the Rockaway river. The company instead used chloride of lime to kill the germs, and the city objected.

In his decision, which was made known yesterday afternoon, the master says:

"I am of the opinion that this process is an effective process, and that it destroys in the water the germs which indicate danger."

The master says that if the city does not like the bleaching powder process and elects to build sewage disposal works, it should deduct $600,000 from the purchase price. The report goes to Vice-Chancellor Stevens for confirmation, and the city will strenuously oppose it.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS IN ANNUAL SESSION

When the annual meeting of the State Council of New Jersey, Knights of Columbus, began at Red Bank last night, some interesting data as to the condition of the organization was made by State Secretary Cornelius A. McGlennon, of East Newark.

In Mr. McGlennon's report reference was made to the establishment of three new councils, and he said that the membership, which is now close to the 9,000 mark, was, on December 31 last, 8,646. Of this total, 2,321 carried insurance and 6,325 were associate members. The net increase for the year was 237 insurance members and 439 associate, a total of 676. During the year there were 60 deaths, 18 of which were of insurance members.

Three councils of the State did not lose a member from any cause. These were San Salvador council of Perth Amboy, Lakewood council and Carey council of Chrome.

Degrees were conferred during the year, a total of 222 times. Of these the major degree was given thirty-three times.

In the race for membership between the various councils, Trenton and Newark were close together at the end of 1909. The former had 422 members and the latter 420. The other leading councils were: Hoboken, with 396 members; Conception of Jersey City, with 366; Bayonne, with 366; Paulus Hook of Jersey City, with 311, and Star of Bethlehem of Newark, with 301. Newark council had the largest number of members who had received the third degree.

The session was called to order in St. James' club at 8 o'clock last evening by Worthy State Deputy John J. Hickey, of Bayonne.

This morning Rev. James A. Reynolds, pastor of St. James' Catholic church, celebrated solemn high mass, and Rev. Bernard M. Bogan, of this city, worthy State chaplain, preached. Tonight the delegates will attend the convention ball given in their honor by the local council.

The following committee has been appointed by Grand Knight William J. Hewell, of Red Bank council, to look after the welfare of the visiting delegates: Rev. James A. Reynolds, chairman; Peter F. Lang, secretary; T. I. Taylor, Daniel McCarthy, Daniel Fauss, John J. Smith and John Auld.

FRELINGHUYSEN DINED BY SENATE COLLEAGUES

A sequence of the legislative proceedings is the banquets which have been planned in honor of prominent members of both Houses, one of which occurred last night. This was to President Joseph Frelinghuysen, of the Senate, who was given a banquet in the Yacht room of the Hotel Astor, New York, by the members of the Senate. This practice of the Senate banqueting the president has been the custom for years, and President Frelinghuysen was not forgotten.

Three other banquets are scheduled, one of which is to Assemblyman Mark A. Sullivan, of Hudson county, minority leader of the house of assembly for the past four years. Another feast will be given to Assemblyman Thomas F. McCran, of Passaic, by Staten Island friends. The third feast is in honor of Senator Wakelee and Assemblyman Scharff and Speaker Ward, all of Bergen, and the Bergen County Republican officials. The Bergen banquet, as told, will be given in the Hotel Astor, New York, Saturday night, by the county committee.

The McCran banquet is to be given in Hugot's Crystal Gardens, St. George, Staten Island, on May 21. It is to be tendered as a token of appreciation of Mr. McCran's efforts in passing the McCran anti-diversion water bill at the last session. During the hearings on this bill one of the arguments offered against it was that Staten Island needed New Jersey water. Mr. McCran disputed this, and now comes the banquet from Staten Island residents as a corroboration.

Hudson county Democrats are behind the Sullivan feast. Mr Sullivan has let it be known he does not desire to be a candidate for the Legislature again, and intends to devote himself from now on to his law practise. Inasmuch as he has led the minority forces in the lawer branch for four years past, his colleagues and Democratic friends in Hudson feel a banquet is but a small testimonial of the honor and respect with which Mr. Sullivan has been held. No date has been set for the dinner.

Stone Square Lodge, No. 38, F. & A. M., will hold a dance and reception at Saengerbund Hall on Monday night, May 30, at 8 o'clock. The committee in charge has prepared for a big time.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Safe and Sane Fourth.

Rahway ought not to hesitate to pass a safeguarding Fourth of July ordinance. All over Union county action is being taken which will protect men, women and children from serious accidents and loss of life. To refuse to recognize the problem presented is to fall behind the times very noticeably in an important reform movement. For the first time the municipalities have the authority of the State for establishing safeguarding regulations. Chapter 181 of the laws of 1910 gives the widest authority to the towns and cities in the passing of ordinances regulating the sale or use of explosives of all kinds. The act specifically states that they may absolutely prohibit the sale of firecrackers, etc. The severe penalty permitted by the act for violations of municipal ordinances which may be passed—a sum not to exceed $200—shows how seriously the members of the State Legislature looked upon the dangers threatening on every birthday of the Nation. The State of New Jersey, through the action taken by the Legislature this year, has placed itself firmly behind the safe and sane Fourth movement. It has backed up the municipalities in their efforts to protect themselves. It has encouraged them by its action to go just as far as they think wise in connection with keeping down and ruling out the explosives. Both the Rahway and Elizabeth councils must be familiar with the fact that few municipal movements have made such rapid progress as that which concerns the abuses which have crept into the observance of Independence Day. The governors of many States have been enlisted in this reform, including Governors Comer, of Alabama; Shafroth, of Colorado; Pennewill, of Delaware; Brady, of Idaho; Deneen, of Illinois; Sanders, of Louisana; Fernald, of Maine; Crothers, of Maryland; Draper, of Massachusetts; Warner, of Michigan; Eberhardt, of Minnesota; Hadley, of Missouri; Morris, of Montana; Dickerson, of Nevada; Fort, of New Jersey; Burke, of North Dakota; Benson, of Oregon; Ansel, of North Carolina; Vessey, of South Dakota; Patterson, of Tennessee; Prouty, of Vermont; Hay, of Washington, and Davision, of Wisconsin. Sixty-three cities are known to be definitely planning sane celebrations this year. These are of such varying size and location as New York city, Derby, Conn.; Racine, Wis.; Philadelphia, Kalamazoo, Denver, Boston and San Francisco. Cities which are continually behind hand in matters pertaining to the welfare of the people cannot hope to keep up in the very active race now going on among municipalities in this section of New Jersey to win intelligent homeseekers.—Elizabeth Journal.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Potato fields in South Jersey have been severely damaged by the late frosts, and many farmers have replanted.

The Trenton lodges of the Sons of St. George are preparing to hold a service of mourning for the death of King Edward.

In the United States District Court at Trenton Monday, Judge Rellstab sentenced Edward C. Holmes, of Camden, to nine months in the Mercer county jail for using mails fraudulently. Sentence was suspended in the case of Max Greenburg, of Camden, for violating the naturalization laws.

Lewis Whalen, a telephone lineman, was congratulated by Recorder Keeffer, in Atlantic City, Monday, for summary punishment he gave W. J. Miller, when he found the latter beating Mrs. Miller in their downtown home. The husband was given ten days in jail after he had exhibited a black eye and numerous bruises as evidence that he had already been sufficiently punished.

Abijah Hand, seventy-seven years old, a Bridgeton blacksmith, presented a bill for work done to Wilbert Richman, an inventor, sixty-five years old, Monday. Richman disputed the bill, and after some heated argument attacked Hand. The old blacksmith defended himself and pummeled Richman until, bleeding and almost unconscious, he was dragged away. Richman was afterward arrested and placed under bonds to keep the peace.

Steps will be taken by Ocean City officials to secure legal help for the city solicitor in fighting the claims arising from the notes forged by I. S. Champion, the recent city treasurer. Word has been received by the local officials that one of the notes held by the Vineland National Bank will fall due next Friday.

HOWELL SEEKING A NINTH TERM.

Trenton, May 11.—Announcement is made by friends of Congressman Howell, of New Brunswick, that he would be a candidate for the ninth term in the Third District, which comprises Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean counties. Mr. Howell had seriously contemplated retirement from Congress, but the announcement follows a brief visit made to various towns in Ocean county by Joseph M. Thompson, of New Egypt, chairman of the Ocean County Republican committee and chief telegrapher in the National House of Representatives, a position to which he was appointed by Mr. Howell.

The Third District Congressman has been a stanch adherent of Speaker Cannon and the standpatters. In his own district Howell has always made his contests for Congress as an anti-machine man, and particularly in his home county of Middlesex has fought the county boss, ex-Senator Theodore Strong, in season and out. Heretofore Howell has always had the support of the independent vote in all his campaigns. This fall the anti-Cannon sentiment will be against him, and so far there is hardly an influential newspaper in his district, whatever its politics, that has not critized his attitude in Congress. Still he is considered a stronger man than any other Republican named, unless it be his warm personal and political friend, Senator "Ollie" Brown, of Monmouth. If Howell finds he cannot make the nomination Brown would without doubt be his choice to succeed him.

RUNS THROUGH FIRE AND RESCUES BABE.

New Brunswick, May 11.—Beating out the flames as they were eating away her dress Mrs. Katherine Horn rushed from her apartment at Richmond and Dennis street yesterday afternoon, carrying her 3-months-old baby safely in her arms.

Her arms and breast were badly burned and she was exhausted when neighbors led her into a house and cared for her burns.

She had been pouring oil into an oil stove at an open window, when the wind fanned the blaze to the kerosene and the stove exploded. The woman was enveloped in flames and the room was soon ablaze. She tried to extinguish the blaze and then fought her way to the cradle, where her baby was asleep. Wrapping it in a big shawl she dashed through the fire to the stairway. Howard Rehill, who was confined to his bed by illness in an adjoining apartment, heard her cries and crawled out of bed and hurled a pail of water at the blaze and then crept downstairs scantly attired.

Baptists to Meet Here.

The East New Jersey Baptist Association will convene for a one-day session at the First Baptist church on Tuesday, June 7. There will be 200 delegates in attendance. This will be the first time in many years that the association has met at this church.

"One Governor's Mistake," will be the topic of the sermon by Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire at the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday night.

Marketing is so Easy By Telephone

MARKETING by telephone is on the increase. Nearly all grocerymen and other retail merchants recognize this fact. They cater to telephone trade and deliver the very best class of goods to telephone customers because they appreciate the saving of time in their own stores on orders given in this way.

If you have a telephone at home, you are thus assured of the very best treatment at the hands of your tradesmen. The cost of the service is offset by the car fares it saves.

Remember, too, that every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance station.

CRADLES FOR ROYAL BABES.

All sorts and conditions of people look upon the inhabited cradle as the most delightful object in the family circle, says the London Globe. Consequently the world and his wife recently perused with deep interest a little paragraph in the newspapers which gave details of the cradles to be used by the heir to the throne of Holland. These are three in number, each of them a work of art. The one given by The Hague is of round, trellis-like woodwork, in white and gilt. Twelve thousand hours of work have been given by thirty-four lace makers to make the lace of which the hood is entirely made, while the rest of its accessories are of a luxurious description.

Amsterdam has also presented a cradle of rosewood, with silk curtains, but although it is stately it is not considered equal to The Hague cradle. The third tiny bed, however, is surrounded with the halo of romance, for it is one that is used by Queen Wilhelmina herself, and this is the cradle which will be most occupied by the little stranger. But although the trio of cradles are handsome homes of sleep for the royal babe, their getup does not put in the shade the cradle exhibited at the Paris exhibition of 1900. This was the one used by Napoleon II., and was designed by M. Prudhon, its total cost being £240.

But there is to be seen in the French capital a still more historic cradle—the one occupied by the ill-fated prince imperial. It is in rosewood, with old silver and bronze ornamentation. At the head is a statue in old silver, of the city of Paris, holding over the pillow an imperial crown in gilded bronze. The pillow is of white satin, with the gold embroidered letter "N" thereon. This infant's bed was presented to Paris by the ex-Empress Eugenie, and it was originally given to her by the people of the same city.

The cradle, too, which Rome presented to the King and Queen of Italy, on the occasion of the birth of their first child, was a magnificent work of art. The support of the cradle proper are in gilded bronze, the cradle itself being in silver. At the head is a column ornamented with Roman trophies, surmounted by a figure of Rome, with a crown in her hand, while on the inside is the wolf of the Capitol. Opposite, at the foot, is a female figure, the genius of the House of Savoy, the wings distended as though to protect the child and grasping in her hands the arms of the House of Savoy and Montenegro. The figure of Rome is over eight feet in height, being upheld by four lions, which are connected by the arms of the twelve districts of Rome.

A still more interesting cradle to British people was the one shown at the International Exhibition of 1851—for it was the royal cradle prepared for the use of the late King Edward VII. It is of boxwood, two feet wide and two feet ten inches long, the design being symbolical of the union of the royal houses of England and Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. In the centre of one end is the armorial bearing of Queen Victoria, surrounded by foilage, flowers and birds. On the rocker beneath is seen the head of Nox, the Goddess of Night, represented by a sleeping figure. At the back of the head of the cradle are the arms of the Prince Consort. On the other rocker is the head of Somnus, the God of Sleep In the interior of the head of the cradle are guardian angels, and above is the royal crown, embedded in foliage. The friezes at the sides of the cradle are made up of roses, poppies, foliage, butterflies and birds, while beneath them rise a variety of pinks.

Another cradle of great historic interest occupies an honored place among the many treasures possessed by Lord Salisbury at Hatfield House. And that it is worth its weight in gold is apparent from the fact that it was occupied by Queen Elizabeth in her infancy.

NOVEL GARNISHINGS.

When making fritters cook sections of orange in water and sugar until it begins to thicken like a syrup. Dip each piece of orange into a delicate batter and fry in boiling lard to a golden brown. Dust with powdered sugar and serve in a ring around orange marmalade.

Roll slices of calf's liver in a thin slice of bacon, hold together with a silver skewer, flour and cook a delicate brown. Serve on chop dish with garnishings of cress. Pass a thick creamy gravy in silver sauce boat.

Instead of cold deviled eggs try these: Stuff in usual way, put two halves together, dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry at the last minute in boiling fat. Serve on round silver platter with a centre of green peas and a border of thick tomato puree.

A refreshing drink at afternoon card parties is made from equal parts of ginger ale and grape juice. Serve in straight, thin glasses with a maraschino cherry floating on top.

Swore Off.

"My train of thought doesn't seem to run very smoothly these days."

"Why not?"

"I think maybe it's because I dropped the smoker at New Year Junction."—Washington Herald.

Sure.

"I wonder how the present year will end?"

"Oh, there'll be nothing to it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

True Hospitality.

A woman who possesses a charming temper and cordial manners is sure to be popular. Said a witty Boston woman: "I do like to have people behave as if they were glad to see me, whether they are or not. I think a hostess should speak in a pleased tone, even if she only says, 'My dear Mrs. So-and-So, I am perfectly delighted to see you! Do sit right down on this bent pin!'"—Harper's Bazar.

Faking a Birthday.

A neighbor of the Lysander John Appleton family recently gave a birthday party, at which there figured a cake covered with candles. The next week the Appletons celebrated Chauncey's birthday, and the cake was decorated with electric lights. The neighbors say it really wasn't his birthday; that his mother faked up a birthday in order to get ahead of those candles.—Atchison Globe.

As a Man Grows Older.

When a man is real young there seems to be so much going on in the world that he regrets the loss of the little time he has to devote to sleep; but in time he learns that sleep is about as interesting as the rest of it, and more satisfactory. — Atchison Globe.

Somewhat Harshly Put.

"As for me," remarked Muggsley, "I don't believe in the higher education for girls. The one I marry won't know Latin or Greek." "I can readily believe that," rejoined Miss Slasher. "A girl who knows anything at all wouldn't marry you."—B. C. Saturday Sunset.

Sure of One Thing.

All day he had tried to convince the agents of Dun and Bradstreet that he was eligible to be listed by them. Finally he gave up in despair. "No use," he sighed. "My only hope is to return home to my wife. I know she'll give me a sound rating."

His Master's Voice.

"I will not stand it, Doyle, and I give you to know quite plainly that, if it wasn't for the years and years that you have been in my employ, you'd have gone long ago!"—London Opinion.

Live Now.

Don't spend all your time getting ready to live, but "live now!" There will never be a time when you will be any nearer ready. The mere fact that you are aiming in the right direction proves it.

Official Rudeness.

Mrs. Newly—"I shall never let that operator send another telegram for me. I just gave him a message for my husband, and the first thing the officious thing did was to read it."—Lippincott's.

Excuses.

If all the inventive genius wasted on excuses were exerted along more practical lines, an extension would have to be built on the patent office—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

A Boy's Fun.

"Say, pa, Johnny Binks has a good deal more fun than me." "What do you mean by that?" "Every day he kin pull some more pickets off his front fence—an' we ain't got any."

An Ancient Symbol.

The phrase, "Put none but Americans on geard to-night," is said to have occurred originally in one of Washington's orders of the day at about the time the battle of Trenton was fought. It was adopted by the Americans or "Know Nothing" party during its political campaign in the early '50s as a watchword, embodying as it did one of the chief principles of the party.

Boyish Reasoning.

"If you wuz to find one hundred thousand dollar bills in the street, what would you do with 'em?" asked one boy of another. "I'd keep 'em till they wuz advertised for," was the reply, "and if a poor man had lost 'em I'd give 'em back to him."—Lippincott's Magazine.

This week we celebrate our first birthday—it's to be a week of real pleasure to us—one of genuine PROFIT TO OUR FRIENDS and PATRONS—we want all Newark and vicinity to join us in celebrating. Just one year ago we launched this store—"OUT OF THE HIGH RENT DISTRICT"—with the declaration that through our location we would save the public 25% ON HOME FURNISHINGS. Many "wise ones" predicted we would never make it go—"the idea of doing business at 329-335 PLANE STREET, three doors from Market Street, was out of the question," said the high-price clique. But we have exploded their theories, demonstrating that the people are willing to take a few extra steps when THEY ARE ASSURED OF SAVING A FOURTH of the price they would have to pay for the same goods to the "swell font store in the high rent section." As a fitting commemoration of this first year of growth and progress we offer for THIS ANNIVERSARY WEEK TWO ELEGANT PREMIUMS and SCORES OF MATCHLESS BARGAINS.

Honest Politicians—It has been remarked that—"were all the office holding and officeseeking politicians in this country massed together on one side, and all those who are partisans for the sake of principles on the other, mighty in numbers, would appear the mercenary brigade and ludicrously small the patriotic."

Dr. J. B. Probasco has removed his office and residence to Second street, next to 2nd Baptist church. Office hours 6 to 8:30 a. m., 1 to 3 and 6 to 7:30 p. m.

July 4, 1872.

A young lad named Quick, the grandson of Mr. Henry Hagaman, who resides on the farm of William B. T. Lane, Esq., came near being gored to death by a bull last week. The animal had knocked the boy into a stream of water and would undoubtedly have killed him, but for the heroic efforts of a young lad named Legrand B. Young, who attacked the beast with a club and drove him away. Both lads were aged about 13 years.

Accident—On Sunday afternoon last, as Mr. John Manchester, residing on Union street, was sitting on a pile of lumber in Codington, McNabb & Co.'s lumber yard, with his little son, aged about 4 years, sitting beside him, the pile of lumber suddenly gave way and participated the lad to the ground, the lumber catching his legs brusing them severely.

An engineer on the New Jersey Central Railroad near Greenbridge, recently performed the heroic and perilous feet of climbing upon the cow-catcher of his engine, seizing a man that lay upon the track and throwing him aside, saving his life. This was the last resort, as the train was under too much headway to be stopped before reaching the man.

July 11, 1872.

We last week received a call from two of our old schoolmates and former residents of Plainfield, W. Bradford Laing and W. Dykman, and two hours were enjoyable spent with them in talking over old times. We had entirely lost track of "Brad," but he onforms us that he is engaged in business at Easton, Pa., while "Nel" is prospering in the carriage making business at Hackettstown, N. J., and has twice been honored by the citizens of that place by being elected one of their councilmen. We trust our old schoolmates may shortly again visit us and still continue to prosper in business.

One day last week we noticed a handsome new hearse on our streets, which we learn is the property of Mr. P. Casey on Cherry street, who has also embarked in the undertaking business in connection with his other business.

All "dogs" must be muzzled by the 13th of this month, according to an edict by his Honor the Mayor, or else "Phil" will get them in his clutches, to get them out of which it will cost one dollar.

July 18.

We were pleased to see our old friend, Geo. Dembler, in our city once more this (Wednesday) morning. Mr. D. has been confined to his bed from erysipleas for about four months past, and at one time it was feared he would not live. He is, however, now again able to be about, although not fully recovered.

Mr. Stephen Staats, who had his leg broken some weeks since, occasioned by a runaway horse, is now able to be about with the aid of crutches.

Rev. Charles H. Ward, of St. Stephen's church, Philadelphia, has accepted a call to the Church of the Holy Cross, Washington Park, North Plainfield. He will enter upon his duties the first of August. Hours of service 10½ a. m. and 4 p. m. Sunday school at 9¼ a. m.

An ambitious barber, having improved his idle moments by studying medicine and surgery and having graduated in that profession, opened an office and waited for patients.

The first one had appendicitis.

Deftly the surgeon performed the operation, then after the patient had recovered from the effect of the anaesthetic, inquired:

"Won't you have your leg cut off today, sir? Looks as if it needed it."—Chicago Post.

EX-GOVERNOR'S WIDOW TAKES STATE POSITION.

Mrs. Emma Werts, of Jersey City, widow of the late former Governor George T. Werts, has received her commission under appointment by Governor Fort as Assistant Commissioner of Charities and Corrections and will assume the duties of her office next week. Mrs. Werts will work under the direction of Commissioner of Charities and Corrections Wight, and the latter will utilize her services in the field work of his department. Under a law passed by the Legislature last winter the department of Charities and Corrections is compelled to pass upon applications for admittance to a number of State institutions, duties which have considerably increased the work of Commissioner Wight's office. Many cases arising under this law require personal investigation before the department is able to intelligently pass on them, and it is this line of work that Mrs. Werts will perform for the State. Her salary is $1,200 per annum.

D. A. R. FAVORS SAFE AND SANE FOURTH

Daughters of the Revolution opened their annual convention at the Hotel Chelsea yesterday at Atlantic City, and one of the most noteworthy things is the outlook of the organization going on record in favor of a sane Fourth of July. The movement in this direction is being led by the delegation from Colorado.

Resolutions demanding that patriotism displayed in some other manner than by the explosion of boombs, dynamite crackers and rockets will be presented at tomorrow's session by mothers at the contention. Governments of States and cities will be asked to forbid the sale of dangerous explosives and pyrotechnics of all kinds. Originators of Fourth of July reform from Western States asserted in reports that great strides had been made in Colorado for a quieter Fourth. They advise that patriotic exercises and addresses, calculated to teach patriotism to children, should be held rather than to attempt the regulation of the noisy celebration of the anniversary of the independence of America.

NORTH BERGEN RESORT IS WRECKED BY FIRE

More than half of the North Bergen Schuetzen Park, near Hoboken, one of the largest resorts of its kind in the State, is in ruins as the result of a disastrous fire which last night swept the large dancing pavilion, erected at a cost of more than $80,000 twelve years ago, spread to other buildings and created a panic in the Fitz Router Home, adjoining the park. The total loss is estimated at $150,000.

Charles Hoffman, of 976 Bergenline avenue, North Bergen, was run over by a fire engine in its way to the fire. He was taken to the North Bergen Hospital, where, it is said, his injuries are serious. 54-40 OR Fight

By Emerson Hough

Author of The Mississippi Bubble

Illustrations by Magnus G. Kettner

(Copyright, 1909, by Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

"Listen, then, and I will tell you what John Calhoun means—John Calhoun, who has loved his own state, who has hated those who hated him, who has never prayed for those who despitefully used him, who has fought and will fight, since all insist on that. It is true Tyler has offered me again to-day the portfolio of secretary of state. Shall I take it? If I do, it means that I am employed by this administration to secure the admission of Texas. Can you believe me when I tell you that my ambition is for it all—all, every foot of new land, west to the Pacific, that we can get, slave or free? Can you believe John Calhoun, pro-slavery advocate and orator all his life, when he says that he believes he is an humble instrument destined, with God's aid, and through the use of such instruments as our human society affords, to build, not a wider slave country, but a wider America?"

"It would be worth the fight of a few years more, Calhoun," gravely answered his old friend. "I admit I had not dreamed this of you."

"History will not write it of me, perhaps," went on my chief. "But you tell me to fight, and now I shall fight, and in my own way. I tell you, that answer shall go to Pakenham. And I tell you Pakenham shall not dare to take offense at me. War with Mexico we possibly, indeed certainly, shall have. War on the northwest, too, we yet may have unless—" He paused; and Dr. Ward prompted him some moments later, as he still remained in thought.

"Unless what, John? What do you mean—still hearing the rustle of skirts?"

"Yes!—unless the celebrated Baroness Helena von Ritz says otherwise!" replied he grimly.

"How dignified a diplomacy have we here! You plan war between two embassies on the distaff side!" smiled Dr. Ward.

Calhoun continued his walk. "I do not say so," he made answer; "but, if there must be war, we may reflect that war is at its best when woman is in the field!"

CHAPTER II.

By Special Dispatch.

In all eras and all climes a woman of great genius or beauty has done what she chose.—Ouida.

"Nicholas," said Calhoun, turning to me suddenly, but with his invariable kindliness of tone, "oblige me tonight. I have written a message here. You will see the address—"

"I have unavoidably heard this lady's name," I hesitated.

"You will find the lady's name above the seal. Take her this message from me. Yes, your errand is to bring the least known and most talked of woman in Washington, alone, unattended save by yourself, to a gentleman's apartments, to his house, at a time past the hour of midnight! That gentleman is myself! You must not take any answer in the negative."

As I sat dumbly, holding this sealed document in my hand, he turned to Dr. Ward, with a nod toward myself:

"I choose my young aide, Mr. Trist here, for good reasons. He is just back from six months in the wilderness, and may be shy; but once he had a way with women, so they tell me—and you know, in approaching the question ad feminam we operate per hominem."

Dr. Ward took snuff with violence as he regarded me critically.

"I do not doubt the young man's sincerity and faithfulness," said he. "I was only questioning one thing."

"Yes?"

"His age."

Calhoun rubbed his chin. "Nicholas," he said, "you heard me. I have no wish to encumber you with useless instructions. Your errand is before you. Very much depends upon it, as you have heard. All I can say is, keep your head, keep your feet, and keep your heart!"

The two older men both turned now, and smiled at me in a manner not wholly to my liking. Neither was this errand to my liking.

It was true, I was hardly arrived home after many months in the west; but I had certain plans of my own for that very night, and although as yet I had made no definite engagement with my fiancee, Miss Elizabeth Churchill of Elmburst farm, for meeting her at the great ball this night, such certainly was my desire and my intention. Why, I had scarce seen Elizabeth twice in the last year.

"He might be older," said Calhoun at length, speaking of me as though I were not present. "And 'tis a hard game to play, if once my lady Helen takes it into her merry head to make it so for him. But if I sent one shorter of stature and uglier of visage and with less art in approaching a crinoline—why, perhaps he would get no farther than her door. No; he will serve—he must serve!"

He arose now, and bowed to us both, even as I rose and turned for my cloak to shield me from the raw drizzle which then was falling in the streets.

So this, then, was my errand. My mind still tingled at its unwelcome quality. Dr. Ward guessed something of my mental dissatisfaction.

"Never mind, Nicholas," said he, as we parted at the street corner, where he climbed into the rickety carriage which his colored driver held awaiting him. "Never mind. I don't myself quite know what Calhoun wants; but he would not ask of you anything personally improper. Do his errand, then. It is part of your work. In any case—" and I thought I saw him grin in the dim light— "you may have a night which you will remember."

There proved to be truth in what he said.

CHAPTER III.

In Argument.

The egotism of women is always for two.—Mme. De Stael.

The thought of missing my meeting with Elizabeth still rankled in my soul. Had it been another man who asked me to carry this message, I must have refused. But this man was my master, my chief, in whose service I had engaged.

For myself, his agent, I had, as I say, left the old Trist homestead at the foot of South mountain in Maryland, to seek my fortune in our capital city. I had had some three or four years' semi-diplomatic training when I first met Calhoun and entered his service as assistant. It was under him that I finished my studies in law. Meantime, I was his messenger in very many quests, his source of information in many matters, where he had no time to go into details.

Strange enough had been some of the circumstances in which I found myself thrust through this relation with a man so intimately connected for a generation with our public life. For six months I had been in Mississippi and Texas studying matters and men, and now, just back from Natchitoches, I felt that I had earned some little rest.

Vaguely in my conscience I felt that, after all, my errand was justified, even though at some cost to my own wishes and my own pride. The farther I walked in the dark along Pennsylvania avenue, into which finally I swung after I had crossed Rock bridge, the more I realized that perhaps this big game was worth playing in detail and without quibble as the master mind should dictate.

I was, indeed, young—Nicholas Trist, of Maryland; six feet tall, thin, lean, always hungry, perhaps a trifle freckled, a little sandy of hair, blue I suppose of eye, although I am not sure; good rider and good marcher, I know; something of an expert with the weapons of my time and people; fond of a horse and a dog and a rifle—yes, and a glass and a girl, if truth be told. I was not yet 30, in spite of my western travels. At that age the rustle of silk or dimity, the suspicion of adventure, tempts the worst or the best of us, I fear. Woman!—the very sound of the word made my blood leap then. I went forward rather blithely, as I now blush to confess. "If there are maps to be made tonight," said I, "the Baroness Helena shall do her share in writing on my chief's old mahogany desk, and not on her own dressing case."

That was an idle boast, though made but to myself. I had not yet met the woman.

CHAPTER IV.

The Baroness Helena.

Woman is seldom merciful to the man who is timid.—Edward Bulwer Lytton.

There was one of our dim street lights at a central corner on old Pennsylvania avenue, and under it, after a long walk, I paused for a glance at the inscription on my sealed document. I had not looked at it before in the confusion of my somewhat hurried mental processes. In addition to the name and street number, in Calhoun's writing, I read this memorandum: "Knock at the third door in the second block beyond M street."

I recalled the nearest cross street; but I must confess the direction still seemed somewhat cryptic. Puzzled, I stood under the lamp, shielding the face of the note under my cloak to keep off the rain, as I studied it.

The sound of wheels behind me on the muddy pavement called my attention, and I looked about. A carriage came swinging up to the curb where I stood. It was driven rapidly, and as it approached the door swung open. I heard a quick word, and the driver pulled up his horses. I saw the light shine through the door on a glimpse of white satin. I looked again. Yes, it was a beckoning hand! The negro driver looked at me inquiringly.

Ah, well, I suppose diplomacy under the stars runs much the same in all ages. I have said that I loved Elizabeth, but also said I was not yet 30. Moreover, I was a gentleman, and here might be a lady in need of help. I need not say that in a moment I was at the side of the carriage. Its occupant made no exclamation of surprise; in fact, she moved back upon the other side of the seat in the darkness, as though to make room for me!

A dark framed face, whose outlines I could only dimly see in the faint light of the street lamp, leaned toward me. The same small hand nervously reached out, as though in request.

I now very naturally stepped closer. A pair of wide and very dark eyes was looking into mine. I could now see her face. There was no smile upon her lips. I had never seen her before, that was sure—nor did I ever think to see her like again; I could say that even then, even in the half light. Just a trifle foreign, the face; somewhat dark, but not too dark; the lips full, the eyes luminous, the forehead beautifully arched, chin and cheek beautifully rounded, nose clean-cut and straight, thin but not pinched. There was nothing niggard about her. She was magnificent—a magnificent woman. I saw that she had splendid jewels at her throat, in her ears—a necklace of diamonds, long hoops of diamonds and emeralds used as earrings! a sparkling clasp which caught at her white throat the wrap which she had thrown about her ball gown—for now I saw she was in full evening dress. I guessed she had been an attendant at the great ball, that ball which I had missed with so keen a regret myself—the ball where I had hoped to dance with Elizabeth. Without doubt she had lost her way and was asking the first stranger for instructions to her driver.

My lady, whoever she was, seemed pleased with her rapid temporary scrutiny. With a faint murmur, whether of invitation or not I scarce could tell, she drew back again to the farther side of the seat. Before I knew how or why, I was at her side. The driver pushed shut the door, and whipped up his team.

Personally I am gifted with but small imagination. In a very matter of fact way I had got into this carriage with a strange lady. Now in a sober and matter of fact way it appeared to me my duty to find out the reason for this singular situation.

"Madam," I remarked to my companion, "in what manner can I be of service to you this evening?"

"I am fortunate that you are a gentleman," she said, in a low and soft voice, quite distinct, quite musical in quality, and marked with just the faintest trace of some foreign accent, although her English was perfect.

I looked again at her. Yes, her hair was dark; that was sure. It swept up in a great roll about her oval brow. Her eyes, too, must be dark, I confirmed. Yes—as a passed lamp gave me aid—there were strong dark brows above them. Her nose, too, was patrician; her chin curving just strongly enough, but not too full, and faintly cleft, a sign of power, they say.

A third gracious lamp gave me a glimpse of her figure, huddled back among her draperies, and I guessed her to be about of medium height. A fourth lamp showed me her hands, small, firm, white; also I could catch a glimpse of her arm, as it lay outstretched, her fingers clasping a fan. So I knew her arms were round and taper, hence all her limbs and figure finely molded, because nature does not do such things by halves, and makes no bungles in her symmetry of contour when she plans a noble specimen of humanity. Here was a noble specimen of what woman may be.

I was not in such a hurry to ask again how I might be of service. In fact, being somewhat surprised and somewhat pleased, I remained silent now for a time, and let matters adjust themselves; which is not a bad course for any one similarly engaged.

She turned toward me at last deliberately, her fan against her lips, studying me. And I did as much, taking advantage as I could of the passing street lamps. Then, all at once, without warning or apology, she smiled, showing very even and white teeth.

She smiled. There came to me from the purple-colored shadows some sort of deep perfume, strange to me. I frown at the description of such things and such emotions, but I swear that as I sat there, a stranger, I felt swim up around me some sort of amber shadow, edged with purple—the shadow, as I figured it then, being this perfume, curious and alluring!

It was wet, there in the street. Why should I rebel at this stealing charm of color or fragrance—let those name it better who can. At least I sat, smiling to myself in my purple-amber shadow, now in no very special hurry.

At last I could not, in politeness, keep this up further.

"How may I serve the baroness?" said I.

She started back on the seat as far as she could go.

"How did you know?" she asked. "And who are you?"

I laughed. "I did not know, and did not guess until almost as I began to speak; but if it comes to that, I might say I am simply an humble gentleman of Washington here. I might be privileged to peep in at ambassadors' balls—through the windows, at least."

"But you were not there—you did not see me? I never saw you in my life until this very moment—how, then, do you know me? Speak! At once!" Her satins rustled. I knew she was tapping a foot on the carriage floor.

"Madam," I answered, laughing at her; "by this amber purple shadow, with flecks of scarlet and pink; by this perfume which weaves webs for me here in this carriage, I know you. The light is poor, but it is good enough to show one who can be no one else but the Baroness von Ritz."

I was in the mood to spice an adventure which had gone thus far. Of course she thought me crazed, and drew back again in the shadow; but when I turned and smiled, she smiled in answer—herself somewhat puzzled.

"The Baroness von Ritz cannot be disguised," I said; "not even if she wore her domino."

She looked down at the little mask which hung from the silken cord, and flung it from her.

"Oh, then, very well!" she said. "If you know who I am, who are you, and why do you talk in this absurd way with me, a stranger?"

"And, why, madam, do you take me up, a stranger, in this absurd way, at midnight, on the streets of Washington?—I, who am engaged on business for my chief?"

She tapped again with her foot on the carriage floor. "Tell me who you are!" she said.

"Once a young planter from Maryland yonder; sometime would-be lawyer here in Washington. It is my misfortune not to be so distinguished in fame or beauty that my name is known by all; so I need not tell you my name perhaps, only assuring you that I am at your service if I may be useful."

"Your name!" she again demanded.

I told her the first one that came to my lips—I do not remember what. I did not deceive her for a moment.

"Of course that is not your name," she said; "because it does not fit you. You have me still at disadvantage."

"And me, madam? You are taking me miles out of my way. How can I help you? Do you perhaps wish to hunt mushrooms in the Georgetown woods when morning comes? I wish that I might join you, but I fear—"

"You mock me," she retorted. "Very good. Let me tell you it was not your personal charm which attracted me when I saw you on the pavement! 'Twas because you were the only man in sight."

I bowed my thanks. For a moment nothing was heard save the steady patter of hoofs on the ragged pavement. At length she went on.

"I am alone. I have been followed. I was followed when I called to you—by another carriage. I asked help of the first gentleman I saw, having heard that Americans are all gentlemen."

"True," said I; "I do not blame you. Neither do I blame the occupant of the other carriage for following you."

"I pray you, leave aside such clatter!" she exclaimed.

"Very well, then, madam. Perhaps the best way is for us to be more straightforward. If I cannot be of service I beg you to let me descend, for I have business which I must execute to-night."

She dismissed this with an impatient gesture, and continued.

"See, I am alone," she said. "Come with me. Show me my way—I will pay—I will pay anything in reason." Actually I saw her fumble at her purse, and the hot blood flew to my forehead.

"What you ask of me, madam, is impossible," said I, with what courtesy I could summon. "You oblige me now to tell my real name. I have told you that I am an American gentleman—Mr. Nicholas Trist. We of this country do not offer our services to ladies for the sake of pay. But do not be troubled over any mistake—it is nothing. Now, you have perhaps had some little adventure in which you do not wish to be discovered. In any case, you ask me to shake off that carriage which follows us. If that is all, madam, it very easily can be arranged."

"Hasten, then," she said. "I leave it to you. I was sure you knew the city."

Your Evening Scarf.

Make for your evening scarf two little rings of garter elastic to slip the ends through and to form it into a hood shape. They will be a more satisfactory arrangement than the knots at the side of the head. Each tiny garter, so measured that it will tightly surround the scarf and stay in place, is covered with shirred chiffon to match the scarf, and generous headings of the doubled elastic is used, not because it shows, but for the reason that it will longer retain its elasticity.

"Why, she must be crazy!" declared Shackleton. He even laid down his newspaper in his interest.

"No, she's entirely sane," said Mrs. Shackleton. "No crazy woman could be such a good seamstress as Miss Balm! That lavender gown she has just finished for me looks as though it came from Paris and she made it in three days at $2.50 a day! I guess it's just her vivid imagination!"

"It's something vivid and spectacular!" observed Shackleton. "Maybe she does it to keep you amused."

"Oh, my, no!" replied his wife. "Sometimes she will sew along and not say a word and then other days she will just begin to talk. I don't believe I told you about the lettuce did I? Well, once when she lived in St. Paul, Miss Balm was sewing for a woman whose husband and brother were scientists. She didn't know just what brand of science they made a specialty of, but at any rate they were fond of lettuce salad for luncheon and insisted on having it fresh. So they had a brass traylike dish on the table filled with a specially prepared earth. There were chemicals or something in that earth, you know, and when they would come in to luncheon the woman's husband would take a handful of lettuce seed from his pocket and carelessly scatter it over the earth and the brother would pick up the water bottle and sprinkle it and then they would sit down to their soup and chops and things, and by the time the salad course was due that lettuce would be just right to pick."

"Now, Evangeline!" interrupted Shackleton, "stop right there! I expect this was the point where Miss Balm burst into maniacal laughter and attacked you with the shears, wasn't it?"

"She did not!" said his wife. "She went right on taking in the seams in my pink waist. And another time when the natural gas supply in the range failed and there was company coming to dinner the scientist husband just said: "Oh, never mind a little thing like that!" And he went out and packed a lot of snow and ice hard and they did their baking and boiling on that. Miss Balm said he explained that intense heat and intense cold had just the same effect, so—"

"Why," demanded Shackleton, sternly, "do you encourage her to relate these atrocious impossibilities?"

"Why, I don't!" declared Mrs. Shackleton. "It wouldn't be polite to interrupt, so I just let her go on. Besides, I am always wondering what she will say next. She had an uncle once, who was a wonderful man. He was fond of animals and he had trained the chickens so that if he played 'The Palms' on his cornet in ordinary time they would march by in single file to the place where he fed them corn—and if he played it in ragtime they would fall over themselves getting to the cornmeal mush bag. The cows—"

"See here!" expostulated Shackleton, "that woman ought to be broken of the habit of romancing!"

"Well, you do it," suggested Mrs. Shackleton, sarcastically. "I'd like to see you."

That was why Shackleton made a point of coming home to luncheon the next day. He was curious about the remarkable Miss Balm and anxious to meet her. Miss Balm proved to be an entirely inoffensive, mild-looking person and it was some time before Shackleton got a chance to begin the cure.

"Yes," he said at last, "I certainly believe it is better for children to have something regular to do. When I was a kid each of us had our tasks. I remember how my brother Tom hated his. His work every morning was to take a bushel basket and go around the house collecting the family diamonds, which he carried to the woodshed. There was a big pile of sawdust there and after dumping them into a washtub of soapy water he would dry and clean them in the sawdust. He particularly hated mother's diamond rope because it was 25 yards long and it took him so long to brush out the sawdust from the settings. Please pass the rolls, Evangeline."

Miss Balm was staring at him.

"This weather," went on Shackleton, reminiscently, "reminds me of the time Tom and I walked 125 miles one afternoon on a wager. The snowbanks were so deep that when we broke through you couldn't see the tops of our heads and it was cold—38 degrees below zero. We got along rapidly, though, because we wore our track suits—something like bathing suits, you know—and so we weren't weighted down. They gave us a banquet that night and then we danced till morning. Oh, those were great days!

When Shackleton came home that evening he found his wife in tears. "Miss Balm," she wept, "says she can't come to me any more, not even to finish up! You—you scared her with your wild talk this noon!"

"Pooh!" scoffed Shackleton, joyously, "she's just jealous of my superior inventive abilities! That's all! You take your things to the most expensive dresmaker you can find if you want to, Evangeline! It was worth it!"

There are some very pretty women who don't understand the law of the road with regard to handsome faces. Nature and custom agree in conceding to all males the right of at least two distinct looks at every comely female countenance without any infraction of the rules of courtesy or the sentiment of respect.—Dr. Holmes, "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

In Mutual Admiration.

In his youth George Meredith was a fervent admirer of Tennyson, to whom he sent his first volume of poems in 1851. Tennyson wrote back a very complimentary letter, saying that there was one poem which he wished he had written himself and a firm friendship was established between the two.

Huh!

It's easy enough to be honest when life flows along like a song, but when you're out of work and the rent is due and your wife is ill and the children are hungry and you see something you want and there's nobody looking and you've got to a point where you don't much care if there is some one looking, because a warm cell is as good as a cold pavement—why, then—?—Life.

Proof of Remembrance.

She (after elopement)—"I received a letter from papa to-day. He writes that he had just finished making his will." He—"Did he remember us?" She—"Yes, indeed. He has left all his money to an asylum for hopeless idiots."

Word to the Foolish.

See a pin and pick it up; you are liable to get docked for being late at the office, arrested for blocking the sidewalk, infected with the germs of some disease and accused of being stingy or, at least, of having little to do.—Life.

Advice for the Rich.

If thou art rich, then show the greatness of thy fortune; or, what is better, the greatness of thy soul, in the meekness of thy conversation condescend to men of low estate, support the distressed and patronize the neglected. Be great.—Sterne.

Praise for French Lightships.

French lights are the best along the shores, say the navigators. They are posted low, close to the water line, and so do not mislead like the Italian pharos perched high above the sea. They have the best lenses and are always visible.

Good Deeds That Live.

Write your name in kindness, love and mercy on the hearts of thousands you come in contact with year by year; you will never be forgotten. Good deeds will shine as the stars of heaven.—Chalmers.

The Philosopher of Folly.

"We note," observes the Philosopher of Folly, "that even Senator Gordon, who was in the senate for 60 years, never sprung his original poetry until he was about to leave."

Statistical.

Cholly—"Yes, it was a frightful accident. The doctah said I narrowly escaped having softening of the brain." Polly—"And how long did you escape it?"

Pat's Preference.

Irishman (after waiting at the theater entrance for a long time on a cold night)—Shure it's meself wad sooner walk 50 miles than shtand five!—Punch.

Familiar.

There is nothing new about the latest defalcation by a teller. 'Tis the simple old story of the $1,000 income and taste that would have strained one ten times bigger.

Evil of the Present Day.

One of the great evils of the present time is the anxiety of young people, and too often of their parents as well, to earn money early.

Uncle Ezra Says:

"One good turn desarves another, but lots o' folks don't seem to know when their turns come."—Boston Herald.

One of Mankind's Errors.

Some men do not get estates for the purpose of enjoying life, but, blinded with error, they live only for their estates.—Juvenal.

Culture.

Some people understand classical music so well that they hardly ever break in and applaud at the wrong time.

Love's Recompense.

I think there is no unreturned love; the pay is certain one way or another.—Walt Whitman.

Unreasonable Shame.

The worst kind of shame is being ashamed of frugality or poverty.—Livy.

Power of the Brain.

Thoughts are mightier than the strength of hand.—Sophocles.

Thrust Upon Them.

Some men are born rich, some achieve riches and some enter the political arena.—Harvard Lampoon.

Real "Gold Bug."

"The Gold Bug" is the title of Edgar Allan Poe's uncanny stories. It is also the name given to a curious little creature lately found in Australia. In one of the Bendigo gold mines, at a depth of 1,200 feet, the miners were surprised to discover a peculiar beetle attached to the quartz rock and boring into it. It was brightly colored and studded with particles of real gold. It has been sent to Melbourne for scientific examination.

Joyous Philosophy.

Let us learn to be content with what we have. Let us get rid of our fales estimates, set up all the higher ideals—a quiet home, a few books full of the inspiration of a genius; a few friends worthy of being loved, and able to love us in return; a simple religion full of trust and hope and love—and to such a philosophy this world will give us all the empty joy it has.—David Swing.

Childish Ingenuity.

If grown-ups were as ingenious in manufacturing happiness as children are, this old world would be grinning all the time. Two little boys in Jones street yesterday had a roller skate to play with. The bigger boy put it on, and the smaller boy rode astride the bigger boy's foot. The two of them had as much fun out of that skate as if it had been an automobile.—Newark (N. J.) News.

Frog Industry in France.

That the frog industry of France is a business of considerable magnitude may be gained from the fact that the annual production is close to 50,000,000 frogs, all of which are consumed within the country, with the exception of the export to England.

Author's Poor Memory.

The late Sir Theodore Martin when asked which he wrote of the famous "Bon Gaultier Ballads," among the wittiest poems in English literature, confessed that he had forgotten which were his and which were the work of his collaborator, Prof. Aytoun.

Chivalrous Dr. Holmes.

I would have a woman true as death. At the first real lie which works from the heart outward, she should be tenderly chloroformed into a better world.—Dr. Holmes, "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table."

Manners.

What a rare gift is that of manners! How difficult to define, how much more difficult to impart! Better for a man to possess them than wealth, beauty or talent! They will more than supply all.—Bulwer Lytton.

Men and Kings.

The people may be able to follow; they cannot be made to understand. The king's mind is the wind, and grass are the middle of the people; whither the wind blows, thither the grass bends.—Confucius.

Faulty Agriculture.

Though blessed with the most fertile soil and most favorable climate in the world, the United States produces less wheat per acre planted than England, Germany or Holland.

This Wicked World.

When a banker does go wrong, it seems to increase the general satisfaction if it is stated he was also superintendent of a Sunday school.—Atchison Globe.

None to Do the Chores.

More than four million people are estimated to attend moving picture shows in the United States every day. No wonder it is getting so hard to find somebody willing to do the chores.

Hard to Collect.

The world owes every man a living, but you've got to rise up at the break of day to collect it.—Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

True Eloquence.

He is the eloquent man who can treat humble subjects with delicacy, lofty things impressively and moderate things temperately.—Cicero.

Christians and Citizens.

Whatever makes good Christians makes good citizens.—Daniel Webster.

TENNIS EXPERTS COMING

Hackett, Alexander, Gardner and Leonard Play Here Saturday.

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

America's Greatest Tennis Players to Be Seen in Doubles Match Here—The Season's Schedule.

The lawn tennis season will be formally opened at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday afternoon, May 14, when a special invitation doubles match has been arranged to take place at 3 o'clock. Four players of national prominence have accepted the club's invitation, and a noteworthy exhibition will occur in consequence. On one side will be Harold H. Hackett and Fred B. Alexander, who won the championship of the United States in 1907, 1908 and 1909, and will defend their title this year. On the other Carlton R. Gardner, formerly of San Francisco, and Edgar W. Leonard, who, with William J. Clothier, won the intercollegiate doubles championship in 1902.

It is very rare for the present national doubles champions to play in invitation tournaments and Plainfield people will have an opportunity such as will fall to the lot of very few communities outside of Newport and New York. The brilliancy of Mr. Alexander's game stamps him as one of the most remarkable players of the present day, while the phenomenal steadiness and excellent generalship of his partner, Mr. Hackett, is familiar to all close followers of the game and has elicited unstinted praise from English players of note who have visited this country.

Their opponents first paired at the Palm Beach tournament last winter, where they met Harold H. Hackett and Beals C. Wright (the latter former singles champion of the United States) in the final round, and lost only after five hard sets had been played. Mr. Gardner until last fall lived in San Francisco, where he ranked next to Messrs. McLoughlin and Long, who represented America in the Davis Cup matches against Australiasia last November. He has many of the characteristics of these famous Californians, and his tremendous reach and craftiness on the court makes his game a splendid one to watch. The fourth player, Edgar W. Leonard, is a former Boston and Harvard man, and his doubles game is a remarkably good one. In fact, at Palm Beach last winter, it was said that he played the best game of the four men engaged.

The match will be the best three out of five sets and will begin at 3 o'clock, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance, not only from Plainfield but from nearby towns and even from New York, as an opportunity to watch the champions is seldom offered.

There is a strong probability that an invitation mixed doubles tournament will be held by the club on Friday and Saturday, May 27 and 28. A number of the leading players of both sexes have been approached and favorable replies have been secured from enough of them to make it seem almost certain that the tournament will be held.

The tennis committee has just issued its schedule of regular events for the season, which will start with an event for novices on June 4. The other events are as follows:

June 11, 2:30 p. m., novice event (continued); June 18, 10 a. m., women's singles for club championship; 2:30 p. m., men's doubles for club championship; June 25, 10 a. m., women's singles for club championship, continued; 2:30 p. m., men's doubles for club championship, continued; boy's singles; July 2, 2:30 p. m., men's handicap; July 4, 10 a. m., men's handicap, continued; July 6 and 7, 10 a. m., girl's singles; July 16, 2:30 p. m., Plainfield open championship, men's singles, open to all players in Plainfield and North Plainfield; July 23, 2:30 p. m., Plainfield open championship, continued; July 30, 2:30 p. m., mixed doubles; August 6, 2:30 p. m., mixed doubles, continued; September 10, 2:30 p. m., men's singles for club championship; September 17, 10 a. m., women's doubles for club championship; 2:30 p. m., men's singles for club championship, continued; September 24, women's doubles for club championship, continued.

Entries will close at 6 p. m., of day preceding tournament with Miss Elizabeth Goddard, 205 East Ninth street, telephone 809-R, for the women's and girl's events, and with S. W. Merrihew, 1016 South avenue, telephone 798-J for other events.

METHODIST'S UNION PLANS FOR REVIVAL

Under the auspices of the Social Union comprising the members of the three local Methodist churches, a union service was held in Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church last night, looking forward to a revival service in the fall, one week in each of the three churches, either to be conducted by the local pastors or by some noted evangelist, assisted by the pastors and laymen of the churches.

Dr. H. K. Carroll, president of the Union, presided, and in a few remarks set forth the objects of the organization. He hoped that the Union would be the means of cementing the fellowship of the Methodist churches of the city and borough.

Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, district superintendent, in his usual forceful style, spoke of his experience with revival work, the necessity for co-operation between pulpit and new. He told of the great opportunity the church had for bringing men into the Kingdom of Jesus Christ, and dwelt in general upon the thought of the necessity of earnestness and prayerful presentation of the old Gospel.

Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First church, spoke briefly of the necessity of a revival among the members of the church, while Rev. Ora J. Shoop, of Grace M. E. church, referred to the necessity of entering into a spirit of prayer for the success of the work. Rev. C. S. Kemble, of Monroe Avenue M. E. church, spoke of the revival work being conducted by the local ministers or an evangelist, the question to be decided later.

At the conclusion a social hour, presided over by the presidents of the Ladies' Aid Societies of the three churches, was enjoyed. Refreshments were served to about 200 people. In the opinion of all the meeting should result in much good being accomplished for Methodism in Plainfield and the borough. The keynote of the meeting was "Go out and bring men to Christ."

WESTFIELD TRADE BOARD TO HOLD A BIG BANQUET

The second annual banquet of the Westfield Board of Trade will be held on Tuesday evening, May 24, at the Casino Club in that town. The guests of the board and speakers for the evening will be Hon. Edward Casper Stokes, Otto Kempner, president of the New York and New Jersey Real Estate Exchange; Hon. Lloyd Thompson and Mayor A. L. Alpers.

Assemblyman Lloyd Thompson is chairman of the banquet committee. The other members of the committee are President W. E. Tuttle, Jr.; Judge W. B. Toucey, Paul Q. Oliver, George L. Cruttenden and F. H. Schaefer. The committee intends to follow out the plan of last year's successful event. Group tables will be placed throughout the dining hall and congenial company seated at each table.

The Westfield Board of Trade is a live organization of over 200 members. It was organized and incorporated November 30, 1908. The officers of the board are: President, W. E. Tuttle, Jr.; first vice-president, John A. Dennis, of the First ward; second vice-president, Arthur N. Pierson, of the Second ward; third vice-president, Arthur L. Russell, of the Third ward, and fourth vice-president, James G. Casey, of the Fourth ward; secretary, Robert V. Hoffman; treasurer, George W. Frutchey. The board of trustees comprises the officers and J. M. Walsh, F. H. Scheafer, H. C. McVoy, H. C. Mooney and W. C. Reeve.

The Board of Trade has taken an active interest in Westfield since the day of its organization. The board is a member of the New Jersey Federation, which is allied with the New York and New Jersey Real Estate Exchange. The board has taken an active part in the movement for good roads and efficient schools. So far this season it has held large public meetings at which these subjects were freely discussed.

Among the improvements which came to Westfield through the good offices of the board is increased train service, a new town hall and a better system of roads and caring for streets throughout the town. The board is also greatly interested in the work of the shade tree commission and the free public library. Regular meetings of the board are held in the town hall on the third Thursday evenings of March, May, July, September and November.

PASTOR WEDS COUPLE AFTER MIDNIGHT

Friends of Fred Vail, of 125 East Sixth street, were surprised today to hear of his marriage to Miss Elizabeth F. Weaver, of Westfield, which was solemnized at the parsonage of the Presbyterian church at Springfield by the Rev. William Hoppogh. Although the couple aroused Pastor Hoppogh out of his slumber after midnight, relatives of the bridegroom declare the marriage is not a sequel to an elopement.

The witnesses of the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leighton, of Westfield, cousins of the bridegroom. The couple wil make their home at Westfield.

MASKED MEN HOLDUP TRAIN ON THE B. & O.

Detectives of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad are trying to trace three men who held up a freight train at 9:30 o'clock on Tuesday night at Bayway, and broke open a car from which they stole cigars and woollens worth about $4,000. The hold-up took place in one of the most lonely spots on the Baltimore & Ohio system in this vicinity, and the bandits easily escaped.

The robbers, who were masked, flagged the train, and when Fireman Eichelberg and Brakeman Wheeler got down to investigate they drew revolvers and ordered them to throw up their hands. While one of the thieves held them prisoners the remaining two broke open the fourth car.

There were fifty cars on the train, and Conductor Bating and another brakeman, who were in the caboose at the end, hurried along the tops of the cars to investigate, but before they reached the forward cars the robbers got away.

It is supposed they had a wagon waiting to cart away their plunder. No trace of them could be found, although detectives scoured the neighborhood.

Bayway is midway between the Arthur Kills Bridge connecting Staten Island with New Jersey and Linden. The tracks run through a deep cut, and there is no habitation for miles. Several small hold-ups have occurred nearby, but none as serious as that of Tuesday night.

Death of Twins.

May Helena Parsons, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Parsons, of Central avenue, and twin sister of Minnie Marie Parsons whose death occurred on Saturday last, died last night from intestinal troubles. The death of Minnie Marie was also due to a similar cause, the babies not being very strong. The latter was ten months and eighteen days old, and May Helena was ten months and twenty-two days old. As in the case of the first death the funeral of May Helena will be private.

ELKS' MINSTRELS GREAT

LOCAL CELEBRITIES ROASTED.

Mayor Fisk, Trade Board President Jeffery and Others "Knocked" —Tommy Muir's Monologue a Feature.

Brimful of bright, catchy music, both in solo and chorus work, interspersed with lots of fresh up-to-date jokes, including many local hits,

Joseph Noonan,
Exalted Ruler of Plainfield Lodge of Elks.

and concluding with several clever sketches, the Elks' annual minstrel jubilee was enjoyed by a capacity audience at the Plainfield theatre last night. It was given under the auspices of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, and the members of the company outdid themselves in their efforts to please. It was a crack-a-jack show and everyone present was pleased. The program was not too long to be tiresome and the audience went away happy.

The stage setting in the opening part was an elaborate one, and the members of the company appearing in the bright and attractive hunting costumes was both new and pleasing. As the curtin went up the entire company was seated in leisurely fashion about small tables, and sang a tuneful air, "Just Returned from the Hunt." Roud after round of applause greeted the catchy chorus, and throughout the program which followed every number was encored, the soloists being generously remembered with cut flowers. There was one exception, however, Jack Todd being presented with bunches of onions following his song, "You'll Come Back."

After the opening song, there was the "Walter's Chorus," introducing Dr. Charles G. Davis, John V. Todd, Harry N. Blimm, Charles J. Ward, Edwin H. Bennett and John H. Cose as the end men. George Orlando Stevens was the interlocutor, and he just bubbled over with witticism that kept everyone in good humor.

The chorus was especially good. This was shown in the singing of a medley of popular airs which had the right swing and were well rendered. The program of part first was as follows:

"You'll Come Back," John V. Todd; "You are the Ideal of My Dreams," John J. Campbell; "Heinze," Charles J. Ward; "Meet Me Tonight in Dreamland," William J. Tallamy; "Alabam," Edwin H. Bennett; "Annie Laurie," Elmer D. Cutting; "Come After Breakfast," Charles G. Davis; "Garden of Roses," Townsend Fellows; "Come Right In," Harry N. Blimm; "When Night Falls O'er the Sea," William G. Smith; "I'm On My Way to Reno," John H. Cose; finale, "Drink a Toast to Yankeeland," Arthur Groff.

In this way Mr. Sorg and his friends will make the trip daily between Plainfield and New York, as he did between the metropolis and Atlantic City. He will probably have twenty entries in the horse show.

The entries for the forthcoming exhibition are coming in rapidly and the show promises to be bigger and better than ever, approaching an international affair with several foreign entries.

WHY LEWIS FOUGHT AGAINST EXTRADITION

Before either Frederick Lewis or his counsel, Craig A. Marsh, had received word yesterday that Governor Fort had decided in his favor by declining to grant Governor Hughes' requisition for Mr. Lewis' extradition, The Daily Press published a full account of the Governor's action.

The question has been asked by some who have followed the proceedings why Mr. Lewis made such a vigorous fight in New Jersey, instead of going voluntarily to New York and vindicating himself there? The answer is that Mr. Lewis was satisfied that the purpose of the private person who started the prosecution against him was merely to get him to New York in order to take proceedings against him in a civil suit, with a view of locking him up in Ludlow street jail on a civil judgment. One of the grounds on which the extradition was contested was that such was the object of the plaintiff in the civil suit when she started the criminal prosecution. The civil suit arose out of loss of investments made by Mr. Lewis as trustee under advice of New York counsel more than twenty years ago.

Mr. Marsh at the hearing cited a precedent in which Governor Rice of Massachusetts declined to grant the requisition made by Governor Wade Hampton for the surrender of Hiram Kimpton, on the ground that the Governor and Attorney General became convinced that the object in procuring the indictment and demand for extradition was not for the purpose of trying Kimpton for the crime charged against him, but for a different purpose. The trend of more recent cases has been the other way, and in the Lewis case the Attorney General, while admitting that the point was debatable, decided that point in favor of District Attorney Whitman's argument. The other point made by Mr. Marsh, as stated yesterday, that Mr. Lewis could not be a fugitive from justice because he was not in the demanding State at the time when the indictment alleged the crime was committed, was sustained, and extradition was refused on that ground.

RECTORS' SALARIES SCHEME SUBMITTED

Rev. Dr. Otis Glazebrook, rector of St. John's church, of Elizabeth, aroused a great deal of interest in the annual convention of the New Jersey Episcopal Diocese at Trenton yesterday, when in making a preliminary report on canons and church constitutions he urged that Bishop Scarborough issue a circular letter to all vestries asking the clergy to establish an equalization fund in their church and all ministers receiving $1,500 per year shall place one per cent. into this fund, ministers receiving $2,000 shall place two per cent. into this fund, those receiving three, four, and five thousand dollars shall place three, four and five per cent., respectively, into the fund. This fund is to aid the churches in paying the salaries of clergymen where it is impossible for them to pay proper salaries.

Dr. Glazebrook said that it was the view of his committee that the salaries of single men should be not less than $1,000 per year, those of married men where there is a rectory not less than $1,200, and in case there is no rectory a married man should receive not less than $1,500. He declared that the clergymen who are receiving proper salaries should be willing to make sacrifices to aid their fellow rectors in fairly meeting the necessities of material wants.

Dinner for Governor.

The final social function of the members of the State Senate for this year is being arranged in the form of a dinner at which Governor Fort will be the guest of honor. The affair will take place in Atlantic City or Cape May City the latter part or the first of June. The committee in charge of the dinner is composed of Senators Minch, of Cumberland; Mills, of Morris, and Gebhardt, of Hunterdon. The Senators will act as hosts to the Governor in return for the latter's entertainment of them at Lakewood in December.

Whist Party Netter $80.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association met last night and received from Mrs. William Newcorn $80, the net proceeds of the whist given at Carleton Hall, New York, last week for the benefit of the association. Mrs. Newcorn received the thanks of the association for her interest and good work.

MACMURRAY FOR FOWLER

Congressman's Lieutenant Says People's Voice Will Be Heard.

SANGUINE OF A VICTORY.

Not for the Politicians to Settle Fowler's Fate Declares Shrewd Leader of His Forces.

That Charles N. Fowler's friends have not all deserted his political camp was made known today when City Clerk James T. MacMurray, the Fowler leader in Union county, emphatically declared that he would fight "tooth and nail" for the renomination and re-election of the insurgent leader. He predicted that the voice of the people would be heard by the leaders and that it would effectually settle all opposition. Mr. MacMurray is conceded by the Republican leaders to be the shrewdest politician in Union county. He and "Uncle Dan" Voorhees, the Morris county leader, have worked together for years and on more than one occasion it is generally conceded have forced the selection of Mr. Fowler. This was true when Mr. Fowler ran two years ago.

"You may say for me and make it as strong as you like," said Mr. MacMurray, "that I will be in the fight under Mr. Fowler's banner. Mr. Fowler will be nominated by the people and not by the county chairman. I think the people like an honest man; a man who has the courage of his convictions; a man who represents the people and who is not afraid to express his opinions when representing and fighting for them. Mr. Fowler said in his open letter a few days ago that he would accept a renomination if the people wanted him as their representative. That has always been his position. The nomination will come direct from the people and not from the politician."

When asked how it is that his political partner, Mr. Voorhees, has come out against Mr. Fowler in favor of James H. McGraw, of Morris, Mr. MacMurray said that he "couldn't help what 'Uncle Dan' does." He said that he had not seen or heard from Mr. Voorhees in several weeks and that the announcement in The Daily Press was the first intimation he had that the Morris county "boss" would oppose Fowler.

"You can say right here for me," continued Mr. MacMurray, "that only a few months ago at the Engineer's Club in New York, Mr. McGraw told me that he would not be a candidate for Congress so long as Fowler wanted to go back to Washington; that he had always taken that position and always would. He confessed that he would like to go to Congress, however. Mr. McGraw is a fine gentleman and so is Mr. Fowler. There's something back of all this; I don't need to tell you that."

NEW WESTFIELD SCHOOL PLAN STRIKES A SNAG.

Westfield, May 12.—Opposition to the purchase of the W. G. Peckham tract on Mountain avenue as a site for the proposed new schoolhouse will be carried to the polls, according to a statement made yesterday by Dr. C. M. F. Egel, of the Board of Education. Dr. Egel is authority for the statement that he, with two of his colleagues, E. F. Lowe and J. Austin Dennis, will submit an alternative proposition for a site at the special meeting of the board on May 24.

If the board rejects the proposition he declares that the minority at their own expense will have plans for their own project made and fight it out at the special election.

"It is certain," says Dr. Egel, "that the new schoolhouse on Mountain avenue would cost $125,000. This is too much money, and I do not believe the people of this town will stand for it. We shall therefore propose that wings be built on either side of the Washington School, at Orchard and Walnut streets, at a cost of not more than $70,000. We consider this plan feasible, economical and in line with the movement to centralize the different grammar grades and the High School."

Last night the Westfield Park Commission met and ratified the plan of the majority in the board to purchase the Mountain avenue site in connection with the public park plans, and recommended that the town buy fifty feet at each end of the property for park purposes, so that Orchard and Walnut streets might be extended through the school grounds into the park to connect with Euclid avenue in the rear. W. E. Reeve and Addison H. Clark, owners of property adjoining the school grounds in the rear, have been asked to contribute twenty-five feet each to the town. They are considering the matter.

Tonight the Men's Club of the Presbyterian church will hold a public meeting to discuss the school situation. E. A. Merrill, the majority leader in the Board of Education, will be present to answer all questions respecting the plans of the board.

ALLEGED JEWEL THIEVES CAUGHT.

Trenton, May 12.—Pedestrians in Eighth street, near Walnut, Philadelphia, witnessed an exciting chase yesterday afternoon and sought the shelter of doorways to escape bullets. At the end of the chase two young men, suspected of a $4,000 jewel robbery here, were arrested and taken to the City Hall. There the prisoners gave their names and addresses as John Himmel-Wright and John Baia, both eighteen years old, and both of Trenton.

Yesterday Fred Pilger, a jeweler, in 117 South Broad street, went to Philadelphia and reported to the police that two young men had entered his store Monday afternoon and made off with a tray of diamonds he was showing them. The jewelry was valued at $4,000. He said a rogue's gallery photograph of Himmel-Wright resembled one of the men who had robbed him.

Detectives Doyle and Callon yesterday afternoon met Himmel-Wright and Baia in Eighth street. The former recognized the detectives and bolted. Baia following him, Doyle drew his revolver and fired. The bullet struck the heel of Himmel-Wright's shoe, and the youth promptly dropped, crying:

"Please, Mister, don't shoot!"

Baia was captured after several more shots had been fired.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow night for Bible study under the leadership of Rev. Dr. Zelie and Miss Colton.

OUR MAY WHITE SALE PROVES THE PRINCIPAL STORE ATTRACTION OF THIS VICINITY

Store crowded, sales soaring, values winning enthusiastic approval—such, in brief, is the story of the opening hours of this real triumph in white goods retailing. It is already an established fact that white goods buying at this season can most profitably be centered here.

Assortments provide the most complete selection of new white yard goods, white outer and underwear, white staples, etc. Weeks of time and effort were devoted to preparing for this sale—to searching the markets, viewing goods, separating the wheat from the chaff and using spot cash as the level to close deals at most advantageously low prices.

Sale continues with all its attractions—tomorrow's hosts of shoppers will find all that met with the instantaneous approval of those who have already bought.

Now is the one best opportunity to supply White Goods needs for weeks to come.

3 Vols. in Cloth, at - -	$30.00	$ 9.75
3 Vols. in Full Morocco, -	$60.00	$15.75

Nothing approaching this work has ever been attempted before. In the series of over five hundred splendid pictures, many of them in color, every incident in the life of Christ is presented; every parable is illustrated; every scene in His youth, ministry, death and resurrection is depicted, true in color, costume, landscape and all the details to the life, country and the time.

The accuracy and interest of each picture, the beautiful coloring, true to nature, of the land where it was painted, has aroused the enthusiasm of the entire world.

The interest displayed in Monsieur Tissot's work is best illustrated by the fact that when the original paintings were exhibited in this country hundreds of thousands of people paid admission to see them.

The Tissot collection of pictures, together with the Scriptural text and exhaustive historical, biographical, architectural and geographic notes is a revelation in art, an education in history, an inspiration in religion.

Tissot's beautiful pictures vividly and accurately illustrate the life of the most noble character that ever lived upon earth.

The Tissot collection of pictures forms the most beautiful gallery of colored plates that the world has ever produced.

There has been nothing in art, religious or historical collections that ever attracted the interest displayed in Tissot's work.

This work is the achievement of the present, and will be the marvel of all fuure generations.

GOLF.

The schedule of spring events under the auspices of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association has been issued. In addition to the dates for the championship tournament of the association the card also calls attention to one-day attractions that will be held at several of the nearby clubs. The first of these will take place at the Richmond County Country Club on May 19. The women will also gather at the Plainfield Country Club some time this month, but the exact date has yet to be fixed.

Jerome D. Travers, the well known Montclair amateur, who displayed much of his oldtime form at Garden City last week, has entered for the invitation tournament at the Fox Hills Golf Club this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. G. W. White, the youngster who gave Travers such a hard match earlier in the round, has also entered, while the redoubtable Walter J. Travis will run down for the handicap on Saturday. As additional traps have been put in this spring, the Staten Island course will be a greater test than ever.

SANER FOURTH OF JULY ORDINANCE DEFEATED.

Rahway, May 12.—The Rahway City Council Tuesday night received two petitions, one opposing an ordinance for a saner Fourth and the other for it. A. Edward Woodruff, a lawyer, engaged a band and got together a hundred citizens. They proceeded to the Council chamber where he presented a petition against the passing of the ordinance.

Councilman William Martin spoke in favor of the measure from the standpoint of safety.

The ordinance was defeated and the Council will probably have another drawn, less drastic than the one voted upon Tuesday night.

A communication was received from the School Board saying that $25,000 would be needed to complete and furnish the new High School building.

was encored. Especially noteworthy were the quartet selections, "Annie Laurie," and "Garden of Roses," Joseph C. Martin Wm. G. Smith and William Tallamy, assisting the soloists in each selection. They were recalled several times.

Perhaps one of the amusing skits in part first was the impersonation of Mayor Charles J. Fisk and Alexander D. Ayers, by John H. Cose and Edwin H. Bennett. The latter was true to the character as he "hung around" with a small whisk broom and the proverbial match-box. Mr. Cose, representing the Mayor read a proclamation concerning dogs, and after consulting with "Alex" obtaining his approval, told him to send for the reporters. The entire sketch was very funny and the audience was quick to "catch on," as was also the case when knocks on William Jeffery, who was presented as "the man who runs everything." This was the "Mayor's" proclamation:

Pursuant to the authority of Section 8 of the ordinance of the City of Plainfield, entitled "An Ordinance Concerning Dogs," approved May 3, 1909, I, Charles J. Fisk, Mayor of the City of Plainfield, do hereby proclaim and give notice that in my judgment the public safety demands at this time, and I do hereby order and direct by this public notice that all dogs shall clean their teeth twice a day with Jones' Dental Cream, 25 cents a box; for sale at all druggists.

And furthermore, that any person detected selling booze or tobacco to any dog or doggess under the age of fourteen years shall forthwith be banished from the said city of Plainfield until the Hon. Jim Martine is elected Governor.

And furthermore, that no dog shall be allowed to bark on a tree, or to run at large in the said City of Plainfield between the hours of seven in the morning and seven in the morning, unless he, she, him, her, it or they is securely confined upon a nice pink ribbon, and accompanied by a chaperone who is old enough to know better.

CHARLES J. FISK,
Mayor.

Signed, sealed and delivered in the presence of "Alex Ayers." Dated April 1, 1910.

An equally popular chord was struck when John Cose asked these questions in the form of verses, the answers "Bill Jeffery" being given by the respective end men:

Who is the man who's wondrous wise;
Whose every move's a big surprise;
Who knows it pays to advertise?
Bill Jeffery.

Who started Circles-on-the-Square?
Who nurses them with tender care,
And keeps them running on hot air?
Bill Jeffery.

Who runs the Plainfield Board of Trade,
And puts all others in the shade?
Who tells us we are all decayed?
Bill Jeffery.

Who is the man who oft delights,
To plan some scheme, when home at nights,
To hitch our town to Berkeley Heights?
Bill Jeffery.

Oh, who's the biggest man what is,
Who lately in our midst has riz,
And tends to everybody's biz?
Bill Jeffery.

Tommy Muir opened part second in "an original monologue with interruptions," and that Tommy is as popular as ever was shown by the hearty reception accorded him. In addition to singing a couple of good songs, one being "B. P. O. E.," Tommy handed out a good line of talk, sprinkled with local hits. One commotion that interrupted him was referred to as Councilmen Mygatt and Holt voting against the resolution to send Chief Kiely to Birmingham, Ala. Tommy was recalled several times in singing the Elks' song and he generously responded.

Todd and Blimm then appeared in a laughable sketch, "Held Up," in which they introduced some clever talk and a good song. Mr. Todd appeared as a burglar, while Mr. Blimm impersonated a Hebrew character.

The show was concluded with a sketch, "Down on the Plantation," introducing Joseph C. Martin, Edwin H. Bennett, Joseph Randall and John H. Cose, as a quartet. They were assisted by "Jack Johnson" and "Sam Langford," two negro boys who did some clever dancing, singing and boxing. The quartet was fine and their selections called forth repeated encores.

Much of the success of the show was due to the work of Harry Wetton, coach and musical director, as well as the Elks' minstrel committee, Harry N. Blimm, William G. Smith, John H. Cose, Clarence E. Teel. The following comprised the company:

Harry N. Blimm, Edwin H. Bennett, Joseph P. Burd, Charles P. Bechtel, Harry H. Brentnall, Clarence Brokaw, Elmer D. Cutting, John H. Cose, Paul Collier, John J. Campbell, Charles G. Davis, Thomas L. DeMeza, George J. Finger, Townsend Fellow, Alexander D. Findlay, Arthur Groff, Marcus G. Hoyt, John P. Hall, Frank H. Howard, Fred J. Harding, Fred R. Haynes, Joseph C. GAYNOR NO CENSOR.

Mayor Leaves It to Public to Decide on Plays.

The refusal of Police Commissioner Baker of New York to renew the license of the New York theatre, at the instigation of Mayor Gaynor, of New York, because of the indecent character of the French farce, "The Girl With the Whooping Cough," has resulted in complaints being made against some other Broadway productions.

Referring to the complaints that he has received the Mayor declared yesterday that neither he nor Commissioner Baker would assume the responsibility of acting as censors of the plays that are produced in New York. The Mayor believes that the general public should be censors of the theatrical productions. Plays will probably receive the official observation of the police department if complaints are made against them by the general public.

BOY PUZZLES POLICE.

Will Not Speak or Give Signs of Identity.

Trenton, May 12.—The police have in their custody a mysterious boy, who either cannot or will not tell who he is or where he comes from. He was taken to the Central station yesterday by Arthur Van Cleef, a Rosedale farmer, who said he found the boy acting strangely on his farm.

All the efforts, subterfuges and surprises resorted to by the police to make the boy speak have failed. Neither will he use signs to indicate that he cannot speak or hear. Interpreters of various languages have been tried, efforts have been made to frighten the boy, but all to no avail. He gives no indication that he understands or cares anything about what is going on.

DIOCESE FORWARDS BRITONS SYMPATHY

The convention of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey, at its second day's session at Trenton yesterday, sent a message to the Bishop of Canterbury from Bishop Scarborough, of the New Jersey diocese, offering the sympathy of the convention in the death of King Edward.

A telegram was received from the diocese of Pennsylvania offering congratulations upon the continued good health of Bishop Scarborough.

Bishop Scarborough selected St. James' church, Atlantic City, as the place for holding the next annual convention. An invitation was received from Mt. Holly.

One of the most important matters before the convention yesterday was the election of deputies to the general convention of the church in the United States. The clergymen elected were the Rev. John N. Carpenter, the Rev. William D'Olier, the Rev. Harry Humphreys, the Rev. Charles E. Merritt, the Rev. Edward S. Savage, the Rev. Hamilton Schuyler, the Rev. O. A. Glazebrook and the Rev. R. B. Shepherd.

Other elections held resulted as follows: Trustee of the General Theological Seminary, the Rev. Dr. E. B. Boyce; trustee of the missionary fund, Walter E. Robb and C. H. K. Halsey; trustees of church property, Walter E. Robb, C. H. K. Halsey and Arthur Dorrance; committee to audit missionary fund and church property accounts, Edwin L. Thompson and John S. Broughton; trustee of widows' and orphans' fund, Bayard Stockton; committee to audit the foregoing and the aged and infirm clergy fund, William T. Kirk, Jr., and Harry Humphreys.

The Elks Minstrels at the Plainfield theatre last night was enjoyed by many from here.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., meets tonight in the Library rooms.

The Ginger Zuzu Girls, clever dancers and singers, are sure to attract. They introduce new songs that make a hit. Hamilton & Howlett, the musical experts will present "Reuben Haskin," and Mark and Laura Davis will appear in a German skit, "Hans the Grocery Boy," full of bright lines. The films d'art are educational.

Honor for Ackerman.

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman appears to be the unanimous choice of his colleagues for the position of presiding officer of the Upper House to succeed State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen. His boom was sprung at the dinner given on Monday night at the Hotel Astor, New York, to Frelinghuysen by his colleagues.

MR. FOWLER COVETS MR. KEAN'S BERTH

Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of the Fifth District, wants the New Idea Republicans of this State to indorse him for United States Senator, but so far his efforts to secure their support have been in vain. Herman B. Walker, of Orange, a member of the executive committee of the Progressive Republican League of Essex county, spoke for Mr. Fowler at a conference of the leaders of the reform wing of the party at Newark Tuesday night and again in Jersey City yesterday afternoon. Mr. Walker did not commit himself to the Fowler candidacy, but stated that the congressman, who was recently in the limelight because of his denunciation of Speaker Cannon, would like to have the New Idealtes place him in the race for Senator.

Mr. Fowler last week announced himself a candidate for renomination for Congress, and called upon his friends in Union county to stand by him. The support of the New Idea forces in Essex and the State, with the possible backing of Governor Fort, would be enough to persuade him to go into the race for Senator against John Kean.

Mr. Kean has been one of Mr. Fowler's supporters in time past. Both are residents of Union county. Mr. Fowler is a good speaker, and considered an able campaigner. It is part of his plan, if the inducement is strong enough to get him into the Senatorial contest, to go through the State before the primary election and appeal for votes of his Republican partisans to instruct their legislative candidates to vote for him in caucus next January.

"Mr. Fowler is an insurgent on the rules, but regular on everything else," said Mr. Walker, in speaking of the Union county statesman. He went on to say that Mr. Fowler had asked him to say to the Progressives at Newark that he would accept indorsement for the Senatorship.

It was at the suggestion of former Assemblyman William P. Martin, of Newark, that they went to the law office of George L. Record in Jersey City for their confab, the principal object in that move being to smooth Mr. Record's ruffled feathers, tell him the cold neglect which was his portion Tuesday when he went to Bank street Progressive headquarters at Newark was unintentional, and—incidentally, just incidentally—that the name of Record for Senator couldn't appear on any Progressive slate with which they had any connection.

Those who met with Mr. Record were Mr. Martin, former Assemblyman James G. Blauvelt, of Paterson; former Senator Everett Colby, Mr. Walker and Edmund B. Osborne, of Montclair, president of the Essex League. After the conference Messrs. Martin, Blauvelt and Record went to New York for dinner and continued the discussion in adjourned session.

It was impossible for the sextet to agree upon a slate for the party nominations this fall. They decided that it would be necessary for them and other of the Progressive leaders to hold conferences as frequently as possible until some definite decision could be reached, after which meeting of the Republican nonconformists are to be called in Passaic, Hudson, Essex and possibly other counties to discuss the men picked for their consideration.

Governor Fort himself was seriously considered for the United States senatorship, but he is not likely to be endorsed. President Osborne, of the Essex League, is not averse to being backed for the senatorship to succeed Mr. Kean, and may be the ultimate choice of the Progressives. Governor Fort has intimated that he will lend his valuable aid as a campaigner to the man who comes out for the senatorship and indicates that he stands for reform legislation and against the control of the Republican party by the so-called "special interests." If Mr. Fowler measures up it may be that he will get the New Idea endorsement.

DAUGHTERS MOURN EDWARD VII'S DEATH

Delegates representing the 5,000 women who are direct descendants of the heroes who fought in the American Revolution passed resolutions of sorrow at the death of King Edward VII. at the final meeting of the Daughters of the Revolution at Atlantic City yesterday. The resolution was prepared by Mrs. Robert E. Downes, of Baltimore. The text will be forwarded to King George and to Queen Alexandra.

Declaring that a "greater number of children die every year from being forced to labor in unwholesome factories than the number of men killed in the defense of their country during the battles for the country's freedom," Rev. William W. Whitaker, of the famous old church at Elizabeth used during revolutionary times, pleaded with the patriotic women to enlist in the fight for freeing the children from the fetters of toil.

A movement for the amalgamation of the Sons and Daughters of the Revolution and the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, now separate organizations, was also advocated by Mr. Whitaker.

New Jersey members of the Daughters gave a boom to the movement for a "sane" Fourth of July when they reported that they had joined with the Federation of Women's Clubs of the State to secure legislation to stop the sale of dangerous bombs for celebrating purposes.

Baltimore was selected as the next place of meeting, after the delegates from Maryland had invited the delegates to go as their guests to the formal unveiling of the memorial monument to sailors of the revolution to be erected in Statuary hall at Annapolis academy next year. No opposition appeared to the re-election of Mrs. Adeline Frances Fitz, of Boston, as president general.

PLAN ITALIAN MISSION IN THE EAST END.

At a congregational meeting at the First Presbyterian church, last night, there was a general discussion of the proposition to build a house of worship on the lot on Netherwood avenue, recently given to the church by Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bettman. Plans for raising money were considered and it was finally decided to refer the matter to the committee on the Italian Mission work, F. A. Duttenhofer, Fred Dickerson, W. J. Hamilton, J. H. Manning, J. C. Allen and Rev. Lewis Bond.

The Italian Mission work is growing rapidly, but the members of the church who have assumed the task, are not sure whether it is advisable to build at the present time. The committee will consider the proposition more at length and report to the church in the near future.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

A tribe of Red Men will be instituted at Westville tonight with sixty-five members.

By a majority of fifty-one votes the citizens of Hopewell favored the building of an addition to the public school at the cost of $15,000.

Ruth, the fifteen-months-old daughter of Adam Simerson, of Ringoes, who swallowed an open safety pin three days ago, has shown no ill effects as yet.

A mysterious explosion at the home of Orie Upton at Millville Tuesday blew the stove to smithereens, and a small boy who was playing on the floor was severely burned.

One of the horses attached to a wagon belonging to George Phillips, a contractor, of Eleventh and Penn streets, Camden, was killed by a load of lumber when the wagon upset on the White Horse turnpike near the city line yesterday afternoon. The horse was valued at about $350.

George Santos spent a week in Vineland looking for his wife, who, he says, deserted him in West Philadelphia, taking with her two small children. Yesterday a letter, received by a friend, was handed to him. The missive, which was signed Mrs. Ella Santos, was directed to a newspaper, and ran, in part, as follows: "I am well and happy and am working for my children. Please publish this and let my friends know that I am where my husband cannot find me. He did not treat me or the children right, and I would rather die than go back to him. It is no use for him to look for me."

Elwin Hollinshead, seventeen years old, a farmhand of Woodbury Heights, died of lockjaw in the Cooper Hospital, Camden, Tuesday night.

The movement for a "safe and sane" Fourth of July for Bayonne, which has been started by prominent women, yesterday received the indorsement of Mayor John J. Cain. The women are arranging a program for the holiday to include baseball, a parade, band concert and fireworks.

Prohibition Asbury Park had a water wagon parade Tuesday. It was a treat by the street department, at the head of which is Councilman J. H. Drew and Superintendent A. D. McCabe. Both rode ahead of the procession, which was headed by a band. There were seventeen new and highly colored sprinklers in line, drawn by prancing teams. The drivers were the only ones who rode on the wagons.

Three valuable horses were killed by a bolt of lightning which struck the barn on the farm occupied by Walter Moore, at Cedarville. The barn, however, was not burned.

A Colt revolver went off in the hands of John Zeliff, of 224 Temple street, Paterson, a member of the non-commissioned staff, while he was standing in front of the Municipal building in Passaic last Monday night. The bullet went through the end of the man's forefinger, struck the Municipal building, and, glancing, struck Eric Church, of 187 High street. The bullet tore through Mr. Church's linen collar and inflicted a slight wound in the neck. He and Zeliff were attended by a physician in the police station.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard and Judge E. A. Higbee settled the much-talked-of question of wearing judicial robes by appearing in court at May's Landing yesterday in ordinary business attire. The comment of the bar members on the democracy of the bench was unanimously commendatory.

WESTFIELD'S TROUBLES.

Westfield, May 12.—So many complaints have been made against the mail and telegraph service that the Board of Trade will consider them at the next regular meeting. There has been no night operator at the Westfield depot for some time, and night messages are sent to the Plainfield office by telephone. The people are protesting, because smaller towns, such as Roselle and Cranford, are given night service.

President Tuttle has conferred with Western Union officials, who promise, he said, to "see what can be done." It is probable that the citizens will circulate a petition requesting the railroad and telegraph companies to put on a night operator.

Regarding the mail service, it is said there are not enough carriers to cover the town, and, in consequence, but two deliveries are made a day.

COURT GRANTED NONSUIT.

Elizabeth, May 12.—A damage suit for $5,000 was tried Tuesday in the Union County Circuit Court before Judge Vail and a jury. The plaintiff was Willard Morrison, a tar roofer, while the defendant was Elias W. Hadden, a Roselle contractor, by whom Morrison was employed. The latter was severely injured by falling off the roof of a building on which he was working.

Judge Vail, after hearing all the testimony for the plaintiff, granted the defendant contractor a nonsuit, on the ground of contributory negligence on the plaintiff's part.

MEETS DEATH SEEKING AN HONORABLE DISCHARGE.

Bayonne, May 12.—While on his way to ask his foreman for an honorable discharge, John Hauck, 22 years old, of 123 West Twenty-second street, this city, was struck by a drill engine on the Central Railroad last night and instantly killed. His body was cut completely in two.

Hauck yesterday resigned his position with the railroad and was walking from Twenty-second street to Linnett street for his discharge. Near the bridge he stepped out of the way of an express train directly in front of a drill engine.

Hauck was a well-known Forester. He leaves a widow and two children. The body was taken to Guy's morgue. It is said that Hauck was to have taken a position in New York tomorrow morning.

50,000 TO SEE LAUNCH OF GREATEST BATTLESHIP.

New York, May 12.—Everything was in readiness at the Brooklyn Navy Yard Tuesday morning for the launching of the great battleship Florida today. Workmen had completed the erection of platforms and stagings and the decorators had finished their task of draping the structure with bunting and flags.

It is expected that 50,000 persons will witness the launching.

Miss Elizabeth Leger Fleming, who will christen the Florida, is the daughter of F. R. Fleming, who was Governor of Florida from 1899 to 1903. The other representatives of the State of Florida will be Governor Albert W. Gilchrist, Senators James P. Tallaferro and Duncan U. Fletcher, and Representatives Sparkman, Clark and Hays.

SCARLET FEVER BY MAIL.

Suggested Cases in Rutgers Came From Wellesley.

New Brunswick, May 12.—Two cases of scarlet fever have developed among the student body at Rutgers College.

S. Max Nelson, of Highland Park, son of Professor Julius Nelson, of the faculty, and J. Archer Stackhouse, of Bridgeton, are the victims. Nelson's case is light.

Harold A. Russell, of Caldwell, and Walter M. Peacock, of Bridgeton, roommates of Stackhouse, have been sent to their homes.

It has been suggested that the disease might have been carried here by mail from Wellesley College or from the women's college at Macon, Ga., where cases have developed.

BROKEN LEG AMPUTATED.

Red Bank, May 12.—John C. Crawford, a butcher, of Tinton Falls, was driving near here Tuesday when the neck yoke broke. The horses started at top speed and when the tongue dropped to the ground it acted as a stop. The wagon was overturned and partially demolished. The horses freed themselves from the wagon and ran away. When the wagon went over Mr. Crawford was unable to free himself and was pinned under the wreckage.

He was found by his brother about an hour after the accident and was moved to the Long Branch Hospital. There it was found that the right leg was broken in two places, and it was necessary to amputate it.

Caution.

The chauffaire, shifting on the seat so he can catch a glimpse of his employer: "Shall I drop her to the earth, sir?"

The owner of the flyer: "Not yet, Michael. Our seismograph indicates a violent earthquake somewhere below, and we can't afford to take any chances."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Needed Another Femur.

Excited Naturalist—Are you aware, my dear sir, that this gatepost of yours is the femur of an ornithoscelida?

Farmer (apologetically)—I always thought it was sometnin' odd like. It don't match the other post nohow!—Punch.

Poor Man's Gingerbread.

Beat one egg, one cupful of sour cream, one cupful New Orleans molasses, one teaspoonful of ginger, one of salt and one of soda. Mix well together; add one and three-fourths cupfuls of flour; beat well. Bake in a shallow tin and frost.

Better Not Know.

"The man who has to wear glasses to see well," remarked the Observer of Events and Things, "will enjoy his current cake better, perhaps, if he doesn't wear the glasses when eating the cake."

The Observant Manager.

"I think a few bargain matinees might go well."

"At what prices?"

"Oh, forty-nine cents ought to make an attractive figure."

Something Like It.

Redd—I see you've lost a front tooth. Did you take gas?

Greene—It's was knocked out by an automobile. By the way, I did get a whiff of the gasoline.

"I hear that Yorick Hamm has quit society drama for vaudeville."

"Yes, and he's having a hard time trying to shape a bunch of epigrams into a monologue."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 15, 1910.

Topic.—Christ's "verilies."—John vi, 26, 32, 47, 53. Comment by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The word "verily" has been defined by high authority as "a formula of asseveration or corroboration." The Hebrew word for it is simply "amen," the English being a transliteration of the Hebrew letters. The definition above refers to its uses, but the word "amen" in itself simply means 'true," or, as generally understood, "be it so" or "let it be so." The word was used in two senses—first, to add impressiveness to a doctrine and, second, as a liturgical response to the prayers in the synagogues, which custom still prevails in some Christian churches. But "amen" and "verily" are the same words, though in its use for emphasis or impressiveness it is translated "verily," and as a liturgical response in prayer it consists simply of the words transliterated. It is unfortunate that the same word is not used on all occasions and preferably the translation "verily" rather than the mere transliteration "amen." There is one peculiarity of John's gospel as distinguished from the others, and that is that he repeats the verily, using "verily, verily," while the others use the word but once—"verily." John, being so intensely attached to Christ, may have "seen" the double emphasis that was not expressed and manifested it by two "verilies." In Christ's use of it as a preface it was for the purpose of emphasis and impressiveness.

In the verses selected from the sixth chapter of John we have four illustrations of Christ's "verilies." In each case the words is repeated—"Verily, verily, I say unto you." This use of it was to emphasize that what He was to say was true, and we can well, therefore, study the principles or truths uttered with this double emphasis before them. The occasion upon which He uttered them was the feeding of the 5,000, or rather the result following that supreme miracle. The people still crowded about Him the next day, and their presence called forth the discourse in which these various "verilies" are found.

The first "verilies" prefaced the declaration that they sought Him for a false reason and, of course, would not be profited by it. "Verily, verily, I say unto you, ye seek Me not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat the loaves and were filled." They had not become His true disciples, recognizing in Him the Messiah because of His miracle, but only for their personal gain. He had fed them, and they supposed that He would continue to do so by the use of His miraculous power. But they were sadly mistaken and have many successors today. Many still seek Christ for the "loaves and fishes." They look upon Christianity as a means of personal gain It is not spiritual life that they want, but the body to be fed or through the church to obtain some temporal benefit which they desire. But, alas, such professing Christians will some day find their mistake. The church will not always be a cloak to a scoundrel, nor should it be criticised, but congratulated, when one such has shown his true colors. In the second "verilies" Christ sets forth His superiority as the bread of life. The manna was given by God and not my Moses, and He Himself was the true bread of heaven. The meaning is spiritual, of course. As bread is necessary to the physical life, so Christ is necessary to the spiritual life. Further on He emphasizes the same truths practically by the declarations that "He that believeth on me hath everlasting life" and "Except ye eat of the flesh of the Son of Man and drink of His blood (partake of the benefits of His broken body and shed blood on Calvary) ye have no life in you." These facts are true, and we as well as Christ should emphasize them.

Letter From Endeavorers In India.

The following unique letter recently came to the United Society of Christian Endeavor headquarters from India:

To Our Dear Friends In the Lord Who Dwell In America:

Please accept from this society in Mahoba, India, our namaskar (that is, we bow to greet you), and we send you our prem (love). We have in our society ninety members. In this we include both senior and junior members. We have six officers, as in your societies. We have also the committees, and they do their duties well. In this way we endeavor to extend the kingdom of our Lord into the dark places of our India.

The people of this land are great worshipers of idols, and in different ways they believe a lie. They have faith in various religions and make the earth, trees, rivers, stones, mountains, sun and moon and other created objects and creatures their gods.

In this small town of Mahoba there are some beautiful little lakes. On the banks of one lake, Kriat, are our mission buildings, in the chapel of which we meet each Thursday evening. Many of our members were baptized in this lake, and from it we have arisen to walk in newness of life.

The reason of our writing is this—that we, together with you, may proclaim the love of Christ. We thank you that we, through the Christian love and kindness of you, know the true religion and how to be followers of Jesus and have faith in Him. And now please pray for us, that we may grow in spiritual wisdom, so that the work of the Lord may with great power be made known, that others may come to have faith in this same Jesus. We also pray that some of you may come to work with us in the dark places of our land.

Finally to all our friends we say salaam (peace).

From the corresponding secretary of the Christian Endeavor society, Mahoba, India. BISHAL.

I turned and gazed back through the rear window of the carriage. True, there was another vehicle following us. We were by this time nearly at the end of Washington's limited pavements. It would be simple after that. I leaned out and gave our driver some brief orders. We led our chase across the valley creeks on up the Georgetown hills, and soon as possible abandoned the last of the pavement and took to the turf, where the sound of our wheels was dulled. Rapidly as we could we passed on up the hill, our going, which was all of earth or soft turf, now well wetted by the rain. When at last we reached a point near the summit of the hill I stopped to listen. Hearing nothing, I told the driver to pull down the hill by the side street, and to drive slowly. When we finally came into our main street again at the foot of the Georgetown hills, not far from the little creek which divided that settlement from the main city, I could hear nowhere any sound of our pursuer.

"Madam," said, turning to her, "I think we may safely say we are alone. What, now, is your wish?"

"Home!" she said.

"And where is home?"

She looked at me keenly for a time, as though to read some thought which perhaps she saw suggested either in the tone of my voice or in some glimpse she might have caught of my features as light afforded. For the moment she made no answer.

"Is it here?" suddenly I asked her, presenting to her inspection the sealed missive which I bore.

"I cannot see; it is quite dark," she said hurriedly.

"Pardon me, then—" I fumbled for my case of lucifers, and made a faint light by which she might read. She pursed her lips and shook her head.

"I do not recognize the address," said she, smiling, as she turned toward me.

"Is it at this door on M street, as you go beyond this other street?" I asked her. "Come—think!"

Then I thought I saw the flush deepen on her face, even as the match flickered and failed.

I leaned out of the door and called to the negro driver. "Home, now, boy—and drive fast!"

She made no protest.

CHAPTER V.

One of the Women in the Case.

There is a woman at the beginning of all great things.—Lamartine.

A quarter of an hour later, we slowed down on a rough brick pavement, which led toward what then was an outlying portion of the town—one not precisely shabby, but by no means fashionable. There was a single lamp stationed at the mouth of the narrow little street. As we advanced, I could see outlined upon our right, just beyond a narrow pavement of brick, a low and not more than semi-respectable house, or rather, row of houses; tenements for the middle class or poor, I might have said. The neighborhood, I knew from my acquaintance with the city, was respectable enough, yet it was remote, and occupied by none of any station. Certainly it was not to be considered fit residence for a woman such as this who sat beside me. I admit I was puzzled.

"This will do," she said softly, at length. The driver already had pulled up.

So, then, I thought, she had been here before. But why? Could this indeed be her residence? Was this indeed the covert embassy of England?

There was no escape from the situation as it lay before me. I had no time to ponder. My duty was here. This was my message; here was she for whom it was intended; and this was the place which I was to have sought alone. I needed only to remember that my business was not with Helena von Ritz the woman, beautiful, fascinating, perhaps dangerous as they said of her, but with the Baroness von Ritz, in the belief of my chief the ally and something more than ally of Pakenham, in charge of England's fortunes on this continent.

I descended at the edge of the narrow pavement, and was about to hand her out at the step, but as I glanced down I saw that the rain had left a puddle of mud between the carriage and the walk.

"Pardon, madam," I said; "allow me to make a light for you—the footing is bad."

I lighted another lucifer, just as she hesitated at the step. She made as though to put out her right foot, and withdrew it. Again she shifted, and extended her left foot. I faintly saw proof that nature had carried out her scheme of symmetry, and had not allowed wrist and arm to forswear themselves. I saw also that this foot was clad in the daintiest of white slippers, suitable enough as part of her ball costume, as I doubted not was this she wore. She took my hand without hesitation, and rested her weight upon the step—an adorable ankle now more frankly revealed. The briefness of the lucifers was merciful or merciless, as you like.

"A wide step, madam; be careful," I suggested. But still she hesitated.

A laugh, half of annoyance, half of amusement, broke from her lips. As the light flickered down, she made as though to take the step; then, as luck would have it, a bit of her loose drapery, which was made in the wide-skirted and much-hooped fashion of the time, caught at the hinge of the carriage door. It was a chance glance, and not intent on my part, but I saw that her other foot was stockinged, but not shod!

"I beg madam's pardon," I said gravely, looking aside, "but she has perhaps not noticed that her other slipper is lost in the carriage."

"Nonsense!" she said. "Allow me your hand across to the walk, please. It is lost, yes."

"But lost—where?" I began.

"In the other carriage!" she exclaimed, and laughed freely.

Half hopping, she was across the walk, through the narrow gate, and up at the door before I could either offer an arm or ask for an explanation. Some whim, however, seized her; some feeling that in fairness she ought to tell me now part at least of the reason for her summoning me to her aid.

"Sir," she said, even as her hand reached up to the door knocker; "I admit you have acted as a gentleman should. I do not know what your message may be, but I doubt not it is meant for me. Since you have this much claim on my hospitality, even at this hour, I think I must ask you to step within. There may be some answer needed."

"Madam," said I, "there is an answer needed. I am to take back that answer. I know that this message is to the Baroness von Ritz. I guess it to be important; and I know you are the Baroness von Ritz."

"Well, then," said she, pulling about her half-clad shoulders the light wrap she wore; "let me be as free with you. If I have missed one shoe, I have not lost it wholly. I lost the slipper in a way not quite planned on the program. It hurt my foot. I sought to adjust it behind a curtain. My gentleman of Mexico was in wine. I fled, leaving my escort, and he followed. I called to you. You know the rest. I am glad you are less in wine, and are more a gentleman."

"I do not yet know my answer, madam."

"Come!" she said; and at once knocked upon the door.

I shall not soon forget the surprise which awaited me when at last the door swung open suddenly at the hand of a wrinkled and brown old serving woman—not one of our colored women, but of some dark foreign race. The faintest trace of surprise showed on the old woman's face, but she stepped back and swung the door wide, standing submissively, waiting for orders.

We stood now facing what ought to have been a narrow and dingy little room in a low row of dingy buildings, each of two stories and so shallow in extent as perhaps not to offer space to more than a half dozen rooms. Instead of what should have been, however, there was a wide hall—wide as each building would have been from front to back, but longer than a half dozen of them would have been! I did not know then, what I learned later, that the partitions throughout this entire row had been removed, the material serving to fill up one of the houses at the farthest extremity of the row. There was thus offered a long and narrow room, or series of rooms, which now I saw beyond possibility of doubt constituted the residence of this strange woman whom chance had sent me to address; and whom still stranger chance had thrown in contact with me even before my errand was begun!

She stood looking at me, a smile flitting over her features, her stockinged foot extended, toe down, serving to balance her on her high-heeled single shoe.

"Pardon, sir," she said, hesitating, as she held the sealed epistle in her hand. "You know me—perhaps you follow me—I do not know. Tell me, are you a spy of that man Pakenham?"

Her words and her tone startled me. I had supposed her bound to Sir Richard by ties of a certain sort. Her bluntness and independence puzzled me as much as her splendid beauty enraptured me. I tried to forget both.

"Madam, I am spy of no man, unless I am such at order of my chief, John Calhoun of the United States senate—perhaps, if madam pleases, soon of Mr. Tyler's cabinet."

In answer, she turned, hobbled to a tiny marquetry table, and tossed the note down upon it, unopened. I waited patiently, looking about me meantime. I discovered that the windows were barred with narrow slats of iron within, although covered with heavy draperies of amber silk. There was a double sheet of iron covering the door by which we had entered.

"Your cage, madam?" I inquired. "I do not blame England for making it so secret and strong! If so lovely a prisoner were mine, I should double the bars."

The swift answer to my presumption came in the flush of her cheek and her bitten lip. She caught up the key from the table, and half motioned me to the door. But now I smiled in turn, and pointed to the unopened note on the table. "You will pardon me, madam," I went on, "Surely it is no disgrace to represent either England or America. They are not at war. Why should we be?" We gazed steadily at each other.

The old servant had disappeared when at length her mistress chose to pick up my unregarded document. Deliberately she broke the seal and read. An instant later, her anger gone, she was laughing gaily.

"See" said she, bubbling over with her mirth; "I pick up a stranger, who should say good-by at my curb; my apartments are forced; and this is what this stranger asks: that I shall go with him, to-night, alone, and otherwise unattended, to see a man, perhaps high in your government, but a stranger to me, at his own rooms—alone! Oh, la! la! Surely these Americans hold me high!"

"Assuredly we do, madam," I answered. "Will it please you to go in your own carriage, or shall I return with one for you?"

She put her hands behind her back, holding in them the opened message from my chief. "I am tired. I am bored. Your impudence amuses me; and your errand is not your fault. Come, sit down. You have been good to me. Before you go, I shall have some refreshments brought for you."

I felt a sudden call upon my resources as I found myself in this singular situation. Here, indeed, more easily reached than I had dared hope, was the woman in the case. But only half of my errand, the easier half, was done.

CHAPTER VI.

The Boudoir of the Baroness.

A woman's counsel brought us first to woe.—Dryden.

"Wait!" she said. "We shall have candles." She clapped her hands sharply, and again there entered the silent old serving woman, who, obedient to a gesture, proceeded to light additional candles in the prism stands and sconces. The apartment was now distinct in all its details under this additional flood of light. Decently as I might I looked about. I was forced to stifle the exclamation of surprise which rose to my lips.

Here certainly was European luxury transferred to our shores. This in simple Washington, with its vast white unfinished capitol, its piecemeal miles of mixed residences, and hovels! I fancied stern Andrew Jackson or plain John Calhoun here!

The furniture I discovered to be exquisite in detail, of rosewood and mahogany, with many brass chasings and carvings, after the fashion of the empire, and here and there florid ornamentation following that of the court of the earlier Louis. Fanciful little clocks with carved scrolls stood about. Here and there a divan and couch showed elaborate care in comfort. Beyond a lace-screened grille I saw an alcove—doubtless cut through the original partition wall between two of these humble houses—and within this stood a high tester bed, its heavy mahogany posts beautifully carved, the couch itself piled deep with foundations of I know not what of down and spread most daintily with a coverlid of amber satin, whose edges fringed out almost to the floor. At the other extremity, screened off as in a distinct apartment, there stood a small couch, a Napoleon bed, with carved ends, furnished more simply, but with equal richness.

One resented the liberties England took in establishing this manner of menage in our simple city, and arrogantly taking for granted our ignorance regarding it; but none the less one was forced to commend the thoroughness shown. My first impression was that of surprise; my second, as I have said, a feeling of resentment at the presumption which installed all this in our capital of Washington.

I presume my thought may have been reflected in some manner in my face. I heard a gentle laugh, and turned about. She sat there in a great carved chair, smiling, her white arms stretched out on the rails, the fingers just gently curving.

She had thrown back over the rail of the chair the rich cloak which covered her in the carriage, and sat now in the full light, in the splendor of satin and lace and gems, her arms bare, her throat and shoulders white and bare, her figure recognized graciously by every line of a superb gowning such as we had not yet learned on this side of the sea.

She did not speak at first, but sat and smiled, studying, I presume, to find what stuff I was made of.

"Be seated, pray," she said at last. "Let us talk over this matter."

Obedient to her gesture, I dropped into a chair opposite to her, she herself not varying her posture and still regarding me with the laugh in her half-closed eyes.

"What do you think of my little place?" she asked finally.

"Two things, madam," said I, half sternly. "If it belonged to a man, and to a minister plenipotentiary, I should not approve it. If it belonged to a lady of means and a desire to see the lands of this little world, I should approve it very much."

She looked at me with eyes slightly narrowed, but no trace of perturbation crossed her face. I saw it was no ordinary woman with whom we had to do.

"But," I went on, "in any case and at all events, I should say that the bird confined in such a cage, where secrecy is so imperative, would at times find weariness—would, in fact, wish to escape to other employment. You, madam"—I looked at her directly—"are a woman of so much intellect that you could not be content merely to live."

"No," she said, "I would not be content merely to live."

"Precisely. Therefore, since to make life worth the living there must be occasionally a trifle of spice, a bit of adventure, either for man or woman, I suggest to you, as something offering amusement, this little journey with me to-night to meet my chief. You have his message. I am his messenger, and, believe me, quite at your service in any way you may suggest. Let us be frank. If you are agent, so am I. See; I have come into your camp. Dare you not come into ours? Come; it is an adventure to see a tall, thin old man in a dressing gown and a red woolen nightcap. So you will find my chief; and in apartments much different from these."

She took up the missive with its broken seal. "So your chief, as you call him, asks me to come to him, at midnight, with you, a stranger?"

"Precisely. Could you go to the office of a United States senator and possible cabinet minister in broad daylight and the fact not be known? Could he come to your apartments in broad daylight and that fact not be known? What would that man Pakenham suspect in either case? Believe me, my master is wise. Great necessity sets aside conventions, sets aside everything. Come, then!"

But still she only sat and smiled at me. I felt that purple and amber glow, the emanation of her personality, of her senses, creeping around me again as she leaned forward, finally, her parted red-bowed lips disclosing her delicate white teeth. I saw the little heave of her bosom, whether in laughter or emotion I could not tell. I was young. Resenting the spell which I felt coming upon me, all I could do was to reiterate my demand for haste. She was not in the least impressed by this.

"Come!" she said. "I am pleased with these Americans. Yes, I am not displeased with this little adventure."

I rose impatiently, and walked apart in the room. "You cannot evade me, madam, so easily as you did the Mexican gentleman who followed you. You have him in the net also? Is not the net full enough?"

"Never!" she said, her head swaying slowly from side to side, her face inscrutable. "Am I not a woman? Ah, am I not?"

"Madam," said I, whirling upon her, "let me, at least, alone. I am too small game for you. I am but a messenger. Time passes. Let us arrive at our business."

"What would you do if I refused to go with you?" she asked, still smiling at me. But I saw that her attitude toward me held no more than that of a bird of prey and some little creature well within its power. It made me angry to be so rated.

"You ask me what I should do?" I retorted savagely. "I shall tell you first what I will do if you continue your refusal. I will take you with me, and so keep my engagement with my chief. Keep away from the bell rope! Remain silent! Do not move! You should go if I had to carry you there in a sack—because that is my errand!"

"Oh, listen at him threaten!" she laughed still. "And he despises my poor little castle here in the side street, where half the time I am so lonely! What would monsieur do if monsieur were in my place—and if I were in monsieur's place? But, bah! you would not have me following you in the first hour we met, boy!"

I flushed again hotly at this last word. "Madam may discontinue the thought of my boyhood; I am older than she. But if you ask me what I would do with a woman if I followed her, or if she followed me, then I will tell you. If I owned this place and all in it, I would tear down every picture from these walls, every silken cover from yonder couches! I would rip out these walls and put back the ones that once were here! A house of logs far out in the countries that I know would do for you, madam!" I went on hotly. "You should forget the touch of silk and lace. No neighbor you should know until I was willing. Any man who followed you should meet me!"

"Excellent! What then?"

"Then, madam the baroness, I would in turn build you a palace, one of logs, and would make you a most excellent couch of the husks of corn. You should cook at my fireplace, and for me!"

She smiled slowly past me, at me. "Pray be seated," she said. "You interest me."

"It is late," I reiterated. "Come! Must I do some of these things—force you into obedience—carry you away in a sack? My master cannot wait."

She smiled, lazily extending her flawless arms and looking down at them, at all of her splendid figure, as though in interested examination. "I am alone so much—so bored!" she went on. "And Sir Richard Pakenham is so very, very fat. Ah, God! You cannot guess how fat he is. But you, you are not fat." She looked me over critically, to my great uneasiness.

We WANT COMPETITION of the Right Sort, Not the Following Kind!

A Mrs. S— after selecting her outfit and learning the total cost from our plainly marked price tags, said she preferred to make comparisons elsewhere before ordering, to which we readily agreed, for it's a thing we always URGE!

On getting another store's prices (where they were marked in private signs) she found ours were far less, and SAID so. The salesman promptly dropped to our figures—AND GOT THE ORDER.

Here, where there's but ONE PLAINLY MARKED PRICE ON EVERY ITEM, such an "accommodating" and sudden price drop would be impossible—here, when you read the price tag, you KNOW it's already at lowest point, for ALL prices are made and REMAIN on the SAME UNIFORMLY SMALL PROFIT BASIS. We don't HAVE to run a "leader" here and there for an hour, or a day, to catch trade, as ALL lines are equally good values EVERY day in the year!

All we want is HONEST competition that meet OUR plainly marked prices WITH prices you can READ!

ELM TREE BEETLES.

To the Citizens of the City of Plainfield having Elm Trees on their private property.

Last year the attack on the Elm Trees by the Elm Leaf Beetle was severe throughout the City. The trees on the streets and on private property that were sprayed had their foliage preserved; while most of those on private property that were neglected were defoliated. According to the State Entomologist, the indications are that the ravages of the insect this year will be more serious than during the last.

The Shade Tree Commission is making extensive preparations to spray all the Elm Trees on the streets. To destroy the pest most thoroughly, it is important that the citizens give attention to elm trees on their grounds which are outside of the jurisdiction of the Commision.

The winter of the Elm Leaf Beetle is passed in the adult condition, the beetles taking shelter in attics, sheds, barns and other places of a similar nature. They emerge from their hibernating quarters as soon as the foliage of the elm develops in the spring, take to the leaves and eat holes through them. During the latter part of May and early June, eggs are deposited by the beetles on the under side of the leaves, from which caterpillars hatch. These feed on the layer of cells on the under side of the leaves, giving the foliage a skeletonized appearance.

Beginning during the last days of June and continuing until the middle of July, the full grown larvae, which are less than half an inch long, crawl down the trunk and change to yellow pupae at the base of the trees and on the ground near it. Adults develop about a week after the formation of the pupae, and in the latter part of July the summer brood of beetles is abundant. These fly to the leaves again, feed on them, deposit eggs, and the life cycle of the insect is repeated.

When the full grown larvae crawl down the trunks to pupate, great numbers of them collect in the crevices of the bark at the bases of the elms and on the ground near the trees. At that time every owner of a tree can do his part to destroy the pest by sweeping up the caterpillars as they come down, and kill them by pouring hot water over them.

The only known effective way to control the Elm Leaf Beetle is by spraying the foliage with Arsenate of Lead, and the Commission is preparing to spray all the elms on the sidewalks. If requested, trees on private property will also be treated while the general spraying of trees on the sidewalks is in progress, and the charge for this work will be as follows:

Trees 8 inches and less in diameter..$0.75
Tree 8 to 12 inches in diameter..... 1.25
Trees 12 to 18 inches in diameter... 2.00
Larger trees, special prices.
Measurements made 4 feet above the ground.

BOUND BROOK TEAM IS GIVEN SHAKEUP.

Manager Charles Newhouse, of the Bound Brook baseball team, has announced that in the lineup for Saturday, when Scotch Plains will be the opposers, there will be two new faces. That is, they will be new in the Bound Brook lineup, but not new to the fans. They are George Ortleb, pitcher, and Washburn, second base. They were both seen two weeks ago, when Bound Brook played Elizabeth, only in that game Washburn played third base. His regular position is at shortstop, but he is good any place in the infield.

In the first part of last year he played with Plainfield, leaving when the Elizabeth team was organized, as that is his home. Ortleb lives in Westfield, and, like Washburn, was for awhile with the Clinton avenue team. Both of them have played in all towns along the Central Railroad, and their acquisition will strengthen the Bound Brook team considerably.

MRS. JAMES J. BOSS OF TRAINING CAMP

Rumor has it that Mrs. James J. Jeffries, who is the real boss in the Jeffries camp, is going to make a cleaning of the training staff and get some younger men to work with the champion, writes E. W. Cochrane of the Kansas City Journal. This is the wisest thing thought of since the big white man started working. Mrs. Jeffries returned to the camp the other day and was apparently dissatisfied with the way the big fellow is being trained.

She seems to think that he will do better with a lot of young fellows to box with than a gang of "has beens" who know something about training, but cannot give Jeffries the rough work he needs to get into shape to fight a long battle with Johnson.

Mrs. Jeffries is right. Farmer Burns should be retained because he is a fine trainer, can wrestle some with Jeffries and knows just how to get the big fellow in condition. But one is enough of the old boys. Joe Choynski and Jim Corbett cannot do Jeffries a particle of good because they cannot stand the boxing.

Choynski is in the camp now trying to box with Jeff, but made a very poor stab at it the first trial. Corbett will not join the staff of trainers until it is too late for him to do harm or good. Bob Armstrong can be retained as a rubber, and he is good for that. He can also box some. The big negro is not all in.

Frank Gotch has informed the champion that he will not be able to join the staff until the first of June. This is because Frank has signed to meet Zbyszko for a purse of $25,000 in Chicago the latter part of this month. He does not want to lose the big purse he will grab for dumping the Pole. If he could join Jeffries now, and Jeff has urged him to do so, he would do the champion a lot of good.

Gotch is a big, young fellow, as powerful as they make them in the wrestling game, and he can stand all the roughing Jeffries can give him. He cannot box, but he can pull and tug with Jeffries on the mat, which will give the big fellow a class of conditioning he needs to get his wind and stomach in the best of shape.

What a great staff it would be for Jeffries to have Billy Delaney as chief trainer, Frank Gotch for the wrestling stunt and about six big young fellows like Jim Barry and Al Kaufman to box with. Barry and Kaufman are not great heavyweights but they are good enough to give Jeffries the kind of boxing he needs to get into shape. If Mrs. Jeffries would hire such a staff she would be doing the best thing for Jeff if she wants him to win. It takes a good condition fighter to beat Johnson.

BASEBALL.

Walter Blair, the former Newark catcher, who now sports a Rochester uniform, seems to delight in hitting the ball when playing against Newark. Blair had little success after leaving newark until yesterday, when he secured a single, double and triple out of four trips to the plate.

Elmer Steele is doing great work for the Providence Grays and is easily the best boxman Jimmy Collins has on his staff.

The Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland Blues battled to a twelve-inning tie Tuesday in the Quaker City.

Pitcher Troy, the tall twirler taken South by the Philadelphia Nationals in the spring, joined the Johnstown club, of the Tri-State League, yesterday. Pitcher Gus Salve has been sold to the Richmond team, of the Virginia League. Catcher Jack Bradley, last year with Newcastle, reported to Johnstown yesterday, but did not accompany the team on the trip away from home.

Pat Moran, veteran catcher of the Chicago Nationals, who did much of the work for Chicago behind the bat last year, was sold to the Philadelphia Nationals yesterday. The price is said to be $4,000.

"King" Cole, the Chicago National League pitcher, and Miss Ada Seder, of Bay City, Mich., were married at the home of the bride's parents last night. The wedding was the culmination of a romance which began when Cole was pitching for the Bay City team last year.

Clyde Engle, an outfielder, was purchased from the New York American League team yesterday by President John A. Taylor of the Boston American club. Engle played third base and in the outfield for Newark two seasons ago.

Grant, Magee and Bransfield, of the Philadelphia Nationals, worked a triple steal in Cincinnati yesterday. The play came in the first inning, and Grant tallied.

Walter Blair, the Hustlers' catcher, earned $50 by banging out a double Tuesday in Rochester. The ball hit an advertising sign and the catcher will collect this amount of money for the wallop.

Bob Holmes is working out every day at the local park and expects to be in shape to work against Buffalo in Newark on Sunday. The big left hander finds his speed coming back and is anxious to get back in the game.

Moore and McQuillen, pitchers of the Philadelphia National League team, were suspended and sent home by the joint orders of President Horace Fogel and Charles Dooin, the manager, at Cincinnati yesterday for failing, it is said, to keep in condition and to observe club rules.

Five Back at the Park Club.

J. L. Watson won the championship of the Park Club in the five back tournament which closed Thursday. Play began last October and continued every Thursday during the winter. The keen rivalry among the players has resulted in two matches. One between Myrtle avenue and Washington avenue players will be rolled tomorrow night and on next Thursday night the All-Plainfield team will play the winners of tomorrow's contest. The admirers of the teams will be out in full force to applaud the good work of their favorites.

Alumni Teams to Play.

A game is being arranged between the alumni teams of the P. H. S. and N. P. H. S. schools. A date for the contest has not been fixed. C. J. Hand is trying out the N. P. H. S. "grads" and S. S. Bogart is handling the P. H. S. aggregation.

TOWNSHIP CLUB FORMED

North Plainfield Twp. Improvement Society Has Big Men as Members.

W. DE LA R. ANDERSON HEAD.

Rev. Dr. Eaton, Louis K. Hyde and Dr. Moldenke Among Members —Women Are Enrolled —President's Speech.

With a membership of one hundred, The Improvement Society of North Plainfield township was formally organized at Watchung last night. A constitution and by-laws were unanimously adopted and officers were elected. One of the features of the new organization is that women are eligible for membership.

It was the unanimous understanding among the promoters and members of the new society that the organization will be non-partisan in politics and the chief aims and objects of the society will be to promote civil pride, the progress and welfare of the township, and the best interests of its citizens by social gatherings for the interchange of ideas and suggestions for improvements. The officers elect follow:

In accepting the presidency, Mr Anderson said:

"I want to thank you all for the honor you have conferred on me in electing me as the first president of this society and congratulate you for your election of such a representative and capable body of citizens as officers and managers of this society. I wish to assure you that I will give my best efforts to the society in advancing its purposes as set forth in the constitution. I will always be open for suggestions at any time either at my home or at my office in the Babcock building and I hope you will help me and the society by letting me or the proper committees know the good ideas that may come to your minds from time to time. The things that to my mind are the most important to start on are:

"First. That a committee wait on the proper authorities with a request for the immediate improvement of Somerset street and to see if Watchung avenue cannot be immediately pushed through to the borough line.

"Second. That a committee take up the matter of widening, grading and improving the road between Watchung and end of trolley, and to see if some way is not possible to induce the Public Service Corporation to extend trolley and gas to Watchung at the same time.

"Third. That a committee be formed to consider ways and means for town-hall and fire department.

"Fourth A committee to watch the condition of roads and try and stop dropping of loose stone on roads.

"Fifth. Form entertainment committee.

"Sixth. Form committee in nature of police force with idea of preventing unlawful acts and enforcing law and order.

"These, to my mind, are the most important subjects.

"I am confident that this society will develop into a tremendous power for good to the township if we will all put our minds and hearts into the work and each one give up a little of his time for the common good.

The suggestions for committees made by Mr. Anderson were approved and in addition it was decided to name committees on electric light, taxation, and one on legal matters, and the president was empowered to appoint three members for each committee.

The president announced that he would appoint his committees in a few days.

New Market Court Cases.

There were two cases tried in Justice Rogers court yesterday. In the case of Monte Knight who charged Julius Dickudt with permitting the latter's chickens to trespass on the former's property, Justice Rogers decreed that Dickudt should pay five dollars and costs of court. In the case of Dr. Thomas J. Hogan, of Dunellen, vs. Albert C. Russell, on contract, a verdict of $14.91 and costs was awarded the plaintiff. Former Assemblyman R. P. V. von Minden was the attorney for the plaintiff in both suits.

"NO UNCARED FOR TUBERCULOSIS IN 1915" IS THE SLOGAN OF THOSE ENGAGED IN THE CAMPAIGN AGAINST THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE HERE

Plainfield's active Anti-Tuberculosis League made a splendid report through Miss Mabelle Phillips at the State convention held in the Library at Newark yesterday, where representatives from all parts of the State gathered to hear reports of the fight against the dread disease as it is being waged in different localities. Without a single exception the results, wherever the war is waged, have been eminently satisfactory and in Plainfield especially is this so. The local league is encouraged by the success of its efforts and they have adopted the slogan "No Uncared for Tuberculosis, in 1915."

Since the opening of the local pavilion in November, 1909, with a pavilion capable of caring for eight patients interest has been widespread throughout the city in the work. The cost of preliminary work in providing for and erecting the pavilion some $2,900, and after the nurses, cooks and other help was paid it was found that the cost of maintaining the pavilion was about $300 per month. In April, 1909, there was a membership of 67 and today there are 830 active members, made up of all classes. Among the contributions received were two of $30 each from two of the colored peoples' chapels. The total receipts for the year were $5,180.15, a large part of which was unsolicited, the Easter Mart of Grace church being responsible for $500.

One visiting nurse, Miss Mary Lahey, has been engaged actively and has visted forty-four patients, five incipient, 19 moderately advanced and 35 in a stage requiring sanitorium treatment, seven of which were reecived and cared for at the pavilion and all showing remarkable improvement. Delegates were sent to the National Convention at Washington, the State Convention at Trenton and to the Elizabeth Convention in March, all of whom brought home valuable information.

The local league memorialized the Plainfield Common Council in the interests of the proposed county sanitoria and also sent delegates to the township meeting at Cranford. In other words nothing has been left undone by the members and the executive committee and officers of the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis League to wage a fight against the great white plague bringing such results as were not dreamed possible four years ago when the fight began in earnest.

The present officers of the league are: Acting president, William H. Murray, who was first vice-president, the president, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, having resigned; second vice-president, William Dutcher; treasurer, James P. Murray; secretary, Dr. F. E. DuBois.

At the State convention at Newark yesterday, Dr. Dickinson, of Jersey City, presided and made the opening address giving details of the progress made during the past four years. The nominating committee reported the same list of officers for the coming year and they were all elected. Dr. W. H. Murray and Dr. B. VanD. Hedges were elected to the executive board, representing Plainfield. The treasurer's report showed that $8,289. had been received during the past year and that $7,561. had been expended. $5,000. was received from the sale of Red Cross stamps, $3,000. of which was sent to the National Anti-Tuberculosis Society.

Secretary William Smallwood in his report referred to the two principal gains made during the year. He referred to increased sanatoria and the ligeislation accomplished. In the latter particular mention was made of the passage of the bill appropriating $10,000. for the State Board of Health. The money for this has not been obtained, but it is hoped for during the coming year. The Smalley bill also was mentioned with applause.

In 1907, there was but one sanitorium in the State, that at Glen Gardner now there are pavilions and other sanitoria caring for patients in several places. In Hudson County they have beds for 130, and in Elizabeth 8 and Plainfield 8. The total number of beds provided throughout the State is 846. Newark is the best provided for in this respect. During the year 138,000 people have visited the tuberculosis exhibits and have listened to 125 lectures on the subject. 24 visiting unrses have been engaged in active work with the result that in Newark there has been a decrease in the numebr of deaths form tuberculosis of 180 and in Jersey City a decrease of 125. All departments of the work show increased interest and improvement all along the line.

While it is a fact that the progress made by the patients of the pavilion in this city is considerable, it is also a fact that the society which conducts it as well as hous to house work requires a greater interest to be shown by the public at large in the magnificent work which is being carried on. If instead of 830 subscribers to the support of the work 2,000 could be found who would voluntarily assume some small responsibility the benefit to be derived could scarcely be estimated.

Under the present conditions only a limited amount of work can be accomplished and the prevalence of the disease in certain parts of the city demands more drastic and effective methods. This can only be accomplished through united effort and persistent work. The society is encouraged to keep on because their efforts have been rewarded with success in the small number treated and while sanitation is being preached and cleanliness made a part of the work in homes there are so many details to effective protection and prevention against the great white plague that numbers of new members with their small or large contributions could be made the stepping stone to the greatest endeavor in the history of the fight.

MISS IDA M. HODGIN WEDS WM. H. HIBLER.

Miss Ida May Hodgin, of this city, and William H. Hibler, of Sunnyside, Hunterdon county, were married Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Mantz, 951 Union street, by the Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of the Temple Baptist church. There were no attendants. The ceremony was witnessed by a few intimate friends.

The bride is a graduate of Guilford College, North Carolina, and is a trained nurse. During the past six years she has followed her profession here. The groom is a well-to-do farmer at Sunnyside and is well-known throughout Hunterdon county. An informal reception followed the ceremony and refreshments were served. During the evening there was a program of vocal and instrumental music.

MEN'S ASSOCIATION HEARS ABOUT OREGON AND APPLES.

The lecture given to the Men's Association of the Church of the Heavenly Rest last night by J. R. Lynch, of New York, was such a brilliant array of facts concerning the apple industry in the State of Oregon, that it would not surprise the rector, Rev. Cortlandt H. Mallery, if the whole club should pull stakes and light out for the land of apples. The lecture was illustrated by the most alluring stereopticon slides and were well calculated to make the onlookers' mouths water. Mr. Lynch described the industry, which he characterized as one of the greatest in the Northwest, with great fidelity to nature and brought forth frequent applause for the beauty of the scenes.

About sixty members of the club were present and after the lecture they served some light refreshments and discussed plans for the summer festival which will be held on Saturday, June 25, at which time Professor Henderson will be the entertainer in the parish hall and there will be a lawn fete. There will be a baseball game in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dunham, of Regent street, are the parents of a girl born yesterday.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPERS HAVE A SOCIABLE.

The camp delegation of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. met in a group for the first time last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sattels, in East Sixth street. This was the first of a series of social times that this group of boys will have before their departure for the State camp at Lake Wawayanda on the first of July.

Eleven of the sixteen Plainfield representatives who will be at camp were present last evening and enjoyed the hospitality of the Sattel home. The evening was spent in playing games, reviewing the camp sogns and making plans for the season. Joseph Sattells and Raymond Manley were appointed a committee to select some kind of a play or drama in which the boys can participate and give one evening of entertainment to the campers.

The evening was closed around the refreshment table. Mr. Sattels related a few exciting and interesting tales which he experienced in the Wawayanda regions twenty years ago.

LARGE FUNERAL FOR ALPHEUS L. MUNDY.

The funeral service of the late Alpheus Mundy, was conducted at his late residence, 92 Carroll place, in New Brunswick, yesterday afternoon. The service was largely attended, several friends and relatives of the deceased from the city and borough being present.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. P. Theodore Pockman, pastor of the First Reformed church of New Brunswick, and a eulogy was delivered by the Rev. John Krantz, of Paterson, a personal friend of Mr. Mundy. The home of the dead man was thronged and the streets were lined with many people who waited for an opportunity to take a last look at one whom all esteemed.

Interment was made at the family plot at Bound Brook. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, among the tributes being a bouquet of roses, sent by the Middlesex County Board of Freeholders of which body of men the deceased was a former member.

The Middlesex County Board, at a meeting yesterday afternoon, adopted resolutions of respect for Mr Mundy as a previous member of the board.

SPECIAL ELECTION DATE

Borough to Vote on Bonds for Sewage Plant on Tuesday, June 14.

THE COST LIMIT IS $300,000.

North Plainfield Council Increases Pay of Policeman—Shade Tree Commissioners Appointed.

The Borough Council in a session that lasted about twenty minutes last night transacted considerable business which included the fixing of a date for the special sewer election. A resolution presented by Councilman Rogers named Tuesday, June 14, as the time when the voters will be given an opportunity to endorse or reject the proposition to construct a sewerage system at a cost not to exceed $300,000. Borough Clerk Frederick A. Martin was instructed to go ahead and make arrangements for the election. William J. Buttfield, chairman of the Sewer Commission, was at the meeting, but the resolution was passed without any discussion. It is understood, however, that numerous minor details connected with the matter were threshed out at an executive session of the Council which followed the business session.

Chairman Waldron, of the street committee, intimated that his department is getting in line for a number of minor improvements in sidewalk and street conditions. The Council unanimously voted to open Watchung avenue from Mountain avenue to Johnson's drive. This matter has been under consideration for several months and the expense involved in carrying out the improvement is estimated at about $200.

On the recommendation of Mr. Waldron, the street was also authorized to macadamize Regent street between Somerset street and Watchung avenue, and also Somerset place. Property owners on both of these thoroughfares will bear a share of the expense involved in the work. Mr. Waldron also reported that the petition from Harison avenue residents asking that the southwesterly portion of that thoroughfare be sidewalked will be acted on favorably.

Another matter of importance transacted was increasing the pay of police marshals five dollars a month. This will make the salary of the chief marshal at $80 and regular marshals $65 per month. These amounts include $60 appropriations every year for the purchase of uniforms.

Mayor N. B. Smalley appointed Charles Faber and Hughes Fawcett as members of the Shade Tree Commission and his action was unanimously confirmed.

Adolph Bohren was given a permit to erect a ten-room, and two story, combination and dwelling, on the plot situated on the corner of Stone street and Greenbrook road.

Goddard-Benjamin.

The marriage of Miss Gladys Terrance Benjamin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Park Benjamin, to Frederick Worth Goddard will take place on Saturday, June 4, at the home of the bride's parents, No. 270 West Seventh-third street, New York. Only immediate relatives have been invited to the ceremony, but it will be followed by a large reception. Miss Benjamin will be attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy Benjamin, and her flower girl will be little Miss Mary Elizabeth Goddard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Newton Goddard, and Miss Mary McCall, granddaughter of the late John A. McCall. Mr. Goddard will have Stuart Johnstone for his best man. Mr. Goddard is a sn of George H. Goddard, of East Ninth street, and has many friends in this city.

Building Improvement.

Stephen O. Staats, of West Second street, is planning extensive improvements to his residential property adjoining Trinity Reformed church. The front of the dwelling will be removed and a three-story structure placed there. It will contain two stores on the ground floor and apartments on the second, similar to the arrangement of the Laing building on the opposite side of the street. The addition will be brought out to the building line, conforming to Fred Ivamy's building, which also adjoins the property.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

When the Dunellen Council holds its special session on Monday night war will be renewed against the Equator Land Company. At a meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Trade a committee was appointed to appear before the Council and ascertain from Mayor Sanford and the Council why the petition of seventy-five signed taxpayers was ignored at the last Council meeting. The opponents of the Equator Land Company, it is understood, are armed with legal advice and are prepared to fight to the last ditch. Sentiment in the borough is practically united for the extension of Dunellen avenue to Gallaghers corner, through the former Sanford plot.

WOMAN WAS DRAWN FOR HUDSON COUNTY JURY.

Jersey City, May 13.—In selecting jurors from a panel list for trial of a case yesterday, Judge Carey was annoyed by the absence of five jurors summoned. He ordered that the five must appear Monday and explain why they ignored the court's orders.

Constable Convery, who had to perform the serving of the notices, went to 73 West Thirty-fourth street, Bayonne, yesterday to deliver a summons to C. M. Indies. When he had stated his errand the woman who came to the door responded: "Why, she's my sister."

The names of the jurors had been taken from a directory and the name "C. M. Indies" did not bear any prefix to indicate the sex of the person. That name will be eliminated from the jury list.

Jeweled Trimming.

It would be difficult to find anything more beautiful in the way of trimmings than the exquisite jeweled trimmings of this season. To begin with, the designs are most artistic and unsusual, and the blending of the colors positively superb. One may choose trimming as brilliant in all its barbarity as that said to have adorned the beauties of the East or passementerie in which the colors are so subdued and soft that it compares favorably with some famous works of art. It is not surprising, therefore, that even a small amount of such alluring enhancement can make of a gown a creation worthy of all our admiration.

CHILD SLAVERY FIGHT PUT UP TO D. OF R.

Atlantic City May 13.—Declaring that "a greater number of children die every year from being forced to labor in unwholesome factories than men killed in the defense of their country during the battles for the country's freedom," Rev. William F. Whitaker, of Elizabeth, pleaded with the delegates at the annual convention of the Daughter of Liberty yesterday to join in the fight for freeing children from toil slavery. The speaker insisted that the women of the country can do no greater service for posterity than to halt the sacrifice of children in the factories of the land, and leaders of the organization are preparing to plan a campaign against child labor.

Movement for the amalgamation of the Sons and Daughters of the Revolution and the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution, now separate organizations, was also advocated by Mr. Whitaker as the best possible manner of keeping alive the traditions of the great American battle for liberty. The matter will be referred to executive boards.

Baltimore was chosen as the next place of meeting after delegates from Maryland had invited the delegates to go as their guests to the formal unveiling of the memorial monument to sailors of the revolution to be erected in statuary hall at Annapolis next year.

Delegates to the convention will go to Philadelphia tomorrow to attend the dedication of the memorial door of Washington Memorial chapel, the gift of the Colonial Chapter and the memorial pew in the chapel, given by Liberty Bell Chapter.

Where the Power Comes From.

The water wagon's on its course
Yet is not drawn by any horse,
But something far more tony;
Somewhat gin-rickety it moves,
Amid big schooners full of booze
Drawn by a brandy pony.

EASIER TO HIT WHEN MEN ARE ON BASES

Ty Cobb is proud of his ability to hit the ball safely with men on bases and points with pride to the fact that he has driven in more runs than any member of the Detroit team since he joined the club. In speaking of this the other day the famous batsman said:

"I find it easier to hit the ball with the bases occupied. The pitcher is worried, the infielders are guessing, and when you do hit the ball the flying base runners rattle and disconcert the men who are trying to handle it.

"With men on base I generally lay for the first ball the pitcher hands over. It's dollars to dimes that if he can lay that first one straight over the pan he'll do it, and I soak quite a few of them. The majority of batsmen will pass up the first ball, no matter if it cuts the plate in half. But you'll never get this boy overlooking one of the kind. Nine times of ten I go to the plate prepared to tickle the first ball, if the pitcher lays it over.

"I never take a good, healthy swing at the ball any more. I like to do it, but you can't get anything in the big leagues swinging the willow. The spitball pitchers would make a dunce of you in short order, to say nothing of the boxmen who have mastered a good change of pace. They'll shoot one over that looks like a pea, then feed you a slow one that comes floating up as big as a balloon. But you are set for the fast one and break your back reaching for the slow ball.

"In the old days the great hitters were Dave Orr, Pete Browning, Dan Brouthers, Ed Delehanty and Pop Anson—big fellows, who swung on to a ball with the force of a triphammer. Bring 'em in one of the big rings today and the artists of modern baseball would make 'em look like jokes.

"You can't grab a wagon tongue down at the handle, reach back and swing halfway around for a curve pitcher. They'd make you look foolish and you wouldn't have enough batting average at the end of a month to get your name in the percentages.

"The great hitters of our time grab their batting sticks a foot or more from the handle and, instead of swinging, aim to meet the ball flush. It's just like the short-arm punch in the prize ring. The long swingers with their terrible haymakers seldom get the money nowadays. It's the Jeffries and Johnsons with their murderous short-arm punches to the body that invariably bring home the candy. Nothing suits me better than to take a good crack at the leather, but I can't afford to get out of my stride, so I stick to the sure system of just meeting the ball with a half-way grip on my warclub."

Lafayette College defeated the New York University baseball team at Easton Wednesday by the score of 5 to 0. De Mott, the Madison boy, who was in the box for the Eastonians, pitched a no-hit, no-run game and struck out twelve of the visitors. He also had a two-bagger and a three-sacker.

The New York Giants are being roasted on all side in New York as a result of the three straight defeats handed out to the Manhattan crowd by the Chicago Cubs, and if Manager McGraw's ears aren't about burned off there's nothing in the theory involving this idea. McGraw is being fanned by fans of high and low degree for his failure to pitch young Drucke at the start of a game instead of reserving him to finish out games already lost. Drucke has taken part in nearly half a dozen games this season and has not been scored against. He has shown himself possessed of a larger pitching stock than any man McGraw has, save Mathewson, the fans declare, and yet McGraw lets him trail in behind Marquard, Raymond and other of the older pitchers who have been wobbly all season.

"Rube" Waddell, greatest of all the southpaw pitchers, may never be seen in the box again. Examination yesterday showed that the elbow of the pitching arm was broken by the curve thrown by Cicotte with which he was hit in the Red Sox-St. Louis game Tuesday. At the best, Waddell was told yesterday that his arm will be in splints for a month.

The New Brighton A. C. of Staten Island, has organized a strong semi-professional team and would be pleased to hear from Plainfield, Elizabeth A. A., and teams of like strength, for Sunday games to be played on Staten Island. Address Jacob Leidy, Richmond Terrace, New Brighton, N. Y.

The Summit A. C., a fast first-class traveling team, would like to book games with some of the fast Elizabeth and Plainfield clubs, or teams in this vicinity. George L. Duffy, 15 Chapel street, Summit, is the manager.

JOE GANS OFF FOR LAST BIG BATTLE.

Baltimore, May 11.—Accompanied by his wife and armed with letters of introduction given to him by his conqueror, Battling Nelson, who owns a ranch in Arizona, Joe Gans, the foremost lightweight pugilist of his day, left his old home for Phoenix, Arizona, where he will go into training for his battle with the white plague, the dread malady of which Gans himself admits he is a sufferer.

Gans' leavetaking was marked by feeling incidents. Followed by the colored population, from the lowly crap-shooter to the coon dandy and turf plunger, Gans and his wife entered the railroad station. But of all the pictures there stood out one —Gans' old mother, who unwittingly became famous by coining the phrase and wiring to Gans just before his memorable battle at Goldfield:

"Joey, bring hum de bacon."

There was hardly a dry eye in the vast crowd, because Gans is universally liked.

Gans' last appearance in public was last night at the Gaiety Theatre, where he refereed an exhibition bout between Battling Nelson and his sparing partner. Gans was given a great ovation. The parting between Joe and the Battler was pathetic. Both were choked with emotion as they extolled each other's good qualities. Those skeptics who say that prize fighters have no hearts should have paid the price of admission. As Gans left the stage Nelson almost wept and was heard to remark:

"A good man has passed out of the game."

—Alfred Lacey has removed from 70 Franklin avenue to 73 Franklin avenue, the borough.

CAMPBELL POSTS NEW MARK IN TOURNEY

Johnny Campbell distinguished himself last night in the two-man tourney by marking up a total of 259, knocking out the former record score of 247. It was a big night for Campbell as he also registered scores of 229, 224, 236, bowling for average against "Doc" Herbert, who forfeited six games for non-appearance. The scores:

GOLF.

George Sargent, the national open champion, has been doing some great scoring in recent practice rounds at Chevy Chase. Not long since, in a match with the Columbia Golf Club, Sargent broke the course record, doing the Chevy Chase circuit in 69. The card contained no less than nine 3s. Starting with the eighth, he had four in a row. The eighth hole is 466 yards. Sargent, who is determined to be at his best when he defends his title at the Philadelphia Cricket Club in June, visits that course every Monday for a day's practice. His record round at Chevy Chase was as follows:

Out .....4 3 3 3 6 3 5 3 3—34
In .....3 3 5 5 3 5 3 4 4—35—69

In selecting the Morris county links for their semi-annual handicap tournament the University Club golfers are again departing from custom. Until last fall, when the tournament was tried at the Nassau Country Club, it had been held at St. Andrews for several years without interruption. The handicap at Morris county will be held on Wednesday, May 18, and consist of an all-day affair, conditions calling for thirty-six holes. The committee in charge consists of R. L. Harrison, chairman; B. B. Lawrence, A. Leo Everett, John Reid, Jr., A. B. Meachah and A. H. Lockett, secretary-treasurer.

TICKET DEMAND FOR YALE-PRINCETON GAME.

Princeton, May 13.—So large has been the demand for seats for the second Yale-Princeton baseball game here on June 11 that the undergraduate athletic executive and the graduate advisory committee on athletics have in consultation with the faculty committee on outdoor sports and the director of athletics determined to award seats according to a new plan. Members of the baseball squad will get six each, which will take 100 seats; the managers, assistant managers and captains of varsity teams, comprising the athletic executive committee, will get thirty seats in all; members of the board of trustees will receive fifty seats, members of the faculty committee on outdoor sports, sixteen seats and old players 100 seats. This allotment will take about 430 of the 1,300 seats on the grandstand and in addition to these the Yale delegation has been assigned 400 seats. After these come the members of the graduating class with an allowance of three seats each.

As the foregoing distribution disposes of over 800 seats, there will be less than 500 seats left for the seniors, who number 237. Many of the seniors will have to procure seats for their guests in the open stands. Here also graduate applicants will be assigned seats, but most of the graduates always prefer to join in the march around the field and sit with their classes in the big stand beyond right field. Special trains will be run to the game from New York and Philadelphia for the Yale game as well as for the first Harvard game which is to be played next Saturday here.

AMATEUR CIRCUS FOR ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS FUND

Not all the endeavors made for raising funds for the Anti-Tuberculosis League are confined to the grown people of this city. Not by any means. There is a group of youngsters, children of residents on West Seventh street, who have been practicing diligently for the past three weeks all kinds of stunts with which to amuse not only other children but the grownups as well. And nothing less than a circus and "Wild West" show will be the outcome.

Altogether there are nine boys and one little girl in the show which will be given tomorrow afternoon in a barn in the rear of the residence of J. H. Greene, Jr., 609 West Seventh street. The time selected is 3:30 o'clock and the stupendous, startling, soul-stirring acrobatic feats will only be a curtain raiser to the remarkable invasion of a band of Indians repulsed by "Buffalo Bill" (Charlie Greene) and the rescue of the maiden from the clutches of the redmen.

Besides the entertainment in the barn there will be on sale candy, cake and lemonade and the proceeds from the whole outfit will be turned over to the anti-tuberculosis league. The admission will be anything from a dime up and the boys and lone maiden are hopeful of realizing a goodly sum for the cause.

Among those taking part are: John and Henry Hammann, Putnam and Parker Newell, Charles Greene, Clarence Skiff, Duncan W. Taylor, Jr., Albert C. Penn, Jr., Carlton Moore and Miss Marion F. Greene.

Street Name Changed.

Property owners of Duer street, who are interested in the movement to change the name of that thoroughfare to North Madison avenue, will have their petition presented to the Borough Council at its next meeting. Walter Linbarger, who is circulating the petition, announced today that he has secured about twenty signers to the document and that the matter will be placed before the borough solons at the June session of that body.

An appeal is made by the Organized Charities for the sum of thirty dollars to help in relieving a family of seven, father, mother, and five children. Two of the children are ill with diphtheria and nothing but the best nursing will help to save them. The husband's income is not more than enough to supply food, rent and clothing for the family and the services of a nurse are absolutely necessary. It is believed by Miss Mabelle C. Phillips that $30 will cover the expense of pulling the family through their present trouble.

PAINTED SCENT PILLOWS.

The dearest little scent pillows are made for one of the exchanges where fancy articles are disposed of for thrifty workers. They are creamy white and a good quality of grossgrain silk. On the top of each is painted a wreath-like design of blue forget-me-note or pink anemones.

The pillow is four inches square, and its edge is a soft binding of inch-wide grossgrain ribbon, either blue or pink, according to the blossoms. It is mitred to fit at the corners, and is hemmed against the upper and the under sides with the tiniest hand stitches and sewing silk to match.

For the Housewife.

The bread pan should be washed out weekly, dried and thoroughly aired by keeping the lid a little way open. Thus the bread will never get a nasty musty taste, and to keep it from becoming too dry place a well-washed potato in the pan. Moisture is given off by the potato, but not enough to cause mildew. When making Swiss rolls, put two layers of newspaper at the bottom of the tin you intend using and cover it with a sheet of white kitchen paper. Don't grease the white paper, but brush the side next to the newspaper with water. The newspaper prevents the roll mixture from burning, and the moisture makes the paper come off quite easily.

Puffs as Trimmings.

Puffed material appears as trimming on many of the best models in varying fabrics and for different occasions. The puff is distinctively new as a tunic edge, and those of chiffon lend themselves exceptionally well to this decoration. White dresses of mull and batiste exploit the puff once more. It appears between rows of lace insertion, it edges the fichu and the chemisette and heads the lace flounce on the skirt. On the velvet collars of evening coats the puff four inches wide of the same material proves a rich finish in the absence of fur and is more readily put on than an equally effective quantity of embroidery.

BETWEEN SEASONS.

The Christmas tree is quite a prop
For jesting folks.
They pick from it a goodly crop
Of Yuletide jokes.

This harvest ends and there ensues
A long wait then.
Chill January brings the blues
To funny men.

Their melancholy days have come,
As you can see.
The next joke crop is gotten from
The cherry tree.

Washing Wool Skirts.

The wool skirt or children's dresses can be carefully washed in tepid water if naphtha soap is used. Heat ruins wool and naphtha soap can be used in tepid or even cold water. Wet the garment, rub all spots with the soap, roll together and leave for several hours. Wash and rinse in the usual manner. Rinse woolen articles in rain water or hydrant water slightly softened with ammonia or borax. Hang a skirt by the band or it will dry crooked. Dry, sprinkle and press on the wrong side when possible, if on the right side put a piece of muslin between the iron and garment.

A Handsome Towel.

An especially attractive finish to the hand-made towel is to make a hem two inches deep and hemstitch it double, marking off an oval space in the centre of the hem about four inches long and two inches deep. Have the centre of the oval on a line with the hemstitching. Hemstitch up the oval. Outline the oval in fine featherstitching, cutting away the double thickness so that within the oval there is just a single thickness. In the centre of the oval work an initial or monogram in solid embroidery.

MAY FLOWER SOCIAL AT VINCENT CHAPEL

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church, a May flower social, combined with a reception to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Anderson, was held in Vincent chapel last night. The affair was largely attended and a great social success. Those attending were expected to bring flowers or a potted plant and later in the evening these were sold, it being stipulated that not more than ten cents should be charged for a plant. In this way a considerable sum was realized.

The chapel was attractively decorated for the occasion and in the centre of the large room was a May pole, a number of children being engaged in winding it during the evening's entertainment.

The program opened with a piano selection by Miss Jubilee Rowley, followed with a song by the children, in which six girls, Ruth, Linn, Helen Lurey, Charlotte Carpenter, Gladys Sherwood, Constance Swackhamer and Hazel Snowden sang a May song, while Elizabeth Hicks was crowned queen of the May. Then followed the winding of the May pole, a chorus comprised of the following singing an appropriate song: Russell Linn, Warren Moyer, Arthur McVoy, Howard Fisher, Roswell Ewart, Charlotte Carpenter, Thelma Dawson, Ella Vail, Jessie Randolph, Margaret Dunavan, Ellsworth Runyon and Jask Marchant. The program was concluded with a piano duet by the Misses May and Edith Randolph.

Mrs. M. H. Ewart and Miss Edna French had charge of the entertainment, and Mrs. John M. Lewis was chairman of the social committee and was assisted by a number of women in the society. During the reception which followed ice cream and cake were served.

BERKELEY HEIGHTS.

Frank C. Shaffer, a Republican, who was elected township committeeman of New Providence township last fall to take the place of a Democrat, and who was secretary of Circles on the Square of that township, gave a dinner last night to the chairman of the New Providence township circles. Covers were laid for twelve. The dinner was given at Mr. Shaffer's residence, Berkeley Heights, in honor of William Jeffery, the retiring president of the Circles, who in a speech announced that while he was the originator of the Circles idea, the satisfactory results of the organization, both in New Providence and Warren townships, were possible only through the energy and loyalty of the rank and file of the circles. "Circles on the Square is to all intents and purposes a political militia," he said. Mr. Jeffery continued by stating that he thought the time had arrived for someone else to take the presidency of the New Providence Circles, so that he can look after the interests of the Board of Education of the township. He said that so far as he could see, for the present at least, that the circles had accomplished the work of reconstructing the township government and the circles activities should not be renewed unless there was absolute necessity for it. Speeches were made by several of the chairmen, including Frank C. Shaffer, Charles Springsteen and E. B. Oechsner.

Mr. Jeffery's resignation was accepted and Frank C. Shaffer was unanimously elected president. It is understood that Mr. Jeffery, who is the Republican county comitteeman for New Providence township, will direct his efforts this fall in electing the entire Republican ticket in the township, including a Freeholder. He retains membership in the society is chairman of one of the Circles and will be of great assistance to the organization on the floor at its meetings.

Proctor's Fine Show.

The Four Lorettas in artistic posing, attracted a capactiy audience to Proctor's theatre last night. It is one of the best acts seen at this theatre in some time. Leubrie Hill and his Zuzu girls are the laugh makers on the show and they are clever in songs and dances. Mark and Laura Davis in a skit, "Hans, the Grocery Boy," introduce several songs and talk, concluding with an illuminated swing that is effective. Hamilton & Howlett, banjo and violin experts, appear in a sketch, "Reuben Haskins," and their playing is the hit of the show.

JUDGE I. P. RUNYON WINS KNOTTY CHANCERY CASE

A decision rendered a few days ago in the Chancery Court at Trenton has attracted considerable attention among real estate operators. It was in a partition suit of Thomas E. Gibson, of Trenton, against Jane G. Boyd, formerly of this city, and Judge Isaac P. Runyon, of this city, was attorney for Mrs. Boyd. Involved in the suit was property worth $10,000, and Vice-Chancellor Walker denied Gibson's application requiring the payment of a $200 assessment for brick pavement by the Boyd estate. Gibson was represented in the case by John H. Kafes and John H. Backes, of Trenton.

On March 23 the property was sold at a partition sale on which there was an unpaid paving assessment. The property was advertised to be sold free and clear and it was so stated at the sale by Master in Chancery Bayard Stockton. The purchaser at the sale, Gibson, inquired if the assessment in question was not a lien. The Master informed Gibson that he did not know, but stated that the property was sold free and clear.

Gibson signed a contract in due time but when it came time to take the deed he wanted to deduct the amount of the lien of the assessment. The Master refused and offered to return him his payment on account of the purchase money. Gibson, however, paid under protest and filed a petition to have the decree of distribution opened and the amount of the lien of assessment refunded to him.

In the suit, the respondents contended that the purchaser knew of the lien of the assessment, and that Master in Chancery Stockton, while presumed to have known it, did not in fact, and that the purchaser did not inform him that it was a lien, but simply asked the question. The point was also raised that Gibson allowed eleven days to elapse after taking the deed before obtaining his order from the Chancellor. The Vice-Chancellor denied his motion and dismissed the order to show cause which had been granted on the ground that the purchaser knew of the assessment and again he did not make timely application.

EXCELLENT CONCERT GIVEN BY GLEE CLUB

The annual concert of the Y. W. C. A. Glee Club, given at the Y. M. C. A. hall, last night, was enjoyed by an appreciative audience and was a success. The affair was given under the direction of S. Frederick Smith, organist and choirmaster of Grace church, and evidence of excellent training was shown in the chorus work of the club. The selections were all of a popular character and were well received.

The club was asisted by Mrs. Elsa Straseer Currier, pianist, of Boston, and Miss Jennie Kerr, soprano, of New York, and their work was of the highest order. They were given several encores. In part first, Mrs. Currier gave three numbers, Prelude, Rachmaninoff; Etude D flat Liszt, and Polonaise, Chopin, and she also concluded the program with two numbers, Nocturne F. sharp, Chopin and Rondo Capriccioso, Mendelssohn.

Miss Kerr sang three selections in part first, Ariette, Vidal; Long Ago, MacDowell and An Open Secret, Woodman, and in part second she favored the audience with two numbers, Meine liebe ist grun, Brahms, and Boat Song, Harriet Ware.

The numbers by the glee club were Gypsy Chorus, Balfe; Florian's Song, Godard; The Game of Ryhmes, Wheinberger; I Would That My Love, Mendelssohn; The Fisherman, Gabussi, and Little Cotton Dolly, Geibel. The accompanist of the evening was Miss Helen Brown. The members of the glee club follow:

Miss E. J. Calver, Miss Emily Corlell, Mrs. L. C. Cubberley, Miss Katherine Ditmar, Miss Mabel Grant, Miss Laura Hanglighter, Miss Sarah Head, Mrs. Lamphear, Miss Sadie Leahy, Miss Ora MacIntyre, Miss Evelyn Manley, Miss Delia Miller, Miss Mary Morgan, Miss Lillian Peterson, Miss Myrtle Reed, Miss Amanda Schupp, Miss Ethel Sleight, Miss Smith, Miss Helen Southard, Miss Ada Stark, Miss Myra Stebbins, Miss Elizabeth VanNess, Miss Irene Vollmer, Miss Wilhemina Vroom, Miss Edna Wilkes, Miss Dora Wilson.

PARK AVE. S.S. TEACHERS DINED BY GEO. R. HALL

George E. Hall, superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday school, entertained his officers and teachers at supper last evening in the Sunday school room and the evening was delightfully spent by every one present.

The room looked especially pretty and the tables presented a very attractive appearance, each carrying a large bouquet of flowers, a favor and a prettily worded card at each plate.

The presentation of gifts to several of the officers caused considerable amusement with appropriate remarks accompanying each gift. Mr. Hall presented to Charles VanWinkle the blackboard artist, a toy camera; to the treasurer, Joseph Hawkins, a tiny bank; to the assistant superintendent, a miniature desk. The pastor received a tiny loving cup, inside of which was hidden a $10 gold piece for his wife. Because of his love for music Mr. Maguire was also presented with a fine bronze statue of a boy whistler.

Miss Maguire received a prettily ararnged set of blotters.

Following all this fun, Mr. Hall gave an earnest talk bearing upon the work of the school; he referred to the splendid opportunities now within their reach; and suggested plans for an enlarged work in every department of the school.

The pastor, Rev. G. R. Maguire, followed with an inspiring talk upon the same subject, assuring the superintendent and the school of his hearty co-operation and loyal support in every possible way.

Nelson Runyon was called upon for remarks and he responded with several helpful thoughts for the future work of the school.

Miss Cora Brokaw, a former teacher in the school, recently removed from Plainfield, expressed her pleasure at being present, with the opportunity of meeting her friends in the school.

Every speaker called attention to the great encouragement concerning the future of the Park Avenue Baptist school and all spoke most beautifully of the untiring efforts and splendid work of their superintendent, Mr. Hall, who has always been such an inspiration to his officers and teachers and to the entire school.

Mr. Hall entertained his guests with several fine selections from the Victor machine, which brought the happy evenings entertainment to a close.

Mr. Hall was asisted in the arrangements by Mrs. G. E. Hall and Mrs. Charles Van Winkle. Following were the waitresses:

Miss Marion Hall, Miss Essie Thompson, Miss Viola Hellyer, Miss Emily Runyon, Miss Mary Leveridge, Miss Lillian Cuming.

MYSTERIOUSLY MISSING; NEW AUTO DISAPPEARS

It's strange how things disappear from under the noses of their owners without leaving a single trace behind and more so when the article is of the dimensions of an automobile. Word was passed around this morning that a $4,000 automobile purchased in New York yesterday was brought to this city by its new owner assisted by a chauffeur from the company, who sold the machine, and upon arrival here at 1 o'clock this morning the machine and chauffeur disappeared, not even the odor of the gasoline exhaust remains to tell which direction the fugitive machine took.

According to the prevailing story, E. D. Middlekauff, of Truell Inn, purchased a new American car yesterday and decided to bring it to Plainfield under its own power. The car got here all right and it is said that Mr. Middlekauff drove to his office at the corner of Watchung and North avenues and directed the driver to take the car to Martin's garage, giving him explicit directions how to reach there. When Mr. Middlekauff stopped at the garage on his way home to see if the machine had been properly cared for he was informed that it had not yet arrived.

This stunned the owner and he immediately took steps to hunt up the missing machine. From all accounts he is searching yet as nothing has been heard from either the machine or man. It is said that Mr. Middlekauff took the first train back to New York in an endeavor to begin the hunt from that end. Up to press time nothing had been heard from owner, chauffeur or automobile.

THE VERDICT.

Puck, a-sitting on the hill,
Spied two lovers by the rill,
Doing things that lovers do
When their love is fond and true;
Just a pressure of the hand,
Flash of eyes—you understand,
Glancing toward the couple, he Cried: "What fools these mortals be!"

Later on he spied a pair—
Strephon strong and Phyllis fair;
Deep affection in each heart,
Yet their ways ran far apart;
He'd no courage for the test,
She deemed coolness for the best.
Puck observed impatiently:
"Oh, what fools these mortals be!"
be!"

I don't know what can be done
For to please this jeering one,
If we do, or if we don't;
If we will, or if we won't;
Spite of how we play the game,
Still the verdict is the same,
Hard to such a fate to bow—
Guess we're all fools, anyhow!

HOW TO WASH A WOOD SHAWL.

It is sometimes difficult to wash a finely-knitted shawl without tearing it. The following is a good plan:

Make a lather of soap and warm water, in which you can comfortably bear your hand, and squeeze the shawl in this until it is clean. Soap should never be rubbed on knitted articles of any description. Then rinse it in several waters of about the same temperature as the suds, squeeze the water out or run it through a wringer (don't wring it with the hands), and let the shawl lie in a heap on a clean cloth to dry. Move it about now and then. When it is nearly dry, spread a clean sheet on the floor and pin the shawl out on this to its proper size. It will dry to whatever shape and size you pin it. When dry it will be as soft and fluffy as when new.

Never hang a shawl on a line to dry, as this will stretch it.

Doubt.

Doubt is the vestibule which all must pass before they can enter into the temple of wisdom; therefore, when we are in doubt and puzzle out the truth by our own exertions, we have gained something that will stay by us, and which will serve us again. But if, to avoid the trouble of the search, we avail ourselves of the superior information of a friend, such knowledge will not remain with us; we have not bought but borrowed it.

KEEPING ONE'S HAT FIRM.

Before woman makes too strenuous a fight for suffrage she should invent hats that will stay put. Hatpins are a nuisance and ruinous to hats, and not all their beauty makes up for it.

To avoid this nuisance there are numerous substitutes for hatpins, none of which is especially successful.

Now the inventors are making a fight against one of the hatpin evils—tearing of the crown.

One of these is a small funnel, fastened with a screw into the hat, one at each side. They are adjusted to the proper angle and the pin is run through at the same spot each time. This not only saves the hat, but insures against unbecoming tilts.

Another invention is a hat comb, warranted to keep the hat firm in a windstorm. It has a low carved front of tortoise shell, gold or silver, and curved sides in coronet stape from flat teeth that are pushed back into the coiffure.

When the comb is adjusted it forms a becoming ornament, yet the hatpins can be slipped through the perforations, reefing hat firmly and preventing it from flattening hair.

TO AVOID KNOTS.

The use of a knot is to be avoided in sewing and not to be tolerated in embroidery.

The accomplished needlewoman rarely finds it necessary to start with a knot, save in gathering or basting. Sometimes a tiny one is slipped under a hem, but it will show on right side if material is sheer and makes an ugly lump in ironing.

Two or three over and over stitches taken on wrong side of material is as secure as a knot and much more sightly.

In embroidery there is no excuse for a knot. Two or three tiny stitches taken on outline or in body of work where it is afterward covered will hold any stitches. Knots only tend to an untidy wrong side, which no good embroiderer will tolerate, and make the work rough in laundering.

Defending His Calling.

"You call him an educated burglar?"

"Yes. He is a graduate of a leading school of mines, and no man in the busines is so well posted on gems and precious metals."

"But why should he go to all this expense and trouble?"

"That's simple. He thought it was time for science to offset the deceptions of the Astors and jewelry stores that deceive ignorant but hard working burglars with paste imitations."

NEWARK N.J.

MAGGIE NOISY CREEK CREATES A SENSATION.

She's a Souix Belle and Her Clothes Are Great.

To be sure, the modern Indian girl will not average up in attractiveness to her pretty prairie sister of white parentage, but now and again one sees strikingly handsome types, and these have no trouble in securing white husbands, if they want them.

Out on the ranch where she lives with her father, Maggie Noisy Creek dresses in an old wrapper and goes bareheaded. But when she drove into town on the day I saw her, in one of those rickety, sway-topped pheatons that her tribe affects, she wore a neat white shirtwaist, a vivid green neckribbon, a beaded belt, a blue skirt, and kid gloves, while over her high pompadour was the kind of a hat one saw on Broadway five years ago. This hat was trimmed with large pnk bows. When she walked up the street she carried a light green parasol, for on occasions she was evidently very careful of her complexion, which was reddish brown, toned down by a few dabs of powder.

Despite her warring colors, her wild beauty triumphed, and she attracted a goodly share of masculine attention. Other Indian women, not so pretentiously dressed, turned slyly to look at Maggie, just as their fifth avenue sisters turn to look at the newest and most daring cut of princess gown. Some of the women giggled and said things to each other in the Dakota language, which I would have given worlds to understand.

On the Cherokee Reservation, as on the Souix, there has been much intermarrying of white men and Indian women, and this, too, for a mixture of romantic and interesting reasons. Sometimes a plainsman has behaved no better than a European nobleman who ignobly woos an American girl's dollars and not herself. For in the Indian Territory and Oklahoma there are many "savages" of substance, and not a few of wealth.—Everybody's.

A SANDWICH FILLING.

Seed and wash quarter of a pound each of dates, prunes, raisins and washed figs. Shell and blanch half cup of almonds, the same quantity of hickory or Brazil nuts, and a half pound of pecans.

Put a few of the nuts through the meat chopper, then some of the fruit mixture, alternating until all ingredients are chopped. Mix to a paste with juice of two oranges and one lemon or with sherry, and pack in round molds or baking powder tins. Set in cold place until ready for use, slice thin and use on brown bread and butter, or on toasted crackers.

ABOUT THE HOUSE.

Fried Apples with Pork Chops.

Fried apples are delicious to serve with pork chops. Place them around the edge of the dish on which the chops are served.

Novel Filling for an Omelet.

Mushrooms cut into small pieces make a novel filling for an omelet.

An Apple Pie Change.

Meringue used instead of pie crust as the covering to an apple pie is something of a change.

Wise Precaution.

He—But I tell you what it is, Maud, if your father is at all unreasonable I shall put my back to the wall and—er—er—"

She—And keep it there. That would be the safest position.

N. Y. AMUSEMENTS.

The all-star revival of "Jim the Penman" is presented for the first time in New York city under the management of William A. Brady, Inc., at the Lyric theatre. This piece originally described as "a romance of modern society in four acts," was written by Sir Charles L. Young. It was first performed in England at the Haymarket Theatre on March 25, 1886, and was presented for the first time in New York at the Madison Square theatre under the management of A. M. Palmer on Nov. 1, 1887.

Mme. Nazimova continues in her production of "Little Eyolf" by Henrik Ibsen, under the management of Messrs. Shubert at Nazimova's Thirty-ninth Street Theatre, where her Spring engagement has developed into one of the most remarkable successes of the season and will undoubtedly be prolonged well into the warm weather. Mme. Nazimova's royal welcome back to New York is not more exceptional than her marvelous impersonation of the character of "Rita" in "Little Eyolf," which is bound to take rank as the most wonderful of her achievements up to date. The supporting company inculdes Brandon Tyana, Ida Conquest, Gertrude Berkeley, Robt. T Haines and Master George Tobin. Matinees on Wednesday and Saturday.

The City Theatre, the most beautiful playhouse in Greater New York has in three weeks become an extremely popular place of amusement. First-class Broadway successes with the original casts are presented at popular prices ranging from 25 cents to $1.00. The theatre was dedicated by Anna Held who was followed by that glittering spectacle "The Follies of 1909, and the eminent actor, Robert Hilliard in "A Fool There Was." Beginning Monday, May 16, Henry Millers Players, one of the strongest organizations in the country appear at this theatre in Charles Rann Kennedy's famous play "The Servant in the House," which ran all last season at the New York Savoy Theatre, where it created a sensation. It is a moving powerful drama, and one of the best and most successful produced in New York in many years. It will be presented with the original cast which includes Tyrone Powers, a fine actor, George Wilson, David Glaseford, Wilfred Rogers, Edith Crane and Harold Dickens.

WATER PROBLEM STIRS MILLVILLE'S COUNCIL.

Millville, N. J., May 13.—When the special committee appointed by City Council to consider the advisability of the purchase by the city of the plant of the People's Water Company reported last night that it was unable to come to any agreement, a spirited discussion was precipitated upon the floor of Council, before scores of spectators. Some of the Councilmen wanted to reject at once the proposition of buying a plant for $222,500, the price fixed by the Commission, when the plant is said to have cost but $140,000, when it was erected six years ago.

Councilman Carl B. Rockhill said that, while he did not know that the question was to be discussed at this meeting, some of the others "had things all cut and dried." This charge was denied. Mr. Rockhill declared that a previous Council gave away a franchise worth $75,000 to a company, and now the city had to buy it back at a high price.

Councilman James E. Mitchell said that Mr. Rockhill did not know what he was talking about.

Councilman George Austin opposed purchasing the plant. He said that, if the city should purchase the works, the Millville Water Company, which is a rival concern and has reduced water rates to less than one-half, would give the water free. He asserted that the taxpayers who six years ago urged Council to own its own plant, had refused to buy water in the six years in which Council held a lease on the plant. It was shown that, while the city had received $14,674.20 in rentals during this time, it had expended in furnishing the water $58,378.26.

The majority of Council wanted a month longer to "think the matter over" and the question was left unsettled.

One of the Suppressions of History.

The British had captured the city of Washington and burned it.

"Trying to raise the temperature a little," they explained. "It's always so beastly cold here on inauguration days, don't you know!"

But the perverse Yankees refused to take the hint and didn't change the date.—Chicago Tribune.

A Certainty.

"A mother who wants to appeal young can keep a son in knickerbockers indefinitely."

"Say the rest of it."

"But a daughter's skirts just have to be lengthened soem time."—Exchange.

Necessary.

Ted—Do you think there will be any change if women get the ballot?

Ned—There'll sure be a law passed compelling the bargain counter to close while the polls are open.

R&G CORSETS

Model B67 is very popular.

CONTRASTS IN CO-EDUCATION.

"Experience shows that the differences in the fitness of female scholarship are not so great as in the male," writes a European educator. "There have existed a number of male youthful prodigies in mathematics or musical composition, and a further proof of the greater variability of male children is that the unfavorable abnormalities are also more frequent with the male than with the female.

"Warner has made an investigation on 50,000 children, nearly the same number of each sex, and found that in round numbers 21 per cent. of the boys but only 16 per cent. of the girls are in any way defective.

"The classical country regarding co-education in high schools in Europe is the Grand Duchy of Finland in Russia, a country of very great culture, in which co-education has existed since 1885. An experienced female teacher in one of the oldest schools there says quite openly that boys show more aptitude and inclination for one special subject or another, while girls generally try to study all subjects in an equally careful and diligent way.

"Girls are more easily influenced by suggestion than boys, and it may be a consequence of the greater suggestibility that the power of application for work comes more easily to girls than to boys. Walking through the corridors of the Vienna University one may get from the number of lady students that one sees there the impression that there must be a high percentage of female students, but statistics show that there are only 5½ per cent. The fact is that ladies are more regular in coming to the lectures.

"As to work done in single subjects of instruction in the high-school course, we know almost nithing definite. Regarding the total result of school work, I know of no positive information except that coming from the co-educational high schools of Findland. It shows always the better results with girls.

"When we look at that, there is no reason to be adduced against co-education in high schools; the only question is the difference in the ability of the two sexes at the same age. The completion of growth in boys requires a longer time than in girls, adn the difference between the physical condition of boys and girls shows itself very distinctly in their ailments, probably in their mortality."

MAKING A PAPER HAT.

In these days of fancy paper costumes a girl should know how to make an effective hat. Tear crepe paper into two-inch strips the length of the sheet. Take three strands and plait closely into a smooth and even braid.

Cover a wire frame with these braids and face under part of brim with plain crepe paper or mull to match. Make a bunch of paper flowers, roses, poppies or carnations and arrange them on hat with a band of dull green, brown or black glazed paper to represent velvet.

A gray hat with pink roses, green foliage and dark gray band; a white and red braid trimmed with scarlet poppies, or a braid made of strands of black, white and pink with a fluffy bow of black crepe paper and two shaded pink chrysanthemums will all give stylish results.

AN INTERSTING CRADLE.

One seldom sees nowadays the old-fashioned wooden cradles that used to be such a picturesque adjunct to the nursery.

Modern mothers prefer the light basket varieties, that can be trimmed with muslin and lace, and that are no doubt healthier than the old patterns.

There is, however, one wooden cradle, at least, that is still popular. This is the one that cradled the present German Emperor.

It has also been the cozy bed of all his sons in turn, and is now being used for his majesty's grandchildren.

It is very plain in make—just a simple wooden cradle, with the words "He shall give His angels charge over thee to keep in all thy ways" inscribed upon it, but it is a relic very much prized by its imperial owner.

After the Holidays.

The diner liberally rash
Now most sincerely begs
To get away from turkey hash
And back to ham and eggs.

TENNYSON'S KINDLINESS, HUMOR AND SIMPLICITY.

Child-like Candor Characteristic of Great Poet.

Summing up the impressions of that first meeting I may say that three things especially struck me, Tennyson's kindliness, his humor and his simplicity. The prominence of the second characteristic, humor, was, I confess, something of a surprise to me. It was extremely marked in the whole manner, bearing and conversation.

Then as to his simplicity—child-likenes is perhaps a better name for the quality—one can but say that it was phenomenal. Inherent as is this characteristic also in genius of the highest order. I should think that in Tennyson it was present in a degree rarely if ever equaled says a writer in Putnam's Magazine.

In talking with him, the impression was that he was giving utterances to whatever passed through his mind, precisely as a child does, with the same candor—naivete almost—the same engaging freedom from self-consciousness, the same reckless indifference to the effect which he might produce upon his hearers. He did not, as we most of us do in conversation, give his interlocutor half himself, the other half being engaged in speculating as to how far our companion will understand and sympathize with our drift—in holding his remarks for fear it might fall flat, or watering down the other for fear it might offend. He was himself, unreservedly, unconditionally, in everything that he said, whether he was bandying jests with an intimate, or discoursing solemnly on the secrets of nature or the deepest mysteries of being.

In the Near Future.

SUMMIT TO HAVE NEW POSTOFFICE HOME NOW.

Summit, May 13.—The local postoffice is to be located on and after August 1 in a two-story brick building, plans for which are now being prepared, and which is to be erected on the property situated at 21 and 23 Maple street. Notice of the acceptance by the Postoffice Department at Washington of the terms for a ten-year lease of a part of the new Maple street structure for the postoffice, was received last night by the men who compose the company which recently purchased the Maple street site and who will have the building erected.

The site on which the postoffice is to be located and which is one of the most valuable busines properties in this city, has been owned for more than a half century by the Littell family, the members of which were pioneer settlers in this place. It is at present occupied by a lunch wagon. When surveyors were seen at work on the tract two weeks ago it was rumored that the property had changed hands. The strictest secrecy as to the identity of the purchasers has been maintained, but it has been learned that title to the tract was taken by Alfred J. Lane, editor of the Summit Record, representing a company, which is said to be composed of residents of Newark.

The property has a frontage of fifty feet on Maple street. It is somewhat triangular in shape, running to a width of about nine feet in the extreme rear. It is said the purchasers paid $9,000 for the tract.

The building to be erected will be 50x85 feet. The basement is to be occupied by the printing department of the Summit Record and the first story will contain two stores. One of these will be occupied by the postoffice, which will have a space of 25x85 feet. In the second story offices will be located.

The postoffice has for the past fifteen years been located in the present quarters in the building at the corner of Highland and Springfield avenues, which is owned by former Mayor Dr. J. Boyd Risk. Proposals for rental for a five-year lease of quarters for the postoffice here were called for by the government postal department January 1.

LEGAL RUMPUS ABOUT BARBER POLE PERMIT.

Jersey City, May 13.—A barber pole is creating havoc among the residents of the Lafayette section of Jersey City. Richard Vreeland, clerk of the Board of Finance; John Saul, building inspector of the Board of Alderman; the Street and Water Board, William Burke, clerk to Mayor Wilthenn, and Corporation Attorney Murphy, are on the job, but despite all this Phillip Huber, who conducts a barber shop at 351 Communipaw avenue, refuses to pull down a beautifully painted pole that stands as an emblem of his trade in front of his shop.

Huber was haled to court and ordered by Judge Farnette to take down the pole because he did not have a permit. Huber immediately after the passing of the sentence went to a clerk in the Street and Water Board office and got the necessary permit. Alderman Powers, in the Lafayette section, when he heard of the matter, stated that the board would at their next meeting pass an ordinance to have the pole taken down.

The Street and Water Board say they will revoke the permit given by Murphy, and they will have the pole carted to Huber's rear yard. William Burke, who is also a justice of the peace, states that he will order the pole brought to his court, but after consulting Corporation Attorney Murphy has discovered that it is a case for the Supreme Court first. Then he, upon the advice of Attorney Murphy, can have the case brought into his court. The pole still stands.

For County School Heads.

Trenton, May 13.—The committee on Education of the State Board of Education will meet here May 18 to examine candidates for county superintendents of schools for Cumberland, Essex, Gloucester, Hudson, Hunterdon, Monmouth, Salem and Union counties. The election will take place in June and the successful candidates will take office next October.

News and Notes
By George E. Firstbrook

LOCAL BALL TEAMS WILL BE ACTIVE TOMORROW

Local fans who journey to Crescent Oval tomorrow should see a rattling good diamond contest when the Y. M. C. A.'s will face the strong Brooklyn Centrals, of the City of Churches. The Centrals are one of the strongest aggregations in the metropolitan district and they are sure to give the locals a hard rub.

The Y. M. C. A.s in the performances to date have displayed fast form and Listman's athletes are sure to give the visitors a stiff argument. Slocum will do the twirling for Plainfield and the game will start promptly at 3:45 o'clock.

Manager Dorflinger and his "bunch" will "go west," the destination of the Plainfielders being Flemington. The Hunterdon county seat has always been represented by a fast nine and the Dorflingerites will doubtless have their hands full in trying for a victory. The Plainfield nine and a band of supporters will depart on the 2 o'clock train from the Plainfield station. Flemington will play a return game here on Saturday, May 21.

The city and borough High School aggregations will also be in action. Plainfield High will meet Somerville at the latter place tomorrow morning. The Somervillians defeated the local boys here in the first game of the season and Manager Runyon's band is out for revenge.

North Plainfield High will have for its opponents Bound Brook High, on Hyde Field, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

FREEMAN STRAIT FREED BY SOMERSET CO. JURY

After deliberating ten and one-half hours on the evidence in the assault case of G. A. Underhill against Freeman Strait, a jury in the Somerset County Court yesterday brought in a verdict of not guilty. The jury retired at 11:30 o'clock in the morning and it was not until 10 o'clock last night that the verdict was arrived at.

The trial in the Somerset County Court, which was instigated by Underhill, was a continuation of two recent cases tried before Justice Snape in which Starit defeated Underhill. The Underhills and Straits have been in justices courts on numerous occasions with their troubles, but this was the first time that they were given a chance to air their grievances in a higher court, and both sides certainly made the best of the opportunity. There was much conflicting testimony.

The trial this week was the result of an altercation between the two Watchung men which occurred on Saturday night, April 9. Following the faracs Underhill had Strait arrested. At a hearing before Justice Snape the charge against Strait was dismissed. After this trial ended Strait had Underhill arrested on a counter charge, and the latter was held for the grand jury. In this proceeding Strait accused Underhill with attempting to hang him to a cherry tree during a fight on the night of April 9. In the meantime Underhill appeared personally before the Somerset grand jury which returned an indictment against Strait, and the trial that ended last night was the result of this action on the part of Underhill.

The trial occupied four days and it is said cost the county close to $500. Much adverse criticism is heard in the borough on the action of these two men in subjecting the county to the expense of trial in trying to settle their differences. One local lawyer declared this morning that it was an outrage and it would be a big thing for Watchung and vicinity if both Underhill and Strait would remove to some other place.

Among the witnesses in the case was Dr. A. H. Dundon, of the borough, who testified that Strait was brought to his office on the night of April 9, in a carriage, with his knee so badly wrenched that he walked with difficulty.

The witness as a medical expert was also asked a number of hypothetical questions as to the length of time it would take a "bump" to develop on Underhill's head after his cranium, protected by a heavy felt hat, had been struck a smart blow with the butt of a whip.

Dr. Dundon scratched his own head, and said: "That is a mighty hard question to answer."

Underhill at this point volunteered the inofrmation that he never had a bump or serious injury on the head as the result of the blow from the butt of the whip with which he charged Strait in the hearings before Justice Snape.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS WILL HEAR MR. HALL

A great meeting is expected at the annual convention of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union tonight when William Phillips Hall, one of the best known laymen of the Methodist church, will address the endeavorers. Mr. Hall is known as the business man evangelist. His business interests are large and important, being the inventor of the Hall Block Signal, used on nearly all the railroads in the country.

The rally will be held in the First Presbtyerian church, of Westfield, and a large delegation from this city probably will attend. Those who wish to be on time will find the 7:30 trolley from the junction the best means of transportation. A feature of the evening will be the singing of William S. Weeden, who will be remembered for his fine singing here several years ago in the First Baptist church.

New Postoffice in 1913.

So many times the question has been asked as to when the new postoffice will be ready for business that in order to settle the question this newspaper has inquired of the Washington authorities for special information. As a result it may now safely be said that owing to the fact that 125 other Federal buildings are listed ahead of the Plainfield edifice that it will be three years before the building will be completed, say in 1913.

Russian Use of Tobacco.

The tobacco used in the manufacture of cigars in Russia is partly grown in the country from American seeds, but the best cigars and the wrappers of the inferior grades are made from tobacco imported, in the main, from the United States and Cuba. The bulk of the home tobacco is produced in the governments of Chernigov and Samara.

Up and Down.

At Bristol, Eng., a lad of 14 years old climbed a factory chimney 150 feet high to show how smart he was. Then about a dozen men worked for three hours to get him down and show how smart they were. The boy lost his nerve and had to be lowered by a rope, and he was sent to jail for ten days for raising a fuss.

Ambiguous.

During the recent war maneuvers a private not long married received a letter from his wife in which she asked: "Do you ever think of me, dear?" To which he is said to have replied: "I think of you every day at meals, dear. The cooking is horrible."—Boston Transcript.

How Vice Works.

Before vice can fasten on a man, body, mind or moral nature must be debilitated. The mosses and fungi gather on sickly trees, not thriving ones; and the odious parasites which fasten on the human frame choose that which is already enfeebled.—Excuses.

Haste Not to Be Repeated.

"You say you have quit smoking?" "Yep, never going to smoke again." "Then why don't you throw away those cigars?" "Never; I threw away a box of good cigars the last time I quit smoking and it taught me a lesson."

The Man Doesn't Mind.

Even the slightest little lady will grab desperately at a man who is a perfect stranger to her when the street car in which she is standing lurches, and she fears that she is going to sit down in another perfect stranger's lap.—Somerville Journal.

Quite Real.

"And can't he act at all?" demanded Hi Tragedy. "Well, upon occasion he can," replied Lowe Comedy. "For instance, only to-day I saw him getting next to some free lunch and he acted for all the world like a man who was starved to death."

Too Literal.

An Atlanta grocer told more than he meant in his Christmas advertisement: "Apples, Oranges, Imported Nuts, Fruit Cake. Shop Now and Avoid the Rush. Remember, the Early Bird Gets the Worm."—Everybody's.

No Possible Doubt.

"You can't make me believe," said Mrs. Lapsling, "that the man the police caught prowling around our house wasn't a burglar. He denied it, but they found a 44 calamus revolver on him."

Patriotic.

Artist (to tentative customer)—Now, I'll be quite frank with you. I refused a thousand dollars for it from an American, because I don't want it to go out of France, but I'll let you have it for ten.—Bon Vivant.

That Mighty Pen.

The superiority of man to nature is continually illustrated. Nature needs an immense quantity of quills to make a goose with, but a man can make a goose of himself with one.—Christian Register.

Uncle Eben Says:

"It beats all," said Uncle Eben, "how much mo' mos' men knows 'bout hossracin' dan dey does 'bout de Bible and de constitution of the United States."—Gateway.

Imitation of Pewter.

Brass may be given a color resembling pewter by boiling it in a cream of tartar solution containing a small amount of chloride of tin.

Easy.

The easiest thing in the world is to make a $50 promise that is to be filled in the indefinite future.—Atchison Globe.

Speaking of George.

It is said that George Washington was henpecked. It is a pleasure to be henpecked by some women.—Rochester Herald.

Uncle Ezra Says:

"Don't forgit thet jedgment day is ev'ry day on the part uv your sharp-eyed neighbor."—Boston Herald.

The Bachelor.

A bachelor is a man with enough confidence in his judgment of women to act on it.—Puck.

Need Consolation.

London ladies are said to be taking to the pipe. Wonder is that they have refrained so long.

Beginning of Invalidism.

Once you start thinking about yourself and your complaints; your health begins to go.

Cultivate Constancy.

Overfatness Condemend

Fat, or even fattish, women readers who want to be in the mode this year must understand that the demand is for lines, not curves, and govern themselves accordingly.

That means OFF with the fat. It has become a duty. Many are trying exercise or dieting; but it is certain they will find these methods too slow and unreliable. The cheapest and safest way to get in form for the Directoire mode is by means of Marmola Prescription Tablets. Any druggist (or the Marmola Co., 998 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.) will give you a large-sized case of these elegant little fat reducers, containing a good, generous supply, for seventy-five cents, and even this quantity should be enough to make a decided impression on your excess fat. Many have lost as much as a pound a day.

These Marmola Prescription Tablets may be used with impunity and likewise perfect confidence, for, being made strictly in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription, they are, of course, quite harmless. They are rather beneficial than otherwise, in fact, never disturbing the stomach or causing a wrinkling of the flesh.

At the Turkish Bath

"I take the baths simply to keep myself in good condition," explained the very large woman to her pretty little neighbor on the next couch. "It isn't as if I were too stout. I have a large frame, of course, but not an ounce too much flesh, my husband says. He always did admire fine-looking women. I wouldn't lose a pound for the world!"

"Well, I would," interrupted the red-haired woman. "Of all atrocious things in this world, it is fat!" She eyed the large woman and continued: "When I found that I was five pounds above normal I came down at once to take a course of baths. I've steamed and roasted and been pounded until I've lost three pounds. Hips are simply disgusting to me. Of course, this season's styles say smaller waists and slightly larger hip effect. But I'll take mine in effect, thank you!"

"Well, I confess I'm fat—just plain fat," commented a second stout woman. "I've dieted and walked and taken active and passive exercise until I'm too tired to move. I've gone without dessert. I've had massage until my hips were black and blue. Now I'm rolling."

"Rolling?" asked the pretty little woman. "What's that?"

"Haven't you tried rolling yet?" chorused the others. "Why, you can reduce a pound in four days if you roll for 15 minutes night and morning, and it's the surest—"

"But I'm not trying to reduce."

"Not trying to reduce! Then why are you here?" demanded the large woman, sternly.

"I've always been thin," meekly responded the little woman, "but of late I've had rheumatism, so my physician advised Turkish baths for me."

"Oh!" chorused the envious ones.

"It must be hard not to be able to wear evening dress," said the first large woman, at last. "Of course, if one doesn't go about socially it doesn't much matter, I suppose."

The red-haired woman winked at the dazed little lady.

"My husband would object seriously if I should propose wearing anything else than decollete every evening for dinner," the large woman continued. "We entertain extensively."

"I'll wager she does her own housework," whispered the red-haired woman to her thin neighbor. "Look at her finger nails!"

"Well," sighed the second fat woman, "I can't even look well in a low-necked gown; my flesh seems to hang in waves, so that I cover it up all that I can. I'm rolling and taking three baths a week so that I can take gymnastic dancing. My daughter goes to a class and she has grown so graceful—of course, she always was graceful, I didn't mean that—and, besides, she lost a pound the first week. So I entered at once and paid for the whole course in advance. But the very first exercises were so strenuous for me that I had to go home in a taxicab and stay in bed for two whole days. So I'm bound to reduce enough to go back into the class, for the thought of that $30 ticket that I bought and can't use is giving me insomnia!"

The red-haired woman gave her neighbor a wicked look. "Imagine our friend skipping lightly across the polished floor to dreamy music!" she said.

The first fat woman was slowly arising from her couch. The red-haired woman sprang up and reached the door first.

"Good-by," she sang back, mockingly.

"The cat!" snorted the first fat woman. "She knew that I was trying to get Mary first and now it will be hours before she is through with her rubbing. Mary is the best masseuse in the place and that person always gives her a double tip, I'm positive, to get an extra long treatment. And I'm in a great hurry. A very exclusive luncheon at one o'clock and I will have to take some one else!"

The little woman crept into her bed for a short rest and listened to the telephone orders for luncheon for the rest. If the first fat woman was in such a hurry for a luncheon engagement, why was she ordering a steak smothered in onions, with a double order of fried potatoes? If the second fat woman wanted to reduce, why did she order a meal of sweets and chocolate? If the red-haired woman didn't care particularly to lose more than two pounds, why was she so careful to select from a reducing diet? The little woman smiled to herself—there were some compensations in being slender.

She stopped at the scales in going out to find the second fat woman carefully consulting it.

"I've gained four ounces," the latter groaned, "and I eat nothing at all! I am afraid I'll not be able to take any rhythmic dancing, gymnastic or otherwise, at this rate this winter! Would you like to buy my ticket at half price?"

Difference of Opinion.

Myra Kelley tells a characteristic story of Mr. and Mrs. Spitzky of the East side, who rushed to school and frantically rescued their son, a lad of seven, upon whom an operation for adenoids was about to be performed. "It was good we got there in time," said the father; but the already Americanized son remarked: "What did youse butt in for?"

Home Atmosphere

"It was that magazine's fault. If it had not published an article on 'Home Atmoshpere for Business Women' it would never have occurred to my aunt that she had a mission in life."

The bookkeeper lighted his pipe and scowled. The assistant bookkeeper looked sympathetic. He always felt that half his salary was earned by listening to the bookkeeper's troubles.

"Aunt Nan had been living in a small town where the rent from her Chicago house sufficed for all needs. After reading that article she came back to Chicago, turned out her tenants and started in to make a happy home for a librarian, a beauty doctor and a stenographer."

"I'll bet there was something doing."

"There was—right from the first. Aunt Nan had refused to rent a room to me—said I would be cutting out some homesick girl, possibly, but the librarian, the beauty doctor and the stenographer were all strong in my favor—I really am the only thing over which they have been unanimously enthusiastic."

The assistant bookkeeper sniffed gently. "But what about the home atmosphere?"

"The home atmosphere received its first setback when the librarian brought in her piano. That was nothing, however, to the installation of the telephone, which was put in at the urgent request of the beauty doctor. If Aunt Nan climbed upstairs to the attic the telephone bell would ring violently and down she would hurry, to learn that Mrs. Asterheldt wanted a switch sent home at once; a trip down cellar always meant my aunt's rushing back to hear over the phone that Mrs. Barker wanted to be manicured, shampooed, powdered and puffed. Even after my aunt had gone to bed there would be hurry calls for the beauty doctor. About the only time the telephone bell didn't ring was when my aunt sat down in front of it.

"Originally no meals were to be served in the house, but the girls said it gave them such a homeless feeling to eat breakfast at the restaurant and they didn't care for much—"

"I suppose they assumed a 'dry crust will do for me' expression?"

The bookkeeper nodded. "It won the day, too. Aunt Nan said she would give us coffee and toast and fruit for 15 cents. It worked just two mornings, then the stenographer read a health book and cried for make-believe coffee; the beauty doctor decided to drink hot water and the librarian became addicted to the cocoa habit. Of course, I stuck to coffee. Breakfast became a continuous performance of keeping four different drinks hot for one hour—15 cents a head.

"Aunt Nan had been brought up to look upon Sunday as a day of rest, but it was considered by the librarian an appropriate day in which to practice ragtime. Moreover, she mended and ironed all the remainder of the day of rest, just where she was in my aunt's way, and as for the beauty doctor, she took in washing over Sundays—there were always a lot of switches and puffs drying on the clothesline. Ugh!"

"It must be rather wearing on you," commented the assistant as he glanced in the direction of the typewriters.

"Well, it was at the close of one of these long, sad days that my aunt sat in her rocker thinking what an angel child I was—never wanting to iron my handkerchiefs or wash my hair or run her sewing machine. She had just made up her mind that she would tell the girls to look elsewhere for rooms and that she would run a bachelors' home, when I came down and asked if she would let me have a hot iron, as my tie needed pressing. It was the last straw and she told us all that we could get out.

"I wouldn't feel so bad, but that tie was so narrow. The girls won't speak to me now and my aunt is going to rent her house furnished and go back to Indiana."

A Jewish Chautauqua.

Miss Jeanette Miriam Goldberg of Jefferson, Tex., is the field secretary of the Jewish chautauqua work. A course of study in Jewish history is the first offering to those who join the society, then literature and the Bible. In some places the circles have been started in towns where there were a number of Jewish people, but no church, and it has served to extend the religious services by organization. The work is purely educational. Miss Goldberg says the effect of the work is to lessen prejudice, and as an example says that a circle was formed in Bible and history at the University of the South last year.

The Stake.

"John D. Rockefeller and his pastor," said a New York broker, "were playing golf one afternoon as I drove up from the station in the Rockefeller carriage.

"'They're very much excited,' I said to the coachman, for the two players were arguing hotly on the green. 'I guess they must be playing for money.'

"The coachman shook his head and frowned at me sternly.

"'Oh, no,' he said. 'You ought to know they wouldn't play for money. If it's anything, it's a hymn-book or Bible.'"

AN ORDINANCE

To Amend an Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance Establishing a Sanitary Code for the City of Plainfield," Adopted December 18, 1902.

The Board of Health of the City of Plainfield, by virtue of the provisions of the act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled "An Act to Establish in this State Boards of Health and a Bureau of Vital Statistics, and to define their respective powers and duties," approved March 31, 1887, the several supplements and amendments thereto, and of other acts, doth hereby ordain as follows:

That Article No. 6 of the Ordinance to which this is an amendment be and the same is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

Section 1. No person, corporation or association of persons shall sell or deliver or have in possession for sale or delivery in the City of Plainfield any milk or cream without first obtaining from the Board of Health a permit for such sale or delivery.

Section 2. No permit as required in the last preceding section, shall be issued by the Board of Health until there shall be paid to the said Board of Health for the issuing thereof and for a proper inspection and supervision of the sale of the milk or cream, the sum of two dollars.

Section 3. Each permit to be granted under the provisions of this article shall expire on the first day of May following the granting of the same; provided that if any person so granted a permit as aforesaid or any of the employes, servants or agents shall violate any ordinance or rule of the Board of Health relating to the sale, distribution or inspection of milk or cream, such permit may at the discretion of the Board of Health be revoked.

Section 4. Any person, corporation or association of persons engaged in the sale of milk or cream within the City of Plainfield shall, when so requested by the Board of Health or the Health Officer of said City, furnish to said Board or to said Health Officer, a true statement in writing upon blanks to be supplied by said Board of Health, setting forth the locality from which said milk or cream was procured, and also a full and complete list of the names of persons from whom said milk or cream was purchased or procured, and the names and addresses of all persons and customers to whom he or they may sell or deliver milk or cream within said city, and said blanks, when filled in as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person selling or delivering said milk or cream to whom said blank shall be tendered.

Section 5. Any person, corporation or association of persons engaged in the sale or delivery of milk or cream within the City of Plainfield shall notify the Board of Health in writing before changing the source of supply of the milk or cream to be sold by him or them within said city, and said notice shall also state the name or names of the persons from whom, and the locality from which, said milk or cream is to be procured.

Section 6. Cows. No milk shall be sold or offered for sale or distributed in the City of Plainfield except from cows in good health, nor unless the cows from which it is obtained have, within one year, been examined by a veterinarian whose competency is vouched for by the Veterinary Association of the State in which the herd is located, and a certificate signed by such veterinarian has been filed with the Board, stating the number of cows in each herd and the number that are free from disease.

Section 7. In case of any sickness or contagious disease breaking out in the herd, the owner shall immediately report the same to the Board of Health, and no milk from any of the cows in such herd shall be sold or delivered until investigation shall have been made by the said Board, and permission given by said Board for such sale or delivery. All cows suffering from tuberculosis shall be immediately disposed of and the stables disinfected.

Section 8. Water Supply. Upon notice from this Board that any well or spring, the water from which is supplied to cows or used for washing utensils used in connection with milk or cream or the sale, delivery, or handling thereof, is contaminated, the water from such well or spring shall not be used for any of the above mentioned purposes.

Section 9. Employes. If at any time any person or persons having any connection with a dairy from which milk or cream is delivered or sold or offered for sale in the City of Plainfield, or any resident member of the family of any person so situated, shall be stricken with cholera, smallpox (including varioloid), diphtheria, membranous croup, yellow, typhus, typhoid, or scarlet fever, measles, or any other communicable disease that may hereafter be declared by this Board to be dangerous to the public health, notice shall be given to said Board immediately by the owner or owners of the dairy, and no milk or cream produced from such dairy shall, after the first discovery of any such communicable disease, be sold or exposed for sale or delivered in the City of Plainfield until special permision therefor has been granted by said Board.

Section 10. Milk. No milk or cream shall be sold or delivered in the City of Plainfield which is obtained from a dealer who handles a supply any part of which supply is not approved by this Board; and no person, corporation or association of persons shall deliver or offer for sale in the City of Plainfield any milk or cream unless the entire supply which he handles complies with the requirements hereinbefore set forth, unless satisfactory evidence is given this Board that any and all parts of his supply which do not comply with the said requirements are kept separate and apart and not made the subject of sale or delivery in said city.

Section 11. No pasteurized milk shall be sold in the City of Plainfield unless it is conspicuously labeled "Pasteurized;" said label shall also state the degree (temperature and length of exposure at that temperature) and the date of pasteurization.

Section 12. Samples of milk shall be furnished this Board by any producer or dealer at any time upon request and proper payment therefor.

Section 13. No ice which is obtained from a source which is contaminated or which is so situated that it may become contaminated, shall be used for cooling milk.

Section 14. No milk of a temperature exceeding fifty degrees Fahrenheit shall be delivered, sold, offered for sale, stored or transported in the City of Plainfield.

Section 15. No tickets shall be used in connection with the sale or delivery of milk. All milk shall be delivered in bottles, and no milk in partly filled bottles shall be sold or offered for sale, and no bottles shall be filled, capped or recapped outside the bottling room used for filling bottles and said room shall at all times be kept in a clean and sanitary condition, and milk bottles shall be used for no other purpose than as receptacles for milk; Provided, that in any case in which one customer shall buy at one time ten quarts or more of milk, the milk so purchased may be delivered in one or more cans which have been sealed at the bottling house or creamery; and provided, further, that in case any house, dwelling, apartment or store shall be quarantined, or there shall be in any house, dwelling, apartment or store any case of typhoid fever, milk or cream may be sold and delivered in such manner only as may be specially designated by this Board.

Section 16. No person, corporation or association of persons shall deliver or leave at any house, dwelling, apartment or store which is quarantined or in which there is a case of typhoid fever, any milk bottle, can or other receptacle used for delivering milk or cream; and no such bottle, can or other receptacle shall be removed from such house, dwelling, apartment or store, until permission so to do is given by this Board.

Section 17. Any person, corporation or association of persons selling or delivering milk or cream in the City of Plainfield by means of a wagon or other vehicle shall have the name of such person or persons and the number of the permit in plain letters and figures on each side of the said wagon or vehicle.

Section 18. Cream. No cream shall be sold, exposed for sale or delivered within the City of Plainfield unless it is produced and handled in accordance with the requirements hereinbefore set forth for the production and handling of milk.

Section 19. Milk or cream kept for sale in any store, shop, restaurant, market, bakery, or other establishment in the City of Plainfield shall be kept in a covered cooler, box, or refrigerator properly drained and cared for, and shall at no time be allowed to become malodorous through the lack of proper cleaning; and at no time shall the temperature of such milk or cream be allowed to exceed fifty degrees Fahrenheit. Said store, shop, restaurant, market, bakery or other establishment shall at all times when business is being carried on, be open to inspection by any member of this Board or its authorized agents.

Section 20. Everything about farms, stables, dairy, milk wagons, milk depots of dealers doing business in the City of Plainfield, must at all times be open to inspection of the Board of Health, its officers and agents.

Section 21. The Board of Health will, from time to time, adopt rules and regulations in regard to the production and transportation of milk, and all dairies, the milk from which is to be sold or delivered in the City of Plainfield, must conform to the requirements of such rules and regulations. Any violation of the requirements as set forth in the said rules and regulations, on the part of the dairyman or dealer, will be sufficient cause for the revocation of the permit under which the milk from such dairy is sold. The intention of the Board is that this section shall be deemed to be separable from the other sections of this ordinance and not essential to the validity of the other sections.

Section 22. That if any section of this ordinance or of the ordinance to which this is an amendment shall for any reason be held to be unconstitutional or invalid, it shall not affect the other provisions of this ordinance or the ordinance to which this is an amendment.

Value of Biblical Shekel.

The Biblical shekel of silver was worth about 50 cents on present day values. A shekel of gold represented about $10, a talent of silver was equivalent to $2,000, a talent of gold was nearly $30,000, a piece of silver, or a penny, was about eight and a half pence, a farthing was equal to one cent, a mite was still less than a farthing, and a gerah was three cents.

Thirst for Novelties.

The curse of modern life—the thirst for the new, the rage to get out of the old skin—is the blight on our literature, our art, our drama, our manners—even our morals. It is a passion without aim, or conviction, or feeling—a mere restless itch to get free from old habits and to get into something uncommon, it hardly matters what, if only it can announce itself as "unconventional."—Washington Times.

Plague of "Spitting Snakes."

In the region round Bahr-el-Ghazal, Soudan, during the last two years "spitting snakes" have made their appearance in great numbers. Many natives have been temporarily blinded by these snakes during that period. At first the eyes are painful, but the effect of the poison begins to decrease after a treatment continued for seven to ten days.

Curiosity on the Farm.

A little girl of the electric lighted places went to her grandfather's farm to spend the summer. She saw an unfamiliar animal on one of her strolls and ran to the house very much frightened. "I don't know if it was a snake or an owl," she said, "but it runned crooked and spit fire, and I guess it was a griffin."

Good Will.

Good will is at work, and it is making things better. In spite of the prevailing social philosophy, it is gaining ground. Even now, with such partial, halting, half-hearted recognition as we give it, good will is making things better.—Dr. Washington Gladden.

Relieving Rheumatism.

Rheumatism can often be relieved by application, to the painful parts, of cloths wet in a weak solution of soda in water. If there is inflammation in the joints, the cure is very quick; the wash needs to be lukewarm.

Source of Teak Supply.

The world's supply of teak comes from Siam, India and Java. Teakwood is not attacked by the "white ant," which is so destructive to other woods in the tropics, and teak is thus largely used in Siam for the building of the better class of wooden houses.

Man's Aim.

If there is a God and a future life there is truth, there is virtue, and the highest happiness of man consists in striving to attain them. Man must live, man must love, man must believe.—Count Tolstoi.

Treeless Natal.

The country is practically treeless, so far as there is any commercial value in the timber growing in Natal. The wattle tree is the only tree having commercial value, and its value lies in its bark.

Sapient.

The ablest Celtic scholar living is a Scandinavian, the next a German. But all this merely proves that history is in the habit of returning, periodically, to ancient pathways.

Feminine Taste.

It is not fashion that changes, it is woman's taste. No woman will admit that the same style of dress can suit her several years in succession.—Rome Moda.

Limited Experience.

Gentleman (hiring valet): "Then I understand you to have some knowledge of barbering. You've cut hair, off and on?" Applicant: "Off, sir, but never on."

Life's Little Ironies.

One would have thought that a man with a taste for an instrument like the trombone would have had the ability to play it.—Puck.

Taking Advantage.

"How is it your friend Braggit is so cocky?" "He has unusual chances to assert himself. His wife has an impediment in her speech."

Christmas Morning.

Large spotted cow to small Noah's ark—"Gee! If they put me in that barn I'll have to give condensed milk."

Uncle Ezra Says:

"Bargain hunters seem bound to git a bag full uv game regardless uv how much ammernition they use."

Rely on Yourself.

There are a thousand persons in the world who can hurt you to one that can help you.—Billings.

Real Cleverness.

A man is really clever if he can make you like an old story when he tells it.

Remarkable Qualifications.

The greatest surgeon requires the hand of a lady and the heart of a lion.

Good Motto to Adopt.

Know that this universe is for nothing else than to succeed in.—Burnell.

"All the more reason for doing as I have suggested, madam; for Mr. Calhoun is not even so fat as I am. This little interview with my chief, I doubt not, will prove of interest. Indeed"—I went on seriously and intently—"I venture to say this much without presuming on my station: the talk which you will have with my chief to-night will show you things you have never known, give you an interest in living which perhaps you have not felt. If I am not mistaken, you will find much in common between you and my master. I speak not to the agent of England, but to the lady Helena von Ritz."

"He is old," she went on. "He is very old. His face is thin and bloodless and fleshless. He is old."

"Madam," I said, "his mind is young, his purpose young, his ambition young; and his country is young. Is not the youth of all these things still your own?"

She made no answer, but sat musing, drumming lightly on the chair arm. I was reaching for her cloak. Then at once I caught a glimpse of her stockinged foot, the toe of which slightly protruded from beneath her ball gown. She saw the glance and laughed.

"Poor feet," she said. "Ah, mes pauvres pieds la! You would like to see them bruised by the hard going in some heathen country? See, you have no carriage, and mine is gone. I have not even a pair of shoes. Go look under the bed beyond."

I obeyed her gladly enough. Under the fringe of the satin counterpane I found a box of boots, slippers, all manner of footwear, daintily and neatly arranged. Taking out a pair to my fancy, I carried them out and knelt before her.

"Then, madam," said I, "since you insist on this, I shall choose. America is not Europe. Our feet here have roughed going and must be shod for it. Allow me!"

Without the least hesitation in the world, or the least immodesty, she half protruded the foot which still retained its slipper. As I removed this latter, through some gay impulse, whose nature I did not pause to analyze, I half mechanically thrust it into the side pocket of my coat.

"This shall be security," said I, "that what you speak with my master shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

There was a curious deeper red in her cheek. I saw her bosom beat the faster rhythm.

"Quite agreed!" she answered. But she motioned me away, taking the stout boot in her own hand and turning aside as she fastened it. She looked over her shoulder at me now and again while thus engaged.

"Tell me," she said gently, "what security do I have? You come, by my invitation, it is true, but none the less an intrusion, into my apartments. You demand of me something which no man has a right to demand. Because I am disposed to be gracious, and because I am disposed to be ennuye, and because Mr. Pakenham is fat, I am willing to take into consideration what you ask. I have never seen a thin gentleman in a woolen nightcap, and I am curious. But no gentleman plays games with a lady in which the dice are loaded for himself. Come, what security shall I have?"

I did not pretend to understand her. Perhaps, after all, we all had been misinformed regarding her? I could not tell. But her spirit of camaraderie, her good-fellowship, her courage, quite aside from her personal charm, had now begun to impress me.

"Madam," said I, feeling in my pocket; "no heathen has much of this world's goods. All my possessions would not furnish one of these rooms. I cannot offer gems, as does Senor Yturrio—but, would this be of service—until to-morrow? That will leave him and me with a slipper each. It is with reluctance I pledge to return mine!"

By chance I had felt in my pocket a little object which I had placed there that very day for quite another purpose. It was only a little trinket of Indian manufacture, which I had intended to give Elizabeth that very evening; a sort of cloak clasp, originally made as an Indian blanket fastening, with two round discs ground out of shells and connected by beaded thongs. The trinket was curious, though of small value. The baroness looked at it with interest.

"How it reminds me of this heathen country!" she said. "Is this all that your art can do in jewelry? Yet it is beautiful. Come, will you not give it to me?"

"Until to-morrow, madam."

"No longer?"

"I cannot promise it longer. I must, unfortunately, have it back when I send a messenger—I shall hardly come myself, madam."

"Ah!" she scoffed. "Then it belongs to another woman?"

"Yes, it is promised to another."

"Then this is to be the last time we meet?"

"I do not doubt it."

"Are you not sorry?"

"Naturally, madam!"

She sighed, laughing as she did so. Yet I could not evade seeing the curious color on her cheek, the rise and fall of the laces over her bosom. Utterly self-possessed, satisfied with life as it had come to her, without illusion as to life, absorbed in the great game of living and adventuring—so I should have described her. Then why should her heart beat one stroke faster now? I dismissed that question, and rebuked my eyes, which I found continually turning toward her.

She motioned to a little table near by. "Put the slipper there," she said. "Your little neck clasp, also." Again I obeyed her.

"Stand there!" she said, motioning to the opposite side of the table; and I did so. "Now," said she, looking at me gravely, "I am going with you to see this man whom you call your chief. The favor may mean as much on one side as on the other—I shall not tell you why. But we shall play fair until, as you say, perhaps to-morrow. After that—"

"After that, on guard!"

"Very well, on guard! Suppose I do not like this other woman?"

"Madam, you could not help it. All the world loves her."

"Do you?"

"With my life."

"How devoted! Very well, on guard, then!"

She took up the Indian bauble, turning to examine it at the nearest candle sconce, even as I thrust the dainty little slipper of white satin again into the pocket of my coat. I was uncomfortable. I wished this talk of Elizabeth had not come up. I liked very little to leave Elizabeth's property in another's hands. Dissatisfied, I turned from the table, not noticing for more than an instant a little crumpled roll of paper which, as I was vaguely conscious, now appeared on its smooth marquetry top.

"But see," she said; "you are just like a man, after all, and an unmarried man at that! I cannot go through the streets in this costume. Excuse me for a moment."

She was off on the instant into the alcove where the great amber-covered bed stood. She drew the curtains. I heard her humming to herself as she passed to and fro, saw the flare of a light as it rose beyond. Once or twice she thrust a laughing face between the curtains, held tight together with her hands, as she asked me some question, mocking me, still amused—yet still, as I thought, more enigmatic than before.

"Madam," I said at last, "I would I might dwell here forever, but—you are slow! The night passes. Come. My master will be waiting. He is ill; I fear he cannot sleep. I know how intent he is on meeting you. I beg you to oblige an old, dying man!"

"And you, monsieur," she mocked at me from beyond the curtain, "are intent only on getting rid of me. Are you not adventurer enough to forget that other woman for one night?"

At last she came out from between the curtains, garbed more suitably for the errand which was now before us. A long, dark cloak covered her shoulders. On her head there rested a dainty upflared bonnet, whose jetted edges shone in the candle light as she moved toward me. She was exquisite in every detail, beautiful as mind of man could wish; that much was sure, must be admitted by any man. I dared not look at her.
